Some Thoughts on Fluoridation

CORNWALL HIT BY CHLORINE

Next Monday Belleville voters will have their opportunity to approve or disapprove the addition of fluoride to their city water supply. From all indications there will be an active a vote at took place on the recent controversial question of cocktail lounges. The simple "yes" or"no" marking of the ballots will be preceded by a vast amount of mental agitation by voters before they finally come to a decision.

Letters to the Editor have been widely divergent in expressed opinion with practically no middle-of-the-road course open to the readers who genuinely want to do the right thing both for themselves and their fellow citizens. When the experts are divided then we should go along with the group which we believe has presented the most convincing arguments as outlined by laymen and health authorities and associations. Perhaps, we can assist those who are confused by the claims and counter-claims of the pros and cons.

One letter writer to this newspaper disparagingly said that local physicians and dentists are not scientists and so cannot be expected to be sufficiently informed to advise the public on the use of fluoride. The members of both professions took long university courses to prepare themselves for their work. What they have learned was from knowledge accumulated over many years of research, experimentation and practice in the sciences of medicine and related subjects.

Who, better than they, are equipped to give opinions on such a matter as fluoridation? We accept their ministrations in matters of health putting ourselves completely in their hands knowing that their knowledge will be completely at our service. These men are as much aware of the difference of expert opinion as the layman, and knowing that, are still of the opinion that fluoridation will benefit their children. Can anyone doubt their sincerity or their knowledge in this matter?

We would like to mention briefly some of the reports and comments by top authorities who have expressed approval of fluoridation, some in Canada, others in the U.S.

The Morden Commission headed by Mr. Justice K. G. Morden of the Supreme Court of Ontario, after an extensive investigation of this controversial subject, brought in a report which was preponderantly in favor of fluoridation.

Dr. A. R. J. Boyd, Medical Officer of Health for the City of Toronto this week said: "There never has been a public health measure that has had such thorough investigation by scientists and that has been recommended by so many responsible medical, dental and public health organizations throughout the world as water fluoridation. There is not a shred of authentic evidence that any harm has been caused or will be caused to anyone, regardless of dietary habits, age or condition of health, from the daily use, year after year throughout a lifetime, of water containing fluorides in the amount recommended or even in amounts far exceeding that recommended."

According to the Health League of Canada, Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, the Canadian-born doctor who was responsible for blocking the sale of thalidomide in the U.S. and elsewhere, has stated research has "established that fluoridation is unusually effective in preventing tooth decay."

A noted cardiologist, Dr. Paul Dudley White, who was called in during President Eisenhower's serious heart attack a few years ago, states: "Even elderly people with 'tired hearts' need have no fear of fluoridated water. It is safe for all."

Dr. J. S. Loynes of Belleville in his letter this week said, "Dental infection is, perhaps, the greatest mass infection left to be adequately controlled, and is a common source from which disease may spread leading to more severe ill health and even death. Fortunately, fluoridation reduces these dangers and we can obtain all advantages without producing toxic effects."

Dr. Loynes lists the medical groups which support fluoridation and these include the Belleville Academy of Medicine, the National Institute of Dental Research, the Department of Public Health, Ontario Medical Association, Canadian Medical Association, American Medical Association and the World Health Organization.

Another letter writer (S. C. Wiggins) has added the names of U.S. organizations.. The U. S Public Health Service; The National Institute of Dental Research; American Dental Association; American Academy of Pediatrics; U.S. National Academy of Sciences; American Cancer Society and American Pharmaceutical Association. Among the large U.S. cities which have fluoridation are: Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Milwaukee, Chicago, Houston, Minneapolis, San Francisco and Washington.

Estimates of the cost of introducing fluoridation have been given by several letter writers including those by John Weese, a member of the Public Utilities Commission of Belleville. The cost of an addition at the pumping station would amount to $50,400 and the cost of the fluoridation equipment would be approximately $5,600. The annual cost of the fluoride is estimated at $6,000...

The fluoridation controversial has stirred up great interest in the city and this has been reflected in the number of letters to the Editor, probably the greatest number in many years. Both sides have presented their case in a remarkably able manner and backed up by facts and statistics which indicate much study of a very difficult subject.

We would like to repeat that fluoridation has received the approval of responsible medical and dental health bodies and individuals. The benefit of improved dental health for children has been proved beyond any doubt and that means better health in adult life. Fluoridation definitely has its place in the program for improved health of our junior citizens —and are they not the most important persons in our community?

With Red-Nosed Rudolph Lighting Way Santa Flies Through Fog Without Delay

True to advance notices and following weeks-long preparations for his arrival, Jolly Old St. Nicholas arrived in Belleville this morning.

To the delight of thousands of eagerly expectant kiddies lining the downtown parade route, laughing old Santa himself rode in the van of the annual Santa Claus parade for which Fire Chief Gerald Vance, his fire ladies and parade committee have been preparing for the past month and a half.

Nobody ever doubted Santa would make it. Fog may dismay Grey Cup officials but not Santa. Not with Rudolph's red nose lighting the way.

It was one of the biggest Santa Claus parades ever to be held in the city and also ranked among the best. Dozens of colorful floats, 32 to be exact), some of them right out of fairyland itself, together with hundreds of walking personnel, more than a half dozen

GREY CUP DAY TAKES MEMBERS FROM COMMONS

Hazen Argue Under Fire by the Govt.

OTTAWA (CP)—If the Commons ever sits on the same day as the Grey Cup game, attendance likely will be sparser than it was Friday—but not much.

Fewer than 40 MPs stayed around in the 265-seat Commons Friday afternoon for a dragging agriculture debate, main theme of which was a speech made outside the House Nov. 12.

In Regina on that date, Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton suggested that Prairie farmers share the risk on credit sales of wheat to Communist China and that the wheat pools consider setting up their own sales promotion agency.

Hazen Argue (L—Assiniboia) maintained that Prime Minister Diefenbaker has repudiated Mr. Hamilton's Regina speech in which the latter had made clear in "sentence after sentence" that his cabinet colleagues had rejected further credit sales to Red China. The upshot, Mr. Argue said, is that Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Hamilton have parted company.

MENTIONS BRIEFLY

Mr. Hamilton made only a one-sentence reference to the Regina speech: "I am willing to let my two propositions to the western farmers be decided by the people who in the long run will have to make that decision, namely, the western farmers."

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) said western farmers aren't going to accept the argument that Mr. Hamilton made a mistake in the Regina speech. The minister had merely been discussing farm problems with farmers and hadn't enunciated any government policy.

Mr. Woolliams also gave Mr. Argue a treatment to which the Liberal MP is becoming accustomed, if not amenable: The reading back to him of speeches he made when he was CCF

Grey Cup Parade Biggest Every Attempted in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Bands, marchers and floats assembled early today in midtown Toronto for the annual Grey Cup parade that kicks off the biggest day in the Canadian football season.

A 1.9-mile route through midtown streets was laid out for the parade, its 45 floats, 24 marching bands, 30 units of strutting majorettes, right Miss Grey Cup contestants and the football queen herself.

Cities from Vancouver to Charlottetown and the provinces of Ontario and British Columbia, the latter plumping its hydro - development program, were represented in the procession.

Ontario's travel and publicity department entered a 16-foot long float covered with flowers outlining a trillium and the word Ontario.

Metropolitan Toronto, host for the football festivities, sponsored a float featuring large football - shaped signs bearing the lettering "Metro welcomes Grey Cup visitors." Ten- and 12-foot-tall figures of football players stood beneath the signs.

Toronto, Ottawa to Have Major Municipal Elections

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Voters in most Ontario municipalities will choose the administrations that will govern them for the next two years Monday.

Major battle is in Toronto, where Mayor Nathan Phillips, trying for an unprecedented fifth two-year term, is being challenged by Controller Donald Summerville.

The mayor of Toronto receives $34,300 a year — more than any other elected official in the country except the Prime Minister—and his administration spends more each year than six of Canada's 10 provinces.

The two main candidates there are four others — have been sparring for several weeks on a variety of topics, including the 1967 World's Fair. Each blames the other for the fact that Montreal, not Toronto, landed the fair in Canada's centennial year.

Mayor Phillips, 70, is the only Jewish mayor Toronto has ever had and has already held the job longer—eight years—than anyone in the city's history.

The self-styled "mayor of all the people" insists there are no issues and is standing on his record.

Mr. Summerville, 47, Toronto's financial chief, has the support of Toronto's three major newspapers and is promising more aggressive leadership. He accuses Mayor Phillips of taking more interest in social

Sixth Crash in Week Brings Toll to 226

NEW YORK (AP)—Investigators early today began seeking the cause of the crash of an Eastern Air Lines DC-7B while instrument-landing Friday night at fogbound Idlewild airport. The flaming wreck took 25 lives including that of the pilot, but 26 persons survived.

Several even walked away from the wreckage.

Among the survivors was John Defir, 38, of Edmonton.

It was the sixth major plane crash within a week, with the previous six taking a combined toll of 181 lives.

A Federal Aviation Agency plane, carrying technicians and radar gear, took to the air to check the airport's instrument landing system, including radio beacons, for any signs of malfunction.

Oscar Bakke, FAA eastern regional assistant administrator, noted that another Eastern Air Lines plane landed safely a minute or so ahead of the ill-fated aircraft.

SCRAMBLE OUT

When the plane crashed, survivors scrambled through emergency exits, trampling and running from the blue-white flames which engulfed the forward portion of the four-engine propeller-driven plane, arriving from Charlotte, N.C.

AWAIT WORD WHETHER REDS WITHDRAWING

Spot Trucks Moving Behind Chinese Line

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India today anxiously awaited official word from the front on whether Chinese Communist troops were withdrawing as promised from the unofficial cease-fire line along the Chinese-Indian border.

The Chinese government today reaffirmed its plans to withdraw and Indian administrative sources at Tezpur reported that movement of trucks has been spotted behind the Chinese lines. However, the Indian government said it had received no word on whether the withdrawal has started.

India also awaited a statement from Peking saying simply just how far the Chinese intend to withdraw from the battle line where they stopped their advance in a unilateral cease-fire Nov. 21.

U Thant Named UN Secretary Unanimously

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—U Thant, who looks upon the world with the calm eyes of an Asian philosopher, was today the third full-fledged secretary-general of the United Nations.

Thant, one-time teacher and journalist in his native Burma, was elected to the top UN post Friday by the 110-member 17th General Assembly on the unanimous recommendation of the 11-member Security Council.

Thant had no competitors but his election—which was unanimous except for the absence of Honduras—showed a rare accord between East and West and a softening of the Soviet Union's demand that the top command of the UN be split along ideological lines.

Rescue Workers Take 103 Persons To Hospital

30-Block Area in Section Of City Blocked off

CORNWALL (CP)—A ghastly yellow - green fog- of deadly chlorine gas crept over a square mile of this seaway city Friday night, spreading near-panic in its path.

Masked rescue workers took 103 persons to hospital. Twenty-seven were admitted, including nine children. Early today hospital spokesmen said all but five were in "good condition" and none was critical.

Police and firemen evacuated another 200 persons and sealed a 30-block area in the northeast section of the city, a residential district surrounding a railway marshalling yard.

It was to be reopened later today. A few families had already returned to their homes by dawn as the gas evaporated.

Choking gas—one of the many pounds that felled Allied and German armies in the First World War — began spreading slowly from a leaking railway tank car about 4:30 p.m. EST.

WIND CARRIES IT

It wasn't until three hours later, when a light easterly wind began carrying the thick fog into nearby residential areas, that the emergency erupted. The smell, like strong Javel water, reached halfway across this city of 45,000.

George Gathercole, local organizer for the Emergency Measures Organization, was one of the first on the scene.

"We were lucky it moved so slow," he said. "Most of the people just got a few whiffs."

Firemen, policemen and ambulance drivers donned masks and oxygen tanks to clear the area in cars and ambulances, picking up staggering, gasping, men, women and children along the streets. They relayed the men to waiting cars parked outside the danger area.

One of the heroes was Fireman Ernie Trottier, 42, who rescued a family of four from a house and gave up his mask to the mother. He stayed at the wheel of the ambulance after driving out of the gas zone.

Both the General General Hospital and Hotel Dieu hospitals were swamped with persons coughing and vomiting. Every available oxygen mask and tent was used and 20 doctors worked in the CORNWALL (CP) — A Cornwall physician said today he is "very worried" about the possible after-effects of chlorine gas poisoning which seeped through part of the city Friday.

"A lot of people who got a little bit of gas didn't come to the hospitals for treatment," said Dr. Claude Corbeil, one of 20 doctors who took part in the emergency work of treating 103 victims.

"From what I've heard and read about chlorine poisoning, any case of it is serious. We gave oxygen and a respiratory stimulant to the people we saw. We helped most of them get over the unpleasant symptoms."

"To be truthful, I've never seen a case of chlorine poisoning before. I had to look it up, and I'm very worried about this situation."

He said all doctors in the city will be on the alert for persons reporting respiratory trouble or chest pains.

"There is a severe risk of pneumonia with this stuff. Any pain that is felt after 48 hours should be reported at once. It could be really serious trouble. The best advice for people who got some of the gas is to stay warm and rest."

Mikoyan Leaves U. S. Officials Disappointed

WASHINGTON (CP) — First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan flies back to Moscow today, leaving puzzled and disappointed U.S. officials behind. He apparently showed no willingness to give ground, either on Cuba or other cold war issues. A high U.S. authority said the Russians are crediting their nuclear jet bombers and hauling the missiles to Cuba with them to put paying to pull them out of Cuba as Soviet Premier Khrushchev had promised. Both he said Mikoyan would not yield to President Kennedy's demands for United Nations inspection. But he said things can agree that Soviet-American negotiators at the UN be instructed to continue talks on remaining Cuban issues.

LONDON (CP)—Sir Winston Churchill trudged to the window of his London home today to greet waiting crowd a broad, boyish grin on his 88th birthday. The former prime minister stood in the street outside, answered with a rousing anniversary cheer.

Only a moment before the cheer there was an anxious gasp. For, through the window, the crowd saw Britain's wartime leader stumble slightly as he made for the window. Independent as ever, he had insisted on walking unaided, though he apparently was relying heavily on a walking stick.

Earlier this year, the former prime minister fractured his hip when he fell in a Monte Carlo hotel corridor.

Before Sir Winston made his living room-window appearance Friday, he was visited for 15 minutes by his longtime friend and doctor, Lord Moran. As Lord Moran left Churchill home he told reporters:

"I'm quite satisfied with the condition of Sir Winston."

The doctor confirmed that Sir Winston had two nurses with him.

Sir Winston did not visit his beloved House of Commons. On past anniversaries, he has appeared briefly in Parliament to receive the cheers of members of all parties.

As is his habit, Sir Winston rose late, had a soft-boiled egg and a glass of champagne. He invited members of his family and a few close friends to a family dinner.

His secretary asked the press to distribute his thanks for the thousands of birthday messages. The message said:

"I am most grateful to all those who have sent me good wishes on my birthday. I hope that you will accept this message of thanks as an expression of the pleasure you have given me, as there are so many letters that I cannot answer them all personally."

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: It's the same old weather pattern again this morning over Ontario. Skies are clear over all southern and central sections of the province but fog is reported from some stations in these regions, particularly along the shores of Lake Ontario. Much of the same weather is in prospect for the remainder of today and Sunday, but during the latter time the fog is expected to dissipate over all regions except along the immediate shores of Lake Ontario.

Only Small Crowd Attends As Civic Candidates Speak At C of C Sponsored Meet

in all, were present at the BCI auditorium yesterday evening for the annual Chamber of Commerce's Civic Candidates' Night. The meeting was broadcast over CJBQ, which no doubt had a large audience.

Mayor A. McLean Haig was the first speaker. He spoke highly of the record of "close co-operation" of council during the past three years which brought the city's affairs out of "chaos" and produced a well run administration.

Amongst the advantages which Mayor Haig listed as having been produced during the past three years during his tenure in office were; improved personnel conditions for the city's employees which will be climaxed by the introduction of a new pension plan in the near future; the creation of a loyal, efficient and balanced staff; a new assessment; and modern purchasing procedures to reduce costs.

In the future, Mayor Haig said, he hoped for new city street parking facilities, which have already been planned; interim selling of local taxes in quarterly installments; a commencement of stage two of the sewage disposal plan; a new addition to Belleville General Hospital; the elimination of the railway crossing on Pinnacle Street; a consolidation of various city department operations in order to reduce operating expenses; the provision of municipal weigh scales and a completion of the rezoning system.

Remarking on several points raised by his opposition, Mayor Haig stated that he had definitely been an overall increase in the industrial capacity within the city during the past three years. He noted that the Delore Stellite, Stewart-Warner, Speaker-Anderson, American Optical and even the firm for which his opponent worked — Northern Electric, had all made extensive increases in their productive capacity, providing new jobs for local people.

Mayoralty candidate Alderman William Jarvah said he was prepared to strive for an "honest, efficient, government and quoted extensive remarks of the Attorney General as to what qualifications were expected of a good representative concluding with the quote "must insist on complete honesty."

Mr. Jarvah stated that he expected to get a great contribution by serving the city. He stated that there was no place for politics in city hall and suggested that politics dominated city council and that the citizens wanted a change.

He demanded more for the city tax dollar and mentioned that he knows the first hand workings of city administration.

Alderman Jarvah emphasized the need for more suitable recreational facilities and suggested that not enough was being done at the present. He also favored the provision of low cost housing for senior citizens and questioned the deterioration of the city's older streets.

Civic administration must be run on a sound business basis said Mr. Jarvah and suggested that there was a threat offered local business by the establishment of a discount house outside the city limits.

NEED INDUSTRY CLAIM

There had been "little or no" industrial industry in the past few years, suggested Alderman Jarvah and insisted that more encouragement be favored having evening council meetings so that citizens would be able to attend more readily.

In conclusion Alderman Jarvah pledged his efforts to the interests of the taxpayers and stated that he had both the time, the training and the desire to serve as mayor.

In his rebuttal, which followed all the addresses of the aldermanic candidates, Mayor Haig stated that he felt the people would recognize that the city's affairs were in "good order" after having heard the various aldermen for re-election.

He stated that he felt his opponent's advertising campaign claims were similar to the joke regarding the person who complained to his doctor about a very poor memory and, when asked by the doctor when the trouble had first appeared, replied "what conditions?" Mayor Haig asked that it be shown where any politics existed anywhere at city hall. He had not put on many campaigns and had yet to see any decision swayed or made on a political basis and hoped never to see such an event.

Mayor Haig stated hat he would like to have any dishonesties such as his opponent generally implied in his advertising, brought forward and demanded that facts not fancies were in order.

There had been "no successfull challenge" to the integrity or the actions of council and city hall over the past three years said Mayor Haig.

NOT POPULARITY CONTEST

Aldermanic candidate Ross Gallagher said that the voters realize that they were electing a "board of directors" to manage a large corporation and not selecting people in a popularity contest. He stated that he had no political ambitions and was offering himself for election because he felt he desire to serve the people of the city.

Alderman Ross Bailey, who is seeking re-election, mentioned his experiences over his three years as alderman. He stated that, on the basis of the various committees in which he has served, that the city's finances were in good shape due to an efficient city hall staff and expressed the belief that the current year would end with a favorable bank balance. Great progress was being made toward the provision of more industrial land and already been accomplished in the provision of sewage disposal facilities.

Mr. Bailey stated that he hoped for an amalgamation of the city's arena and parks facilities for more effective service to the citizens and suggested by requesting the citizens' votes next Monday.

Former Alderman Enos David, seeking election following several years' absence from municipal politics, stated that he had always been impressed with the friendliness of the people of this city and thanked them for, his success as a businessman in the community. Now semi-retired, he advised, he desired to offer himself to serve the people on council in the interests of Belleville.

Mr. David related his past experience in serving the community's interests. These included seven years on the Board of Education, four years with the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, two years as an alderman and a number of years serving in executive positions for the Chamber of Commerce, the Belleville United Appeal, and the local branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

PLATFORM STATED

Former alderman Jack Deacon stated that he felt the city council should have men with business experience, integrity and time. He had previously served on council for two years and assured that he would make a sincere effort to serve the community if elected.

Alderman Jack Ireland, seeking re-election, related the various committees on which he had worked during his many years on city council. The result of this work was showing in the 10-year traffic plan now underway and citizens could expect many improvements in the near future, to ease traffic congestion in the downtown area. Mr. Ireland also mentioned the lighting program for the city and the soon-to-be-installed parking meter fine boxes.

As a member of the Industrial commission, Alderman Ireland stated that he had witnessed and assisted in the promotion of the Belleville area in many ways, and other areas. An industrial survey had been conducted last year and its recommendations were now being implemented. Industrial development land had been procured and there had been considerable interest shown in Belleville by a number of outside industries.

One must always expect the "prophets of gloom" at election time, stated Mr. Ireland, and stated that the past three years had seen good growth in both assessment and regular industrial expansion. Alderman Ireland requested the support of the voters at the polls on Monday.

Frank Murray, a fresh entry to the city's aldermanic race, stated that he was fully aware of the responsibility of being an alderman and considered it a great privilege to run for election.

Mr. Murray expressed his "sincere hope" to work for the citizens on council. He said that he felt Belleville was faced with many challenging opportunities for its future.

PREPARED TO SERVE

In conclusion Mr. Murray stated that he pledged himself to diligence and there be no responsibilities demanded of an alderman if elected.

Aldermanic candidate Claude D. Tice, veteran of 12 years experience on previous city councils, stated that he had decided to serve the city's citizens "well and faithfully" and felt that he had the ability and experience to be much experience to the city's business. "I have not lost touch with the affairs of the city," he said referring to his three-year absence from council.

In a humorous aside which drew a laugh for those present, Mr. Tice said that he was losing because he could use the money and was a baker man.

He pledged to study the pedestrian lights at busy intersections; traffic lights at well-travelled intersections and not just have them and an extension, in certain required areas, of the school zone signs. Mr. Tice had introduced to council during his previous tenure of office.

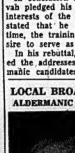
Mr. Tice remarked that he had served in the organization of the recreation commission and said that he felt there was room for improvement in this field.

He criticized council for running a study of recreation in the past and suggested that there was a need for more industry and more tax income.

In conclusion Mr. Tice stated that he was not tied down by people's interests or pressure and dedicated himself to "serve all the people."

Alderman Donald Whalen, seeking re-election, said that he had served council "diligently" and was satisfied with the operation of one year. He had been outspoken, because he did not feel a person should sit idly by for fear that he mieht be criticized for having a say.

FELT TAX RATE FAIR



Alderman Whalen remarked that he felt the city tax rate was remarkably low compared to other cities of similar size. He proposed that the city needed industrial services also for both new industries and local industries seeking expansion facilities. He commented in this matter is reunited suggested Alderman Whalen.

"I have worked in the past to the best of my ability and I'll ask for your vote again," concluded Alderman Whalen.

Alderman George Wishart was the last aldermanic candidate to speak. He criticized the poor attendance and commented that a greater interest should be expected at municipal elections since people spend almost as much in municipal taxes as they pay in federal taxes.

Mr. Wishart stated that he proposed the five cent additional levy to the special assessment made two years ago, and opposed the payment of an additional amount to the sewage

MRS. EMMA MAE SNARE
(Belleville-Tweed)

Resident of this city for the past three years where she operated a beauty salon, and former resident of Tweed village and Elzevir, Mrs. Emma Mae Snare, 68 Bertram Boulevard, died suddenly Friday night in Kingston General Hospital. She was in her 58th year. Mrs. Snare was wrestling Friday in her salon, when she was stricken with severe pains.

Daughter of Mrs. Emma Jordan and the late John Jordan, she lived most of her life in the Tweed and Belleville area. She was a member of the United Church.

Pre-deceased by her husband, Arthur James Snare, she is survived by two daughters, Mrs. (Betty) Turnbull of Peterborough and Mrs. Alfred (Ruth) Hounsom of Belleville, and five grandchildren.

Also surviving are two brothers, Ivan Jordan of Tweed and Cecil Jordan of Ottawa.

HENRY GORDON GRAY

MARMORA — H. Gordon Gray a lifelong resident of Marmora, was found dead in his home Wednesday, on Main Street, where he resided alone. A neighbor missing him around since the weekend called Mr. Gray who on entering found Mr. Gray slumped in his chair. Chief of Police, M. E. Wilson, coroner.

He had worked to update the obsolete licensing laws of the city, a city property committee on the Moira River Conservation Authority for a number of years, a hospital trustee and the city's representative.

In conclusion Alderman Whalen stated that his election campaign slogan "Let George do it."

George Griffith, candidate for separate school trustee in ward four stated that he had two years experience on the board and favored French classes and improved recreational facilities. He mentioned that he was a graduate civil engineer and had 20 years experience as a teacher.

FAVORS FRENCH TEACHING

Bernard C. Smith, who is contesting the election for separate school trustee in ward four, remarked that this was his first attempt to serve in municipal politics. He was initially interested in the elementary school curriculum and felt that there should be more allowance for a diversified field of study which would help the student more clearly more for their advanced education.

Mr. Smith said that he felt there should be an effort to surpass the minimal education standards required by the Department of Education in this community and promised work towards this end.

He also mentioned that he favored the teaching of French and was interested in providing the necessary subject which would prepare local students for science or technology courses.

Mr. Smith stated that the elementary graduate and that his wife had received a university degree in education.

A number of questions were asked following the candidates' addresses.

The meeting was broadcast over radio station CJBQ.

UENS — In memory of our dear daughter, Maribeth, who passed away two years ago today.
The memory of someone very dear,
Is like a shadow of a flower,
Not seen but still or certain,
Nor can the sun of death shine out
Memory unsaved by Mommy and Daddy, Jack Buzza, Peggy and Todd.

SKINKLE — In loving memory of a dear son, Gary Edward, who passed away two years ago, November 1st, 1960.
There is a mother who misses you dearly,
And finds the time long since you went away.
And we think of you daily and hourly
But we try to be brave and content.
But the tears that we wept in silence,
And we breathe a sigh of regret,
For you were ours, and we cherished.
Though all the world forgets.
Lovingly remembered by mother, dad and brothers.

How some things have to be,
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond the powers to see.
—Sadly missed by Mommy, Daddy and brothers.

William Wilson, he was born in Huntingdon and lived there throughout his life where until his retirement he had worked as a farmer. He was a member of West Huntingdon United Church.

Everett M. Biggs, deputy minister of agriculture for Ontario congratulates David Foley of Madoc township and his sister Marie, on being named the outstanding 4-H Club boy and girl for this year in Hastings County. The honor very seldom goes to a brother and sister.

It was awards night Friday night at Stirling community hall as Hastings County 4-H Clubbers received awards and other trophies won during the year's club work.

The Stirling community hall was filled to capacity as Ron Hamilton, president of the Hastings County 4-H Club Leaders' Association, got the program underway.

Speaker for the awards night was Everett M. Biggs, deputy minister of agriculture for Ontario. He was introduced by Douglas Detlor and thanked by Ross Moorcroft.

Mr. Biggs outlined the recently announced government program for the extension of junior farmer loans to include loans for family operated farms.

He said it was the feeling of his department that such loans could do much toward keeping rural young people on the farm. Passage of the required legislation was expected during the legislature session now underway.

A Madoc township brother and sister, David and Marie Foley, were named the Club member of the Year, and the outstanding girl in 4-H agricultural club work.

SHARE AWARD

Larry Bertrand, of Marmora township and Owen Ketcheson of Huntingdon township share the honor as the top over-all junior in club work. For their efforts, the boys received handsome wrist watches, one of them donated by the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce at Belleville, while the other was made available by the county club leaders.

It was the first time that two boys shared the honor. In the words of Sidney MacDonald, agricultural representative, the committee just couldn't decide between Larry and Owen so it was decided to give duplicate prizes.

Another county boy to win honors outside his own county was Kenneth Bedore of Marmora, who showed the champion Hereford calf in the junior section at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

ARE 28 CLUBS

A review of the year's club activities showed there were 28 4-H agricultural clubs in Hastings this year with a total membership of 435 boys and girls — the highest in the history of the county. Five clubs finished the season with 100 per cent completion of their work projects, the over-all completion percentage of club members being 82.5 per cent.

Clubs having 100 per cent completion were the L'Amable Calf Club; the Tyendinaga Calf Club; the Madoc Potato Club; the Trent-Moira Forestry Club, and the North Hastings Potato Club.

In addition to the 4-H Club agricultural work program there were 173 Hastings County girls who participated in the county homebaking program. There were two projects during the year with 289 completions.

The valedictory address was given by Owen Ketcheson who assured his listeners that he had got much out of 4-H Club and Junior Farmer projects.

"My only regret is that my work had not been more extensive at times or intensive," he said.

On Highway 2 at the 6 RD road a two-car crash injured the driver of an automobile and his passenger.

In the village of Cannifton a car struck a parked truck, sending driver Robert McGuire, of Tweed and passenger Gerald McConachie to hospital with facial injuries.

The injured in both mishaps were released after treatment.

Prices Remain Unchanged on Local Market

Prices remained unchanged from previous weeks, with no new produce being offered for sale. Eggs rose slightly in price this week, selling for 45, 50, 55 and 60c a dozen for small, medium, large and extra large. Potatoes were still plentiful today, offered in six quart baskets and 75 pound bags, 65c and $3, respectively.

Few vegetables were offered, but there was a good assortment of pastry available.

Kingston Man Held, Charges Are Pending

BRIGHTON (Special) — Police say charges are pending against a Kingston man after car ran off a country road near here early this morning.

Provincial Police took Lorne McPhail into custody after, they say, his automobile crashed off the second concession of Murray township two miles west of Highway 33 about 4 a.m.

Damage to the automobile was about $500.

Missing Jewels Found in Leaves

Raking over garden leaves yesterday, a Belleville woman turned up a minor treasure trove, and thereby gave a happy ending to a police investigation.

Mrs. Allen Latta, 175 Bleecker Avenue, was tidying her front garden with an assist from Mrs. Mabel Phillips — when the turned over a box, concealed in the leaves scattered on a flower bed.

In the box were rings, brooches and other items of personal jewellery which police now value at about $500.

Mrs. Latta called city police and detectives later identified the items as those believed lost November 16 by a former Belleville resident now in Sudbury.

During the moving she noticed her purse missing and reported it to police.

Officers, at first uncertain whether the jewellery was stolen or mislaid, now say it was taken from the automobile by a person or persons unknown.

How it turned up in Mrs. Latta's flower bed is still a mystery, which detectives hope to solve soon.

Meantime, the Millcs were en-route back to Belleville from Sudbury today to retrieve the trove.

Woman Lost Control of Car On Icy Road

TRENTON (Special) — Hydro was cut briefly in the Ontario Street area of this town last night when, police say, a woman lost control of her automobile on an icy road and it hit a hydro pole.

Mrs. Doris Rose Maskell, 90 Shuter Street, and her 11-year-old son Gary were treated for superficial injuries after the accident.

Police say Mrs. Maskell's car went into a skid on Ontario Street, veered into the pole and cracked it. The weather was foggy and damp at the time.

Mrs. Maskell was treated for face and foot cuts, while her son received slight knee injuries.

Cemetery Road To Be Improved By Province

TRENTON — Reeve Douglas McMaster of Murray Township reports he has been informed by the Department of Highways that Cemetery Road will be considered a "development road" and will be improved by the province.

The road, which runs south from Wooler and crosses Highways 401 and 2 before leading into Highway 33, lies between township lots six and seven, and concessions A and One. It will be widened to 100 feet and hard-surfaced before being turned over to the township, which will be responsible for maintaining it.

The township council has been increasingly concerned about maintenance costs on this gravel road as it is used extensively by motorists and truck drivers to by-pass Trenton.

An advance poll, for the convenience of those who will be out-of-town on election day, is being held in the town hall in Trenton today. Voting hours are from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Last year, 20 persons voted in the Fire Sweeps Doctor's Home, Estimated Loss Is $20,000

PICTON (Special)—Damage estimated at upwards of $20,000 resulted here early this morning when fire swept through the upper floor of the residence of Dr. Lionel Dockrill on Main Street, East.

The fire was confined to three second-storey rooms in the lovely—brick residence, which was recently completely renovated. The balance of the home was badly damaged from smoke and water.

The fire was discovered about 7:00 o'clock when Lionel Dockrill, Jr., aged 14, awoke to find his bedroom full of smoke.

He rushed downstairs to call the fire department and then roused his mother and five other members of the family who were still asleep upstairs.

The fire is believed to have started from a bedroom lamp which set fire to a shirt and then the window curtains.

SHADED LAMP

A friend of the family, Larry Creighton, 14, had slept with the Dockrill boy overnight and had gotten up early to play minor hockey at the nearby Picton Arena.

He apparently had placed a shirt over the bedroom lamp to prevent its glare from waking the Dockrill boy. The shirt caught fire and then set the window curtains aflame.

Firemen said the Dockrill boy was lucky to have awakened when he did. A few more minutes in the smoke filled room and he may have been overcome.

Firemen contained the blaze to three upstairs rooms and the fire did not break through the

Public Lethargic

Once upon a time this season brought hectic days across Canada. Municipal elections and all ramifications thereof filled the thoughts of the local citizenry. Those were the days when local election campaigns were fought in every literal sense of the word.

Perhaps the attitude was little too dangerous at times, but it constituted one thing that is sadly lacking in public affairs today—healthy interest to the point of active participation by the public at large. The seriousness, (often viciousness), with which local campaigns were waged annually was the first shock on which the sensitive political affairs of the country rested.

Today, the root causes for the aimless drifting that has beset senior public life in this country is readily demonstrated by the level of local election issues. Those causes can be summed up in two words—public indifference.

Once, it was a cliche to declaim the hopelessness of political situations and blame it on politicians. Yet, when election time rolled around rarely could a man be found who had not made a decision in favor of some political attitude.

Today the cliche has assumed reality and the helplessness of the individual citizen in political matters affecting his country is accepted as gospel fact.

Thus, more and more are we drifting away from the ability to make private decisions in political affairs. The lack of decisiveness on the national level of our present government, both on the government and opposition benches, is only a reflection of a nation-wide public attitude.

How many people today really take a hand in helping, or hindering—as they personally see fit—the political processes of government?

One need only look on the local level. At an annual meeting recently of the Amelisburg Homeowners Association, the current membership was given approximately as 65. The same meeting presented a petition signed by 902 township residents on a planning issue vital to their interests. Observe the disparity between those sufficiently interested in local affairs to take out membership, and the total number of local residents. Simultaneously, a meeting of Trenton municipal candidates was so poorly attended the audience was invited to joint the candidates on stage. At one meeting of a city ratepayers' association in Belleville, the attendance was so bad the speaker and his interested hearers sat around in a small circle in the auditorium. The announced topic was the controversial one of fluoridation.

What is the reason for this apparent indifference? Is it really indifference or simply collective laziness on a massive scale? The answers to this lethargy are a matter of urgency. There is good cause to fear the present purposelessness in public affairs may leave its stamp on the national character for generations to come.

By refusing to play anything save a passive role in their public affairs, Canadians are betraying their past and endangering their future.

Dr. Dymond Speaks Out

Hon. M. B. Dymond, Ontario's Minister of Health, has done it again.

Shortly after Dr. Dymond assumed the portfolio of Ontario Minister of Health, Pierre Berton vigorously criticized conditions at the Ontario Hospital at Orillia. Instead of attempting a whitewash job, Dr. Dymond admitted the essential accuracy of Berton's charges, added information about other deplorable situations, explained why such conditions existed and initiated action to remedy as many as possible of these faults, as quickly as possible.

At that time The Ontario Intelligencer editorially expressed its admiration for Dr. Dymond's frankness and courage.

He has now shown these same characteristics in a different field. Addressing the College of General Practices of Canada, he has criticized restrictions placed on doctors in the name of public safety. "Why should a physician's professional ethics. . . not speak in public on medical matters?" he asked. Why, indeed?

His call for "careful consideration and reappraisal" of these professional restrictions was long overdue. It is gratifying to find this call coming from a man who is a member of the profession. A layman might have been tempted to brand the restrictions as a lot of rot, creating a mumbo-jumbo aura of secrecy. Such a change would have been met by agonized protests that, as a layman, he did not know what he was talking about. But when a physician who has also established a high place for himself in public life says the same thing in softer, wiser words, perhaps a goodly percentage of his professional colleagues will grasp the fact that their close-lipped front is more likely to breed public distrust in the profession that public confidence.

Opinions on Fluoridation

By S. McDevell in the Ottawa Journal

To assist voters The Journal has done some research to see what are the opinions on fluoridation held by the major professional organizations whose job it is to know.

With the possible exception of one organization, about which is concerned primarily with the social and economic, rather than medical aspects of the profession (this organization is discussed in the editorial column today) all the major medical, dental and scientific organizations, in view of which we have available, support ed fluoridation.

(Editor's note: The editorial comment referred to above read as follows: "There are some organizations that oppose it. The one most frequently cited and seemingly the only one of any stature, is the American Association of American Physicians and Surgeons. Opponents of fluoridation say this association has 20,000 members and that these members voted against fluoridation in 1956. According to the standard reference book, National Organizations of the United States, The American Association of Physicians and Surgeons is concerned chiefly with the socio-economic aspects of medical practice. It supports repeal of the Income Tax and opposes Federal aid to education, Federal subsidization of medical schools, free hospital and medical care under social security program. We believe that the opposition to fluoridation of 20,000 members of the American Association of Physicians and Surgeons a put in perspective by the support for fluoridation of the American Medical Association, 185,000 members, and the American Dental Association, 89,000 members.")

Canadian Dental Association:

"Studies carried on for a period of over thirty years under the widest variety of controlled conditions have consistently established as one of the most widely studied of public health procedures."

Canadian Medical Association:

"The consumption of water containing 1 to 1.5 parts per million of fluorine significantly reduces the incidence of dental caries among the child population and is now recognized for effects which are deleterious to health."

Canadian Public Health Association:

"No other vehicle for the preventive application of fluorides has been developed to equal water fluoridation as a public health measure."

The Health League of Canada:

"The source of Brantford water is such that it had an unpleasant taste long before fluoridation came to contamination. Fluorine is indeed tasteless.

"The only difference between natural and artificial fluoridation is that the latter can be controlled."

World Health Organization:

"The most convincing evidence of the safety of water fluoridation comes from the numerous population groups (3 million in the U.S. 0.5 million in England) who have drunk naturally fluoridated water containing 1 p.p.m. or more during their lifetime. In these groups most children have, of course, been uncontrolled and there have been well and ill babies, as well as healthy young adults and frail elderly people. Medical practitioners and specialists in these areas have never detected or defined a systematic aberration in health of any kind attributed to the fluoride consumed. . . .

"All of (the) findings fit together in a consonant whole that constitutes a great guarantee of safety. The body of evidence without precedent in public health procedure."

Royal College of Dental Surgeons of Ontario and The Ontario Dental Association:

"The function of fluoride is to promote the development of teeth more resistantto tooth decay than would develop in the absence of fluoride. Fluoride thus may be included with sodium, copper, cobalt or iron as an essential trace element in human nutrition.

"Ingested fluorides at 1 p.p.m. concentration have no effect upon existing tooth decay. The purpose of fluoridation, therefore is not medication but rather the provision of a trace element essential to the proper metabolistic State and of tooth enamel. . . .

"As fluoridation is not medication the suggestion that fluoridation violates personal liberty and constitutes compulsion becomes untenable."

Ontario Medical Association:

"The Committee on Public Health of the Medical Association endorses the principle of fluoridation of water supplies."

Ontario Public Health Association:

" All important or leading public health, medical and dental associations in Canada and the United States have expressed belief in the benefits and the safety of fluoridation of water supplies."

Canadian Pharmaceutical Association:

"The proposed concentration of between 1.0 parts to 1.5 parts per million is, in our opinion, an exceedingly safe level and presents no toxic risk."

British Ministry of Health:

"No harmful effects from the addition of one part per million of fluorine to drinking water have been demonstrated. New Zealand Commission of Inquiry on Fluoridation of Public Water Supplies:

"No harmful effects on health will follow the fluoridation of water supplies."

American Medical Association:

"The fluoridation of public water supplies is a safe and practical method of reducing the incidence of dental caries during childhood."

• • •

Dr. Luther L. Terry, U.S. Surgeon-General:

"Fluoridation is beyond question the most effective, most economical means available for the prevention of dental caries."

• • •

Dr. Benjamin Spock:

"I am enthusiastically in favor of fluoridation."

• • •

A. P. Black, Ph.D., research professor of chemistry and sanitary science, University of Florida:

"Maintaining the fluoride concentration within appropriate limits is readily achieved in modern water works practice with the chemical feeders now available."

Dr. G. F. Lull, in a statement made when he was secretary and general manager of the American Medical Association:

"Fluoridation is not medication. It is adjustment to normal of a deficient content of fluorine in water and certain areas where needed."

Dr. Frances Kelsey who kept thalidomide off the market in the U.S.:

"Fluoridation of water supply is unusually effective in preventing tooth decay."

Richard J. Daley, Mayor of Chicago:

"In the four years since it was passed, not one of the dangers forecast by the anti-fluoridationists has come to pass."

The Health League of Canada made a survey of the views on fluoridation of the heads of departments of preventive medicine in North American communities. These are the findings:

"Out of 76 departments of preventive medicine responding to the survey, not one opposed the principle of fluoridation. Sixty-one departments expressed themselves more or less emphatically in favor of fluoridation as a means of preventing dental cavities without doing harm to the human organism; six claimed incomplete familiarity with the subject and declined to express opinion; one expressed a desire to caution and further study(the survey was made in 1954) but was not opposed to fluoridation.

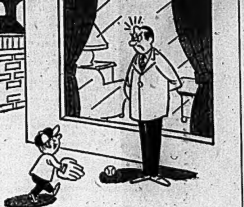
Following are some other organizations that support fluoridation:

British Medical Association;

British Dental Association.

American Dental Society;

American Nurses Association;



American Hospital Association;

American College of Dentists;

A.M. Conference of State Sanitary Engineers; American Pharmaceutical Association; American Association for the Advancement of Science; U.S. National Institute of Dental Research; Officers' American Society of Dentistry for Children; American Academy of Pediatrics; American Public Health Association; American Public Welfare Association; American Water Works Association; American Association of Public Health Dentists; State and Territorial Dental Health Directors

Made No Reference To Building's Cost

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

I would like to correct a statement printed in a letter concerning fluoridation, which appeared in the Monday edition of The Ontario Intelligencer.

It was erroneously stated by the writer that, in addressing the East Hill Ratepayers' Association, I said that they can get a new building and equipment for fluoridation "would have to be chemtrusted over a period of fifteen years with added interest."

I made no statement whatsoever regarding the necessity or cost of any such building, nor that such building would be paid for.

My remarks on that occasion, were concerned only with the many benefits to dental health which can be derived from fluoridation.

Pertinent Question About Fluoridation

I am wondering how many of those opposing fluoridation have all their own teeth.

Help the children keep theirs. Vote yes.

Advice on What to Do When a Person Faints

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: When a person is about to faint and someone gives him a glass of water, why does he not prevent it?

Or if the person has fainted, administering water by mouth will usually bring him back to consciousness? I have always thought you should not give anything to an unconscious person. — M.P.

You are right: never give anything by mouth to an unconscious or even semi-conscious person. He cannot swallow and you risk strangling him. Fluid may get into his lungs through his windpipe.

I doubt that water is given to an unconscious person as often as your letter implies. The procedure is dangerous. It may be, however, that some lucky victims have regained consciousness in time to swallow whatever is unwisely put in their mouths.

As to the glass of water being the cure for one who is in an upright position. Blood recedes from the brain and is pooled in blood vessels of the mid-body.

Any change of position will usually snap a person out of the impending faint. The temperature of a sip of water may stimulate circulation enough to offset the faintness.

If the person falls to the floor, he ordinarily regains consciousness almost at once because his head is then easily to the brain.

For the same reason, just sitting down helps, and getting the head low (perhaps between the knees) is even better. The person can remember to tense the abdominal muscles, that, too, helps force blood toward the brain.

Sipping water won't always stave off fainting, and I suspect that anyone who can stay on his feet until someone brings him water, and then can stand and drink it, probably wasn't really going to lose consciousness anyway.

So if someone says he feels faint; if his color goes pallid; there are beads of perspiration popping out on his forehead and he is blank stare, don't ask him if he still feels faint. Act promptly.

Get him down flat on whatever is handiest. The floor is a good place.

Then go dashing off for a glass of water. You can do that after he comes to.

The first step is to get him sitting down or lying down. Otherwise he may hurt himself as he falls.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there an operation on a nerve in the back that will cure or reduce hypertension? — E. S.

Yes, such an operation is sometimes used for a certain type of hypertension, sometimes called "malignant hypertension." The splanchnic nerve is cut. It is the last-resort for hypertension in general.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a 16-month-old daughter with a nerve injury in the upper right arm due to birth trauma. She can move hand and fingers very well but cannot get her arm up beyond the shoulder. Is there anything we can do for her? — C. H.

Undoubtedly, yes — but this is too specialized a problem for me to answer in this column. Take the baby to a neurologist or to an orthopedic specialist. Either can evaluate the degree of injury and then prescribe appropriate treatment.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill., for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 15c in coin and a long, self-addressed, unstamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Short Cuts Can Become Long Cuts

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Perhaps the most difficult lesson to learn in growing up is this — that it's easier to do a thing right than to do it over. Most of us learn this only the hard way, when we have stumbled and tripped our way into adulthood.

Robert Frost once expressed this in his usual admirable brevity and simplicity, when he wrote in a poem: "The fastest way up is through." Until we learn better, most of us try to go around, to take short cuts that turn out to be long cuts, to trim and turn and twist — until we have expended more effort, with less results, than in going through.

The most homely and striking example of this painful truth was borne upon me the other night when I was preparing for the new baby's late feeding. She awakened, as predicted, about 3 a.m., crying for milk.

When I was a new father, many years ago, I tried to make this chore as brief as possible — indeed, I tried to do it without even opening my eyes. I would get a bottle, heat it, feed the baby, and flip it back into bed as quickly as possible, and then climb back into my own.

But it never worked. Five or ten minutes later, the baby would be whimpering again. It needed to be burped. It called for a change. So I had to get up and do what I had grossly performed these operations — sometimes two or three times.

Now I have learned that the fastest way out is through. I get up now knowing that I'll make sure sht has all the milk she can hold, and burp her conscientiously. I change her, and rock her for a few minutes. And then she goes back to sleep the rest of the night. So am I.

This more laborious procedure would have taken me the time and energy of popping up six, I used to do. The long cut is sometimes the short — reminds me that "through" and "through" come from the same root-word.

But it is not an easy lesson to learn, even for an adult, and especially for a child. The temptation is ever present to cut corners, to make do, to get by with a shrug and a promise. We suffer from the perpetual delusion that we can make up for wasting life easy for ourselves, when in truth we are making it hard.

This is all part of mankind's unceasing quest to find pleasure and to escape pain. And the last piece of wisdom we win is that pain is an investment that often yields more than we have to pay for pleasure.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Book collectors come in all shapes and sizes. Some collect books as a financial or commercial investment for their rarity, like first editions, or by reason of their antiquity. There are collectors of books who care not a whit for the contents of the books. If they open them at all, they pore over them the way any other miser pores over his gold or his certificate. Then there are book collectors who are interested mostly in bindings, and there are those who are interested in the condition of such books, he tells me, he acquires an intimate personal contact with the old far past.

Yet I have met collectors of one category of book, such as Canadiana or angling, or old

Rumor-Mongers Attack Parliament Hill Arena

By RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — The Roman Forum must have been quite a place in those dread days before they knifed Julius Caesar . . . the plots and counter plots, the fearful whisperings of the conspirators.

So, too, is the Centre Block on Parliament Hill quite a place . . . the air full of rumors of conspiracies and counter-conspiracies.

In the days of the old Romans, they took the direct approach when they worked up the nerve to dispose of their leaders.

Stabbed them in the back with daggers.

In this more sophisticated day and age, assassination is still the style, and the stab in the back the approved method of execution. . .

Except that in the mid-Twentieth Century, when people are supposed to be a little more civilized, you do not use a dagger — just a rumor, preferably with a poisoned tip.

Rough stuff?

Maybe . . . but that is the way things seem to be.

FRIENDS AND ENEMIES

Groping, as it were, with the poisoned word for the soft spot in each man's back.

Both leaders, it is whispered, are on the skids, with some of their own partisans providing the grease.

(With friends like these, who need enemies?)

You hear talk that some Liberals, disenchanted with Mike Pearson as a two-time loser, are looking for ways to dump him. If not before this next election - - there is hardly time for it - - then certainly, immediately afterwards.

It is not easy to discard a leader.

First you have to downgrade and discount him. Work on his self-esteem. Destroy his confidence. Break his heart.

Then maybe he will go quietly, even gracefully.

It has been done before, and politics being what they are, will happen again.

You hear whispers, too, that certain elements in the Conservatives' ranks are not as enchanted with John Diefenbaker in a minority situation as when he packed the power of decision of 208 seats in the Commons.

And not being enchanted, they worry and wonder, their doubts being neither hin nor them much good.

In this little conspiracy of denigration, names are being named, but not here, not yet, anyway.

TIME AND PLACE

The murmur in the wind is that they have even been guessing when, how and where he may be ready to go.

Now here is where the poison comes on the tips of those rumor-daggers.

Age and health, is the gossip and with details.

If you listen to the talk — and working on Parliament Hill you would have to be deaf, dumb and blind not to be aware of it — even the price of the political parting has been set.

Pearson is to get a university appointment, Diefenbaker another form of compensation.

Now all this can be dismissed as rumor, gossip, even straight guff.

But somebody . . . and for some reason . . . has to start this rumor, gossip or, if you prefer, guff.

There has to be at least some wishful thinking on somebody's part to generate it in the first place.

And the stories about Mike Pearson do not all come from the Conservatives, nor the tales about Diefenbaker from the Liberals.

So somewhere . . . in some shadowy back room," sparks are flying off the political axe of some of the "backroom boys." Somebody is grinding a sharp edge and point to the knives.

One thing more . . .

. . . When you set out to do a job on a political leader, you must have a likely looking successor, panting impatiently in the wings.

BEGONE:

After discounting and downgrading him, filling him with self-doubt, gnawing away at his esteem and so breaking his heart that he will be glad to go, you try then to make it easy for him.

You give him a face-saving out. It is his "duty" to go now that a better man is ready to step into his tired shoes— and anyway, his health is not all that good that he cannot do with a well-earned rest and the thanks of a grateful party and people.

Fantasy?

There are a-couple of former party leaders still living who can attest to the truth of it— and two prime ministers, one dead, who found it so.

In the current conspiracies— and there must be plotting afoot to kick off the assassination rumors—two little complications may be making life difficult for the conspirators.

The Liberals have several "pretenders," and perhaps newly-crowned second-time Quebec Premier Lesage could be the Prince.

The Conservatives, too, have a couple of warhorses who might dearly like to try on the leadership harness, and a Crown Prince, too, Manitoba Premier Duff Roblin.

But the election gets in the way— of immediate execution, if not slow assassination.

A LIFT FOR LIVING

Live Wisely Today By Giving Some Thought for Tomorrow

By Dr. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

In the Italian town of Rimini there stands a monument to mark the spot where Julius Caesar crossed the Rubicon. That event is considered one of the decisive turning points of history. But how little the life of Julius Caesar affects our living today. Except for the schoolboys struggling with their study of Latin, Caesar's Gallic wars might as well never have been fought; and as I remember, most schoolboys wish they had never been fought. But the poor Carpenter who was put to death by a minion of the proud Cesarn — He still lives, the most potent figure on our planet. As long as man hungers and thirsts after righteousness; as long as he is rebellious enough to need a master; as long as he is guilty enough to need atonement; as long as he is so helpless as to need a Savior — so long will Christ live, for He is the answer to those enduring hungers.

The gospel of Jesus is ever-lasting because He is the Eternal Contemporary.

And Christ helps us to experience an eternal present. A number of years ago a minister was writing a book. He was telling a pretty wise but pretty worldly old friend that he thought he would call it: "Live for Tomorrow." The friend thought the title rather an unhappy one, for he said it suggested what religious writers often do urge — namely, the sacrificing of the present for the sake of the future. He said that we ought to live today to the full. Why not call the book: "Live for Today?"

A GOOD POINT

His criticism had a good point. A strategy of successful living is to seize the day, live it to the fullest, unclouded by tomorrow's troubles and unhastened by tomorrow's hopes. And that is exactly what Jesus did teach. He did not bid men to rush through this world with blinders on, as if it were a vale of tears or a den of iniquity in which they must not tarry in their way to heaven. He urged men to live each day to the limit of its possibilities. He said, "Be not anxious for the morrow . . . Behold the fowls of the air." The bird does not spoil a beautiful March day by chirping, "Yes today may be sunny and warm, but remember March is fickle and the winter isn't over." The bird lives in the present.

Most of us do not enter vividly into the here and now. The late Irwin Edman of Columbia said: "So great is the impact of events upon us, that we are losing the capacity to realize the present at all. Even in quiet times, most people live for the most part at second hand, by labels and cliches passing for experience."

Ah, yes, how much of life we miss in getting on to the next thing, and in worrying whether we are getting on. How little we get out of passing experiences, compared with the poet who lives the moments so intensely or the child who enters into them wholeheartedly. We must beware of bankrupting our todays by paying interest on the regrets of yesterday and borrowing in advance the troubles of tomorrow.

THOUGHT FOR TOMORROW

Yet we cannot live wisely for today without taking thought for tomorrow. We have an expression for those who spend all they make in self-indulgent pleasures. We say, "They are living it up." It is the modern version of the old saying, "Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we die." But such pleasures carried to excess leave a "hang-over" which depresses the morning after.

The foolish person "lives it up"; godly men live up to today so that they may live in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come."

I know of two successful men who were told that they had cancer. One of them engaged a helicopter and flew over a magnificent new business skyscraper which he was completing. He was seeking satisfaction in contemplating the work he had done before he died. The other, also a leading builder and real estate man, said to me: "I don't worry about how soon I have to go. I shall be glad to see my Redeemer." He was looking confidently ahead.

Would we fully live our today? Then let us like Browning who could say:

"My times are in His hand,

Who said, 'A whole I planned.'

Trust God, see all, nor be afraid."

Shopping for a $600,000,000 Christmas present

What a present! Actually, $600,000,000 is the nice round sum of money that the people of Ontario could give themselves every year. 600,000,000 vital dollars to circulate and help create as many as 60,000 new jobs.

How can we go about this? The answer lies in our day-to-day shopping decisions. Some things have to be imported, but we've become the world's biggest spenders on imported manufactured goods. We each spend an average of $235 a year on goods made in other countries. By itself, $235 may not look like much. However, when we look at the equivalent figure for a few other nations . . . Britain $75; West Germany $60; the United States only $35 per person . . . it's evident we've been on an import spree.

Start with Christmas shopping. If each one of us took steps to reduce our spending on imported goods by $100 and diverted that money to Canadian-made products, the results would be dramatic. At the end of a year we'd have our $600,000,000 and all the jobs and opportunities it would create.

What a Christmas present!

Garmisch One of Most Typical Of Bavaria's Fairy Tale Towns

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

GARMISCH - PARTENKIRchen, Germany — The old man with the Kaiser mustache and the Santa Claus eyes still sat with his cronies at the corner table of the stube where we had left them in the afternoon.

They wore Alpine hats with silver ornaments and green and goat's-beard brushes, ornately appliqued lederhosen with the usual straps across the chest, and the short flared jackets of woodsmen's olive so beloved of the mountain people. Several smoked pipes, as one of us did. (We looked as out of place as they would have sporting ivory cigarette holders; with charcoal-eristic insouciance they gave us not a second glance.)

They had been playing tarock all day, slapping the cards mightily on the scrubbed wood, on table and arguing with good-humored ferocity. The table, alongside the bar and backed up by a large stove of lovely hand-cast blue and white porcelain tiles, obviously was reserved for regulars.

The plump barmaid brought another round, dropping on the table little brass tokens reading "gut fur ein litre bier." The cut glass mugs were capped with tinged silver lids, and into one she dropped an aluminum tube called a beer warmer.

NO ONE OUT OF PLACE

It was all a long way from Joe's Bar and Grill, but no one felt out of place. As the leading sophisticated ski resort of Germany, and at the same time, one of the most typical of Bavaria's fairy tale towns, Garmisch is long used to living with both tourist and peasant. Even the old Kaiser mustache in the beer tavern is as integral a part of the town's personality as the apres - ski tourists in the American Bar of the Park Alpenhof Hotel.

The town nestles deep in the still and cloistered fastness of the Loisach Valley, sheltered by the 9,700-foot Zugspitze, Germany's tallest mountain. It is not a beautiful mountain as the Alps go. Jagged and irregular, it is littered with the waste of glacial moraine near the top. But its views and ski slopes are justly world famous.

The top of the valley broadens into the sylvan Elbsee, and from here a cog railway inches its way toward the summit. The air exudes pine resin and pink heather, and the green alpine slopes are splotched with arnica and gentian.

There is little slope to the valley where hikers in knee pants swing past grazing cows and sheep. Chalet-like chalets bright with flower boxes, hay bins with roofs held down by stones, and piles of firewood dot the pastures. An onion-domed church rises from a hamlet on the grade turns steeper. The train disappears into the timber line and a tunnel which ends at the station near the top.

SPECTACULAR BACKDROP

The mountains, spectacular as they are from the top, make an even more spectacular backdrop from the town, a place out of the brothers Grimm by the Tourist Board. The sunny haze of the valley tricks the eye like a stage set, and it comes down to a question of whether the mountains have been painted behind the houses, or the houses timbered, plastered and painted against the mountains.

Garmisch seems to have put its tongue in the cheek and thumbed the nose of Italy's haughty baroque artists. With no access to marble, Bavaria's artists whittled, molded, and daubed until they came up with the outgrowth of baroque called rococo.

It was a whimsical relief from the pomposities of baroque. They played it for all it was worth, largely by three-dimensional optical effects. Columns and an arch are painted around a shop door. Gilded cherubs dangle plaster grapes over a tavern entrance. The facade of a drugstore is tricked up to look like panels of porcelain. The windows of the Garmisch Hotel are decorated with curlicues, and out of one of them two dandies lean out and leer at the passers. But they aren't leaning out of anything, because unlike the other windows, this one is not even real than the painted bussars.

Love of frescoes goes back a long way in Garmisch's history, right to the Old Church where some may date to the twelfth century. And as late as 1945, one was added to the votive paintings for which St. Anton's is famous. It depicts GIs in tanks sparing the town. But as other panels testify, few conquerors have had the heart not to spare it.

Nurses Hear Talk on Recent Developments in Psychiatry

The fifth lecture in the fall series of "Nursing Education" was held in Belleville General Hospital Education Hall Tuesday evening. The topic of, "Recent Developments in Psychiatry," was clearly presented by Dr. R. Billings, psychiatrist from Kingston.

Miss Marguerite Hicks, president of Belleville Community Nursing Registry, welcomed all those present. The guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. Jean Beebe.

The fine audience listened with interest as Dr. Billings discussed the most important advances in psychiatry in general, and some of the advances in community psychiatry.

He stated that as recent as 50 years ago, Dr. Sigmund Freud gave the thesis on which "Modern Psychiatry" is based, that is, the effect which the unconscious mind has upon conscious thinking.

PSYCHOTHERAPY BASIS

The psychiatrist stated that psychotherapy is still the basis of psychiatric treatment, even though drugs and physical therapy have their place. These physical therapies were invented 30 years ago with shock treatment being induced, by the use of chemical injection. Insulin Shock Therapy has since also become outdated. Electro convulsive therapy still being used for depressed patients.

Brain surgery "pre-frontal lobotomy" is now only used for deep depression which doesn't respond to any other treatment.

Dr. Billings stated that this is the drug era which began only ten years ago. This biochemical treatment which has brought about amazing results is the most important advance made in psychiatry in the last 25 years. These drugs which include tranquillizers, anti-depressants and anti-psychotics, do not cure the underlying causes for the patient's illness but deal mainly with the symptoms of the illness, making the patient more accessible to psychotherapy.

He also enlarged upon changes in the institution. The trend in mental hospitals now is to have as many wards open as possible, if not the whole institution. The main obstacle for a complete open hospital is the presence of many chronic patients.

SMALL HOSPITALS BETTER

The second step is to get away from the large institutions. He stated it is better to build numerous small local modern psychiatric hospitals which are active treatment centres and where a more normal environment can be established. However, it is preferable to add a psychiatric unit to the general hospital so that the public may have a similar attitude toward the mentally ill patient as toward someone with a fracture.

The doctor reported that in the field of mental deficiency, there has been an improvement in diagnosing type of deficiency. He regretted, however that little improvement has been accomplished in the field of alcoholism, delinquency, geriatrics and drug addiction.

CENTRALIZED CLINIC

Dr. Billings, who is now Director of the Mental Health Clinic in Kingston, stated that community psychiatry began in Ontario 30 years ago in the form of travelling clinics, going from one locality to another, having its headquarters at a psychiatric hospital. The change to one centralized community clinic to which patients travel has proven more satisfactory. He was pleased how the Mental Health Clinic at Kingston has not only enlarged its staff, but

KENNEDY — BUTLER

A lovely, all-white wedding of wide interest was solemnized in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, by the Right Rev. Monsignor J. P. Sullivan, when Mary Stephanie Moffat, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Ormonde Butler, of Belleville became the bride of Paul Charles Kennedy, of Toronto, son of Mrs. Edward Gordon Kennedy, of Belleville and the late Dr. Kennedy. Tall white standards of Connecticut white, chrysanthemums and white pom-pom mums adorned the altar for the ceremony.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Grant, of Belleville, organist, who accompanied the soloist, Mr. Robert Reid, of Belleville, as he sang, before the ceremonial "Panis Angelicus," and "Ave Maria," during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiantly lovely bride looked charming empire bridal gown of chiffon velvet in traditional white with molded bodice delicately encrusted with seed pearls and crystals to form a sculptured neckline. The billowing skirt cascaded to a chapel train. She wore a coronet headdress of jewels set in a cloud of French illusion tulle, and carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias mingled with white and pink feathered carnations.

She was attended by Mrs. Robert Allan, of Plainfield, New Jersey, as matron of honor; and by Mrs. Joseph Kennedy of Kitchener; and by Miss Nancy Tatham, of Belleville, as bridesmaids, and by little Nellie Kennedy, of Belleville, seven-year-old sister of the bridegroom. The junior attendants wore long white velveteen gowns featuring classic bodices and full skirts gathered to the front in gentle unpressed pleats, and caught up at interval with tiny bows at the waist. They carried small Victorian muffs of matching velveteen covered with white and pink to white carnations and wore profile hats of white feather wings.

The junior attendant wore a long white velveteen gown with short sleeves and Juliet headdress and carried a nosegay of pink and white carnations trimmed with pink and white streamers.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Edward Gordon Joseph Kennedy, of Kitchener, Ontario, and the guests were ushered by Mr. Tony Kennedy, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, and by Mr. Charles Rourke, of Montreal; by Mr. David Deacon, of Toronto, and Mr. Cameron Bustard, of Montreal.

The bride's table was appointed with a white lace and linen cloth, and centred by an all-white, three-tier wedding cake topped by a cluster of pale pink and white carnations, and misted about the base with white tulle. Bouquets of pink and white carnations added to the delicate beauty of the setting.

The bride's mother, wearing a French wool tunic gown in espresso tan and an antique gold brown velvet with starched tulle, orchid wrist corsage and brown accessories, was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in peacock blue wool crepe with peau de faille, with matching draped turban, matching accessories and corsage of feathered white carnations.

For the wedding trip to Washington, D.C. and eastern United States, the bride chose a green velvet suit, with matching mandarin hat, brown suede accessories, a brown fur stole and gardenia corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy are residing in Toronto, Ontario.

Miss Ottawa Rough Rider Crowned Miss Grey Cup

The 17-year-old ballet and high school student appeared overwhelmed as the judges announced their decision and almost fell from her stool in surprise.

A striking German-born blue-eyed blonde, Miss Pikelis recovered quickly and was perfectly composed as she was crowned by Tom Stewart, chairman of the Grey Cup Festival, and later presented with a gleaming sports car.

Renata was swamped by photographers and Rough Rider cheer leaders who swarmed onto the stage immediately after the judges' decision was announced.

"She's a real doll," said Whit Tucker, Rough Rider defensive back who this year won an outstanding player award.

Runner-up was 19-year-old Jacqueline Kramer, Miss Ed-monton Eskimos, and third place was awarded to Noreen Shick, 20, Miss Winnipeg Blue Bomber. Nine contestants representing Canada's professional football clubs were judged.

SHE NEEDS SLEEP

"The first thing I'm going to do is get two days' solid sleep," said Renata who has been subjected to an endless round of press conferences, television appearances and social functions since she arrived here Tuesday.

And the next item on the agenda for Renata, who doesn't hold a driver's licence, will probably be a driving test.

Her Latvian - born mother, Mrs. Lydia Pikelis, who immigrated to Canada in 1949, commented: "Renata doesn't think she's particularly good looking and she didn't think she had a hope of winning."

WHILE IN OGDEN UTAH

"A city's history lives in its monuments."—Bernard Newman.

"Well, what did you do this morning?" kindly enquired our hosts they picked us up in the evening to take us to a "rather special" place for dinner, as yet a kept secret.

Reliving childhood scenes as we drove passed my first public school, our family Presbyterian Church, familiar parks and streets of this beautiful, peaceful, sheltered city flanked on the west by tall mountains; by shimmering glimmer of far reaches of the great Salt Lake on the east, we answered:

"We motored down to Salt Lake City for breakfast. As a child, that was unheard of; a heaven away it seemed. Why it's only thirty-five miles!" we reclaimed, and gave an account of having breakfasted a stone's throw down the street from the famed white marble Hotel Utah and the Mormon Temple. Of shopping in a most elegant new department store, filled with exquisite merchandise from Lalique glass to Viennese soap.

"Oh, you've been the ZCMI!" "That's the one. What do the letters mean?" "It's an old, well-established Utah store, just moved to new quarters. The letters stand for Zion Co-operative Mercantile Institute," our hosts ees explained. "Everyone, the store included, just calls it the ZCMI. Then what did you do?"

"Well we drove upon the mountain site of the University of Utah Medical Centre to see the skeletal frame work of the new $16,000,000 building. To be finished in June 1964, they said. What a site! 5,200 feet above sea level and 1,000 feet above Salt Lake City, on 40 acres. Simply breath-taking."

It is, indeed it is," agreed our host, "you see it is the only medical school in a seven-state area; the other six being Idaho, Montana, Nevada, Wyoming, New Mexico and Arizona. A prospective medical school student from any of these 6 given the same consideration for admittance here as a Utah resident, and he pays the same tuition.

"Now the student's state government makes a $2,000 payment for his behalf to the school. For instance, 21 of the 220 medical students here are from these other states. This arrangement operates as a part of the Western Interstate Commission for Higher Education, which is supported by thirteen Western States. It divides specialized education costs on a co-operative basis. Now, if a Utah youngster wishes to study in a field not offered here, he can attend another Western school under the same arrangement.

"Of course, the University of Utah has existed since 1850, but opened its medical school in 1903 which offered two years of medical instruction. In 1942 it became a four-year school and has graduated 625 doctors since then. The new addition is a welcome one in these parts."

"And speaking of Salt Lake City, you perhaps wouldn't notice a modest monument on Main Street, where we attended a brief ceremony in October last year," said our hostess. "But it marked the completion of the first transcontinental telegraph line exactly a hundred years ago back in Oct. 24, 1861, when the final telegraph pole was placed there, now the heart of the city.

The Civil War was raging then, and the role of Western territories was a grave concern at Washington. And so the first message sent by the Acting Gov. Frank Fuller of Utah Territory and Brigham Young, the Mormon Church leader, went to President Lincoln.

Utah loyal to the Union, it said in part, and congratulated Lincoln upon completion of an enterprise which spans a continent, unites two oceans and connects with nerve of iron the remote extremities of the body politic with the great government's heart.

"Yes, that single-strand telegraph wire, closed a 2,000 mile gap of unsettled country which separated California and the Midwest, and so put the picturesque Pony Express out of business."

By now, I noted, we were heading toward Ogden Canyon. Why should we be going in this direction—for dinner?

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

An invitation to afternoon tea might give the recipient a few questions to mull over. For instance:

1. Is a woman guest supposed to wear a hat?

2. How long should a guest be prepared to stay?

3. Does a guest help herself at the tea table or let the pourer assist her?

4. Should a guest wait for an introduction from the hostess before speaking to unfamiliar fellow-guests?

5. When should a guest greet a guest of honor, if there is one?

6. Is it considered proper to strike up a conversation with the woman who is pouring at the tea table?

7. At a small tea, should a guest wait until the hostess serves her, or should she walk up to the tea table and serve herself?

8. Should guests return empty cups and plates to the tea table?

9. At a benefit tea, when and where does the guest leave her contribution?

10. Before leaving, should a guest say good-bye to the pourer in addition to her hostess?

ANSWERS:

1. Yes, and she usually keeps it on — whether the tea is very large, or just a sewing gathering of friends.

2. That depends on the size of the group. Guests may stay a minimum of a half hour at a large formal tea, but an hour is more or less average. If the tea is very small and there are only a dozen guests or less, then it's considered more polite to arrive fairly near the start of the party and stay for the major part of it.

3. The guest tells the pourer how she prefers her tea — weak, strong, with or without sugar, lemon or cream — and the pourer fixes the cup and hands it to her. The guest then makes her selection of a sandwiches and cake and takes an available seat to enjoy her refreshments.

4. No. A guest may introduce herself to anyone she does not know.

5. On arrival, if possible, or any time during the party when the guest of honor is not completely surrounded.

6. There's no waiting line, a guest may introduce herself and chat for a few minutes. But she should keep any conversation to a minimum if others are waiting to be served.

7. The hostess hands cups to guests seated near her. Those seated at a distance usually go to accept a cup unless a waitress or a friend is helping out.

8. No. Empties are left on a sideboard or other available tables instead of on the tea table.

9. Contributions are usually deposited on a tray placed near the door before leaving the party.

10. It's not necessary.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Alex S. — I say, let's forget about having children and adopt one.

June S. — I say let's try once more, despite two miscarriages.

Alex S. — We've been married four years now, settled in a little love nest of a home. As soon as June became pregnant, we moved out to a new development along with other newlyweds, and now we're the only family on the block without a baby. June suffered a miscarriage a month after our arrival.

The doctor told us not to worry. But she miscarried again last year, losing the baby in the fourth month. That's enough for me. I say let's resign ourselves to not having our own and adopt one. But June thinks some hormone treatment will help and she's ready to go through the whole agony again.

She should accept the fact that something's wrong and go on from there.

June S. — It would be so wonderful to have our own baby that I'm grabbing at the either-or talk of the doctor, the minister and the neighbor, and giving myself the benefit of the doubt. He says my miscarriages are from a certain weakness of the uterus and that maybe now, after strengthening it with hormones, I can go through a full-term pregnancy.

The first week of test cases right after we'd moved and I feel I must have brought it on by lifting heavy boxes and jumping up and down ladders. And last time I was overactive, entertaining my sister and her twins on a visit. But now I'll watch it, get plenty of bed rest, and we'll come through fine, I'm sure.

Even if I don't believe it and the doctor won't promise, I'll have our baby yet!

The Council: We'd go along with brave young June here. The S.'s have a head start over childless couples who long for a baby. June becomes pregnant. Many wives don't. So the S's can rule out the problem of infertility. Their problem centres upon the vitality of the sperm and condition of the uterus which must shelter it.

The news on those themes is good. Nature is kind. When it rejects a pregnancy through miscarriage, it's usually a pregnancy that should be ended because it's not "all there." Something is usually defective, and since there's no point holding on to a hopeless, imperfect growth, Nature "evicts" it via a miscarriage.

Since June's doctor attributes her difficulties to an abnormality which he is endeavoring to correct, she and Alex shouldn't be discouraged from trying to have children. Dr. James P. Youngblood, an obstetrician at the Univ. of Michigan Medical Centre states that the "spontaneous abortion" is one of the most common complications of pregnancy, ending one out of every ten. He advises couples to wait three to six months after the miscarriage before courting a new pregnancy, in order to give the womb a time to heal.

Of course if disaster strikes again, June's doctor may then decide that there is a less common condition underlying her miscarriages, and go on a hunt for a full diagnosis of which this is but a symptom. Such conditions include severe diabetes, chronic kidney disease and tuberculosis. Always, too, is the suspicion that "emotional factors" are the culprits.

But as matters stand Alex and June are still very much in the running as natural parents. There's no real evidence to the contrary.

Surprise Party Marks 20th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Clark, North Park Street were honored at a surprise party given by a number of friends and relatives on the occasion of their 20th wedding anniversary, last Saturday evening.

A sing song with accordion accompaniment was thoroughly enjoyed by all and a numerous gifts were given entitled "Clark Dodd's Courtship."

The happy couple were called to seats of honour where the recipients of several pieces of china; also a purse of ironey.

A beautiful wedding cake was cut by the bride and bridegroom after which refreshments were served.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION: I wonder if you could suggest anything that I could add to the usual cream puff recipe to make it more flavorsome when used with egg, chicken, or lobster salad fillings? I think they would be an interesting change from the usual sandwiches served at tea parties, but I do find them insipid and tasteless, especially with the above combination . . . Maxine H.

SATURDAY

Pork Pilaf (see Friday); Rosebud Beets; Braised Celery (see Thursday); Shredded Leaf Lettuce and Endive; French Dressing; Southern Sweet Potato Pie (see Friday); Tea.

ANSWER: This is a good question. I have not done what I am about to suggest — but it is so simple it could not go far wrong. Cream puff pastry is known as choux paste. It requires boiling water as one of its ingredients, as you can see from recipe below. Why not then boiling chicken water with an herb when you plan to fill the finished puffs with a savory filling such as egg, chicken or lobster, etc.? Boil up a brew containing ½ bay leaf or some sliced onion or some celery leaves or thyme or rosemary or a chicken bouillon cube. When it has a definite taste of the flavoring you choose, strain it and use as the boiling water required in the recipe below.

CHOUX PASTE
(for CREAM PUFFS, ECLAIRS, BOUCHEES, etc.)

¼ cup butter (or ¼ cup butter and ¼ cup good quality shortening)
1 cup boiling water (flavored if desired — see above)
1 cup unsifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon salt
4 large eggs

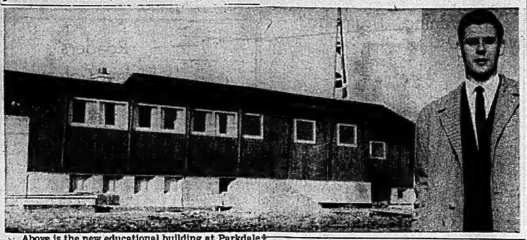
Add butter to water, bring to boil and when butter is melted, add flour all at once and stir hard until mixture is smooth and forms a mass that comes away from sides of pan. Remove from burner and add eggs one at a time, beating between additions until each egg is thoroughly blended in.

FOR CREAM PUFFS (12)

Drop mixture into 12 mounds the size of an average apple onto greased baking sheet and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes and at 275 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes longer. Do not underbake. Cool, slit at sides, fill with sweetened whipped cream or custard cream filling and dusts tops with powered sugar.

FOR CHOCOLATE ECLAIRS

Make same as CreamPuffs, but shape into long ovals. Bake as Cream Puffs. When cold, fill as Cream Puffs and frost with Chocolate Frosting.



FOR BOUCHEES (24)

Make same asCream Puffs but shape into 24 small mounds size of crabapples. Bake same as Cream Puffs but for a shorter time at 375 deg. Fahr. Note: If desired, flavor the boiling water before adding to choux paste — see above. Cut slices from tops when cold and fill with chicken or lobster or egg salad or thick cream chicken or turkey or lobster.

Parkdale Baptist Church Opens Educational Building

The new educational building of the Parkdale Baptist Church was officially opened and dedicated last Sunday, at 2:45 p.m. The dedication was carried out by Rev. R. Vandersliip, of Cobourg, with Pastor Michael Twilley of the Parkdale Church assisting.

During the ceremony and service, speakers included Rev. D. Cairns of Napanee, Archdeacon A. S. McConnell of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association; Mr. T. Delaney, representing the Bay of Quinte Baptist Fellowship; Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for Hastings West, and Mayor A. M. Haig.

Also dedicated during the day, at a previous service, was a plaque in the Parkdale Baptist Church to honor the missionaries sent forth by the church. Already the plaque has the names of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wickstrom, who will soon be working with the Wycliff Bible Translators.

Three other members of the Parkdale congregation are attending Bible School in preparation for a missionary career. Mr. Andrew Donald, missionary convener, dedicated the plaque, and stressed the importance of the missionary work.

emergency wards.

"Most of them were all right after some oxygen," said Mrs. Vera Raudoy, night chief at Hotel Dieu. "But some of the people and the poor children, were really in a miserable way."

Hotel Dieu listed these persons admitted: Lionel Sabourin, 3; John Poirier, 16; Emile Fortin, 42; Leonard Youngs, 61; Lawrence Muir, 59; Ronald, 14, and Elizabeth, 15, Gadbois; John Paquette, 42, and his four children Denise, 19, Michel, 9, Jean, 7, Irene, 11 months and Edith Gilmore, 60.

Those admitted to Cornwall General: George Peckstead, 65, who lived closest to where the tank car spilled; Fred Moore and his son James, 6; Jack Warden, 27; John Hawley, 26; William Rutley, 29; Relix Rose, 59; Mary Ellen Rose, 57; Const. Leonard Caron, 39; Morgan Arthur, 46; Mrs. Florence Hoover, 57; Ethel Roberts, 47; Pat Pessler, 31 and his son Gary, 7.

The tank car had been filled with 30 tons of liquid chlorine earlier in the week at the Canadian Industries Limited plant here which manufactures the chemical for industry. It was parked part of the day on a CPR siding awaiting movement to the E. B. Eddy Company at Hull, Que.

GAS STARTS FLOWING

Crews were preparing to unload the car when the bright green chlorine began flowing onto the track. A call brought a masked emergency crew from the Canadian Industries plant.

Workers were unable to get to the leak and when the wind picked up it started the evaporating gas drifting along the ground. Low-lying areas were hit first, then the gas began climbing towards nearby homes and an alarm was sounded.

Emergency radio bulletins ordered persons out of the area, and they began running on to the streets. Rescuers moved in to pick them up while police barricaded all streets leading into the sector, which is not heavily populated because of the railway line and some industrial ground.

Evacuated families were taken to a downtown hall and 50 persons were billeted for the night in hotels and motels. Others found accommodation with friends.

Toronto

functions than in other civic duties.

Another election of more than local interest will take place in Ottawa, where controversial Mayor Charlotte Whitton, 66, is standing for another two-year term.

Miss Whitton's major opponent is lawyer - businessman Sam Berger, 62, who narrowly lost to her in a three-way race in 1960.

The mayor is standing on her record, but Mr. Berger has been stressing civic co-operation and "peace and harmony" in his campaign. This is a reference to the constant bickering, with resultant publicity, that has stamped Ottawa's municipal politics in the last few years.

Provincially, one of the major issues this year is fluoridation of water supplies, on which plebiscites will be held in Toronto and suburbs, Ottawa, London and many smaller centres.

Windsor voters will also be asked if they favor fluoridation although their water has been fluoridated for some months.

DECIDE OTHER ISSUES

Other municipalities will hold plebiscites on such issues as Sunday movies and Sunday sport. In Kirkland Lake the question voters will answer is whether to build an old people's home.

Some municipalities, including the Lakehead cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, will not hold elections this year. Their administrations are in the middle of two-year terms.

Most elections will be held Monday, with others during the week and quite a number the following Monday, Dec. 10.

In some resort districts, such as the Muskoka and Georgian Bay areas, elections will be held today.

Toronto residents who own cottages in these areas have complained that the elections were deliberately scheduled so they would have to choose between voting and watching the Grey Cup football game.

COTTAGERS PROTEST

Several organizations representing cottage - owners have nominated candidates, charging that administrations elected by year-round residents do not concern themselves with the interests of summer residents.

At least one municipality will have two election days. In Cramford, only one aldermanic candidate was nominated in Ward Three, which should return two aldermen. Voters in this ward will choose another alderman Dec. 11—eight days after the regular elections.

In St. Catharines, Martin H. Laird, 72, is hoping to return to council after an absence of 39 years. He served as Alderman in 1923 then joined the city staff and became assessment commissioner before retiring recently.

MY PLATFORM

IF ELECTED TO THE OFFICE OF MAYOR, I WILL STRIVE TO ACCOMPLISH THE FOLLOWING:

- Bring in more Industry — this will bring relief to the Taxpayer.
- Evening meetings of Council so that the public can attend and be heard.
- A better informed public and council on all important civic matters — such as the proposed new hospital.
- Conduct your City affairs on a business basis and not for personal gain.
- Attend all council and committee meetings. My company has granted me free leave of absence to devote all my time in the interests of you the taxpayer.
- Eliminate politics from the office of mayor.
- Establish better control of planning in the outlying township areas.
- Make every effort to retain the offices and personnel of the East Central Ontario Hydro (this could be another industrial loss).

Lamb Encased in Artificial Womb Now Alive and Healthy

QUEBEC (CP) — A lamb named John Glenn gambols about an Edmonton zoo today, a cheerful sight to heart specialists who stop by.

For its continuing good health is an indication of the success of what is shaping up as a major medical advance.

Last spring, John—nicknamed after the pioneer United States astronaut — was taken prematurely from its mother's womb and immersed in fluid in a plastic ball at Edmonton's University Hospital.

A cardiac team, led by Dr. John Callaghan, 39-year-old surgeon, watched the lamb reach the point where it was able to leave the artificial womb and live. More important, it is still alive.

Dr. Callaghan, formerly of Toronto, was to describe the advanced experiment today to the Canadian Heart Foundation.

If the process works on premature babies, it may cut down significantly the infant mortality rate. Now, 25,000 premature babies die each year in the United States.

Dr. Callaghan says that within the next year, it may be known whether the apparatus can protect a premature baby for the critical 36 hours after it leaves the mother's womb.

The artificial womb consists of a plastic ball containing artificially-made amniotic acid. The umbilical cord connected to the ball carries fresh blood to the foetus from an oxygenator.

The oxygenator itself holds out hope for severely-ill heart patients. Present oxygenators can only supply blood for four hours. Dr. Callaghan's machine has kept the lambs alive up to 9 hours.

Dr. Callaghan also has written a paper on his success in placing artificial valves in the hearts of three of four patients in Edmonton. One of the men, so disabled he hadn't tended his farm in two years, this fall harvested his grain crop after a spring operation.

The patients were next to dead when Dr. Callaghan cut out a calcified mitral valve and replaced it with an artificial valve that looks like a tiny space craft in x-rays.

With Red-Nosed

bands and horses, went to make up the parade.

An estimated ten thousand people, including youngsters of all ages, lined the parade route from No. 2 Firehall and down Front Street long before the parade got underway at 10 o'clock.

FINE WEATHER

And for once Old Man Weather was entirely co-operative. Balmy weather for November was the order of the day and fur coats and scarf-bundled kiddies were relatively scarce among the spectators.

And in keeping with the temperature, the scantily-clad majorettes had ideal conditions in which to strut their best.

Among the bands taking part in the parade were the RCAF Transport Band, the Bowmanville Pipe Band, the Colborne Boys' Band, Kingston Grenadiers Band, the AN and AF Pipe Band, the Quinte Secondary School Band, the 598 Sabre Squadron RCAF Band, the Cobourg Legion Band, the R.C.S.C.C. Skeena Drum Corps Band and the Hasty Pees Band from Belleville.

Many of the 32 floats in the parade emphasized Christmas or fairyland theme while others planned in lighter vein left room for doubt as to what they did actually represent.

Naturally it was Old Santa Claus himself and his eight tiny reindeer that attracted most of the attention, but long before St. Nicholas hove into sight there was plenty to attract the youngsters, such as the marching bands, prancing drum majorettes and clowns handing out candies and other goodies to expectant kiddies.

FIRE CHIEF LEADS

Heading off the parade was the bright red fire chief's car, color party, horseback riders and the RCAF Transport Band followed by the Nativity float symbolizing that first Christmas nearly two thousand years ago.

Among the walking personnel taking part were Indian girls and maidens, Arabian knights, marchers in colorful colonial costume and walkers in the native dress of Far Eastern lands, along with cowboys and cowgirls and clowns galore.

Prancing majorette groups from all over the Bay of Quinte district added sparkle to the show. Included were the Colborne Majorettes, Dorothy Dickey Majorettes, Brenda Archer Majorettes, Quinte Secondary School Majorettes and the Picton Majorettes.

The fairyland theme was followed through with Old King Cole and his merry fiddlers, the Man in the Moon, the Snow Queen herself, Sleeping Beauty and the Three Blind Mice.

Citizens of the Northland were represented in a colorful and particularly appropriate float, while the history of transportation was depicted by The Vikings and their high-prowed water craft. And the modern day link trainer in which fledgling pilots try out their wings, was representative of the jet-powered age.

House leader.

Mr. Argue had paid tribute to the late Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, former Liberal agriculture minister.

Mr. Woolliams quoted Mr. Argue as sharply criticizing "the Jimmy Gardiner political machine."

Mr. Woolliams added: "I say to the House and to the press of Canada: Do not take this man too seriously."

WORD FOR EAST

Russell C. Honey (L—Durham) said the government's attitude is that agriculture east of the Great Lakes is unimportant. How could the Conservatives continue to claim national status when they relied so heavily on the Prairies for support?

He said the government had threatened to "cut the supports from under" dairy farmers in the East.

A suggested shift to beef cattle from dairy farming was impractical because it would demand twice as many animals and twice as much land in order to create the same income as they have at present.

Mr. Honey said better solutions would be to promote exports of cheese to Britain and, if need be, give skim milk powder to needy nations. He also suggested a program to provide milk to school children and a promotion drive to increase milk consumption.

FAMILY UNIT BEEF

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said his party is opposed to collective farmers, whether of the type found in Russia or of the type created in Canada by large corporations. The family farm unit still was the best producer.

Gordon Chaplin (PC—Waterloo South) suggested that Canada's wheat market in China is "potentially precarious" and should be continued on a cash basis only.

He said he is certain Mr. Hamilton is aware of the dangers of having "too much wheat in the Red China basket." It would be preferable to have a dozen smaller markets of a permanent nature than the Chinese "windfall business."

Small Canadian Motor Vessel Is Rescued

ST. SIMONS Island, Ga. (AP) The U.S. Coast Guard used sirens, a public address system and fixes by radio direction finders Friday night to rescue a small Canadian motor vessel lost in the stormy Atlantic.

The Canadian-flag motor vessel Cyrnil, a 43-foot ship believed to be a pleasure yacht, was found about 12 miles east of Cumberland Island, which is about 20 miles south of St. Simons Island.

The craft docked here Friday night and the owner and captain identified himself as Bob T. Hayward of Toronto. He told the coast guard he left Halifax Oct. 27 bound for Miami and the Caribbean on the motor cruiser.

With him were Jack Grant and Finn Sandsta of Scheffer ville, Que., and Dave Berry, Longdale, Calif.

The captain radioed at 4 p.m. he was lost, unable to see anything, and fearful of running ashore because his depthfinder showed only 10 feet of water.

Coast guardsmen used coastal charts of water depths to figure out where the Cyrnil might be, and sent a 40-foot cutter with instructions to sound a siren every minute and another smaller cutter with a public address system which can be heard for miles downwind at sea.

With the added help of radio-direction finders from shore and what a coast guardsman described as pure luck a rendezvous was reached at dark, with waves reported about 12 feet high and heavy rain obscuring sight.

—Guaranteed jobs after the hockey season

—Medical expenses

—Money paid to other than hockey players

—Income tax payments

WHY HAS COUNCIL NEVER BEEN ASKED TO APPROVE THE PAYMENT OF ONLY THE SALARIES?

SEWAGE DISPOSAL PLANT

—Our present mayor was insistent that we allow the contractor to increase the contract price by $15,000.00. Was there a reason?

—The present mayor was not responsible for starting the Sewage disposal system. We all know that it was forced upon the city by the Ontario Water Resources Commission under threat of penalty.

—The levels through South Foster Ward are set so high that the local residents cannot connect to them and must continue to use other facilities.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

Have you ever seen a hawthorn bush in winter bearing impaled mice and English sparrows instead of the customary fruit of summer? This is some shrike's pantry.

In Birdland as in all the lower animal world the majority of predators kill for food. Shrikes are exceptions. It may be argued that they also kill for food, which is quite true; but they, like so many of our sportsmen, kill far more than they can possibly eat.

Shrikes differ from the ordinary bird predators in more ways than that. They look very unlike hawks and owls, and are equipped for the job in quite a different way. Their feet are comparatively weak and useless as weapons; their beaks are hooked, strong, and cruel for the work of dispatching the pest (generally a mouse or grasshopper) and carrying it to a store-house ready for a time of need. But their eyes must be bigger than their stomachs, because the pantry always seems to be full.

Because of the habit of impaling the catch on thorns (or the barbs of wire fences) the shrike has been dubbed "butcher-bird". The hook not only serves as a place to hang and store food but holds it firmly in position while the beak tears it apart for eating — something the weak feet cannot do.

Perhaps you have not heard that as in the case of hawks and owls the indigestible part of the shrike's prey is neatly rolled into a compact pellet in the bird's stomach and disgorged. When a pellet is picked up and cut open we can tell if the victim was a mouse by the hair and bones.

There are two species of shrikes found in Canada. Both are pale grey with a black streak, like a mask, running through the eye, and black wings and tail with white patches. The Northern shrike, only a trifle larger than a robin, is an erratic wanderer breeding as far north as Ungava in the east and Alaska in the west and as far down as our southern border. In winter it may wander as far as the Gulf of Mexico. This is when we sometimes come upon its store-house.

The loggerhead, an inch shorter, does not nest as far north, but its breeding ground, reaching from New Brunswick to the Pacific coast, are in settled Canada and the United States. Those that spend the summer with us usually leave in the cold weather.

Confirmed Secretary-General Honors Work of Hammarskjold

For observers at the United Nations it is interesting how Burma's U Thant, the newly confirmed secretary - general, honors the example of Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden.

In the nature of things, Thant would say nice things about his predecessor. But the fact is he seems to look for opportunities not only to refer to the work of Hammarskjold, who was killed while on a peace mission to the Congo, but to quote his words.

In a world of conflict Thant apparently wants to get it across that he, as an Asian, has precisely the same ambitions for the United Nations as did Hammarskjold, product of European culture.

QUOTED DAG

When Thant made his brief speech to the UN General Assembly Friday accepting his election as secretary - general, he declared:

"On this occasion, I would recall the words of my distinguished predecessor on his re-election to a second term. He said, and I quote, 'nobody, I think, can accept the position of secretary - general of the United Nations, knowing what it means, except from a sense of duty.'

"He had over four years experience in that office when he made that statement. My experience has been shorter, but I believe that I do know what that office means, and I accept my extended mandate with humility and out of a sense of duty."

The impression was that neither Hammarskjold nor Thant considered the job exactly a snap but felt they had no right to refuse the opportunity presented at what is known locally as the "glass house on the East River" in New York.

CONTRASTING TYPES

Yet the way they approached things is a study in contrasts.

Hammarskjold had a habit of striding through the UN headquarters, accompanied by a bodyguard or two, in a way that let people know that the secretary-general was present.

Thant seems to arrive in the General Assembly or elsewhere in unobtrusive fashion. Sometimes he looks a bit rumpled compared with the impeccable appearance of the bachelor Hammarskjold.

Hammarskjold, an extremely erudite person, delivered statements to correspondents that were classics in caution—some would even say double - talk. Thant speaks much more frankly, almost bluntly, and will talk to reporters on the "this is how I feel, 1-2-3" basis.

LIMPS TO PORT

BOSTON (AP)—The 335-foot German motor ship Erwin Schroeder, listing because of a cargo shift, limped toward port at eight knots today. Improving weather appeared to have ended the danger of capsizing.

Policemen Will Be Allowed to Exceed Limit

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government ended the first week of the current legislature session by introducing a bill on agricultural rehabilitation and development.

Agriculture Minister Stewart told the House Friday the bill is designed to bring Ontario legislation in line with federal legislation and allow federal-provincial negotiations on joint projects for more effective land use, improvement of living standards and soil and water conservation.

The bill, given first reading Friday, provides for the creation of an agricultural rehabilitation and development branch in the agriculture department.

A directorate of three or more members would be given the power to borrow money and issue securities to finance its operations.

AMEND HIGHWAY ACT

Amendments to the Highway Traffic Act also were introduced, including a provision that would allow policemen to exceed the speed limit while driving in performance of their duties. Only fire department vehicles are exempted from speed limits under present legislation.

Another amendment introduced by Transport Minister Auld would provide a distinct law under which motorists could be convicted of driving too slowly in other than the right lane on multi-lane highways.

Mr. Auld said the amendment would provide a fine of from $5 to $50 for first offences and of up to $200 for third and subsequent offences. It has not yet been decided whether a conviction would mean a loss of points under the demerit system.

Other proposed amendments would; Extend the maximum length of commercial vehicles from 50 to 60 feet, permit agricultural vehicles to have rear vision mirrors extending beyond the width of the vehicle and require that in such cases the front clearance light be affixed to the mirror.

Debate on the throne speech read at the opening of the session Tuesday, is expected to begin next week.

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's first high commissioners to the newly independent Islands of Jamaica and to Trinidad and Tobago were named here Friday. E. H. Gilmour, 50, now serving in the Canadian embassy in Brussels, has been appointed high commissioner to Trinidad and Tobago. Graham Campbell McInnes, 50, with the high commissioner's office in London, has been appointed high commissioner to Jamaica.

Culmination of a Dream

Bridge St. Church to Dedicate Education Building

On Sunday at 3.00 p.m. Bridge Street United Church will witness the culmination of a dream conceived at least two decades ago. For many years some people of this church, with little thought for what it might mean to them, envisioned modern facilities that would be adequate for a program of Christian training for youth, and be a heritage into which generations of children and young people for years to come would enter.

On June 25, 1950, a planning committee, with T. E. Franklin as chairman and Wm. T. Simpson as secretary, was appointed by the official board of the church to study the future needs of Bridge Street Church in order that it might be able to provide better facilities for the families that now and in the future may look to it for leadership. Property surveys were made and visits to other churches where similar problems had been met; a questionnaire to all the groups and organizations in the Church surveyed the present position and the most clamant needs.

On May 10th, 1960, after engaging and consulting with Architect John Layng of Toronto, the committee presented its first report and recommendations to the official board, among which was the proposition of erecting a new extension on the existing building which would house many additional classrooms, a large assembly hall, a modern church parlor and kitchen and a chapel.

On October 6th, 1960, the plan for a new building was approved in general. On November 10th, 1960 a plan of finance was approved. On January 11th, 1961, the plan as presented was accepted by the official board and the architect was instructed to proceed with working drawings.

A campaign to raise $191,000 was directed by E. G. Garrett. Of this sum $170,000 would be used for the new extension and $21,000 for the interior renovation of the existing Sanctuary. A finance committee, under the chairmanship of A. S. Robb, continued the work of financing the project. Mr. W. J. Morrison and Douglas Burr have been the chairmen of the building committee.

Mr. John Layng of Toronto was the architect and the H. J. MacFarland Construction Co Ltd. was the contractor.

LARGE ASSEMBLY HALL

The church is now equipped with 10,000 additional square feet of space for Sunday School and through-the-week Christian Education programs. It has a large new assembly hall that can be used for Sunday School and other public assemblies and for a gymnasium. The hall is equipped with a new public address system linking it vocally with other church assembly rooms. The classrooms are large and small to meet the needs of varying sizes of classes. In addition the second storey of the new wing has ladies' and men's choir rooms and an office for the director of Christian Education.

On the first floor is a crib room for infants of three weeks to two years and a nursery room for children from two to four years. The nursery is cared for by competent young mothers and the crib room is superintended by a registered nurse at all times. These two rooms operate during the 11 o'clock Sunday worship, which incidentally, will be piped to those rooms, if desired, by means of a public address system. The church is equipped now to take care of all children from three weeks to about years during the 11 o'clock morning worship each Sunday, thus making it possible for young parents to attend divine worship.

The chapel is a beautiful, restful place for worship, accommodating a congregation of 70 and a choir of 20. It has a rich-toned Allen Organ and a Mason and Risch piano. The chapel is also adorned with a beautiful memorial three-paneled stained-glass art window, whose dominating subject is the nimbus Dove — a symbol of the Holy Spirit, beneath which is the Triquetra, symbol of the Holy Trinity.

There are other symbols with religious meaning also in the glass. The whole window is beautifully constructed in reds, off whites, ambers and golds so that the interior is warm on the most dismal day. The glass for the window was imported from France. Some of the ideas embodied in it were planned by Rev. Harry Davis, the minister of the church, while others were conceived by the artist, Mr. Angus Macdonald, who is a native of Ontario and whose work can be seen in all of the windows of the Anglican Cathedral at Sault Ste. Marie — a project which took Mr. Macdonald six years to complete.

WORK OF MODERN ART

The baptismal font in the chapel is a work of modern art and is made from dolomite and mounted on gray granite.

The chapel is planned for worship conducted by and for teenagers and young people before Sunday Bible Classes, for evening worship, marriage ceremonies with a small number of guests, afternoon Sacrament of infant baptism, and worship services for adult groups. The chapel will be open also during the day for private meditation.

The new building is also equipped with a modernly planned kitchen, having all the latest layouts for efficient catering. On the first floor also the church parlor is furnished with wall-to-wall carpet, upholstered furniture and a modern kitchenette.

The dedication service will be conducted by the president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church, the Rev. Principal Elias Andrews, of Queen's Theological College, assisted by the Rev. Alexander McDowell, chairman of Belleville Presbytery, the Rev. Harry M. Davis, the minister and the Rev. Alfred Poulter, the pastoral assistant. The Rev. Donald C. Amos, who was minister of Bridge Street Church 1945 - 1950, will be the visiting speaker Sunday.

Under the leadership of the director of Christian education of Bridge Street Church, from 7.00 p.m. to 9.00 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, the church will conduct open house to which the members of the church and the public in general are invited to come and make a tour of the building. Displays and demonstrations have been arranged by the various groups and organizations of the church, illustrating their aims and work.

Pete Robertson Was Asleep In Caboose When Call Came

OTTAWA (CP)—Pete Robertson, a railway worker like his father before him, was asleep in his freight train caboose on a siding in northwestern Ontario when he was awakened to take an urgent long-distance telephone call.

It was at 8 a.m. on Nov. 22, and his first thought was of trouble at his home in Kenora. Why else would anyone call him at Ignace, 146 miles east of Kenora on the CPR main line?

But the call wasn't from Kenora. It was Prime Minister Diefenbaker calling from Ottawa, offering him a $10,000-a-year appointment as a senator.

After hearing a sigh of relief that there was nothing wrong at home in Kenora—where he has a wife and three children, aged 8 to 12 years—his first act was to borrow a typewriter to write his acceptance and thanks.

He signed the letter "J. A. Pete Robertson," and that's probably how he will be known as a senator. The recommendation that he be summoned to the Senate was approved Friday by Governor-General Vanier on Mr. Diefenbaker's recommendation.

SPENT LIFE ON RAILS

If Mr. Diefenbaker wanted a working railroader in the Upper House, he found him in Senator Robertson.

Now 49, he was born into the railway life in Medicine Hat, Alta., where his father worked for the CPR.

The Robertson family moved two years later to Ignace, and then to Kenor, where, fresh out of school, young Pete began to work in a grocery store and became its manager.

It was then, even before he was old enough to vote, that he became active in the Conservative party, an admirer of the then prime minister, the late R. B. Bennett.

He joined the CPR as a trainman in September, 1939, and then went into the army. After the war, he rose to the rank of conductor and worked out of Saint John, N.B., Toronto, and Fort William. In 1941 he was married to Roberta Hoach of Fort William.

Senator Robertson now is a conductor on the Kenora-Ignace run in unassigned pool freight service. He has been a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen (CLC) since 1941 and is a past president of Local 270 of the brotherhood in Kenora.

His appointment to the Upper House brings Conservative membership to 33. There are 59 Liberals, two independents, one independent-Liberal, and seven vacancies in the 102-seat chamber.

A cup of tea will be served by the United church women. On Thursday evening the C.G.I.T., Scouts, Hi-C and Young People's Union will join together in a dedication of Life Service in the new chapel. One of our youth leaders, Mr. Glenn Shaver, will speak to the group.

Police Ordered To Return Money By the Court

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice A. Landreville Friday ordered Metro Police Chief James Mackey and Sergeant of Detectives W. G. Pilkington to return $3,150 to Benjamin Leitman taken from him when he was arrested on four charges concerning betting.

Leitman appeared July 28 before Magistrate F. W. Bartrem who refused to make an order to release the money. Mr. Bartrem refused another application Sept. 13, Mr. Justice Landreville said.

Mr. Justice E. A. Richardson then dismissed an application against the municipality of Metropolitan Toronto and a further application against Metro police officers was also refused.

The senior master of Osgoode Hall also threw out a motion seeking to restore the money.

A confederacy power such as the police exercised while criminal proceedings were pending "would ipso facto revert us to the laws of the 15th century, when all chattels and properties of an accused person could be seized on his arrest for any crime," his lordship said.

"However strained this example may be, the principle involved is nonetheless a real one."

CBC and CTV On Verge of Signing Pact

OTTAWA (CP)—The publicly-owned CBC and the private CTV television network are reported to be on the verge of signing a long-term co-operative agreement on the televising of Canadian Football League games.

When asked for comment Friday night, R. C. Fraser, the CBC's vice-president for corporate affairs, said only: "We are hopeful that a firm announcement can be made in the latter part of next week."

Spencer Caldwell, CTV president, and John Bassett, president of CFTO-TV Toronto, the CTV network station which this week outbid the CBC for the 1963-64 television rights to the eastern Big Four's games, are expected to confer in Ottawa next Thursday or Friday with top CBC officials.

The long-term agreement, informants said, would cover both the Eastern and Western Football Conferences, their regular season and playoff games and the Grey Cup game. They suggested it would be for a term of at least five years.

Your Car

Extra Care Necessary On Icy Roads

By Eugene B. Millmoe

A highway patrolman once told us that a special operator's license should be required for winter driving. The idea doesn't seem so illogical if you observe the amateurish handling of some cars when ice or snow makes roads especially treacherous.

Skidding is the big hazard, of course. Sensible driving practices are needed, no matter how good you are behind the wheel. Keep these guides in mind when roads are icy: The faster you drive, the easier it is to go into a skid, and the harder to get out of it; avoid sharp cornering and cutting from one lane to another; don't swerve quickly to avoid small potholes, bumps or other minor obstructions, just for comfort sake, if the car goes into a skid, don't hit the brakes . . . get your foot off the gas pedal, steer in the direction of the skid and let the engine gradually brake car speed; stay alert, ready to act if another car starts skidding toward you. Respect the dangers involved in winter driving and you're less likely to end up in the ditch.

From C.W.: "If rear tires show abnormal wear, would you suspect a bent frame or axle?"

(A) Yes — if excessive wear on one tire edge is evident.

D.N. writes: "We bought our first small car for economy purposes, but tire wear has been worse than any other car we've owned. Do they put a lesser quality tire on smaller cars to hold down costs?"

(A) No. Small tires wear faster since they must rotate more per mile.

H.P. asked: "Since ignition locks do not prevent car thefts why not have a lock which stops gas feed by preventing throttle linkage movement?"

(A) There is a type of lock designed for mounting on the fuel line, which shuts off gas flow to the carburetor.

From L.O.: "If I jam on my brakes at 30 mph or more, the front end of my car dips. Does this mean one or both shock absorbers are weak?"

(A) Front end dip is normal with hard braking. However, if there's a definite bouncing action before the front levels, failing shocks are indicated.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAdam and Miss Betty McAdam were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burkitt, Bonarlaw.

Parliamentary Notebook

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP) — Headline-making and little-known Conservative party figures alike converged on Ottawa this week and the government was busy trying to convince reporters there was no special significance attached to their travels.

Heading the list was Hon. George Drew, former national leader of the party and now Canadian high commissioner to London.

Reports from London indicated he left in haste. When he arrived Wednesday night, he said his visit was just routine.

He spent Thursday and Friday in the East Block conferring with external affairs department officers and in the Centre Block meeting old parliamentary friends.

When word of his supposedly sudden departure from London spread around the Parliament buildings, there were rumors ranging from his simple retirement from the post at Canada House, to stories he was to be Canada's next governor-general.

SURPRISE, DREW

The reports caught Mr. Drew by surprise on his arrival. He makes one of three trips a year to Ottawa for consultations on diplomatic matters, and the current one was just another such trip, he said.

Several former Conservative MPs from Ontario also arrived in Ottawa this week.

John B. Hamilton, former member for York West, a lawyer with wide connections in the aircraft and airline industries, looked in on the Commons committee examining Trans-Canada Air Lines' annual report.

The same was true of John Pallett, former MP for peel who in the last Parliament was Conservative party whip and Parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, dropped in.

Quinto Martini, former MP for Hamilton East, followed Mr. Pallett in and out of Mr. Diefenbaker's office—just, they said, to shake hands and wish him well.

Many Attend Laymen's Third Church Service

RAWDON — On Sunday morning November 25th Rawdon United circuit observed their third laymen's Sunday under the direction of the A.O.T.S. Men's Club. Over 100 adults from the three appointments of Mount Pleasant, Wellmans and Bethel gathered at Mount Pleasant for the special service.

Mrs. Craig Watson officiated at the console of the organ and Mr. Hugh Lyons conducted the service which opened with one of Fanny Crosby's gospel hymns "In the Cross". The Bible lessons were read by Craig Watson and Orno Sharp. The men's choir rendered, "How Great Thou Art". The pastor the Rev. W. G. Fletcher assisted with the service and spoke briefly re the A.O.T.S. roundup held in Belleville.

Don R. Williams of Stirling was the guest speaker. He was a delegate to the general council and gave a resume of the ten-day session when 200 ministers and 200 laymen were in attendance.

One of the themes centred on, "the church exists for the people who live in the world". The congregational hymns included "Gude Me O Thou Great Jehovah."

There were 26 members of Rawdon circuit AOTS Men's Club who attended the Belleville Presbytery roundup and banquet at Holloway Street United Church, Belleville on Saturday and the men's rally that evening. The Rev. W. G. Fletcher and president Hugh Lyons were in the group. There are 17 Men's Clubs in the Presbytery.

The men's rally in the evening was open to all of the 53 charges of the Presbytery and a large number were represented, with 400 men in attendance.

Don Williams led the singsong and Phil Spence of the Board of Men of Toronto was one of the speakers. He is the organizer of Men's AOTS Clubs. As item of special interest was that in this modern age Mr. Spence had spoken in Winnipeg, Manitoba, only four hours previous. He travelled by jet plane to Malton Airport and thence to Belleville by car, to give his address in that city.

'Shrewd Old Man Jones,' Will Good for Another 20 Years

By THOMAS COLLINS

Old Man John Jones was a shrewd fellow. Everybody knew that. When he retired from the bank he had all his money in farms, and with his retirement he turned his whole attention to managing them.

He had a proper little wife, who was his same age of 66, and four married children ranging in age from 36 to 44. There were those who said his farms were worth $100,000.

His world was in good order.

But Old Man Jones got to age 69, then three months beyond it, and when he died.

Old Man Jim Smith had been his lawyer all these many years, and when the funeral and the weeping were respectfully disposed of, Mr. Smith read the will he had helped Mr. Jones prepare.

Mr. Jones allowed, according to the will, that the farms had been good to him and Mrs. Jones and that they would be good to the four children. Whereas, Mr. Jones decreed that the farms would be kept intact, that the income from them would go to Mrs. Jones until she died. Thereafter the four children would be equal owners and would equally share the income.

EVERYTHING SET

Since the farms were found to be worth about $130,000 instead of the reputed $100,000, and had been netting between 4 and 5 per cent, this meant that each child woud get about $1300 a year. Since there was enough other property to take care of taxes and leave the farms intact, everything was set.

Mr. Jones, his will said, thought this was nice.

But it was in 1957 that Mr. Jones died, and in 1958 that his wife followed him. At that time six of the Jones grandchildren had grown up and married, and of the six one had had the marriage annulled, a second was suing for divorce, and a third was back home with mother and pouting.

Nine more grandchildren were in various stages of growing up.

Then came 1960. A Jones daughter, with five children of her own, died of cancer. Whereupon five grandchildren became fractional owners of those farms. A Jones son, returning from the funeral, was killed in an automobile accident along with his wife . . . and four more grandchildren got into the pie. With divorces and annulments yet. And some of them living in community property states.

No . . . I don't know how it'll come out. But if I am still writing this column in 20 years, and you're still reading it, I'll make a check of the courts and see how things are going.

FOR THE CHILDREN

Dear Old Mrs. Emiline Brown, like her deceased husband William, wanted so much to leave things to the children. And in the eight years she lived as a widow before joining her William, she skimped more and more in order that their three children would have more and more.

She remained on in her $11,000 frame house in a neighborhood that had gone to seed. She held to her 1953 two-door sedan until 1960, then sold it because it used gas. She didn't mind a coal furnace, and she didn't mind feeding it herself.

The dear children should inherit everything possible. When they protested that she was living too frugally she protested she wanted to do it for them.

She took vacations now and then at a place called Poplar Mountain 38 miles away, always with a widow friend and always on a budget of $65. She wouldn't buy a television set because she thought the money should be kept for the children. She didn't eat much. And mostly vegetables.

When the estate was finally settled each of the three children got $6,300. One, living in New York, took a jet vacation to Europe with his wife for $5,200 of his. Another, living in Memphis, added air conditioning and a playroom to his house and used all the $6,300. The third bought a fled convertible and applied the rest of the $6,300 on the mortgage of his $34,000 house.

The dollars of one generation become the petty cash of the next. The sacrifices of one buy the luxuries of the next.

Kenora Man Named to Senate

OTTAWA (CP) — Appointment of John Alexander Hoey son of Kenora, Ont., to the Senate of Canada was made public Friday by the Senate clerk's office.

Mr. Robertson, 49-year-old Canadian Pacific Railway conductor and former union local president in Kenora, brings Conservative membership in the upper house to 33.

There are 59 Liberal senators, two independents, one independent Liberal, and seven vacancies in the 102-seat house.

FIND BOMB

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — A road grader working on a new highway uncovered a 250-pound aerial bomb of a type used during the Second World War. An air force spokesman at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa said the bomb was found Thursday on Mullet Key, a small island at the mouth of Tampa Bay which was used as a bombing range during the war.

Henry invites letters from readers. For the most interesting letter he receives each week, he will award a copy of his best-selling book, "Ask Henry," published by Prentice-Hall, Inc.

This week's winner is Miss Valerie Pulker, Box 33, Almonte, Ontario.

Dear Henry—My daughter Lisa gets up in the middle of the night and insists on coming into my bed. If I don't let her she cries and disturbs the whole house. If I do, she falls asleep immediately. How would you get her out of this habit?—Jean C.

Dear Mrs. Jean C.—One night of every week should be allowed for getting up in the middle of the night and going into mom's bed. For the other six nights she will sleep happily in her own bed. On the night she can go a roving, you have an 86 percent chance she will sleep through it. That also gives you an 86 percent chance sleeping through it. — HENRY.

Dear Henry — I like a girl and would like to know if she likes me. I would not want her to know that I was trying to find out if she liked me. If there is a way could you tell me! —Asking A Way.

Dear Asking—In this modern day and age one will find Ropp-Ropp-Raises, Nopp-Nopp-Raises and Popp-Popp-Raises. But nothing so simple as a DOESSHELOVEME-AND-DOESSHEKNOWIWANTTOKNOWIFSHELOVESME-RATOR.

So boiling it down, you try your own best Raise.—HENRY.

Dear Henry — I am having a problem with the boy who sits in front of me. He keeps making silly noises and disturbs the class. I tell him to pipe down and he tells me to shut up.

Also, he scribbles the name of the boy I like over everything I own. He jiggles my desk so I tell him to stop and he does it all the more.

I don't like this boy but I think he likes me, and I don't want to change seats because of my friends around me. What should I do?—Valerie.

Dear Valerie — I think he is acting crazy because he is crazy about you. You pipe down for about a week, that means ignore him, and he will struggle to keep it up. Then put out the fire by telling him that you would like him much more if he would be have a little nicer.

Use these exact words, only a boy can tell you why. And how the hero of our story reacts depends altogether on how serious you are when talking to him. If the Great Expectations work out, I predict a "little gentleman" in front of you.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I don't see why we have to get dressed up to go to school. I don't see why we don't just go to school in jeans so we can come home and just start playing baseball. Then do my homework later.

I'd like to know what you think about it.—Ben.

Dear Ben — If you went to school in messy clothes, it would be very unhealthy. Well, you walk around all messy at home, and you would be all messy at school . . . I'm afraid you would begin to think all messy.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—I would like to know why we have to go to school. Will you please give me a very good answer — KEVIN.

Dear Kevin—You have to think of it this way: You go to school for the same reason you eat food each day.—HENRY.

Dear Henry—What would you do to stop fighting between brother and sister.—LOIS.

Dear Lois—You don't mainly because you can't—HENRY.

Change of the Seasons Has a Certain Majesty -- Especially in Winter

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — The change of any season has its landmarks of majesty.

They affect all things. Here are some ways you can tell when winter's here:

Frost covers the window, and little girls and boys decorate in its tender their fingered ideas of adventure: "I love Orville, but Ronald is a skunk."

The grass needs no cutting and is crisp underfoot.

The big family question becomes: "Is the pond frozen over enough to ice skate on?" The children say, "yes." The parents say, "well, if it stays below freezing one more day—then, well, maybe."

TIRES FRAIRED

The advantages of using snow tires are widely presented in ads.

There are three viewpoints about the weather: (1) Winters are getting colder, (2) winters are getting warmer, and (3) the atomic bomb is responsible for the difference, good or bad.

Weather becomes increasingly the major topic of conversation. Learned discussions and arguments ensue. The observed breadth of a caterpillar's belly and the predictions of a rural almanac vie for significance.

The sky in winter flies many flags of presence: The hovering hawk whose wings many-finger each breeze, the owl that roams the night in feathered fierceness, the crow that knows about everybody in the forest and is willing to tell, and the cardinal who is as visible upon a barren tree as a heart with voice caught upon a thorn.

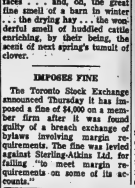
REJECTS CAR

Yes, and you can also tell when winter is here when:

A son doesn't want to borrow a car because he'd have to shovel out two feet of snow in the driveway to make an exit.

If you live in an apartment, the heat doesn't come on until 6 a.m.

Yep, and down on the farm it's no trouble at all to tell when winter is there.



The animals stalgo in their shelters and push wet muzzles to sniff the cold air outside . . . They have such grave sweet faces . . . and, oh, the great fine smell of a barn in winter . . . the drying hay . . . the wonderful smell of huddled cattle enriching, by their being, the scent of next spring's tumult of clover.

IMPOSES FINE

The Toronto Stock Exchange announced Thursday it has imposed a fine of $4,000 on a member firm after it was found guilty of a breach exchange of bylaws involving margin requirements. The fine was levied against Sterling-Atkins Ltd. for failing "to meet margin requirements on some of its accounts."

My Experience

- Five Years as an active Alderman for Belleville.
- Chairman of the Traffic and Light Committee for past year.
- This year as Chairman and five years as member of the Industrial Commission.
- Served on Public Works and Parks Board.
- Member of Bus and Transportation Committees.
- Member of the Tourist Committee for the Chamber of Commerce.
- Chairman of the Y.M.C.A. Board for two years.
- Many years of experience in the Retail Business Field.

What I Have Done!

- As Chairman of the Traffic and Light Committee, approved the DeLeuw, Cather & Co. report and presented it to Council for adoption and final passing. This resulted in many traffic improvements in Belleville. For Example:
- New downtown parking lots on the way.
- Recommendation for the North Front Street Bridge to start in the immediate future.
- A five-year re-lighting program now at the half-way stage.
- Pre-engineering studies going forward on the Dundas Street bridge and arteries. Could be a reality in 1964.
- As a member of the Industrial Commission I have promoted Belleville. We purchased 50 acres of land on highway 401 for industrial sites . . . contacted many prospective tenants. Prospects are progressing favorably.
- All these plus many more accomplishments.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A lot of you won't read this until the Hamilton Tigers have gorged themselves with raw Blue Bomber meat or the Red River Rockaways have topped the experts predictions back in their gullets, but if it does happen don't say you were not told.

In case you've sneaked out from the glare of the magic lantern to grab a quick cold one in the kitchen—and happen to snatch a glimpse in the paper, you may be in position to call one or two important shots.

From the consistent mush diet of Tiger-Cat victory predictions comes a refreshing departure in the form of a Bomber sooth-saying that crystal-balls a 24-23 victory for the Peggers.

Says Jackie—Note to Hamilton Tigers: Beware the 13th man!

"He's been around a long time with Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Call him the Good Lord, Lady Luck or what you will, they first found him against my team in 1957 and he's been a 60-minute man most of the time since.

"I'm betting he'll stay around to see the Bombers through another Grey Cup.

"Sure I know Winnipeg are crying all over the lot with injuries. No I don't doubt it's justified. But I'm betting also they are all there Saturday, including the 13th man.

"Some people are calling it the battle of the also rans, but I can't buy that. The football does take funny bounces but the numbers on the scoreboard are the only thing that count.

"Both Winnipeg and Hamilton will go with a well-balanced passing-running attack and frightening defensive play.

"Charlie Shepard ought to give Winnipeg a big edge in punting over Joe Zuger, and that could spell the difference.

"A lot of people overlooked it, but that's really the reason Winnipeg are here. It was Shepard's 75-yard punt in the last three minutes which put Calgary in the hole where the 13th man could work most effectively.

"That made it easy for Jerry James to boot one into the end zone, but just to make sure, the 13th man got the ball partially blocked. Just partially, mind you, to make it impossible for Harvey Wylie to get it out. Only Bombers could have got that touchdown out of a play like that, which is exactly the reason they'll beat Tiger-Cats 24-23 today.

"And if there's any doubt about that 13th man, they'll also have 30 of the best football players in Canada out there."

And if I'm forced to go back to my regular post-sports spectacular banquet of crow, my style, I'll wash it down with a beaker of effervescent tap-water (unfluorated and drink a toast to that grand little swim-gal, Mary Stewart.

For our Mary flashed to a brilliant victory at Perth, Australia, yesterday, bringing home her first gold medal and Canada's fourth in a sensational effort.

She now ranks with the Kidds, Pounds in Canada's gold medal parade. She has ranked for quite a while as Canada's best in her class and now she takes her place at the head of Empire, swimmers. And she has yet to place 17 candles on her birthday cake. How about that?

Hawks Whip Flyers

Baby Habs Nip Royals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Montreal junior Canadiens put a claim on first place in the see-saw Ontario Hockey Association Junior A group Friday night by rapping the last-place Guelph Royals 5-4 at Guelph. The win moved the Habs one point ahead of the idle Peterborough Petes.

St. Catharines Black Hawks spoiled Niagara Falls Flyers' chance to move into a second place tie with the Petes by winning 5-2 at Niagara Falls in the night's only other game.

Two lines accounted for all the scoring at Guelph. Yvan Cournoyer and Bill Inglis had two each for Canadiens and Garmen Gagnon on the same line counted once.

Billy Taylor counted twice for Royals and linemates Trevor Fahey and Gary Sabourin, one each.

In Metro Toronto Junior A action Toronto Marlboros defeated Toronto Knob Hill 4-2 and Oshawa Generals edged Whitby Dunlops 3-2 in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

BRUINS SUMMON LEITER

TORONTO (CP)—Coach Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins announced Friday night that centre Bobby Leiter will join the club, a distant last in the National Hockey League, for its game against Toronto Maple Leafs tonight.

Leiter, 21, has led the Eastern Professional Hockey League scorers with Kingston Frontenacs most of this season. He received a pre-season tryout with the Bruins before being sent to Kingston and the club called him its best prospect.

Defenceman Ed Westfall of the Frontenacs will join Boston either during the weekend or early next week, Schmidt said. He will not play against Leafs.

Desperate Boston Calls Team Help

By BILL MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A stocky young centre who last year had to fight to make the third line on a minor professional league club is Boston Bruins' latest hope to salvage their reputation and a few points in the National Hockey League.

He is Bobby Leiter, 21, of Kingston Frontenacs, who'll join the Boston lineup tonight as the last-place Bruins visit, Toronto Maple Leafs.

Last fall his future as a hockey player was in doubt. A graduate of junior hockey in Winnipeg, he went to Kingston, an Eastern Professional League club, and fought it out with Jeannot Gilbert for the team's vacant centre spot.

He won the fight and proved his mettle. He scored 24 goals and had 22 assists during the season and during the playoffs led the league with eight goals and eight assists for 16 points.

And Friday night, at Kingston defeated Port Huron Flags of the International League 6-5, he picked up two points to resume the lead he has held most of this season in EPHL scoring race. He has 36 points in 19 games.

SHOWS VERSATILITY

Leiter could be a useful man to Boston. Besides taking his regular spot at centre, the five-footnine, 170-pound Winnipeg native can kill penalties and do his share on a power play.

Leiter had a 10-game try-out with the Bruins, who then called him to their most promising prospect and said it was only a matter of time until he made the NHL.

Boston coach Milt Schmidt Friday night also announced that Ed Westfall, another Kingston player who normally plays defence but lately has been making a bit as a forward, will join the Bruins Sunday or later in the week. He was with Boston last season.

For the Frontenacs' last three games he has shifted to the forward line and scored four goals. He'll play with Kingston again tonight and is a possible starter when Boston plays host to Montreal Canadiens Sunday night.

Schmidt said he hasn't yet decided who, if anyone, will be dropped to make way for the newcomers.

And, he says, his club, although it is in last place with 10 points, eight behind the fifth-place New York Rangers, isn't as bad as it appears.

MUST SETTLE DOWN

"I'm not saying it's a great club," he said. "But it sure has better personnel than has been shown so far.

"The biggest problem is psychological, getting the best out of the player and getting them in the right frame of mind. It's a matter of settling down."

As for the Leafs, Schmidt said: "I'm not going to say we're going to whip them, but I've seen them play a hockey game that I didn't think I was going to win."

The Bruins will be without centre Charlie Burns, who has a back injury.

Leafs also are healthy, and a lot of eyes will probably be on left winger Frank Mahovlich to-night. He scored two goals against Montreal last Thursday night in what observers called his best game of the season.

The Leafs, tied with Montreal for third place, visit Detroit Red Wings Sunday night.

In tonight's other game, Chicago Black Hawks visit last-place Detroit for first place, play the Canadiens in Montreal. Other action Sunday night has New York at Chicago.

Moves To Chicago

Liston 'Harassed' By Police

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston and his wife have moved to Chicago because of alleged harassment by Philadelphia police.

Liston watched truckers load the family furniture Friday he commented: "This is the first house we ever owned and the first home we ever had. But we've had to leave.

"We're leaving because I think the people of Chicago will accept me better than they did here."

The world champion said he chose Chicago for two reasons. He said his wife has relatives there, and Mayor Richard J. Daley invited him to work for the city.

"I'll work on the youth committee, helping kids, making appearances at speeches, doing exhibitions to raise money for them and things like that," Liston said. "I don't know if a salary goes with it, but it won't make any difference if there isn't."

LIVE NEAR STADIUM

The Listons will settle in a rented home in the south side, not far from Comiskey Park, where Liston won the heavyweight title from Floyd Patterson Sept. 25.

Liston, who came to Philadelphia in 1958, after signing Joe Barone of Allentown, Pa., as his manager, has had three encounters with the law here. He was arrested for corner lounging, later for allegedly stopping a woman in Fairmount Park, and again for driving too slow in the same park. He was acquitted or discharged in each case.

He said police were harassing him.

As for his boxing future, Liston said he hopes Patterson will pick up the return bout option soon, preferably in Baltimore. After he fights Patterson he hopes to meet Ingemar Johansson, Zora Folley and Cassius Clay.

Ready For Salary Cuts

KITCHENER (CP) — Players of Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers of the senior Ontario Hockey Association are prepared to take salary cuts if needed to keep the club operating, says General Manager Bob Veder.

No salary reductions have been made so far, but the executive will make them soon if the financial picture doesn't improve, Veder said Friday.

A week ago Galt Terriers made similar salary reductions.

'A Foggy Day In Toronto Town'

By REL SUFRIN

With a heavy blanket of fog enveloping Canadian National Exhibition Stadium, there was still no assurance Winnipeg Blue Bombers an Hamilton Tiger-Cats would be able to answer their 1 p.m. EST date in the 35th renewal of the East-West football classic.

Sydney Hiltz, Canadian Football League commissioner, and Jake Gaudaur, CFL president, were not in the waterfront stadium at 11 a.m. to decide whether to go on with the game or postpone it until 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

The official weather forecast said "there is some hope that a shift in circulation to light westerly will-help to dissipate the fog Saturday morning."

Whether the game is played Sunday, or Monday, the CTV and CBC said they would carry it.

A postponement was not expected to have a profound effect on the condition of injured players or the outcome of this eighth meeting between Hamilton and Winnipeg in the Grey Cup.

Definitely out are corner linebacker Gordie Rowland, who strained knee cartilages in the western final and developed phlebitis, ruptured blood vessels, in the same spot. Bomber general manager Jim Aubrey said there was a possibility the injury could end Rowland's brilliant career.

The Ticats had no serious complaints. A knee injury to all-star middle guard Angelo Sarrow in the eastern playoffs appar-ently healed.

This was part of the reason for coach Jim Trimble's public show of confidence. He predicted the Ticats would win 24-12).

Indians Nip Amerks 4-1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Springfield Indians now are using the same formula that brought them three straight American Hockey League titles. They don't lose many games at home.

The Indians turned back Rochester Americans 4-1 in the only game scheduled Friday night for the eighth straight win at home for Springfield.

Wally Boyer and Dennis Olson scored in the first three minutes and 29 seconds of the first period and Glen Sonmor gave Springfield's first goal in 11th of the season, and Jimmy Anderson broke through in the middle period.

Stan Smrke got Rochester's only goal.

COLD SPOT

Temperatures as low as minus 126 degrees have been registered at Vostok in Antarctica.

Sander Tops Golf Field

PERTH, Australia (CP) — Mary Stewart of Vancouver is only the fourth Canadian woman ever to win an individual gold medal in the history of the British Empire Games dating back to 1930 when the first Games were held at Hamilton.

Her victory in the women's 110-yard butterfly swim Friday is only the second gold medal a swimming event won by a Canadian woman individually in Games competition.

In 1938, Pearl Stoneham was the lone Canadian woman gold medallist—in high diving.

Four years later in London, Phyllis Dewar of Vancouver took gold medals in the 100-yard and 440-yard women's freestyle swimming—shorter than present-day distances—and Judith Moss of Winnipeg captured the gold in women's springboard diving.

Robin Higgins of Winnipeg is the only Canadian woman to win a gold medal in track and field. She did it in the 1938 Games at Sydney, Australia, winning the javelin.

Canadian girls captured two swimming relay golds in 1930—the 300 medley and 400 free-style. They also took the gold in the 440 relay in 1938.

Empire Games Finish In Anti-Climax

Snell Fails In Thrill Finish

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

PERTH, Australia (CP)—The seventh British Empire Games ended on a note of anti-climax today as New Zealand's Peter Snell won the mile in 4:04.4—the slowest international mile in many years — and Canada's three highly-rated pole vaulters failed to win a medal.

The mile, sixth world record-holder Snell as the star attraction, had been designated to close the Games with a bang, but a stiff wind in the stretch ruined any hope of a sub-four-minute mile—much less a world record.

Canada didn't win a medal today and wound up the Games with a total of four gold medals, 12 second-place silvers and 15 third-place bronze — most of them in swimming.

A crowd of 50,000 packed the new Perry Lakes Stadium to watch the mile and 10 track and field events before Prince Philip officially proclaimed the Games closed at 4:35 p.m. Perth time.

TAKE FIVE EVENTS

Australia swept five events—the women's 440-yard relay, 1-mile metre hurdles, 880-yard run and broad jump and the men's pole vault—to move ahead in the final gold medal standings with a total of 38 while England, in second place, finished with 34.

Snell's mile win—his second gold medal of the Games—and a New Zealand woman's victory in the discus put New Zealand in third place with 10. Pakistan was fourth with eight gold medals—seven for wrestling and one for track—followed by Canada and Scotland, tied for fifth with four gold medals each.

Snell, winner of the 880-yard gold medal, won today in a canter, almost strolling home from fellow countryman John Davies after playing possum for 3½ laps.

Snell dreamt Friday night of a 3:53 mile for the world record, but the dream faded and died as the nine-strong field, led by Jim Irons of Brampton, Ont., maintained an almost funeral pace.

The cagey Snell, a 24-year-old apprentice surveyor, remained well back for most of the way. Then he joined forces with his most dangerous rival, Davies, and together they forced their way to the front 200 yards from the tape, with Snell flying away casually by three yards and Australia's Terry Sullivan a further 12 yards back.

Davies' time was 4:05.1, Sullivan's 4:05.6.

The 25-year-old Irons finished eighth as he slowed to 4:17.4—far below his best competitive effort of 4:04.2 for the mile.

Irons passed Bruce Tulloh, England's barefoot star who was wearing spikes this time, in the last 20 yards. Tulloh, expected to push Snell hard, was last in an embarrassingly slow 4:22.1.

AWAY FROM ANY RECORD

Although Snell won as he pleased, he was far below his world record of 3:54.4 and hardly within shouting distance of the Games record of 3:58.8 set by England's Roger Bannister, the first man to crack the four-minute barrier, in the famous 1954 Miracle Mile at Vancouver.

Australia's Albie Thomas, who beat Snell in a heat Thursday, could do no better than fifth today in 4:12.2.

Snell said that when he decided to join his country's mile relay team in the heats earlier today—New Zealand was eliminated—he saw how strong the wind was.

"I realized it was not a four-minute mile day and so I concentrated on winning. Funny thing though, last night I dreamt I ran a 3:53 mile and I woke feeling pretty good."

ON INFORMAL NOTE

The mile over, the Games ended with one of the most informal ceremonies on record.

Prince Philip had asked that the closing ceremony be terminated and that athletes from 38 countries be allowed freedom of the area.

Today, he got his wish. Athletes rode bicycles, formed separate marching units and really let their hair down.

Phillip roared with delight when eight athletes followed standard bearers in the stadium carrying "No. parking" signs and flying blue toilet paper from broomhandles.

Despite the effervescent frivolity of the more than 1,000 athletes and officials, today's closing ceremony also was full of emotion.

Athletes joined hands in singing Auld Lang Syne and they stood with the fans to sing Waltzing Matilda — but rigidly still while Phillip formally closed the Games.

Phillip in his closing speech called on the people of the British Empire to gather in Kingston, Jamaica, in four years time for the eighth B.E. Games.

Late Rally Fails

RCAF Whips Picton 7-4

PICTON (Special) — RCAF Globetrotters scored five unanswered goals in the second period to lead last night on their way to a 7-4 victory over the Picton Maxs in a Lakeshore Hockey League game played in Trenton.

The clubs fought through a scoreless first period before the Trotters took over in the second on goals by Drake, Collica, Peterson and a pair by Captain Scott.

Picton rallied in the third, cutting the lead to 6-4, before RCAF coagulated the scoring.

Jim Peterson and Austin Scott were the big guns for the winners. Scott scored two goals and helped on another while Peterson had a goal and three assists. "Jeep" Collins and Roger Drake each had a goal and assist, Ken Currie and "Red" Gravelle a goal apiece, Joe St. Pierre and Yvon Blanchard single assists.

Keith MacDonald, Jim Guerny and Gary Ron Hull each scored one marker and assisted on another for the Macs. Pat Gilmore also scored for Picton as Scott had two assists, Sam Mulholland and Bob Fawcett one each

The teams evenly divided ten penalties, all minors.

MacDonald and Currie traded goals midway through the third, the latter to push RCAF into a 6-4 lead. Then the Macs took over with goals by Hull, Gilmour and Guerney to make it close.

Picton was unable to add to that total however and Gravelle scored with just two seconds left in the game to end it at 7-4.

New Rules Speed Play

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Baseball League has voted in three new rules designed to speed up play.

At the league's annual business meeting Friday these changes were approved:

A relief pitcher will be permitted only five warm - up pitches instead of eight.

Pitchers must wait their batting turn in the on-deck circle instead of on the bench;

APPROVES PREMIER

BASILIA (AP) — After 10 sessions, the Brazilian Chamber of Deputies finally mustered a quorum Friday and approved Premier Hermes Lima as premier. He has held the job provisionally since September. The vote was 164 to 27.

File Huge Tax Suit On Fight

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government today filed a $1,-194,194 tax suit against the promoters of last September's heavyweight championship fight between Floyd Patterson and Sonny Liston.

The civil suit was directed against income from the live gate receipts at Chicago's Comiskey Park, plus the take from closed-circuit theatre television.

Also named a defendant was Cecil Reiner and Smith Enterprises Incorporated, a Nevada concern which had a contract with Championship Sports covering television rights.

On the day of the fight, Sept. 25, U.S. internal revenue agents seized $1,379,317 in closed-circuit television receipts.

There was no home television of the fight. Fans paid $5 and up for admission to theatres that showed the closed-circuit television of the fight.

The suit claimed the money actually is the property of Championship Sports and should be applied to taxes allegedly due from the organization.

Another Penalty-Riddled Game

Cobourg Ties Juniors 3-3

Belleville Junior "B's" lifted goalie Sam Haskill in favor of a sixth attacker in the final minute of the third period in Cobourg last night and earned a 3-3 deadlock with Cobourg in a penalty-riddled OHA Eastern Junior Hockey league tilt.

Gary Duvall fired the tying goal for Belleville, on a pass from Paul Zakos at 19.25 of the third period. That tied the score 3-3 and the clubs played through a scoreless overtime period.

The tie holsted Cobourg into the league's third spot and left Belleville in seventh place, with a win, a tie and two losses.

Referees Ivan Locke and Graham Foster handed out a total of 32 penalties in the contest, with Ivan Cann of that number going to the Bellerville squad.

Belleville received 16 minor sentences, six misconducts and a major while the host Cobourg team drew seven minors, a misconduct and a major. Ted Rowland, Belleville defenceman, was tagged for five minors, a misconduct and a major while Stu Muirhead, Glen Hagerman, Gary McMillan, Gerry Jones and Don Goodfellow also received ten-minute misconducts.

Rowland was involved in a third-period fight with Terry Lehanan, resulting in the game's only majors.

Belleville club officials were highly critical of the officiating this morning.

Layton Dodge, of the Cobourg Sentinel-Star, said this morning that all penalties handed out in the game were deserved except for three misconducts, given to Jones, McMillan and Hagerman at 19.25 of the third period. The players drew these sentences for banging their sticks on the rink boards when Duvall scored the tying goal.

Earlier in the period, Ross Quigley, of Cobourg, had been tagged with his club's only misconduct, for the same offence.

"I think your club expected to come in here and beat this Junior "C" club by ten goals and when they found they had a battle on their hands, they decided to take matters in their own hands," Dodge told this newspaper. Dodge added that "Foster's officiating most certainly did leave something to be desired."

The teams played through a scoreless first period with Lehanan and Duvall scoring in the second for a 1-1 tie.

Jack Armour scored two goals at 6.40 and 10.28 to give Cobourg a 3-1 lead in the third. Les Moreau got one back for Belleville at 14.24 prior to Duval's equalizer. Muirhead, Rushlow and Zakos had the visitors' assists on the night's play.

Western Hockey

Defenceman Larry McNabb of San Francisco Seals protested a looking penalty too warmly Friday night in a game against Spokane Comets and was assessed from the Western Hockey League.

McNab will be barred from the league playing as appearance before WHL president Al Leader. The second-period expulsion involved a left hook to the face of referee Jerry Ollenberry.

Seals won 2-1 on a late goal by Orland Kurtenbach. Al Nicholson put the other San Francisco goal. Don Cherry scored for Spokane.

The two other games Vancouver Canucks defeated Calgary Stampeders 7-3 and Seattle Totems edged Edmonton Flyers 5-4.

San Francisco and Spokane remained third and fourth in the Southern Division. Vancouver's win kept Canucks in first place in the north, two points ahead of Seattle. Edmonton and Calgary place Calgary trail far behind.

COUNTS REDUCED

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Nearly half the bribery charges levelled against two St. Louis men accused of bribing North Carolina State College basketball players were dismissed Friday because of insufficient evidence. The ruling means, in effect, that the jury will consider 18 counts against Dave Goldberg and 13 against Steve Lemenchick. They were charged on 39 counts each.

Patriots Win Over N.Y. Titans

The Patriots, fighting for their lives in the division behind the pace-setting Houston Oilers, never were in front in the game before 20,000 fans until that point. Colclough gathered the ball in at the New York 30 and raced undefered the rest of the way.

Yewcic also scored two touchdowns, one four yards on a sneak on one and 27 yards for the other.

Boston's other points came on Gino Cappelletti's 32-yard field goal in the second quarter and three Cappelletti conquarts.

New York quarterback Johnny Green set up the game's first touchdown with a 46-yard serial to Don Maynard, early in the second quarter, flipping the final two yards to Don Maynard.

New York's other touchdown came in the third quarter when Yewcic, back to pass at his 16, had the ball knocked out of his hands by Nick Mumley and linebacker Larry Grantham fell on the fumble in the end zone.

BRAVES GET LARKER

NEW YORK (AP)—Milwaukee Braves obtained first baseman Norm Larker from Houston Colts Friday in exchange for right-handed pitcher Connie Grob and outfielder Jim Bolger, both announced the Braves' Louisville club in the American Association.

Cleveland May Get All-Star

NEW YORK (AP)—The 1963 all-star baseball game, scheduled for Minneapolis-St. Paul, may be shifted to Cleveland. Probable date still is July 9.

The major league player representatives agreed Thursday to the demands of the owners that only a single all-star game be played next season, they did so reluctantly. On Friday they demanded that the game be shifted from the 40,000 seat Twin Stadium to Cleveland Stadium, which seats 80,-000.

The players said they need the extra revenue to carry on their pension plans. In recent years the players' fund was given 60 per cent of the receipts of the two games. In Thursday's agreement, the player take was increased to 95 per cent.

RCAF Won Grey Cup In 1942

Among those attending the Grey Cup game today will be a group of former champions, 1942 style. They are ex-members of the RCAF's famous football team, the Toronto Hurricanes who were the first service team to win the famous trophy donated to football by Lord Grey.

Contrary to popular belief the Hurricanes were not recruited into the RCAF just to play football, although many went on to brilliant careers in professional ball after the war.

Their service records speak for themselves. Seven out of the 26 members on the team gave their lives in the Second World War and this fact was acknowledged when the former team mates laid a wreath at the Toronto City Hall cenotaph in memory of their fallen comrades.

Also indicative of the Hurricanes wartime activities is the fact that two of the team won the Distinguished Flying Cross on operations.

The RCAF Toronto Hurricanes consisted entirely of Air Force personnel, and were entered in the Ontario Football Rugby Union. During the 1942 season the Hurricanes won eight and tied one of the ten league games.

This earned them the right to play off for the eastern championship. The game was played in Varsity stadium against a powerful RCAF team from Ottawa, the RCAF Uplands Fliers.

The Uplands team numbered among its players such greats as W-G "Zeke" Golab, the "Golden Boy" of Canadian football and Canada's most outstanding athlete in 1941. The Hurricanes won the game, with a score of 18-13, and also the right to represent the East in the Grey Cup. The Grey Cup game itself was played against another service team, the RCAF Winnipeg Bombers, in Varsity stadium Toronto, and the Hurricanes

REMEMBER WHEN — The RCAF recalls the day twenty years ago when thin pads and leather helmets made rugged constitutions basic requirements of successful football players in the Air Force. _Corporal C. emerged the victors with a score of 8-5.

With the football season over, many of the Hurricanes were posted to different units to complete their training and from there went on to operational units in Canada and overseas.

Although none of the members of this famous team is in the RCAF today, the Air Force still numbers on its rolls W-G "Tony" Golab now stationed at the sport.

1 Advanced Flying School, Rivers, Man.

Some of the ex-members of the Hurricanes have retained their football connections and are quite prominent in the sport today; "Jake" Gaudaur general manager of the Hamilton Tiger-Cats and Lew Hayman GM of the Toronto Argos are both extremely prominent positions in football.

Four Are Honored At Football Dinner

TORONTO (CP)—Four men have been honored for their outstanding work in the development of football in Canada.

F. W. (Shag) Shaughnessy of Montreal, Eddie Emerson of Ottawa, Stan Pellar of Winnipeg and Fred Wilson of Regina were given Canadian Football League plaques Friday night at the 13th annual Grey Cup banquet, sponsored by the CFL and The Canadian Rugby Union.

Shaughnessy, 78, is believed to have been Canada's first professional import when he was brought to McGill University from his native New Jersey to coach the Redmen in 1912.

From there he went on to manage basketball teams in the Canadian and International Leagues, eventually becoming president of the international League.

Emerson is believed to have set a record of sorts having played 36 consecutive years with Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference, from 1912 to 1938.

LKD GREY CUP WINNERS

On his retirement, Emerson moved into the executive end of the team, serving as president when they won the Grey Cup in 1921, as well as serving for 20 years on the executive of the Eastern Conference.

Wilson, one of the top Canadian kickers in the early years of the sport, took Saskatchewan Roughriders to three Grey Cup games as general manager. He had played on the team from 1913 to 1928.

He also was president of the Western Interprovincial Football Union, formed later became the WFC, in 1951.

Peplar, custodian of the Winnipeg Stadium press box, was for four years president of the Manitoba Rugby Football Union.

In his 50 years of activity, he has held almost every executive job with the Bombers and for one year was president of the WIFU.

Jerome Undergoes Surgery

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Jerome, Canada's controversial 100-yard dash man, has been operated on to repair a ruptured muscle in his left leg.

Dr. H. W. Spencer said Friday the runner was operated on Thursday night. The leg was put in a cast and Jerome was in satisfactory condition.

"It will be about two weeks before the result of the operation is known," Dr. Spencer said.

Despite the injury, Jerome's time for the distance was 10 seconds flat. He finished last in a field of six.

Giants Clash With Bears

This Should Be A Dandy!

NEW YORK (AP)—Tough old Y. A. Tittle will be on the spot Sunday when New York Giants attempt to clinch the Eastern Conference title in the National Football League.

The Giants, pounding toward a second straight conference crown, clash with the Bears at Chicago. As usual, if the Giant offence is to be effective, Tittle must connect on his passes.

The Giants (8-3) take a six-game winning string, longest in the league, into the game and need only one more victory to wrap up their second straight title. They'll face a team that has a revenge-motive and three straight victories, including a 57-0 rout of Baltimore Colts last week.

The two teams last faced each other in the 1956 championship game, won by New York 47-7.

Green Bay Packers (10-1) are favored to win the Western Conference for the third straight time, but hold only a one-game lead over the ragged Detroit Lions (9-2). The Packers could improve the margin against the lowly Los Angeles Rams.

In the American League Sunday, Dallas Texans (9-2)—criss cross the Western Division title by beating Buffalo Bisons (5-8-1).

Will Continue Interlock

1963 Grey Cup, Vancouver

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Football League has decided to continue its partial interlocking schedule between Western and Eastern Conference teams in 1963 after formally confirming Vancouver as host site for next year's Grey Cup game.

The conferences will play the identical schedules they did in 1961, the first year of the 20-game interlocking schedule. It was adopted then on two seasons on a trial basis.

The same teams that played in the East and West in 1961 will do the same in 1963. British Columbia Lions and Edmonton Eskimos will play at Ottawa and Hamilton, and Saskatchewan Roughriders, Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Calgary Stampeders will visit Montreal and Toronto.

Montreal and Toronto will go west to play in Vancouver and Edmonton, and Ottawa and Hamilton will make trips to Regina, Winnipeg and Calgary.

The CFL gathered Friday for an exploratory meeting to prepare for the 1963 annual meeting, which decided will be held in Hamilton Feb. 15-16 in conjunction with the opening of the newly established Canadian Football Hall of Fame.

Among the points under discussion Friday were improvement in game officiating, standardization of player contracts and development of a league public relations official.

CFL President Jake Gaudaur was re-elected as the player roster limit, so that coaches in their recruiting for next season would have a definite idea immediately on the player limit.

It will be the same as in the 1962 season in all respects. The clubs will be limited to 13 imports a game.

Before each team's first league game the roster limit will be 35 players, composed of 16 Americans and 19 Canadians. After each club's third league game they must cut down to 29 players with a limit of 15 imports and 14 canadians. Changes can be made at any time after the cutoff dates as long as the clubs don't go over the player limit.

After Oct. 15 no player deals can be made between Canadian clubs but they can bring in new players from the United States such as National or American Football League cuts or former U.S. college players who are free agents.

Rams Almost Won a Game

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

It nearly happened for the hapless Sarnia Rams Friday night, but not quite.

Until the last 10 minutes of a penalty-strewn third period in Chatham, the cellar-dwellers of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series looked as though they might win their first game this season.

The strong-skating Bulldogs outplayed Woodstock through out the game, but were losing 4-2 halfway through the third period, when Glen Micallef and Jean Marc Asselin tied it up.

Bobby Brown was the big hero for Windsor, with three goals, two of them in overtime.

Rams had grabbed a 3-2 lead early in the third frame, and when Chatham tied it up, went ahead 4-3. Bob Pole tailed his shot past the game to tie it up again and Jack Douglas scored the winner for Chatham while Rams had a manpower edge.

George Ustlalo, Don McGregor, and Ted Power scored the others for Chatham. For Sarnia, Reg Mulholland scored twice, Willie Menard and Tom Clark got singles.

Owen Coach of Year!

After 28 years as coach of the New York Giants of the National Football League, Owen came to Canada five years ago with Toronto Argonauts.

In his first year, he took them from last place to fourth in the five-team conference and this year he had them in the western semi-finals, where they were beaten by Calgary.

Owen, 64, is credited with the establishment of the powerful defensive teams of the Giants and with the development of many of defensive innovations now part of every coach's handbook.

Owen was not sure what he would do next season, as his one-year contract with Saskatchewan does not expire until the first of 1963 and "we haven't talked about it yet."

Astrological Forecast

For December 2
By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Remember past promises — to yourself. Greater peace of mind obtained if you fulfill resolutions, including emotional, material debts to friends. Be kind, diplomatic.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Meeting personal challenge proves invigorating. Results may not be immediate. Do not succumb to impatience. Take time. Listen to spiritual advice. Look beyond immediate indications.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Practice what your own religion preaches. Search for wisdom can be fulfilled. Advance slowly but surely. Remember material gain brings only partial happiness. Seek spiritual fulfillment.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Emphasize simplicity. Obtain basic meanings. Be sincere. Listen to problems of friends, associates. Try to help through practical means. Avoid lecturing. Exchange ideas.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Concentrate on regaining vitality. Take common sense approach. Be careful, considerate. Do not upset family members. Relax with hobbies, pets, and friends.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Your powers of perception rate high today. You are able to offer constructive criticism. You gain much by frank, honest approach. Avoid looking just for "instant popularity." Strive for depth.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Day when realization of responsibilities is highlighted. Especially applies to relations with loved ones, family members. No time to be frivolous with other's feelings.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Give special attention to details. Get house in order. Discuss real estate matters with trusted advisor. Check budget. Realize that security demands attention, work. Tonight, relax.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Fine afternoon for athletics, all forms of sport or exercise. Good day to visit, communicate, put ideas on paper. You gain much from reading—newspaper, books.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go through files. Get rid of excess papers, "objects." Trim possessions. Good for gardening, entertaining, sharing hobbies. Practice self-control. Enjoy conversations.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Personal ambitions can be fulfilled. But review immediate past. Take course which pulls you out of rut. Utilize courage, initiative, imagination. Avoid scattering your forces.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Fulfill obligations early, including attending church of choice, visiting those who are sick. Day when consideration gains you respect, admiration. Live up to potential.

If today is your birthday . . . you are individual who is warm, sensitive, giving. Your principles are sky-high. You believe in the golden rule and you never stop trying!

General Tendencies: Day when proof is asked. All signs should avoid boasting. All could benefit from today's Cancer interpretation.

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Powers of salesmanship reach new heights today. You are able to impart enthusiasm. You perceive meanings, opportunities. Excellent for buying and selling luxury items.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Avoid tendency toward extravagance. Venus, moving direct in motion, highlights importance. Involved in your desire for recognition, achievement. Take time to analyze. Study people, situations.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) Good for enlarging range of activity. Dealing with Scorpio Aries persons turn out favorably. Very good for advertising, selling, public relations, publishing.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Curb temper. Be considerate. Do not give up ideal for money. You can eventually gain all you need. Diplomacy wins. Be original, independent. Let others know where you stand.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Good news indicated in connection with real estate, security. Taurus individual can help. Avoid being overbearing. Do more listening than talking. Be gracious, modest.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Stress versatility. You may finally get break you have been seeking. Avoid tendency to scatter forces. Conserve strength. Good counsel offered by associate. Good for stimulating conversation, writing.

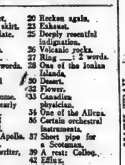
Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Good lunar aspect fired by Mars opposition. Means you are active, vibrant, attractive. Romance in spotlight. So is variety, travel, opportunity. Permit Libra personal magnetism to glow.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Enjoy some good home cooking, if possible. Good day to be close to loved ones, family members. Very good for dealing with women relatives. Significant talk with friend helps.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Utilize Sagittarian ingenuity. Seeks ways, means of self-expression. Offer suggestions. Your interest will be appreciated. Concentrate on harmony. Don't become involved in disputes which do not directly concern you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Good for entertaining, housewarmings, pleasure in general. Time to "ignore" emotional burdens. Try to realize value of relaxing. Delay important decision, wait for all the facts.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Haste today makes waste. The more thorough you are, the better. Personal popularity cycle high. Take your cue to those in authority. Many doors open. You can gain sympathetic ear.



Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Make certain your meanings are clear. Double check. Do not permit yourself to be misquoted. Speak up. Allow no one to twist facts. Gain indicated if you attend to details personally.

If today is your birthday . . . you are frank, and win most of your friends through display of an excellent sense of humor. Conditions usually blend to your liking.

* * *

General Tendencies: Emphasis on letting off steam. Applies particularly to Taurus, Leo and Scorpio. Planets indicate general disturbing period but crisis will pass.

MARMORA

W. A. Shannon Starts Seventh Year As Reeve

MARMORA—Wm. A. Shannon was acclaimed as Reeve of the Village of Marmora at their nomination meeting. This will be Mr. Shannon's seventh consecutive year as Reeve and 18th as councillor and reeve.

The councillors were also re-elected by acclamation. Mr. Ed. McNamara resigned his seat in council and Wm. Monk accepted the nomination and was acclaimed.

School trustees nominated and acclaimed are Messrs. Vaughan Glover, Cecil Neal, and Garnet Howden. They will serve for two years. Five trustees who have served one year of their term are Floyd Loveless, J. R. Barker and Keith Stetson.

Marmora Village claims one of the lowest mill rates in the county.

In the past year the village saw the official opening of the water system, and at present time the Department of Highways are finishing up an improvement project on Highway 7, in the village following a request by council for said improvement. Highway 14 will be improved in 1963.

The vocational school in process of building in Madoc is included in Marmora's area.

Says Rockefeller Wanted Jobs For His Brother

The 73-year-old Moses, in a surprise announcement in New York City, disclosed he had quit as chairman of the New York State Power Authority, the State Council of Parks and the Long Island State Park Commission.

Moses told reporters that Rockefeller had "asked me flatly and with no preliminaries to resign immediately as chairman of the State Council of Parks To that he could put his brother Laurance . . . in my place."

Rockefeller replied with a statement in which he said it was regretable that Moses "has made an invidious reference to my brother, Laurance . . . the selection of the new chairman of the State Council of Parks is solely the responsibility of the members of the council."

will be Reeve John Wilkes. Councillors Dermont Bedore, Harry Moffatt, Dermont Bedore and Graham Bell. School trustees were also named by acclamation and are Cecil Tompkins, Stanley Brooks. George Brown vacated his seat which Dermont Jones accepted by acclamation. Clerk Thos. Bateman.

Decision to Acquire Bomarc Missile to Replace Arrow Interceptor Taken in 1958

At the heart of Canada's defence policy is the question of whether to acquire nuclear weapons and under what conditions. In this story, Dave McIntosh, CP's military affairs reporter in Ottawa, reviews four years of debate on the question.

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government's great dilemma on, nuclear, weapons—to have or not to have—has its roots in a decision taken in September, 1958.

This decision was to acquire the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile to replace the soon-to-be-cancelled Arrow jet interceptor in the Canadian air defence system. The missile picked was the 400 - mile - range Bomarc-B for which no conventional high-explosive warhead was ever designed and whose only armament, therefore, was nuclear.

After the Bomarc decision, announced by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, it followed logically that other decisions would be taken to obtain other carriers for nuclear warheads. This was done.

In July, 1959, it was decided to acquire the CF-104 low-level jet bomber for the RCAF air division in Europe. In March, 1960, it was decided to acquire the Honest John artillery rocket for the Canadian motorized infantry brigade group in West Germany. In June, 1961, it was decided to obtain the CF-101B Voodoo jet interceptor for RCAA air defence command.

TO GET WARHEADS

Taken as a package, these decisions have cost $700,000,000.

On Feb. 20, 1959, Mr. Diefenbaker announced the government had made up its mind to acquire nuclear weapons from the United States.

He led off by saying that defensive weapons such as the Bomarc achieve full potential "only when they are armed with nuclear warheads."

"The government is, therefore, examining with the U.S. government questions connected with the acquisition of nuclear warheads for Bomarc and other defensive weapons for use by the Canadian forces in Canada and the storage of warheads in Canada. . . . We are confident that we shall be able to reach formal agreement with the U.S. . . ."

This decision has never been renounced though a good many modifications, reservations and qualifications have been added.

For a long time the government maintained an early agreement with the U.S. wasn't a matter of urgency because Canada didn't yet have the vehicles to carry them. This is no longer the case.

BOMARCS IN PLACE

A total of 56 Bomarc missiles have been installed at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., RCAF air defence command base. They are completely re-equipped with 64 Voodoo interceptors. The Canadian brigade in Europe has the Honest John and the RCAF air division has started to take delivery of the CF-104.

It is generally believed the government began to have second thoughts about acceptance of nuclear weapons not long after Howard Green became external affairs minister June 21, 1959.

The first public indication of Mr. Green's apparent opposition to nuclear weapons for Canadian forces came March 10, 1960, before the Commons external affairs committee. When asked whether it was still the government's intention to obtain them, he said the question would have to be addressed to the defence department. His department was "sticking to its own knitting."

In the Commons defence committee three months later, then defence minister Pearkes said arrangements were being made with the U.S. to supply nuclear warheads "if and when" they were required. No "if and when" had been mentioned in the original policy announcement 18 months earlier.

CONTROL IS ISSUE

Later, in the Commons, Mr. Diefenbaker said "negotiations are proceeding with the U.S. in order that the necessary weapons can be made available for Canadian defence units if and when they are required." He added:

"I want to make it abundantly clear that nuclear weapons will not be used by the Canadian forces except as the Canadian government decides and in the manner approved by the Canadian government. Canada 'retains' its full freedom of choice and decision."

This introduced the thorny issue of Canada's control under standing they would be fitted with nuclear warheads. By the time the U.S. also supplied the Voodoos, in July, 1961, it was apparent to the Americans that Canada was shifting to "joint control" by Canada and the U.S.

U.S. law required that ownership of nuclear weapons must remain with the U.S. and that the weapons weapons required presidential authorization.

What it boils down to is this: The U.S. president could authorize use of nuclear weapons in Canada but Canada would determine whether these weapons would be fired. Canada by itself could not order the firing of a nuclear warhead but it could veto any such firing approved by the U.S.

TWO-KEY SYSTEM

This is known as the "two-key" system and has applied for years to American nuclear warheads stored in Britain.

The Canadian and U.S. defence departments have drawn up a similar agreement governing custody and control of any U.S. nuclear warheads in Canada. But this agreement hasn't been drafted in treaty form and the two governments have not approved it as yet.

On July 14, 1960, Mr. Diefenbaker indicated Canada was willing to accept the principle of the two-key system.

The previous week he had put his finger on the government's dilemma:

"On the one hand we are desirous of attaining disarmament; on the other hand we have to discharge our responsibility of ensuring to the maximum degree the security of the Canadian people."

This has been further complicated by the fact that in September, 1957, three months after the Progressive Conservatives took office, Canada joined with the U.S. to establish North American Air Defence Command. This was done because for air defence purposes Canada and the U.S. must be considered a single entity.

PURELY DEFENSIVE

NORAD has two purposes; to warn of any attack on North America and to repel any such assault. Its chief aim is to prevent the destruction of the bombers of the U.S. Strategic Air Command, the Western world's main deterrent to war, and its main retaliatory force in case the deterrent fails.

Geography makes Canadian participation in air defence of North America vitally important to the U.S. parts of southern and southwestern Ontario but deep into the U.S.

Thus the U.S. wants the Canadian component of NORAD—RCAF air defence command—to have the best defensive weapons available. This means only one thing: nuclear warheads for the Bomarc and Voodoo interceptor—and also for U.S. interceptors stationed at Goose Bay, Labrador, and Harmon Field, Nfld.

The U.S. supplied the Bomarcs to Canada on condition

Mr. Green continued to campaign vigorously in the United Nations for an end to nuclear testing and for resumption of East-West disarmament negotiations torpedoed by the Soviet Union after the U-2 affair in 1960.

In early 1962, word got around in Canadian forces in West Germany, where the U.S. has nuclear weapons stored, would be supplied with nuclear warheads in an emergency whether or not any Canada-U.S. agreement on their control was in existence.

DEBATE IN COMMONS

This brought on renewed exchanges in the Commons.

Mr. Diefenbaker said Feb. 26 that "if war came, should nuclear weapons be used against us, Canadian troops participating should not be denied the right to use nuclear weapons."

This statement brought loud applause from Conservative back-benchers. So did the prime minister's additional sentence that "in the event that nuclear war was launched, nuclear weapons should be placed in the possession of Canadians."

Mr. Diefenbaker reiterated that Canada-U.S. "joint control is of the essence."

Opposition Leader Pearson asked how joint control could be brought about in light of the U.S. laws governing control of nuclear weapons.

In an apparent retreat from his July 14, 1960, position, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "So long as the law of the U.S. is as it is at present, joint control is impossible."

Mr. Pearson: "Then we cannot have the weapons."

Mr. Diefenbaker: "What I have stated is exactly the position of affairs. We have stated that until the U.S. makes joint control available, we did not intend to go further than we have gone. These fuses permit the warheads to be detonated on impact even though the aircraft or other device which is carrying them has been shot down in flames or has disintegrated in the air.

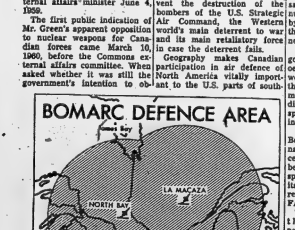
"There is," therefore, enormous military advantage in the use of a nuclear air defence warhead which will kill the weapon and not just the carrier. . . ."

HARKNESS APPROVED

This speech was approved in advance by Defence Minister Harkness and twice that year the minister has said substantially the same thing.

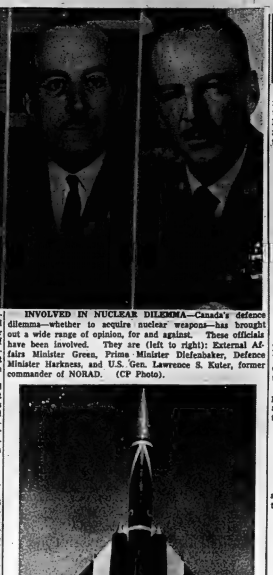
In a letter to Maclean's magazine protesting an article entitled "Canada must defend ourselves if we take A-arms for the Bomarc," Mr. Harkness said: "Bomarc missiles with nuclear load would be "cooked" by defensive atomic weapons so that the bomber's cargo would not detonate.

Throughout 1960 and 1961, the government continued to manoeuvre away from nuclear weapons without renouncing them. Members of the government expressed the hope that a disarmament agreement might spare Canada the need of making a decision on the issue.



In the fall of 1961 came the Berlin crisis and a modest Canadian defence build-up (cancelled in the summer of 1962 because of austerity) in response to NATO's appeal to all its members. The Soviet Union resumed nuclear testing.

FAVORED BY CAUCUS



The parliamentary caucus of the Progressive Conservative party was reported in favor of adoption of nuclear weapons. To many officials, it seemed the government was on the verge of reaffirmation of its policy announced in February, 1959.

Mr. Harkness said: "It is the policy of the government that our forces should not be required to face a potential enemy with inferior weapons."

Paul Hellyer, Liberal defence critic, said the government had started a campaign to "wear down" Canadian resistance to acquisition of nuclear warheads.

RANGE OF MISSILES—Since part of Ontario juts deep into the northeast United States, Bomarc missile bases at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., are vitally important to U.S. air defence. Shaded area on map shows area that would come under protection of 400-mile-range Bomarcs at these sites. — (CP Newsmap.)

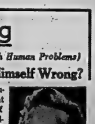
READY TO FIRE—This Bomarc-B missile stands ready to be fired from its launcher. A total of 56 such missiles have been installed at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que. They were constructed for use with nuclear warheads and no conventional, high-explosive warhead has been designed for them.



NUCLEAR POTENTIAL IN RCAF—Canada has acquired these two aircraft, capable of carrying nuclear weapons. The RCAF air defence command has been re-equipped with CF-101B Voodoo interceptors (upper photo) and the RCAF division in Europe is getting the CF-104 low-level bomber (lower photo). Is Letting A Child Express Himself Wrong?

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—Please settle an argument for us. One says it is important to let a child express himself, even if he's rude at times. Another says children should learn to obey and be polite; that they need discipline above all else. Which is right?—PARENT.

DEAR PARENT—In a careful study of parent-child relationships, it was found that the "acceptant-democratic" attitude produced the best results.

Where small children were given love and some leeway, they grew to be brighter, more creative, steadier in their emotions. And by the time they were ready for school, they had also become sociable and able to lead others.

In contrast, the children whose parents seemed to reject them (with little love and too much discipline) showed slower development, poor use of the talents they did possess, and emotional instability.

The ideal seems to be to give love first, with controls that are fair and not too stony-cold.

DEAR DORIS—I have met lots of fellows and have had lots of crushes as all girls do, ending with a broken heart. Well, about three weeks ago I met a very nice fellow. He doesn't drink, smoke and treated me better than I've ever been treated before.

I thought he liked me too, but I thought wrong. He hasn't phoned back and I miss him terribly. I like him more than anyone I've ever met before. Please tell me if there is anything I can do to have him notice me?—DESPERATE.

DEAR DESPERATE—He may still be back. But there's no sense waiting by the telephone.

Keep mixing, be sociable, live it up. You may find someone still nicer. It's been done.

DEAR DORIS—I am told it is wrong to send a post card addressing it as "Dear So-and-So." Would appreciate information about this.—POST CARD SENDER.

DEAR POST—If you mean the salutation, what would you say? "Hey, You!" or "Hi There!" Either is having a wonderful time. Wish you were here." I can't think of a thing against "Dear So-and-So."

DEAR DOUBLE WORRIED—As I recall it, Mr. Worried was 29, his girl 16. Thank you for pointing out the pitfalls.

DENSE FOG TO GO 'IN COUPLE OF DAYS'

Nehru Reports Chinese Troops Start Pull-Back

Withdrawal Underway In Rear of Front Line

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru said today "apparently there has been some withdrawal" by Communist Chinese troops along the disputed Chinese-Indian border.

But Nehru told the Indian Parliament it was difficult to say how many Chinese had withdrawn, or where the withdrawal was taking place. He said "the process appears to be going on in various places."

Nehru said the Chinese were beginning their promised pullback in the rear of their lines, while in front-line positions they might have thinned out, but had not actually withdrawn.

Indian Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri said Sunday India would not hold border talks with China unless they withdrew to the positions they held before Sept. 8.

China's Nov. 21 cease - fire proposal called for the withdrawal of Chinese troops beginning Dec. 1 to 12½ miles behind "line of actual control" on Dec. 7, 1959. This would leave larger border areas in northern Ladakh, claimed by India, in Chinese hands.

(The New China news agency reported in Peking Sunday that Chinese troops had begun their withdrawal from two points on the disputed border. The announcement mentioned the positions as Chila and Samuwelerh.)

Nehru said the Chinese have offered to hand over some sick and wounded prisoners to the Indian Red Cross Wednesday and this meant at least some Chinese would be at Bomdi-la south of the McMahon line which India recognizes as the frontier, for the transfer.

PEKING (Reuters)—The first semi-official Chinese Communist reaction to the long-awaited Indian response to Chinese proposals to end the Himalayan border fighting is one of sharp disappointment, reliable reports in diplomatic circles here say.

A copy of Prime Minister Nehru's letter to Chinese Premier Chou En-lai, rejecting China's Nov. 21 cease-fire proposals in their present form, and asking for further clarification was handed over at the foreign ministry Sunday by P. K. Banerjee, Indian charge d'affaires.

But Chinese papers today did not mention the letter, and confined their reports of press comment from other Asian countries favoring the Chinese proposals.

Diplomatic reports said one semi - official Chinese reaction was that Peking was "still in time to stop writing letters, and get to the conference table."

A report from a correspondent of the official New China news agency in the disputed border area appearing in all Peking newspapers today was the first confirmation here that at least some Chinese forces were withdrawing along the border.

Forty Youths, Soldiers Fight At Kingston

KINGSTON (CP) — City and military police prevented a battle between about 50 youths and soldiers Saturday after three soldiers were beaten up on a downtown street here.

An army spokesman and witnesses said they saw the youths attack soldiers wielding knives, chains and webbing belts. They scattered when police arrived.

Sigmn. Allan Charles Everson of Vimy Barracks here and Sigmn. Stuart Hamilton of Kingston were arrested and charged with creating a disturbance by fighting.

Earlier Sigmn. Norman George Miller of Vimy Barracks was taken to hospital with injuries suffered in a beating. He is in satisfactory condition.

Two police thugs he and two other soldiers were attacked by a gang of 17 youths.

Repay Foreign Exchange Loan

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has repaid another $15,000,000 of Swiss exchange borrowings made last June through currency swaps with United States and British central banks the Bank of Canada announced today.

The repayment was the second reduction in the $850,000,000 of short-term international debts incurred June 24 as part of the government's emergency program to overcome the earlier summer foreign exchange crisis.

No Vodka, Red Dead-End Kids Drink 10 Years' Cologne Supply

MOSCOW (AP)—Life down on the collective farm just hasn't been the same since Soviet reports started shipping juvenile delinquents out of the big cities to work with the peasants.

Exasperated Ukrainian kolkhoznikis (collective farmers) are telling authorities to quit sending problems—they have enough of their own.

The country folks' case against the government's program of "re-educating" young idlers who won't work was presented in the Kiev newspaper Pravda of the Ukraine.

"This is re-educating idlers?" the newspaper demanded in an article exposing the blinks of the Soviet dead end kids among their country cousins.

Valentin Kotskoy, chairman of the state farm, said he and his farmers got a shipment of idlers last year and, at first, everything went all right, but soon things began getting worse.

"The worst of it is the drunkenness," he told an interviewer, "especially on payday—when they drink for three or four days. They don't go out to work until they drink up everything."

Donskoy and his assistants decided to quit selling vodka at the state farm store. That same evening, all the "special settlers" were drunk as usual.

"It turned out the special settlers had hung one on with cheap Eau de Cologne," he explained. "The storekeeper couldn't keep up with the demand. He fulfilled his plan for the sale of Eau de Cologne for the next 10 years."

POPE APPEARS WELL ON WAY TO RECOVERY

Gives Usual Blessing to Crowd

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John appears well on his way back to resuming his normal duties after a week of battling a stomach disorder and serious anemia.

The Pope's personal physician has returned to his home in Bologna, expressing confidence.

There are indications that the pontiff may take part in the ceremonies closing the first session of the ecumenical council next weekend.

The supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church made his first public appearance in a week Sunday.

He stood for four minutes at the open window of his apartment, unshielded from cold gusts of wind in St. Peter's Square, to give his usual Sunday blessing to the crowd below.

In a strong clear voice carried by a loudspeaker he said: "Good health, which threatened to leave us, is about to return. Much more, it does return."

IN GOOD SPIRITS

The 81-yer-old pontiff looked a bit pale but rested and in good spirits. He raised his arms in his usual vigorous gesture of benediction.

The 50,000 Romans and tourists in the square cheered, applauded and waved.

Following the Pope's appearance, his personal physician, Dr. Antonio Gasbarrini, left the Vatican and returned to his home in north Italy.

Another papal doctor, Prof. Piero Mazzoni, remained on duty at the Apostolic Palace. He has slept there since last Tuesday.

"The best statement on the Pope's condition," said Gasbarrini, "is his appearance to bless the faithful . . . all I can add is that is that the Pope is the best of patients and I am confident that his excellent morale of the prescribed treatment."

There had been reports that Bishop Fiorenzo Angelini could be the Pope but the Vatican said no operation is in prospect.

Robbery Spree In Montreal, Loot $142,000

MONTREAL (CP) — More than $142,500 in money and valuables was stolen during the weekend, described by Montreal police today as one of the busiest ever for the city's underworld.

Charles Martel, president of the Martel Glass Company, reported that burglars got $57,153 in negotiable bonds, $300 cash and $1,500 worth of jewelry from his home.

The Trans-Canada Air Lines office in the downtown Mount Royal Hotel was broken into and $19,000 cash and $8,000 in cheques were stolen.

Thieves stole fur stoles and coats worth $15,000 from the de Repentigny Robillard Inc. store, and escaped with their faces disguised by plastic bandages, robbed contractor Joseph Sicard of $7,000.

Other muggings, break - ins and holdups netted thieves amounts ranging from $600 to $5,000 in money and goods.

Russia Accepts 'Robot' Police For Test Ban

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union today accepted the idea of using "black boxes"—robot detectors—to help police a comprehensive nuclear test ban.

But Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin stood fast against the Western demand for a compulsory on-site inspection system to check on suspicious underground disturbances.

Most Ontario Communities Hold Municipal Elections

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Fog and fluoridation are likely to be major determinants as residents of most Ontario communities vote today to select municipal officials for one- and two-year terms.

While the fog is expected to reduce the vote in communities bordering Lakes Ontario and Erie, fluoridation may well compensate for the losses.

Prospect of fluoridation plebiscites has tended to fill platforms and editorial papers in many communities where the election campaigns would otherwise have been run-of-the-mill. Toronto and Windsor lead the list of large cities where the question is on the ballot.

Several cities are voting this year on Sunday sports and movies and a few are holding referendums on two-year terms for municipal officials.

A close battle is predicted in Toronto's mayoralty race, where Mayor Nathan Phillips, 78, is opposed in his bid for an unprecedented fifth two - year term by Controller Donald Summerville, 47. Fluoridation is an issue in all 13 municipalities in Metropolitan Toronto.

While many communities, among them London, won't hold their elections until a week from today or later, a few held votes last Saturday.

Voters in Welland Saturday approved fluoridation by 5,182 to 3,787 and Sunday movies and sports by wider margins. Brace-

Export Promotion Drive Expected Real Success

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Hees reported today he "simply tremendous" early response by Canadian manufacturers and foreign buyers to his department's big six-week export promotion drive planned for next spring.

The export campaign—dubbed Canadian World Markets — is shaping up as "a real success," he said in a press statement reporting developments so far.

Mr. Hees called it the biggest operation of its kind ever undertaken by any country.

"I am really delighted with the way Canadian industry is getting behind us in this export trade promotion drive."

It is a four-part operation: A four of Canadian machine-making factories by foreign buyers; a national samples show with foreign buyers brought to Toronto to see and buy Canadian-made consumer goods; an Ottawa conference of the department's 130 trade commissioners brought home from around the world; and finally a conference here in which Canadian producers will interview the trade commissioners to discuss export

City Awakes With Smallest Grey Cup Hangover in Years

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto awoke today with the smallest post - Grey Cup hangover in years, a result of the weirdest weather situation the national football caliber has ever experienced.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers won their fourth Grey Cup title in six years by defeating Hamilton Tiger - Cats 28-27 in a game which began Saturday and finished more than 24 hours later following one of the longest time-outs ever.

Fog broke this year's game in two, halting play after 31½ minutes Saturday. By the time it ended Sunday afternoon, the majority of visitors from the West were already en route home and most of those from elsewhere were packed ready to leave.

There was little evidence of large-scale victory celebration Sunday night. In fact, there was little evidence — large or small — celebrating — a sharp contrast with the wild Saturday nights of the Grey Cup years since Toogarians kicked up their heels when their Stampeders won the title in 1948.

Among visitors who remained, some of them because nearby Malton Airport was fogbound and all flights were cancelled, there was a tendency toward a let - down feeling, especially if they were Hamilton fans.

Bars were closed and so was

The fans left their seats in the stands and started dancing to music played by bands when officials called a halt in the game because of dense fog. NUCLEAR ARMS LACK IN CANADA WORRIES U. S.

No Evidence Of Tension

WASHINGTON (CP)—A well-qualified military source say U.S. defence policy-makers are worried about the lack of nuclear warheads in Canada but that he has seen no evidence of increased tension. Canada-U.S. government tension over this issue since the Cuban crisis began.

This informant said the U.S. defence department would like to see the Canadian government make a decision as quickly as possible to acquire nuclear warheads for the two Canadian Bomarc missile squadrons and the Canadian forces component of the North American air defence system.

Such a decision would be in line with the established North American air-defence plan, he said. The Canadian government has stated it would acquire such warheads only in time of war — and during peace while world disarmament negotiations are under way.

POINT OF VIEW

The informant said the Americans again pointed to the "gap in North American air defence during the Cuban crisis when U.S. forces were put on the alert for a possible war against Russia following discovery of Soviet nuclear missiles and medium - range jet bombers in Cuba.

Gen. John Gerhart, North American Air Defence command, called an alert of all NORAD component forces, including those in Canada, when President Kennedy announced discovery of the offensive weapons on Oct. 22. The Canadian government did not announce an official Canadian alert until three days later.

The NORAD alert entailed dispersal of air defence squadrons, armed with nuclear weapons, to predetermined alternate locations. The informant said Canadian air forces were not authorized by the Canadian government to disperse—part of which the defence plan is to prevent destruction by any surprise enemy attack.

It was the fact that the Canadian air defenders did not carry nuclear weapons "inside Canada" that prompted Air Defence and "upset" the Canadian-U.S. defence posture, the informant said.

American authorities also were reported concerned because the Canadian government did not give authority for U.S. nuclear bombers to cross Canadian airfields while carrying nuclear bomb loads during their alert patrols.

Adenauer Seeks Coalition With Brandt's Party

BONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Adenauer today began sounding out the leaders of his Christian Democratic party (CDU) on a possible coalition with the opposition Social Democratic party (SPD).

It was learned that Housing Minister Paul Luecke, who called on the chancellor every day last week, has been in touch with the SPD, which is led by West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt and Erich Ollenhauer.

Luecke gave his report during a six-hour meeting between Adenauer and his party executive Saturday, after which Adenauer announced the postponement of talks with his majority coalition partner, the Free Democratic Party (FDP), scheduled to begin today.

The FDP executive was expected to meet today to discuss the possible coalition between West Germany's two largest parties.

Low Visibility Blamed For 5 Traffic Deaths

Warm Air Is Pushed Across Chilly Lakes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dense, wet fog continued to waft in varying degrees of intensity across southern and western Ontario today.

There is good chance of fog Tuesday, although it is not expected to be as dense or widespread as on the weekend. The weather office indicated that the weather system responsible for the fog should move on "in a couple of days."

Fog in southern Ontario was blamed for five traffic deaths during the weekend. A man and his wife were struck by a car near Chatham as they walked home after their own car crashed into a ditch. A man was killed in Owen Sound when his truck went over a bank, a Port Colborne man was killed when he ran in front of a train and a boy died in oronto when he ran in front of a car.

The fog is caused by warm air masses from the south being pushed north across chilly Lakes Ontario and Erie. The warm air picks up moisture and it is thickened.

Weathermen say the general rule is for the fog to be pushed back to the lake during the daytime. But the blanket has been so heavy the last few days that the sun's rays cannot penetrate and creeps north during the night.

The weather office said it has had reports of dense fog from Windsor to Kingston, and as far north as 80 miles north of Peterborough.

GROUNDS AIR TRAFFIC

Air traffic was grounded at Toronto last week and flights were routed to London or Montreal. London airport continues handle DC-8 jets, and those travellers dropped at Montreal continue their trip to the Toronto area by train.

Passengers who land at London are transported east by bus. Buffalo and Niagara Falls airports closed Sunday and air traffic for that area has been rerouted to Rochester and Syracuse.

At London—the "biggest little airport on the TCA route"—more than 2,000 passengers have Thought Cremation Banned, Indian Put Dead Wife in Frig

NEW YORK (AP) — A young hospital intern from India says he cut up the body of his wife and put it in a refrigerator after she died.

Dr. Ramish Jain, 25, an Indian exchange student who came to the United States last year, was arrested by police Sunday while on duty at Jacobi Hospital in the Bronx.

Detectives said Jain admitted the butchering job on his 17-year-old wife, Kerun, by whom he married in India when she was 15.

Police found the dismembered body when called to the building by the landlady who complained of a strong odor coming from the couple's fifth-floor apartment. She and her husband had noted the bloodstained packages in the refrigerator but apparently were unaware of the gruesome contents.

He told police that when he arrived home Nov. 22, Thanksgiving Day in the U.S. he discovered his wife in pain on the floor. He gave her sedatives but her condition worsened. She went into a coma and his attempts to revive here were futile, he said.

Dissecting the body with a scapel the next day, he started to dispose of portions of it because he claimed he did not know cremation is permitted in the U.S., Assistant District Attorney Harold Entin said.

Entin quoted Jain as saying that in India when it is not possible to cremate, then the Hindu religion requires that the body be disposed of in clean, pure waters.

Jain, who arrived here in July, 1961, from Kota, Ir where his father is a d was booked on nine al misdemeanor viol the city health cod

Tito and Wife Visiting Russia On Holiday Trip

BELGRADE (Reuters) — Yugoslav President Josip Tito arrived at the Soviet frontier today on his first visit to Russia since 1956, the Yugoslav news agency Tanyug reported.

The agency said Tito, on an "unofficial Russian holiday" with his wife expected to last 12 days, was welcomed by Deputy Premier Nikolai Firyubin and other Soviet officials when his special blue train pulled into the frontier station at Chop after an overnight journey across Hungary.

A Soviet Army band played the national anthems of both countries as the Yugoslav leader inspected an honor guard of platoon of the flag-decked station.

Western observers consider Tito's visit to the Soviet Union the most significant development in Soviet - Yugoslav friendship" since the crushing of the 1956 Hungarian revolution watered Khrushchev's efforts to "de-Stalinize" relations with the Yugoslavs.

Tuesday night in Budapest Hungarian Communist leader Janos Kadar attended a dinner in honor of Tito—the first meeting between the Communist leaders since 1956.

EXCHANGE TOASTS

It was expected Tito and Khrushchev would attempt to outline a pattern of future relations which would enable them to co-operate when possible and/ or open quarrels when they differ.

Tito's 1956 visit came during a lull between the two men's feuds resulting from a Russian apology for past treatment of Yugoslavia and recognition of the Soviet bloc. But the dispute flared up again after the Hungarian uprising.

The period of improving relations between the two countries has coincided with sharpening Soviet disputes with Albania, Yugoslavia's neighbor and—together with Communist China —its most bitter ideological opponent.

New Chapel for Christian Education at Bridge Street United Church Dedicated Belleville's oldest United Church congregation, yesterday quietly hailed the conclusion of its newest project.

Members of Bridge Street United Church, joined by ecclesiastical and local government representatives, thronged to a Sunday afternoon service dedicating a new chapel and Christian education wing, now a modern extension of the 124-year-old church building. The ambitious project was also held up by visiting clerics as material proof of the congregation's spiritual health and strength.

In this sense, guest preacher and former pastor of the Bridge Street community, Rev. Donald C. Amos said the event testified to "vision" — something that was easily lost in modern life.

"When there is no vision the people perish", Mr. Amos, now minister of Oriole-York Mills United Church in Willowdale, told yesterday's service.

"In our day, by and, large, the only time we think of perishing is when we think of the H-bomb";

However, said Mr. Amos, spiritual decline is a continuing process and threatens society.

"What we really mean by perishing, is perhaps that state of boredom, the state of chaos and strife that results when men follow no star but their own".

"Evidence of it is not hard to come by", he claimed, "... where our own generation may be confronted with its own doubts".

SHOULD LIFT EYES

"We get caught in the mundane things, in the everyday," he said. Spiritual vision lifts from life, and often becomes lost.

"What we need sometimes is to lift our eyes to God and try to fulfill His purposes. The vision which sets us free is the sense of God's gracious purposefulness".

"The new building" he said, "will be a challenge through which a whole stream of people in this city will go out and carry the tide of God's work."

Mr. Amos was pastor at Bridge Street United Church from 1945-50.

The clerical visitors were led by the distinguished scholar, Rev. Principal Elias Andrews, of Kingston, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

He formally accepted the keys of the building from representatives of its architects and construction firm, said the dedication had "been anticipated" for a long time.

"It will be a day you will begin in your history as a great new advance for the Kingdom of God," Rev. Andrews said.

"I predict this congregation will go forward to greater service, greater and victories for the Kingdom of God because of the dedication of this day," he told the assembled parishioners.

Rev. Harry M. Davis told his congregation had been on the receiving end of tradition for many years, but the project marked a departure and a renewal of the spiritual vision which marked the founding of the church.

Its first parent — a Methodist church — was built in Belleville in 1815. The present church was built in 1837 and in 1925 the congregation had used mainly the same facilities. The need for extended services and specialized activities in education — had been apparent for the past two decades. The need for the present, thanks to the church committees which had given "unstintingly" of their time.

The litany of dedication was led by Rev. Alexander McDowell, minister of the Canadian United Church Presbytery;

Among the assembly were Lee Grills, MP; Elmer Sanderson, MLA; Mayor A. MacLean Fraser and Archdeacon A. E. Connell, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association.

Point Anne Man Dies of Injuries From Accident

A Point Anne man died early Sunday in Toronto hospital from injuries received in an accident east of Belleville, Nov. ember 15.

James Welsh, aged 40, died at 3.10 a.m. yesterday in Toronto General Hospital, failing to recover from severe chest injuries received when he was thrown from his bicycle just outside Belleville city limits.

Provincial police allege that Welsh was thrown from his machine after it was struck by an RCAF road transport trailer, carrying Rolls Royce jet engines for Transpo Command aircraft at Trenton.

The trailer was loaded impounded by police and its driver charged with drunk driving.

LAC Gordon Howard Gilles pie is currently on a month's remand after his appearance before magistrate T. Y. Wills in Belleville last Thursday.

Miss Melinda Peck Doing Field Work

Miss Melinda Starr Peck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fuller Peck, R.D. No. 1 Carrying Place, is one of more than 400 students from Keuka College, Keuka Park, N.Y., participating in the college's yearly fall Field Period.

Keuka College students last their campus studies Nov. 16 to participate in work and study projects in off-campus study locations in 17 states, Washington, D.C., Canada and France. Field Period runs through Dec. 22. Keuka students will resume their classroom work on campus Jan. 7.

Staff of Paper Enjoys Annual Dinner, Dance

By general consensus the annual dinner and staff of the Ontario Intelligencer held its Christmas dinner - dance at the Army, Navy and Air Force auditorium Saturday night.

Upwards of ninety staff members, and guests enjoyed a delectable turkey dinner, served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the ANAF.

City editor Claude D. Tice "chalked" the dinner. A music and dance program was held in memory of the newspaper's late publisher, Mr. W. H. Morton.

Other guests during the party for the post-dinner dance with everybody enjoying the rhythms of the Bill Phillips orchestra.

A number of spot and door prizes were awarded, Roger Taylor and his lady guest were the winners of the "twist" contest.

The greater part of the success of the party goes to the efforts of Nancy Collacutt, June Weeks, Ron Kavaner and others of their committee. They did an excellent job, one appreciated by all staff members.

Publisher Dr. Gerald A. Morton and Mrs. Morton were present, mingling freely with the staff and their guests.

"Paul Revere" and other novelty dances were enjoyed. Midnight rang down the curtain on a highly enjoyable staff get-together.

Past Month Bit Cooler Than Year Ago

This past month has been a bit cooler than November of 1961 and quite below the 10-year average for this district. During the past November there had been a recorded high of 51 degrees Fahrenheit as compared to 69 degrees last year. The lows for these two periods were 17 and 15 degrees respectively and the mean temperatures were 34.5 and 36.5 degrees. The 10-year average mean temperature stands at 38.2 degrees with the high and low figures for this period being 51.5 and 13.3 degrees.

The past November had 1.85 inches of rainfall, 2.0 inches of snow and a total precipitation of 2.05. In 1961, the comparative figures were 2.67, 2.3 and 2.85 respectively. Over the past 10 years the following figures apply: rainfall — 2.08 inches; snowfall — 9.3 inches; total precipitation — 2.61 inches.

Quebec Car Abandoned at Plainfield

Provincial Police in Belleville puzzled the mystery of a Quebec registered automobile abandoned at Plainfield during the weekend. The car was definitely close to its origin but only 12 miles to Tweed—where it blew a tire.

Police say the driver apparently got as far as Plainfield practically on the rim of the wheel before abandoning the automobile.

The car also was heavily damaged and police surmised it may have struck highway guideposts in the district. However, no reports of such a mishap were received.

Wrestling Added to Moira Sports

Thirty - five Moira boys answered the call of coach Dave Bell last week when he announced those interested in forming a wrestling team to compete with other schools during the regularly accepted intercollegiate rules.

Weight class rules there are 12 weight classifications beginning at "under 98 lbs." and ending with "heavies" at approximately 8 lbs. to the group for-those "182 lbs. and over".

The Moira boys' tournament began today when some 60 boys vied for individual weigh in bouts. Then an interscuad meet on December 14. This will be the first chance for the student body to see their school representatives in action.

The afternoon of that event will compete on Dec. 21st against the first team from BCI while those same boys will meet the best will wrestle the BCI seconds.

Following the holidays, plans call for two meets against schools from Whitby; entry of a team in the Central Ontario championships to be held in Whitby and entry of a team in the All-Ontario High School Championships, a two-day affair to be held at West Hill Collegiate in Toronto.

2 Campbellford Men Killed, Car Leaves Road

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP) —Two Campbellford men were killed Saturday night when their car left the highway and crashed into a ditch, hit a culvert and bounced 40 feet through the air before smashing into a tree near here.

Police said it took two hours to free the bodies of Gunnis Thomas Mahoney, 20, and Claude William Burkitt, 20, from the wreckage. Both were married.

Campbellford is 24 miles east of Peterborough.

Advance Poll Saw 96 Persons Cast Ballots

While early returns were light in today's Belleville municipal election, the advance poll was among the heaviest in recent years.

City clerk Adam Stalker reported this morning that 96 ballots were cast in the three-day advance voting at Pine Street, public school.

This compares with 64 in the two-day poll last year an increase of 33 percent.

New Sanitary Sewer System In Parkdale Ready in Week

Parkdale's new sanitary sewer system should be ready for use sometime within the next week, according to A. W. Savory, the engineer in charge of the project. The trunk lines are already opened, and five crews totalling about 40 men are now working on the laterals along Maple Drive. In the three-block stretch, the contractor is using a machine from Montreal, now have two large power shovels, three small tractor mounted shovels, and two front loading bulldozers at work.

The exceptionally high concentration of men and equipment along this section is coincidental. Most of the other crews working toward a common point and arriving at that point from the opposite ever, with some machinery, would have been added to the total, except for difficulties along their Gilbert Avenue section, which are now at work.

The whole project in Parkdale has gone exceptionally fast, according to Mr. Savory. The whole of the Sidney St. section, from College Street to Maple Drive, a distance between Oct. 29 and Nov. 17, he said, and a total of 18,000 feet of sewer pipe was laid in that area, was laid during three months of work.

At the beginning, the contractor hoped to have the $300,000 job done by Christmas and Mr. Savory said the general season after. It appears now that the men and equipment will be back at their home base in good time for the holiday.

Many Traffic Accidents Due To Heavy Fog

Heavy fog continued seeping over the Quinte district this morning after a weekend that made even moderate speeds a hazard to highway safety.

Traffic police relayed crossed-fingers today after a week that has seen the worst and one of the worst threats to highway motorists this year.

There was a string of traffic accidents—but only two in the immediate Belleville area that resulted in injuries or hospitalization.

One mishap, in Belleville, which sent two persons to hospital, occurred on Wednesday noon and was not blamed on the fog.

Police say Mrs. Evelyn Elmhirst, R.R. 3, Havelock, suffered a fractured leg, and John Cederdruck, of 24 Bleecker St., Belleville, was treated for face cuts and bruises after a two-car crash at the corner of College streets.

Mrs. Elmhirst was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, George, which collided with Cederdruck's car at the intersection. The injured were taken to Belleville General Hospital.

On Highway 37 at the fourth concession of Thurlow township, a car driven by Lorne Hodge, 20, Herchimer Avenue, was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, George, which collided with Cederdruck's car at the intersection. The injured were taken to Belleville General Hospital.

On Highway 37 at the fourth concession of Thurlow township, a car driven by Lorne Hodge, 20, received back injuries in a two-car crash last night.

Mrs. Agnes Cambridge, 290 Herchimer Avenue, was a passenger in a car driven by her husband, George, which collided with Cederdruck's car at the intersection. The injured were taken to Belleville General Hospital.

ROSE ON SUNDAY

The fog, began rising Sunday morning, in the Belleville area. By late evening it had rolled down a heavy blanket across the district. Traffic moved cautiously on Highway 401 through the night. On Highway 2 visibility was at most zero in spots between Belleville and Trenton.

However, one of the weekend's most crucial traffic problems had nothing to do with the fog screen. Saturday morning, city police in Belleville were assigned all their men to control traffic and crowds at the city's Santa Claus parade if possible without incident.

Police chief Walter Probert reported a total absence of incident on his department's accident log. Despite the traffic tie-ups, thousands of excited moppets lining the downtown area, no serious mishaps were recorded.

OFFERS AID

DAMASCAS (Reuters)—Communist China has officially offered Syria financial and economic aid, Syrian Prime Minister Khaled Al Azem told reporters here today. After a one-hour meeting with Chinese Ambassador Hsu Yi-hsun, who made the offer, Al Azem said a Syrian delegation would go to Peking to confer on the aid program.

Obituaries

JAMES HAROLD WELSH
Point Anne

Following injuries suffered when struck by a truck as he was riding a bicycle on No. 2 Highway, east of Belleville last November 15th, James Harold Welsh, of Point Anne, died Sunday in Toronto General Hospital. He was in his 41st year.

Born in Cherry Valley, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Welsh and had lived at Point Anne for the past five years, moving there from Cherry Valley.

He had been stationary engineer at the Federal Building in Belleville for the past three years.

A member of Point Anne United Church, he is survived by his wife, the former Annie Rowe, a son David, and a daughter, Ruth at home.

There are two brothers, Ralph of Conway, and George of Picton, and one sister, Mrs. Donald (Mary) Hunt of Kingston.

CHARLES HENRY JEZZARD

The death of Charles Henry Jezzard occurred at his residence, 72 Bridge Street East, on Saturday evening. He was in his 63rd year.

Born in Shaftsbury, Isle of Man, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Jezzard and husband of Edith Mott.

He worshipped at the Tabernacle United Church and was employed as a manufacturing man at Avon Jewellers. He had lived at his College Street residence for the past 38 years, previously residing at the Isle of Man.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two step-daughters, Mrs. Terrance (Eileen) McCabe, of Belleville, and Mrs. James (Lenore), Watson of Peterborough, and two step-sons, Norman and Melvin Braddon, both of Toronto.

Two Holes Blasted in Berlin Wall

BERLIN (AP) — Two holes were blasted in the Berlin wall Sunday in the scene of many previous dramatic escapes.

One blast tore a hole five feet high and five feet wide in the Communist Barrier. The other measured a little over a square foot.

The scene was along the wall between the American sector and Soviet sector.

The Communists have emplaced all houses and bricked up all windows on the side of the street in East Berlin. People had escaped there by letting themselves down on ropes or by jumping into firemen's nets during the early stages of the wall.

The statement, distributed by the official East German news agency ADN, blamed them on "West Berlin extremists and (Mayor Willy) Brandt" as they were trying to heat up Berlin as a trouble spot.

CYCLIST KILLED

NAPLES (AP) — Police Sunday reported that Antonio Matfenne, 16, cruising by motorcycle with a big load of fire-works — illegal in Naples — missed a curve and crashed into a car. He died in the explosion of his cargo. The two car occupants were slightly hurt.

Court Declares Silver Our Work of Art

TORONTO (CP)—A silver our—symbol of authority in the Ontario Admiralty District Court—came to rest Friday in a bracket at Osgoode Hall, centre of law courts, ending a lengthy wrangle that had taxed some of the province's best legal minds.

Mr. Justice Dalton Wells issued an order taking the mace into the court's possession. Nine judges, including Chief Justice Dana Porter of Ontario, Mr. Justice J. C. Norris of British Columbia and Mr. Justice Arnold W. Smith of Quebec, flanked Mr. Justice Wells as he commended Toronto's admiralty bar for providing the court with a copy of the oar at Britain's Admiralty Court.

The $1,200 oar, paid for through private subscriptions, was made at Garrards of London, the Crown jewellers. But when it arrived in Canada, the customs inspectors took a long look and assessed duty at more than 60 per cent.

There was no money provided for such an assessment. A call from Justice Minister Fleming to the customs office didn't help. The customs officials said they were only enforcing the law.

A representative of Toronto's admiralty bar court then suggested the court might issue a writ for the oar and then a certificate that no duty need be paid as long as it remained in the custody of the court. Lawyers for the customs department thought that was a clever scheme.

The bar suggested that the oar might be ruled a piece of sculpture and admitted duty free. The customs men didn't think it was a piece of sculpture.

Then Charles Comfort, director of the National Gallery, wrote a maintenance that the oar was an object of art. That settled it. The customs men released the oar without duty.

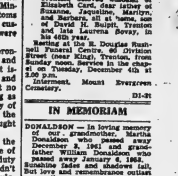
Supreme Court Postponed For One Week

Divorce and alimony cases with traffic accident claims share the bulk of the Ontario Supreme Court docket to be heard in Belleville next week.

The non-jury sittings, which were originally scheduled for today, have been moved ahead a week through illness of Mr. Justice E. G. Thompson. At this time, the Supreme Court Sheriff's office is not certain which Supreme Court Justice will now preside.

A total of 23 cases were originally docketed for decision before the court. Of these, nine are claims for dissolution of marriage, one for alimony and 10 are suits involving traffic negligence in operating motor vehicles.

Body Recovered In Lake Simcoe



BARRIE (CP)—The body of Robert Gordon Bridgeford, 24, missing in Lake Simcoe since Oct. 31, was found Sunday by a hitchhiker, a man in a 200 feet from the spot where the cabin cruiser he and three other men were sailing in capsized.

The three survivors, Bruce Mayes, 32, of Cookstown, Roger Newton, 38, and Al Snider, 40, both of Barrie, clung to the overturned 18-foot boat after it capsized.

Extensive dragging and scuba diving operations in Kempenfelt Bay near Barrie where the boat capsized, failed to locate Mr. Barrett's body and he was presumed dead.

Voting Light Across City In Early Hours

Polling sub-divisions throughout the city recorded a moderate voting activity up until noon but the clerk's office at city hall was just about the busiest place in town.

Throughout the morning staff members at the clerk's office were kept on the hop as ratepayers swarmed the office to cast voting slips after they found their names had been left off the voters' list.

And the rush at city hall was accentuated when a clerk at one of the polling sub-divisions failed to turn up and a worker from the clerk's office had to take over regular duties and fill in.

By 10 o'clock this morning only five persons had voted at the city hall polling station and two of those were poll workers.

But as sunday things were expected to pick up as the day progressed with the big rushes being during the noon hour and between five o'clock and the time the polls closing polls at 7.00 p.m. this evening.

Lee Grills, MP, Honored By PC Assoc. Executive, Presented With a Plaque

By GLADYS WARD

Mr. Lee E. Grills, Member of Parliament for Hastings South, was the honored guest at a dinner arranged by the executive of the Progressive Conservative Association of this riding on Saturday evening at the Kiwanis Centre. Totally unaware of the surprise planned for him in recognition of his services to the community, Mr. Grills was visibly moved at this expression of appreciation and loyalty. The dinner was attended by nearly one hundred members and their wives, with every part of the riding being well represented.

The Honorable R. A. Bell, Minister of Citizenship and Immigration, was guest speaker this evening, paying tribute to Lee Grills for his contribution to various committees of which Mr. Bell spoke of the devaluation of the dollar, which at the present time is open to criticism, but with the passing of time had been accepted as satisfactory for business.

"This meeting should be your springboard for the next election," Mr. Bell advised his listeners.

The speaker was introduced by Mr. Harold Varty, Warden of Hastings County, and appreciation for the stirring message given by the Minister was expressed by Mr. Ray Gunsolus, secretary of the P.C. Association.

Mr. Jack Ireland, President of the Association was chairman for the occasion. Mrs. Harry Rollins was pianist for the singing of "O Canada" at the opening and the National Anthem at the close of the evening.

PRESENTED WITH PLAQUE

On behalf of the executive, Mrs. Rhoda Proudfoot of the Ladies' Progressive Conservative Association, presented Mr. Grills with a plaque, suitably engraved to "the friendly milkman, in appreciation of services rendered." Three small medallions signified the three successful election campaigns undertaken by Lee Grills, representing five years as a member, thus equalling the record of the late W. E. Tummon. Mr. Grills accepted the plaque with sincere gratitude.

Greetings were brought by Mr. Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. for West Hastings and by Mr. Clarke Rollins, M.L.A. for East Hastings.

Mrs. Lee Grills and Miss Betty Grills were each presented with corsages.

Mrs. Clarence Graham, past president of the Association, expressed appreciation to all who had contributed to making the evening so pleasant and successful.

Picton Santa Welcomed By Large Crowd In County Town

PICTON — The weather was anything but Christmas like when Santa Claus made his official visit to Picton Saturday afternoon. It was warm with brilliant sunshine and no trace of the fog which plagued the Grey Cup game in Toronto.

A crowd of between three and four thousand jammed the parking lot at Gentile Foods Ltd. expectantly awaiting Santa's helicopter. It passed over the area several times before it landed on the roof. Santa alighted to a waving and cheering crowd of thrilled children. He remarked that while there was lots of snow in the north, he had been forced to leave his reindeer and use the helicopter.

Santa had an escort of six members of the 1st Battalion Canadian Guards, resplendent in their uniforms, as he made his way to a group of crippled children.

The first children headed for the County Centre for free skating was evident as empty packages were strewn all along the way there.

The recovery odds in favor of downed jet interceptor aircrew from Comox, B.C. RCAF Station's CF-101B Squadron have been increased by the issue of bright orange flying suits to pilots and navigators of 409 Nighthawk Squadron. The new suits make visual sighting by search aircraft much easier than the regular blue issue.

Displaying the old and the new are Flight Lieutenant Doug Abrahamson, 35, Vancouver, and Flying Officer Bill Tulloch, 23, of Belleville. Both men are pilots with the 409 Nighthawk Squadron.

Only Three Persons Voted In Advance Poll

TRENTON — Three persons voted in an advance poll held in Trenton on Saturday. Today, by 11.30 a.m., voting in Trenton's municipal election was reported to be very light.

Voters are being asked to elect three councillors from a slate of eight, and a utilities commissioner. R. E. "Roly" Whitley, who announced that he did not wish to accept election to the Public Utilities Commission, after he had qualified to run, later issued a statement, urging the voters to cast their ballot for the other contestant in the utilities voting. Charles Hilton. Once Mr. Whitley had qualified it was impossible to remove his name from the ballot. Hence, there is a possibility that Mr. Whitley might be elected to the one vacant seat on the PUC, against his will. Trenton voters will also be being asked to settle the question of commercial Sunday afternoon entertainment in the town. Factions, for and against Sunday movies, concerts, etc. (where paid admission enters into the picture), have sponsored advertising, outlining the pros and cons of their viewpoints.

$4,640 Turned Into Fund For Retarded

TRENTON — Mrs. K. J. "Bobbie" Reid, campaign chairman for the Trenton-Brighton and District Association for Retarded Children's Fund Drive, reports that $4,640.45 has been turned in so far. Fifteen captains have yet to be heard from. This sum represents $3,600.45 collected in a house-to-house drive and donated and $1,040 from the Trenton Lions' Club.

Mrs. Reid says that she hopes the totals from Frankford, Batawa and other district centres will swell this amount appreciably. With returns off to such a good start, Mrs. Reid feels that this year's figure should top all expectations thus paving the way for improved transportation for the retarded children this winter. A new school bus is being considered by the executive.

KINGSTON (CP) — A newspaper photographer's camera was smashed early Sunday and he and a reporter were ordered to leave the scene when they tried to take pictures of a recaptured Collins Bay Penitentiary escapee.

Fred Ross of the Kingston Whig-Standard said his camera was knocked from his hand and smashed in front of a Windsor Street house where Gordon Lonchamps, 26, of Ottawa, gave himself up.

Lonchamps, serving five years for assault with intent to rob, gave himself up when he was discovered in a car by Mr. and Mrs. William Price of Kingston, who were attending a party in the house. The escapee was taken into the house by the couple where he was held for police.

Ross and reporter Peter Moon followed Provincial Police Constable Peter Taylor who went to take Lonchamps into custody. They said when they stepped from their vehicle, Mrs. Price came from the house, identified himself as a Kingston penitentiary employee and ordered the newspaper men from the scene.

Moon said that four men blocked "Ross's view when he tried to take a picture of Constable Taylor and the prisoner. He said the men jostled him and one of them grabbed the camera from the photographer's hand and smashed it into the ground.

Lonchamps was among three men who escaped Saturday.

Percy Roy Collins, 24, of Toronto, and Allan Carver, 25, Sudbury, serving two and three year sentences, respectively, for theft, were recaptured at an OPP roadblock on Highway 2 near Colonel, Sunday.

The car the men were driving was stolen from the Collins Bay area Saturday.

Consecon Store Gutted by Fire, Loss Is $35,000

CONSECON — Fire yesterday gutted the Bradshaw general store here, causing a loss of about $35,000. Some walls of the store, and of the ground floor living quarters, still stand, but the roof has caved in and the interior is a total loss.

The Bradshaws, who bought the store just last year from Joseph Seeley, now of Picton, were attending service in Belleville when the blaze was discovered. They heard of the fire during a CJBQ news broadcast.

The fire was seen first about 2.30 p.m. at the rear of the building, and Consecon and Wellington fire departments were called to the scene. Firemen from both departments kept the flames under control for nearly six hours, and managed to save nearly half the stock, but the frame store could not be saved. Even the ground floor furniture, which neighbors managed to carry out of the building, was badly blistered by heat.

Near tragedy was averted during the fire when OPP Constable Arnold Besteman, of Picton, cleared the crowd from the corner near the scene because he thought the hydro wires above the corner might fall. Minutes later, a Trenton fire truck, enroute to the fire, skidded on the wet pavement at the corner. The truck slewed across the area from which the crowd had been moved and struck a parked police cruiser and a small car owned by a Trenton fireman. Damage to the two vehicles has been estimated at about $300. Damage to the truck was minor.

According to firemen, the fire may have started near an oil burner, in the back of the store basement.

Mother Kills Four Children, Then Herself

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP). — The bodies of a young Topeka mother and her four children were found in their home Saturday with their throats slashed.

Police said the woman had left a note saying she had done it because she was "no good."

The bodies were found by the woman's husband, William Fitzgibbons Jr., 30, when he returned home from work.

Fitzgibbons said there had been no sign of despondency in his 26-year-old wife, Ann, when he left the house several hours earlier.

Two of the children, all in night clothes, were found in the living room, one in a bathroom and one in a bedroom.

They were Billy, 5, Tommy, 4, Jeff 2, and Kelly 1.

Salazar Quits Defence Post

LISBON (Reuters) — Premier Antonio Salazar has made major changes in the Portuguese cabinet believed to reflect an improvement in the military situation in troubled Angola, it was announced early today.

In the most important change, Salazar gave up his post as defence minister. Five other new cabinet ministers were appointed. There was no official comment on the changes, announced by the national secretariat of information.

The new defence minister is Fen. Manuel Gomes de Araujo, present chief of the armed forces general staff, a post usually well-informed sources expect will go to Gen. Luis da Camara Pina.

Salazar, 72, who has been premier since 1932, took over the defence ministry in April, 1961, saying the reason for the move was summed up in the word "Angola."

Portugal was then facing a critical uprising by African nationalists in the African territory. Since then the Portuguese situation there has apparently improved and Salazar felt able to relinquish the post.

Queen's Student Killed in Fall Over Railing

KINGSTON (CP)—A Queen's University student was killed and another injured Saturday night when a playful football-like tackle sent the pair over a stairwell railing to the floor 20 feet below.

William George Allan, 22, of Kingston, a fourth - year arts student, was killed and Douglas Gardner, 20, of North Bay, a second-year arts student, is in hospital.

Friends said the youths went to a downtown apartment to borrow books with Alexander Ferguson, Alain Duncan and Andrew Hay, all of Kingston, when the accident occurred. The apartment is occupied by three girls, who were not at home.

Police said that the students were leaving the building, Gardner was knocked over the railing and Allan grabbed him. The two slid over and fell to the floor below.

Gardner was taken to Kingston General Hospital where his condition was described as satisfactory.

GANGSTER GUNNED

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—A one-time member of Chicago's Bugs Moran gang was shot to death by three shotgun blasts fired from ambush Sunday. The victim was identified as Virgil Wilson Summers, 48. Police said he was a henchman of the late Chicago gang leader.

U Thant Does Not Think Khrushchev Wants War

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant believes Soviet Premier Khrushchev does not want war but that "the West does not seem to appreciate the full significance" of this address from Stalinism. He called for "give - and - take on both sides."

Thant dealt with "East-West relations and the United Nations" in a lecture at Johns Hopkins University Saturday.

He said in his prepared lecture:

"In the late '40s and early '50s the political systems and theories, such as the inevitability of war—prevailing in the Soviet Union were increasingly regarded elsewhere as a definite threat to political and economic systems in the rest of the world. In my view the systems created and maintained by Stalin was manifestly ruthless and obsolescent. . . .

"Mr. Khrushchev . . . belongs to a different category of leaders, with a coherent philosophy of the world based on the thesis, not of the inevitability of war, but of the imperative of competitive coexistence. We may or may not agree with his philosophy or with his aims, but we have very good reasons to believe that he does not want war.

"The West does not seem to appreciate the full significance of this obvious change of political climate in the Soviet Union. Throughout the '50s most Western leaders saw the world as a battlefield between two antagonistic systems, militantly expressing the principles of good and evil. Hence, compromise was betrayal: Evil could be held at bay only by ironclad alliances, held together by mutual fear and backed by the constant threat of nuclear war.

Civil Servants Hold Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Belleville Branch No. 46, Civil Service Association of Ontario, was held Wednesday evening last at the O.S.D. with a large crowd in attendance.

Mr. Elgin Vader, President, gave a short report on the annual meeting, stating that Harold Mace was elected president of the Civil Service Association of Ontario for another year.

Russian Voices Deep Concern Over India War

Kozlov, a secretary of the Soviet Communist party central committee here and head of a Russian delegation to the annual congress of the Italian Communist party added in a speech to the congress that the fighting "seriously damages the interests of our Chinese friends and of our Indian friends."

Kozlov reaffirmed the Soviet line of peaceful coexistence and the non-inevitability of war and defended Russian actions in the Cuban crisis.

"He who trusts in his own strength has no need to play with thermonuclear fire," he said.

Shocking Report

Amongst the past week's news stories on The Canadian Press wire, surely there can have been none essentially more shocking than that which, six days after the event, provided the detailed background of the deaths in a bomb explosion of a Youngstown, Ohio, man and his son.

Youngstown is a city of 175,000 population—not a large city as cities go in the U.S., just five times the size of Belleville.

This bomb explosion was the 81st booby-trap bombing there since 1952. Of course, not all of these bombings claimed lives. Still, they all endangered lives. And none of them has been solved.

Imagine a situation in which eight bombings occurred every year in a Canadian city of that size—or, if you want to bring the comparison closer home, in which a total of eight bombings occurred every year in Peterborough, Kingston, Cornwall, Brockville and Belleville, whose combined populations are somewhere near that of Youngstown.

Imagine a state of public opinion which took such a situation for granted—until one of the explosions happened to kill a boy.

Imagine a country in which only the belated rising of a tide of public indignation led a newspaper's service to consider that the bombing was of sufficient interest to warrant a comprehensive story—six days after the actual bombing.

Imagine all this—and then thank your lucky stars you are living in Canada.

Let's Use Our Visionaries

Ontario will spend $200,000,000 in the next two decades to acquire land for parks and recreational facilities. This means that every year twenty million dollars will be required for land alone, not counting the cost of development in order that this land may serve the purpose for which it will be bought.

Some will regard this sum as a measure of past stupidity. All of this land which will now cost such a fortune was once in the public domain and most of it was sold for a pittance, if anything.

This, though, is to draw too long a bow. Even a mere century ago, no "sane" man would have predicted there would today be so many Ontario residents, that they would be crowded into such large cities, they would have so much leisure time, or that they would be able to travel such distances to distant lakes, rivers, beaches, woods and hills.

No "sane" man, we say, would have foreseen today's conditions—only a visionary.

But this ought to teach us something. In spite of all the emphasis now being placed, so belatedly, on planning, no "sane" man is likely to directly or anything approaching accuracy what this country will be like in 2062, A.D.

We could do worse than to appoint a committee of wild visionaries to tell us what we are doing, or failing to do, today which will, a hundred years from now, be interpreted as proof of our sanity—and will cost our descendants many millions to rectify.

Vicious Circle

Grants to Canadian education by business and industry declined in 1961 for the second consecutive year, the Industrial Research and Education has just announced. In 1961 grants amounted to $10,900,000, compared to $11,400,000 in 1960 and $12,400,000 in 1959. The Foundation notes that the drop is due to the profit squeeze that Canadian corporations have faced in recent years.

Education grants by business firms are made at the university level and it is probable that news of their decline will step up the propaganda for more federal government aid to higher education." That phrase, it should be noted, is a misnomer. What is really being asked is that Ottawa should spend more tax money.

But could that be done without further tightening of the profit squeeze on business? In turn, that would further reduce industry's voluntary aid to education—to say nothing of the effect it would have on industry's ability to reinvest in growth.

A public man can be corrupt, incompetent, cruel, vindictive, vacillating, self-seeking, weak and stupid and yet attain to the highest honors in the state; but if he is ridiculous he is undone. Slander he can refute; abuse he can despise, but against ridicule he has no defence.—Somerset Maughan in Then and Now.

Let there be one man who has a city obedient to his will, and he might bring into existence the ideal polity about which the world is so incredulous.—Plato.

Stricly Personal
How Words Color Our Thoughts

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

People keep confusing — sometimes purposely — authors with their characters and quoting a statement by the character as proof that the author is expressing his own view.

One of the most common examples of this perversion is the phrase, "What's his name?" supposed to have "said" — but actually it was said by a 14-year-old girl named Juliet, who knew little about the world, and less about semantics.

There is a great deal in a name!" — and sometimes there is everything in a name. A rose might smell as sweet if it were called a pheffleburger, but it wouldn't be mentioned in so many poems and songs.

During the last war, for instance, that inimitable phrase-maker, Winston Churchill, in a radio broadcast rechristened the Local Defense Volunteers the Home Guard. The local Defense Volunteers" is a cumbersome bureaucratic name with no emotional appeal; "Home Guard" stiffened every Briton's spine and made him proud to be a member of it.

Likewise, it was a stroke of inspiration to call it the Home Corps. Had it been called the Overseas Technical and Medical Aid Auxiliary, it would not have captured the imagination of so many young people.

Hitler similarly manipulated the value of a name when he changed his from Schicklgruber; and Stalin (meaning "man of steel") was a dramatic improvement over the clumsy and polysyllabic name the Russian dictator was born with. "Trotsky" was also an effective nom de guerre.

Most propaganda thrives on the judicious use of "colored" names. If literal, factual, accurate words were used to describe political programs and principles, the masses could hardly be roused from their torpor every election. It takes slogans, catch-words, and phrases loaded with bias to stir the electorate out of its customary apathy.

Ironically enough, the very word propaganda is a glaring instance of how much is in a name. "Propaganda" has an air of life as a most respectable word; it is from the Latin, and signifies a mission established by Pope Urban VIII in the 17th century to educate priests for missions.

Originally, it meant educating for the propagation of the faith. But in the 19th it "acquired the "propaganda" itself took on an evil and ugly connotation; when we say, "That's only propaganda," we are giving a contemptuous wave to something quite useful and necessary — namely, the propagating of a belief by its adherents.

The word "dogma" has suffered the same verbal fate; it means originally a code of tenets or opinions — but calling our adversary "dogmatic" is a means of rebuffing him without refuting his arguments.

Lower Rates Boost Travel

Richmond News Leader

Continental Airlines, which flies over a good part of the western United States, filed a report last week on its September operations. The figures of interest for a useful lesson in classic economics.

After months of pleading with federal authorities, Continental finally won permission to put some new low fares into effect. For example, the air line offered a flight from Los Angeles to Chicago for $85, about 20 per cent under the standard fare. September was the best month for the new tariffs. What happened?

September revenues were up 12 per cent over September of 1961, and 10 per cent better than the best previous September in the company's history. Passenger miles increased by 16 per cent over September of last year.

One month's experience on one air line doesn't create an immutable truth, but Continental's report supports a conviction we've held for some time — that the air lines' best bet in wooing travellers away from their automobiles is low fares on economy flights that are comfortable but not luxurious. One of these days, we hope to see a round-trip to Europe priced at, say, $300.

Speedometer Not Required

Sudbury Star

How many are aware of an oddity that exists in Ontario's Highway Traffic Act, and presumably in the traffic laws of other provinces?

The Act contains no requirements that a speedometer be installed in cars. There are rules, plus penalties, that set out requirements for brakes, lights and other mechanical gear, as well as mechanical fitness. It is illegal under the law to operate a motor vehicle without a speedometer.

The law requires a driver to operate his vehicle within posted speed limits and also takes into account the conduct of the driver within these limits if there is a violation of safety precautions. The law leaves it to the individual to decide whether he needs a speedometer to record the speed at which he is traveling. Most experienced drivers can be reasonably accurate in judging speed from the sound of a motor or mentally noting telephone poles and guard rails beside the highway. There are others who have no "speed sense" and would only know they were passing everything else on the highway that they were speeding.

When The Sudbury Star questioned police authorities on this they had an easy explanation. A speedometer can never be regarded as absolutely accurate. They point out that even new cars there may be a variance of four to five miles between actual speed, and the speedometer reading. Accuracy of a speedometer can be best tested with an engineer's measurement that measures distance and speed.

Police also report that one of the most common excuses offered by a person stopped for speeding is: "I'm sorry officer, my speedometer isn't working." The majority of traffic officers no one has ever been charged for having a defective speedometer, because there is no law under which to charge him.

A speedometer falls into the category of a heat indicator, oil gauge or battery charge indicator. It is a driving aid and not always an accurate one.

Scouts Alter Uniforms

Montreal Gazette

There may be a touch of regret that the traditional Boy Scout uniform is to be changed.

But the change is for the better, and it is also very reasonable.

Scout headquarters in Canada has announced that each Scout troop will have the right to choose them — will vote on the issue of substituting long trousers for the shorts.

The Boy Scout shorts have all the meaning of tradition. But it never was considered unusual to the Canadian climate. The idea that Boy Scouts should turn out all through the winter season, wearing their shorts even on cold evenings, was never practical. It has come to be that while some were the regulation shorts, a variety of trousers was widely tolerated, and had to be.

Nor were the traditional shorts much better adapted to summertime. The heavy blue cloth, when it got wet in the tramp, tended to wear a raw line around the legs. If they were worn after they had become red with sunburn, the sensation could be very uncomfortable indeed. And the bare legs, in field or forest, were an invitation to mosquitoes.

It has also been felt that the uniform has become so out of accord with modern times as to cause some degree of embarrassment to the wearers. This was particularly the view of many of the Scout Leaders. While some with enthusiasm for the work may have overcome the embarrassment, or even taken pride in the well-known uniform, there are, it is said, those that others, who might have made good Scout Leaders, hesitated to submit themselves to the embarrassment. It has been felt, too, that the public may have been discouraging recruits among the boys themselves.

When the last two presidents of the Boy Scouts Association of Canada have so solidified the present uniform, and advocated a change, it is hard to believe that the change is not in the best interests of the Boy Scout movement.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 3rd, 1932.

Only one building permit was issued here during the month of November and that was to Mr. T. E. Warren to build a private garage to cost $125; this is the lowest in years. For the eleven months of this year the value of building permits issued totals $98,085.00. Last year the total permits amounted to $22,190.00. The increase this year is owing to the erection of a large building on Front Street.

The warm sun which has been continuous throughout the week continues to shine. On and amazing summer feather. The very successful event was in charge of the W. A. committee. Mrs. Mrs. Barclay and Mrs. R. Hall. Mrs. Finkle, president; Mrs. H. O. Trundale, Mrs. James Barclay and Mrs. R. Hall. Mrs. Finkle, every member of the Association entering enthusiastically into the plans and arrangements for the event.

30 YEARS AGO

December 3rd, 1942

The shooting of a Canadian red deer which was more than two-inches in length is reported from the Coe Hill district by a former resident, who spent the hunting season at Mooney's hunting camp at Coppeway Lake.

From Waubaushene, Ont., comes the story about Mrs. R. W. Brown of that place, believed to be Canada's champion knitter; who has knitted 524 pairs of socks in 524 days for the Red Cross Society. She has also knitted 18 sweaters in 23 days.

Sponsored by the Women's Association of Bridge Street United Church, a Christmas Fair held last evening in the Sunday School rooms was attended by a large crowd who found the appeal of the fair features irresistible and also offered amusement of every original variety, while the attractions of each booth concerned were acclaimed in true midway style by barkers, in frock coats. Tuesday the temperature at noon was close to 50 degrees. Recent temperatures have been recorded mostly in the late evenings and early mornings, but the sun soon dispelled the cold. It is reported that in many parts of the city, maple trees are showing the bud by the unusual warmth at this season. The warm spell has completed the work of melting the snow in the bay and harbor and has left the formerly hard sheet of ice in a position today and for any persons daring to venture upon it.

Formation of a local branch of the Master Barbers' Association was completed Wednesday evening, and the following were elected as officers: president, Mr. Percy Sullivan; vice-president, Mr. J. Tripp; secretary, Mr. H. E. Cole; treasurer, Mrs. E. Cumins.

40 YEARS AGO

December 3rd, 1922.

The endeavors of Ald. William R. McCreary to have a traffic control signal placed at the intersection of Bridge and Bridge Streets, have been rewarded at last; the sign was placed in position today and a police constable is operating it. A constable knows a whistle when about to change the sign from 'stop' to 'go'. Speeding up of traffic and greater safety have already been noted at the corners. The matter was introduced in council this morning ago by Ald. McCreary.

Belleville Cheese Board closed its business for this year today. One hundred and forty-nine boxes of white and one hundred and fifteen boxes of colored cheese were boarded and all sold at 12½ cents and five-eighths cents. The buyers present were Messrs. Sprague, Cooks, Alexander, Morton and Ivey.

December 3rd, 1912

Mr. J. Wilfred Holmes has been appointed tax collector by the city council in succeed Mr. Fred D. Diamond, who resigned recently. There were twenty-five applicants for the position. The following were present at the meeting: Mayor Vermilyea, Aldermen Woodley, Clarke, Parks, McCurdy, Slater, Marshall, Lott, Flagler, Alford, Wallace, Bagle, Parrott, Robinson and White.

Mr. H. VanDusen of Deseronto was in town today.

Mr. Walter Soule has been transferred to the Oshawa office of the Bell Telephone Company.

Letter to The Editor

Opposes Extension Of Business Hours

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

The time is nigh when serious contemplation should be given to the long-term effects of giant department stores, locating on municipal fringes, but outside municipal regulations of the communities whose business they seek.

Both federal and provincial legislators should jointly review the whole field of merchandising, with particular and immediate emphasis on regulations affecting hours of business of both chain salers and retailers. Until changes of those regulations take place, merchants, cities of cities, towns and townships should, to each other should legislate to establish uniformity of business hours most beneficial to their community.

In a well-adjusted economy goods and services are proportionate to the population increase and not far in advance of it. No one would deny the democratic right to extend business. If, however, 10 a.m.-to-10 p.m. operations six days a week were carried out by many businesses, only more unemployment could ensue.

The effect on employment would be wide-spread. Retail merchants and related business management, if forced into such hours, would resort to almost complete, self-service systems. Many employees, residing in various locales including townships, would be affected, too. Security and good health of such employees would be supported by uniform hours of reasonable business hours. Furthermore, federal and provincial governmental efforts to keep workers employed would be strengthened.

Look to the future of Canada 25 years from now. Can you visualize communities of say 25,000 and up, with five or six gigantic enterprises surrounding them, "self-serving" the need for consumer goods? Where in such a picture are the wholesalers, retailers as we know them today, the farmers co-operatives and the township merchants? Also, but most important, where, in such a commercial complex, are jobs for workers in an increasing population?

Would not such an end-result justify the means of its population now? Uniform law regulating hours of business in cities, towns and townships could be that specific means. Laws, made for the common good, although partially restrictive of groups or corporations, become the anchor of liberty, even though those groups or corporations are composed of individuals. Statutes formulated to safeguard private ownership of property or business are not breaches of freedom but its foundation.

D. V. Dumbrille.

To Your Good Health
We Understand Colds As Well As We Can

By JOSEPH D. MOLNER, M.D.

(This is the first of two articles on colds).

What's your favorite cold remedy? No, don't tell me! I've probably heard it before and I may even have tried it because when I was young and dreamy eyed I still nurtured the hope that perhaps some of the various folk remedies (new or old) might possibly work.

I've never found one. What is much more important, neither have the thousands of doctors who have wrestled with the problem of the common cold, which costs us more in lost days of work and pay than any disease known.

So, if there isn't any cold remedy that works, what are we supposed to do about it?

I say, "Understand colds, as well as we can".

The first step in knowing that the cold is not a very good term but we've had it so long that I don't suppose we can change now.

It would be more accurate to refer to "respiratory infections" but I can't imagine either you or me, with a red, sore nose that isn't running, using it for nursing purposes, muttering, "I godda respiratory infegshun id by dose". We'll still say, "I goddy code".

But we should remember, in our misery, that cold really means one of perhaps 100 or more infections that find the mucous membranes of our noses and other breathing passages are a cozy place to nest.

Influenza is a respiratory disease, too, but of a somewhat different nature which causes aching, fever and a generally worn-out feeling. Too many times it even causes death, principally among old or chronically ill people already suffering from heart, kidney or other disorders. If often hits pregnant women rather hard, too.

On the other hand, many a cold is really a mild flu, meaning that the patient already has some antibodies against it.

For the most part, colds and flu are caused by viruses or very similar organisms and not by bacteria. In fact, I know of only one major exception, a pneumococcal pneumonia which can be successfully treated with an antibiotic drug. The rest can't. Antibiotics have no effect on viruses and that is why the pointless (and sometimes dangerous) practice of taking a shot of penicillin for a cold has properly died out.

Flu shots, therefore, make sense in preventing some colds, but there just isn't, as yet, anything to take to stop a cold after it has started. An annual flu shot, I believe, is good for everybody, regardless of whether or not epidemic is anticipated.

An estimated 3,200 Chinese refugees fleeing the Communist mainland of China died when their crowded steamer exploded at sea 14 years ago today—in 1948. It was believed that the ship, heading north from Shanghai, struck a Second World War mine. Earlier rumors blamed Communist sabotage. Estimates of survivors, ranged from 100 to 700 though exact figures were not known.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Four years ago, a friend of mine went to live in England, and he has just come back here on a brief visit. In the years I knew him, he was a small stylish dresser; in fact, a fashion plate. He would spend $200 on a suit of clothes to start with. Besides, it is not the clothes, he was the beau of any company; and in formal tuxedo or tails for which he could spend even more than $200, he was practically a matinee idol, though he is not that. Imagine my astonishment in meeting him on his return from Britain, to find him not mine went to live in England, and he has just come back here on a brief visit. In the years I knew him, he was a small stylish dresser; in fact, a fashion plate. He would spend $200 on a suit of clothes to start with. Besides, it is not the clothes, he was the beau of any company; and in formal tuxedo or tails for which he could spend even more than $200, he was practically a matinee idol, though he is not that. Imagine my astonishment in meeting him on his return

"Declines" he protested, with only a slight English accent after a year's exile. "The tailors in Saville Row who are famous for their talent in making clothes don't dress like that. No one in Britain would dream of appearing in talk dress. Why, they just might formerly have been his uncle's. High style, my boy, is to appear as if you have had money, not money just, recently."

Toronto Stocks

In the main list, steels were a major weakening influence. Atlas, Algoma, Steel Company of Canada and Dominion Foundries and Steel all dropped in a ¼ to ½ range.

Aluminium fell ½, Massey-Ferguson and Moore Corporation ¼ each, Royal Bank ¾ and Shawinigan and Trans-Canada Pipeline ⅛ each.

CAMPBELLFORD

New Nomination Will Be Called To Fill State

CAMPBELLFORD—A unique situation has developed in this town's municipal election with only four persons on the slate of nine prospective candidates qualifying for the six vacant seats on council. The following nine were nominated: Cecil Bertrand, Alf. Laussen, Joseph Wilson, Donald Hughes, Bruce Grills and Douglas Sharp, all newcomers, and incumbents Arthur Moody, Dr. T. K. Hackett and former mayor Ralph J. Locke. Only four of these men qualified and were elected by acclamation: Ralph J. Locke, former mayor and councillor, Arthur Moody, member of last year's council Bruce Grills, furniture dealer and Douglas Sharp, businessman.

The statutes of Ontario states the returning officer must now call a special nomination meeting and a vote later, if necessary, hold an election to fill the vacant seats. This could double the town's election expenses.

Seats filled by acclamation are: Reeve—George H. Free, for his fifth term; Public Utilities, Glynn Vandewater and H. A. MacArthur; Public School Trustee, Cyril Johnson. Williams Murray and H. E. Cryderman.

Records in the town office show there has not been an election for positions on the Public School Board since the old board of education was dissolved in the 1940's and there was only one election prior to that date.

Elections will be held today.

F. U. Panel Discusses Milk Marketing

BONARLAW — The November meeting of local 171 of the Ontario Farmers' Union was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Mumby. Murney Bateman was chairman and opened the meeting.

The Ontario Farmers' Union convention was held in Lindsay. Several members of the local spent a day there and some interesting reports were given.

Mrs. Jeanne Williams was elected lady president for Ontario.

On the second afternoon there was a panel discussion on 'Milk Marketing'. The men on the panel were: James Baker, dairy commissioner for Ontario; Emerson Farnsworth, president of the Ontario Whole Milk League and chairman of the Provisional Milk Marketing Commission and Bob Taylor of the Ontario Farmers' Union.

Each member of the panel gave a brief address followed by a question period. A great many questions were directed to the various members of the panels and some conflicting opinions were expressed.

It would seem that a great deal more work will have to be done before a successful milk marketing plan is drawn up.

There is to be an executive meeting for the local draw's up plans for the local activities for the coming year.

The ladies served lunch and a social time was spent.

Pressure Is Building Up On U. S., Britain, Russia To Halt Nuclear Testing

By TOM OCHILTREE

GENEVA (AP)—Neutral diplomatic sources said Sunday pressure is building up on the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union to put a nuclear weapon tests by Jan. 1 as a Yuletide present to the world.

Leading this drive are non-atomic countries in the 17-nation disarmament conference.

All three of the nuclear powers are experiencing difficulties in meeting the general thrust of the anti-test arguments. If anything, the Russians seem even more embarrassed than the Americans and British.

The drive to stop testing takes various forms.

Canada and Sweden suggested a moratorium ob underground tests by giving an international commission of scientists time to devise a system for policing a permanent test ban.

India called for a voluntary system of on-site inspections if suspicious earth shocks. This proposal rests on the assumption that a day there still is some interesting reports were given.

Daredevil Texan Ready to Fight Oil Well Fire

Adair, a freelance firefighter from Texas who has an impressive list of extinguishing jobs behind him, was called in by oil company officials Sunday after other workmen failed to conquer the outbreak.

Adair, 41-year-old, daredevil whose most noted accomplishment came earlier this year when he quelled an oil well blaze in the Sahara Desert, spent four hours at the scene Sunday.

He cleared debris from the well head, then headed for Calgary to round up equipment to battle the blaze. The debris included the ruins of a $17,500 drilling rig.

Officials of Home Oil Company, one of four firms which own the well, said equipment destroyed by the fire was valued at $225,000.

Discussion Proved Vast And Deep Misunderstanding Of Wheat Pool - - Hamilton

CALGARY (CP) — Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton said today that the discussion which followed his recent suggestions to the Saskatchewan wheat pool proved there "is a vast and deep misunderstanding, by high-placed people, of how the Canadian wheat board operates."

In a speech to the Saskatchewan wheat pool Nov. 12 Mr. Hamilton asked farmers to consider the possibility of setting aside a portion of their final wheat payments to build a fund which could be used to help offset possible losses on credit sales. He also proposed that the three Western wheat pools and the United Grain Growers form a co - operative grain sales organization.

He told the Alberta wheat pool today the discussion that followed his remarks was "most interesting." He said he had been aware of the misunderstanding of the wheat board "for a long ago."

'IDEAS NOT NEW'

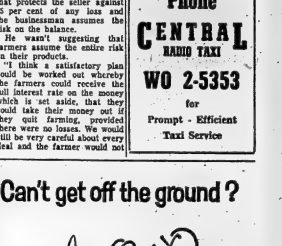
"I think I have a right, if not a duty, to ask farmers to consider these two devices I have put forward," he said. "The ideas are not new. . . ."

He said the proposal by Export Credits Insurance Act, Canadian businessmen who make foreign sales on credit, pay a premium to the government that protects the seller against 85 per cent of any loss and the businessman assumes the risk on the balance.

He wasn't suggesting that farmers assume the entire risk on their products.

"I think a satisfactory plan could be worked out whereby farmers could receive 100 per cent of their initial payment if they quit farming, provided there were no losses. We would still be very careful about every deal and the farmer would not only get a good return on his money, but better prices on all grain sold, not only on credit.

About the proposed selling co-operatives he said it would be risky and difficult to enter into competition with 40 other agents of the Canadian wheat board. "But after all, this was once the first purpose of the pools and, if the company is successful, farmers will benefit from the profits in selling grain as well as handling and storage."



The text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Cherry Compote With Italian Custard For Dessert Party

by Mary Moore

On November 22nd, I boasted about and gave in this column, Margaret Duddy's Snowy White Coconut Cake. I advised you to clip it then and there for it is to be one of the features of a Holiday dessert-party-on-a-shoestring I am planning.

Today I am giving you the recipes for Zabaglione which is a rich custard, Italian style, calling for the five egg yolks left over from when you make the white coconut cake. I used this Zabaglione as a topping for a bowlful of Bing cherries, the juice of which I thickened and flavored. Keep in mind that economy and color contrasts were my object. I bought three 15-oz. cans of Bings for 20c each. You will have to watch for cherry "specials" to match this.

MONDAY

Dinner Menu

Lentil Soup; Cold Cuts: Salami, Sliced Ham, Liverwurst; Dills; Hot Potato Salad; Baked Apples Stuffed with Mincemeat with 10% cream; Coffee.

ZABAGLIONE (5 egg yolks)

5 large egg yolks, ½ cup sifted icing sugar, 3-3 cup of orange juice.

Note: Traditionally in Italy this is made with Marsala wine or sherry instead of orange juice.

Beat egg yolks until pale and thick and increased in volume. Continue beating while you slowly add the icing sugar. Gradually add the orange juice (or wine if used) while you constantly beat. This should be thickened and greatly increased in volume. Turn into double boiler, being sure water beneath does not touch bottom of top section. Stir constantly until thickened and custard begins to show mark of spoon as you stir. Remove from heat. Cool to room temperature and transfer to serving dish - glass of a contrasting shade such as black or wine. Cover and chill. Serve 1 dessertspoonful over

CHERRY COMPOTE

To serve 10 or 12, buy 3 15-oz. cans Bing cherries. Drain and reserve juice. Remove all stones. Measure juice. You should have 2¾ cups. Heat in double boiler. Mix together 3 tablespoons lemon juice and 3 tablespoons arrowroot flour (or if not available use 4 tablespoons cornstarch, but the syrup will be cloudier.) Stir into warm syrup until thick. Cover and cook 10 minutes, stirring once or twice. Remove from heat and add stoned cherries and stir. Pour into large glass or white serving dish and chill.

Delicious served with a topping of Zabaglione (above). Together these are adequate to serve 10 to 12 when other desserts like coconut cake are provided.

Note: See next week for grapefruit moulded in a green jelly, to accompany the above dessert and the coconaut cake if you are planning this economical dessert party I am recommending.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

WEDDING ATTIRE FOR SECOND-TIME BRIDE

What to wear is one of the most perplexing problems facing the widow or divorcee about to be married for the second time.

Naturally, she can't wear a veil or orange blossoms, or a long, white bridal gown or any gown with a train. But, while the ceremony and reception are very simple and informal, the event can be just as festive and colorful as a first marriage.

Actually, the second-time bride has an enormous range of styles and colors to choose from, depending on where the ceremony is held and the time of day. At a recent showing of fashions for second-time brides in an Allentown, Pa., department store, colors included violets, sun tones, a lovely "mink" shade, and — surprisingly — even white.

According to the store's fashion mentor, who gave the show to introduce their new Bride's Fashion Counselling Service for Widows and Divorcees, there's no reason why white can't be worn for a second wedding, since the use of white actually had an economic basis, rather than any connotation of "purity." The white bridal gown actually descended from the early Saxon days when poor brides wore a plain white dress to denote they brought nothing to their marriage and therefore their husbands were in no way responsible for their debts. So I guess there's a point here.

But while this is the first time white has ever been featured for a second marriage, it's not as radical as it may seem. The whites shown had overcasts of grey or a tinge of gold, so they really couldn't be classified as "bridal white" in the strictest sense.

One very simple afternoon dress had a mother-of-pearl effect, due to its gray shading. Another outfit "that could be worn for an after-five civil or religious ceremony was in a silk and cotton brocade that gave the impression of candle-lit light. Topping a basic sheath dress was a magnificent coat with stand-away collar, a flattering straight-lined controlled fullness and elbow-length sleeves. Both of these "white" ensembles were shown with matching turbans, the ideal solution for an informal wedding hat.

A third white costume was a mohair greatcoat with a red fox lining and collar. The hat was also red fox. Shoes and gloves were in a "mink" color which blended beautifully. The outfit was visualized for a civil ceremony and, of course, was a perfect travelling companion for the honeymoon.

Another attractive candidate for a daytime wedding was a two-piece dress topped by a slim-line cape in gray. This was accompanied by a toque of chinchilla.

A mauve pink satin gown with panel-pleated skirt and a Balenciaga bolero was the dress choice for a candlelight service, and an excellent choice it was. A gold lame coat dress also made a brilliant showing for an evening wedding. This had a wide belt that nipped the waistline dramatically. Underneath: a shirt-dress with panels of embroidered beading at the neckline.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Mrs. D.Y. — Pay no attention to them. It's not serious fighting.

Robert Y. — I'm 16 and faced with two State Regents' Exams at the end of this term in high school. How would you like it if you were trying to get Plane Geometry through your head, while downstairs for hours and hours you hear, "It is . . . it is not . . . you did . . . I did not . . . it's mine . . . no it isn't"?

This is accompanied by slams, bangs, yells and screams. Then there's always one kid bawling and running to call Mom. I have a sister of 8 and two kid brothers, 5 and 6. After supper they're supposed to play, watch television and go to bed. But all they do is fight. And my parents don't try to stop them. My mother says it's natural and I should get used to it.

Mrs. D.Y. — There's such a big space between Bob and the other three that it's like raising two separate sets of children. He was an only child for so long that he never had the problems of give-and-take that the others have. And he acts more like an outsider than a brother towards them.

My husband and I grew up in large families. I know that we used to fuss and fight among ourselves a lot, but that the battles were short and didn't mean anything. I tell Bob to put cotton in his ears and pay no attention to the racket. It's normal and it's part of growing up for the kids. I try not to butt in. Of course, once in a while when it looks like mayhem over nothing, I yank one of them off to bed ahead of time.

The Council: Here's Dr. Albert Einstein to the rescue, Mrs. Y. His theory, we're told, was based upon his insistence that nothing in the universe is ever at rest. So, even things which appear peaceful are in some sort of motion.

Psychologists bear this out. Some sort of conflict is always at work inside us and around us, so, as Mrs. Y. mentions, some give-take, push-and-pull is a routine part of life.

Pups, puppies, children will be pups, puppies, children will poke and tumble, preferably against each other; just for the sake of exercise. Picking a fight merely makes it more exciting and satisfying.

The parent's role, however, is more than a hands-off and effort should be made to reduce the amount of wrangling in the Y. home. At the end of the day, especially, everyone's brains are on the loose side, with the kids more hysterical, and the adults more frazzled.

Mrs. Y. owes some consideration to her big boy, too. His studies facilities do deserve attention. If he flunks, he can't place all the blame on the evening racket, but it certainly isn't helping him pass. Bob may be able to accept some of the clamor as "background music" but not hours of chain-banging, hair-pulling and roars of pain.

So Mrs. Y. should keep a weather-eye and whether-or-not open to decide when to break up a fight before "mayhem" sets in. These questions may help her: Is the teasing mutual, or is the same one always being ganged-up-on by the other two? Are the battles short or is there a prolonged and ugly antagonism at work? Are they scrapping from boredom, hoping the whole family will get into the act, or are they ill and irritable? The answers will dictate the handling.

By ignoring some fights and slipping others, Mrs. Y. will be allowing her children to let off steam and still stay friends with each other.

Waitresses in Eye-Filling Costumes Catching on in Night Spots in Winnipeg

By KEN CLARK

WINNIPEG (CP) — Leggy waitresses in brief, eye-filling costumes are catching on in Winnipeg night spots.

Three bars in the last 16 months have introduced serving girls in brief skirts or tights, a gleaming smile and little else.

Proprietors of the Playboy Lounge, the Bon Vivant and the Towers say it hasn't done their business any harm.

The Playboy, a downtown drink-and-dine club, started the vogue. Standard costume is a tunic and tasselled skirt with the hemline mid-way between hip and knee. Black net stockings and spike heels complete the loose-fitting costume reminiscent of the dress of the roaring '20s. It all ties in with the gaslight decor of the basement cocktail lounge.

At the Bon Vivant, a mid-town establishment, costumes are less demure. The 10 girls wear the standard black stockings and high heels. But backless tunics are form-fitting and the briefest of skirts barely covers a fluffy crinoline. The girls wear top hats, white collars and ties.

BUNNY COSTUME

The Towers has dispensed with skirts altogether in favor of a less-revealing version of the bunny costume worn by girls in American Playboy clubs. The young ladies wear a basic costume resembling a modest one-piece bathing suit with the addition of rabbit ears and fluffy bunny tail.

The switch from starched male waiters to fetching waitresses came about with the cautious approval of the Manitoba Liquor Control Commission which licenses the bars to sell liquor.

Maj.-Gen. N. E. Rodger, commission chairman, says permission to use the girls with "abbreviated costumes" was granted with the proviso that it all be done in good taste.

All the clubs are careful to comply. They say the girls are carefully checked before being hired, and rules against any familiarity between waitress and customer are strictly enforced.

Both the Playboy and the Towers maintain the girls are just attractive additions. Their clientele is mixed with no preponderance of ogling males. The Bon Vivant, on the other hand, caters to out-of-town businessmen and expense - account spenders and has a 99-per-cent male clientele.

Owners Mel and Howard Katz agree the success of the operation "depends on the right kind of girl." She has to have an air of sophistication and self-confidence to furnish eager customers, but must also be friendly and sociable.

All the girls at Bon Vivant have daytime jobs in offices or elsewhere. Some at other clubs are married.

Children fund.

It was decided to remember the sick and shut-ins at Christmas, also Mrs. A. Donnelly, who is in Frankford for the winter and is celebrating her 100th birthday.

As it was a "Grandmothers" meeting, they were in charge of the program and gave readings and contests.

A sale of home-made candy with recipes brought the meeting to a close. The hostess and assistants served lunch.

TIGER MAKEUP

LONDON (CP) — False eyelashes had to be put on a stuffed tiger presented to the new Commonwealth Institute by the Pakistan government. Only after it arrived was it noticed that it had lost its eyelashes.

Anne Kahane Likes to Work In Wood

MONTREAL (CP)—Anne Kahane is a Montreal sculptor who works in wood. Unlike Michelangelo who felt he was releasing the work of art buried in a piece of marble, she says "what I'm releasing is something in me—not something in the wood I'm carving."

The Austrian-born sculptor's works were exhibited at the Canadian pavilion in the Brussels World Fair of 1958 and are permanently represented in the National Gallery of Canada, the Toronto art gallery, the Quebec provincial museum and the Winnipeg art gallery. She recently won third prize in a Montreal art exhibit.

Married to free-lance art director Robert Langstadt, she works regularly all day in a studio in her home. Her living room is filled with works of art, but none of it is her own. "My things give me no inspiration."

LOSES INTEREST

Unlike many artists, Anne loses interest in a work as soon as she has finished it. "I rarely have a piece that I'm so attached to that I hate to sell it. I believe I should make a living like everyone else so I must sell."

Asked why she prefers working in wood, she replied, "It's just the material I happen to use." She orders her material by phone from a lumber yard and always keeps a stock in her studio.

Before starting a piece of sculpture, she often has to join pieces of wood together with glue to get the right size. "I work then like a cabinet maker." When it is the right size, she goes to work with chisels.

She says most of her pieces are "large and free standing and difficult to place in a home."

"However that doesn't really worry me, because I think people should make room in their homes for things they want."

It takes her from a month to six weeks to complete a piece. "I do 10 a year if I'm lucky." At one time she finished the sculptures with paint—now she usually just waxes them.

Anne believes a common interest in art has been a help to her marriage. "We never have any conflict. I talk over my work with my husband—but not too much."

MORRISON — JORDAN

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the setting for a recent lovely fall wedding when Frances Margaret Jean Jordan, became the bride of Donald Ralph Morrison of Corbyville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Morrison. The Reverend Harry M. Davis, pastor of the church, officiated before a beautiful background of yellow and white chrysanthemums, which adorned the chancel. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, presided at the console of the organ, for the wedding hymns, "O Perfect Love" before the ceremony, and "The Wedding March" for the recessional.

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. J. B. Jordan, the bride was radiantly lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of French Chantilly lace and nylon tulle over taffeta, fashioned with studded bodice having a portrait neckline and three-quarter length sleeves. The skirt featured a scalloped bib-length peplum of lace attached to a gathered flounce of nylon tulle. Sequins and seed pearls accented the bodice and peplum. Her headdress was in crown style encrusted with sparkling rhinestones and seed pearls and elbow-length veil of silk illusion tulle. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses mingled with white stepanotis and Adantiam fern.

She was attended by Miss Margo Brant, of Belleville, gowned in powder blue peau de soie with fitted bodice, and short knee-length bell-shaped skirt. She wore white shoes and gloves, and headdress of peau de soie powder blue rose with shoulder-length veil, and carried a bouquet of white Shasta daisies.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Ronald Hill of Belleville and the guests ushered by Mr. William Jordan of Brockville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Ernie Morrison of St. Catharines, brother of the bridegroom.

A buffet luncheon and reception were held in the church parlor for 92 guests, to which Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Milburn, of Belleville R.R., catered. The lovely three-tier wedding cake occupied a side table beneath cascading pink and white streamers and pink wedding bells.

The bride's mother received, wearing a beige wool gown with brown accessories and corsage of red roses. Assisting in the receiving line was the bridegroom's mother, attired in navy blue with white hat and gloves. Her corsage was of pink roses.

For the wedding trip to Washington, D.C., and Virginia, the bride wore a maple-leaf-green wool walking ensemble with corsage of red Sweetheart roses surrounded by white carnations.

Guests were present from Warsaw, Shannonville, St. Catharines, Trenton, Peterborough, Brockville, Nova Scotia, Oshawa, Toronto, Whitby, Corbyville and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained by two miscellaneous showers, one at the Banquet Room of Johnny's Restaurant at the Plaza, given by Miss Margo Brant, and one by Miss Emily Morrison at her home in St. Catharines. Also at the presentation by community friends of a living-room suite and matching stool; after the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Morrison will reside in Corbyville.

Cross-Canada Survey

Guided Tours of Newspaper Plants Still Exciting Event In Lives of School Children

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Newspapers are playing an increasingly important role in the current affairs programs of Canadian schools from coast to coast.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that while the long-established practice of guided tours of newspaper plants is still an exciting event in the life of school-age boys and girls, it is being supplemented by more formal schooling in all aspects of newspaper operations.

Several newspapers have provided funds to send teachers in their communities to summer seminars at one or other of a number of United States universities where instruction is given on how to use newspapers in the classroom.

More of this training can be expected in the future, and closer to home, since two Canadian universities—Carleton at Ottawa and University of Saskatchewan at Regina—are planning courses somewhat similar to those in the United Sites.

DES MOINES STUDY

The American program emerged from a study about six years ago by a group of men at Des Moines, Iowa, most of them teachers at University of Iowa, who found that students' lack of knowledge of current affairs was appalling.

Surveys showed too little time was spent reading daily papers and the group concluded that one solution to developing better reading habits was to teach students more about newspapers, to give them an insight into the complexities of the newspaper publishing business and the personal and public service it renders.

To do this it was decided that teachers must be instructed how to teach school children to understand why newspapers are published and how to read and use their contents and services to advantage.

The idea was approved by U.S. educational authorities and was introduced to a number of American universities in 1958, with financial backing of the International Circulation Managers Association and the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

CANADIANS ATTEND

Since then, teachers from Montreal, Ottawa, Kitchener-Waterloo, Winnipeg, Regina and Calgary have attended summer classes under home - town newspaper sponsorship and returned with information about the newspaper profession which they have passed on to students and other teachers.

Methods used to guide students to more-informed reading have varied, but generally the instruction has been part of the schools' regular social studies program, in most cases at the Grade 7 to 9 level.

The program is more advanced in some cities than in others and in Ottawa and Kitchener, for example, teachers' manuals have been prepared by education authorities in cooperation with the papers.

In Kitchener, one of the pioneers of the project, this year's course began Oct. 23 and ended Nov. 29. It reached 2,500 Grade 7 students in Kitchener and Waterloo, and who received 20 minutes instruction a day as part of their social studies and English courses.

All aspects of the newspaper field were covered, from local reporting and advertising to national and international newsgathering. Newspapers were studied in the classroom and plant visits were organized. Teachers included some who attended seminars under sponsorship of the Kitchener-Waterloo Record.

As a windup to the program, 31 English and French dailies across Canada are each sending 15 copies of today's issue of their paper to Kitchener so that Grade 7 students can see how news is handled in other parts of Canada. The papers will be passed on later to Grade 8 teachers for use in their classes.

REACHES MANY

In Ottawa, where the program is similar to that in Kitchener, The Citizen and The Journal co-operate in a project that reaches from 6,000 to 7,000 Grade 7 students in public and separate schools. This season's three-week program is expected to start in mid-January following a two-day teacher-training session.

Ottawa's French - language daily, Le Droit, ran a similar program last year for Grade 7 students in Ottawa and Grade 7 students in Hull, Que. Le Droit will repeat the project this season, possibly extending it to Grade 8 as well as 7 classes.

Nine teachers have been financed at summer seminars by the Ottawa papers, including two by Le Droit although the U.S. classes are conducted in English only. One teacher who took the course was a nun, principal of a Roman Catholic school.

In addition to talks given by their staff members and visits to plants, many papers provide teachers with copies of their publication for use by teachers or students. Some give free daily display or a weekly roundup of world and Canadian news prepared by The Canadian Press. This is clipped by students for use in history or social study classes.

TEST PROVIDED

In Montreal, The Gazette has provided bursaries for teachers attending seminars at University of Syracuse. The Star distributes current events tests to high schools, based on news stories appearing in the paper.

The three Toronto papers all have published school programs, ranging from special current events columns, to scholarships and booklets and pamphlets. For the last three years executives of The Canadian Press have conducted for the Toronto Board of Education a two week Saturday - morning course on newswriting, attended by about 40 students each year. Most of them are visiting higher - than - average intelligence.

Both Winnipeg dailies have supported projects for students in Grades 7 to 11 and The Tribune has published four 20 minutes instruction a day as

Seaway Will Close Tuesday, Had Good Year

DETROIT (AP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway will close Tuesday, winding up a 1962 season expected to set a new tonnage record.

Joseph H. McCann, administrator for the St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, reported Friday the 1962 total is expected to reach 36,000,000 tons. This compares with 22,600,000 tons in 1961 and 21,700,000 tons in 1960 during the year the seaway officially opened.

"I believe we are progressing at a very favorable clip," Mead McCann. "In industry a 16-per-cent increase would be looked upon with jubilation."

However, he added, according to the official toll estimates, the Seaway should have had 37,000,000 tons moving through its locks in 1962. He said this figure "we will not reach for a number of years."

CARGOES INCREASE

The increase in 1962 traffic was attributed in part to an increase in general cargo. "We expect the general cargo total to be about 10 per cent or approximately 2,500,000 tons this year," McCann said.

He said bulk cargo, which accounted for the major part of Seaway shipments, consists of iron ore, grain newsprint, pulp and fuel oil.

McCann said grain shipments will be approximately the same as last year, despite the fact that wheat will show a considerable decrease. Iron ore and other bulk cargoes were expected to show a good increase.

Exact traffic figures will not be available on Seaway shipments until about March, 1963.

HAUSNER RESIGNS

JERUSALEM (AP) — Attorney-General, Gideon Hausner, who prosecuted Adolf Eichmann, has offered his resignation to Premier Ben-Gurion. He is reported to be in disagreement with Justice Minister Dov Joseph concerning the area of competence between his own and the justice minister's office. Hausner assumed his functions as attorney-general, and government adviser shortly before the Eichmann trial started in the spring of 1961.

'College Bond' For Every Baby Is NPD Plan

WINNIPEG (CP) — Every child born in Manitoba after Dec. 14 will receive a $1,000 "College Bond" if the New Democratic Party forms the next provincial government.

NDP Leader Russell Paulley of Manitoba said in a press release that "existing scholarship, bursary and loan programs are clearly inadequate."

"The number of deserving students who need such assistance is far greater than the capacity of such piecemeal, stop-gap schemes."

He said each bond would mature "if, as, and when its owner enters university."

The NDP leader, contesting Radisson constituency in the Dec. 14 provincial election, said the cost of the program would be less than $700,000 a year, based on the Canadian birth-rate, Manitoba's population of 950,000 and the current university education rate of two per cent of the population.

He asserted the province would have to deposit today at six per cent to get $1,000 in 17 years is only $377.

Reports from Tezpur Sunday said the Indian Army was "out of touch" with Chinese troops, and sources there were unable to say for certain if the withdrawal had begun.

The second said between 10,000 and 14,000 Indian troops trapped behind Chinese lines have returned safely to Indian lines.

DISGUISE AS MONKS

The troops brought with them the first eyewitness accounts of how Chinese troops disguised as Buddhist tribesmen led a surprise attack on Indian positions near Se La Pass last month.

The Indians held their fire, thinking the Chinese were refugees.

COTTAGERS WIN, LOSE

Summer cottagers from the Toronto area scored victories in two Muskoka township elections but went down to defeat in a township bordering Lake Simcoe.

Three Toronto men were re-elected to Medora and Wood Township councils and a cottagers-backed slate in Ryde Township, near Gravenhurst, gained control.

However, in North Gwillimbury Township last year's council of local residents was returned. Three Toronto men, lawyers John Hunter and Roy Kellock, and electrical contractor R. C. Edwards, were defeated.

In at least two other townships cottagers, most of them from the Toronto area, flocked to advance polls held Saturday. In Eldon Township, where a cottagers' association is supporting a three-man slate, 432 cottagers cast ballots. Nearly 400 summer residents voted in the Nottawasaga Township advance poll.

Some Think She Is a Sexy Flirt

DEAR DORIS—Some of the girls don't like me because they always think I'm trying to take their boy friends away from them. Some think I am a sexy flirt. Well, sometimes I am. A couple of times I've made a play for boys that are going steady and I've won most of them. Sex can be very overpowering.

But this time when I tried, he led me on and everything blew up in my face. His ex-girl friend and I are now the best of friends, but she is the only friend I've got. This girl and her boy friend are back together now and I feel like a great big fool. I asked him why he did this and he said it was to teach me a lesson.

DORIS CLARK

I would like to know how I can get the girls and boys to forgive me and give me a chance to prove that I'm just like them. Also, please send me the name of a book on teenagers so I can learn the meaning of living properly.—CONFUSED AND SMART.

DEAR CONFUSED—You've learned your lesson. Now apologize! And since you realize that sex can be overpowering, refuse to play with people's affections. Your friends will forgive you when you show you are taking the Golden Rule seriously. Send a stamp, self-addressed envelope for the name of the book.

DEAR DORIS—My husband is twenty years older than me. I do not expect love and sex often, but I would like to be treated like a wife and mother in the home. My husband tells all his business to his neighbors and so-called friends. He thinks he is belittling me in the presence of others by doing this.

It does bother me deeply to hear others laughing at him behind his back, saying how crazy he is. They say to me that he should have someone talk to him because it's a shame the way he carries on, especially to people he thinks are his friends.—JULIANA 1920.

DEAR JULIANA—Belittling you makes him feel big—in his own eyes. But the form it takes makes him smaller in the eyes of his friends. Urge a man friend he trusts to help him see that no one likes a man who peddles his private affairs.

DEAR DORIS—Would you be so kind as to tell me how to address the envelope containing a card for two teen-agers about 16 years of age, a brother and a sister. Would it be correct to put: "Miss Joan and Peter Black"? I would like to avoid the use of "Master" if possible.

Also, when addressing an envelope to a teen-age boy, is it all right to put "Mr. Peter Black"?—FAMILY FRIEND.

DEAR FRIEND—Say "Miss Joan Black and Peter Black." Peter is called "Master Peter Black" until he is twelve. After that and until he's 18, he is usually just plain "Peter Black."

DEAR DORIS—I am fourteen and have gone out with about eight boys. The boy I am dating now seemed all right but he tried to pet last week. I told him to stop it and he did and said he wouldn't do it again, and he hasn't.

I want to know if it is wrong to date this boy even after what happened. My cousin dated him and she said that he never tried anything, so why did he try to pet with me? Does it have something to do with me?

Another thing, is it wrong to date a boy who is going steady?—PUZZLED.

DEAR PUZZLED—Petting always has something to do with you. Learn to keep those wandering hands under control. If he is sure you mean it, he'll subside.

If a boy who says he is going steady, nevertheless invites you out, isn't that cheating? On his part? Know where you're at first.

TO VAL—Dreaming dreams about your pen pal is just what you shouldn't do. He's a distant friend, and I mean distant; no substitute for flesh and blood companions close at hand.

Several provincial police detachments said they had no idea how many automobiles had been smashed in their areas. On Highway 401 Saturday night it was estimated that more than 40 vehicles were involved in one pileup.

Shipping in the Welland Canal came to a near standstill. Officials reported early today that the worst fog stoppage in years had halted all but three ships from clearing the canal in the last 48 hours.

Seven ships were tied up in the canal, others were at anchor in Lake Ontario and nine were waiting in Lake Erie.

Occurrences of crime rose in Toronto as break - in artists, purse-snatchers and smash-and-grab specialists used the fog as a getaway asset.

Officials at the Toronto weather office said their telephones lines were busy.

"A lot of people seem to think the fog is all our fault," one employee lamented. "And they take the time to call us up and tell us what they think of us."

Republic of San Marino Has No Debt, Jobless, No Murder in a Century

By JAMES M. LONG

SAN MARINO (AP) — This oldest and tiniest republic has seemed to make it out of a little.

There is no public debt or unemployment. There hasn't been a murder in over a century. With postage stamps and its fingernail police, the 38-square-mile country has no troubles that a good tourist season does not solve. Every year 2,000,000 tourists come in to spend a little time and a lot of money among the 15,200 San Marinese.

San Marino claims one further distinction. It is the only European country ever won back from communism.

According to San Marino history, a persecuted Christian stonemason fled here from Dalmatia and founded the republic 1,300 years ago. He later became St. Marinus and gave his name to the country perched atop rocky Mount Titano, 1,560 feet high and 12 miles inland from Rimini on Italy's Adriatic coast.

LOOKS MEDIEVAL

The capital and sole city, San Marino, still looks medieval with its ancient walls, its three famous castles, and its cobbled streets too steep and too narrow for automobiles.

But San Marino bustles with modern ways. Tiny factories and souvenir shops provide so many jobs that 5,000 Italians commute to San Marino to bolster the working force.

Italy, which completely surrounds San Marino, pays the little country $1,000,000 a year because San Marino lets Italy collect its customs tax on imports.

San Marino does its own collecting on postage stamps, selling almost $1,000,000 worth a year. Forty-five employees are kept busy in the post office selling them. The stamps are printed in Rome.

San Marino's nail polish is exported all over the world. More than 1,500,000 bottles are sold annually.

MAKES WINE

There also is handsome profit from the sale of wines—red Sangiovese, white Albana, and sweet San Marinese Moscato. More wine is sold than can be grown in the cramped mountainside vineyards—some is imported from Italy's Asti region and bottled here.

San Marino was neutral in the war and thousands of persons, many of them Jews, fled here for refuge.

Britain paid $224,000 to settle claims for Second World War reparations. British planes bombed San Marino in error in June 24, 1944, killing 59 persons.

After the war, San Marino became Communist. The Communists lost in the strange revolution of 1957. That started when Mother Superior Veronica Serri re-opened a Catholic school at a convent that the Communist government had ordered closed.

The dispute over what to do about it grew bitter in the Grand Council. San Marino's ancient legislature. The Communist-Socialist alliance had 31 of 60 council seats, but two socialists defected and joined the Christian Democrats, resulting in dissolution of the council.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Well, that one like the family crystal ball, will go down in sports history as the weirdest, wackiest Grey Cup game in history.

My favorite hunk receptionist proves that women are seldom wrong three times in a row—sports-wise, that is. And the crystal ball gets another lease of life. It was only two points shy of being correct—but it picked the winner.

As one writer puts it, there have been strange doings in the Grey Cup final since the $50 trophy was first put up by a sports loving governor general.

Says Mel Suffrin, the foggy 1962 renewal of the East-West classic starting Saturday, winding up Sunday may be remembered by the purists because Winnipeg Blue Bombers won 28-27 over the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

It must be much the same for other oddities of past Grey Cups. How many fans would remember, for example, the score of the 1957 final at Toronto's Varsity Stadium?

Tiger-Cats defeated Blue Bombers that year 32-7, but the thing most people remember is the fan on the sideline tripping Ray Bawlet in the dying moments as he was heading for a Hamilton touchdown.

Then there was the 1960 game in Vancouver's Empire Stadium which, unlike the two-day affair in Toronto, never ended at all. Spectators invaded the field and one man stole the game ball. The game was called with 41 seconds left. Who won? Calgary Rough Riders beat Edmonton Eskimos 16-6.

Vancouver was the site of another ball-swiping incident. In 1955, the first year the Grey Cup was played in the west, fans grabbed the ball in the end zone on a wide Edmonton field goal attempt. Officials awarded Eskimos a single, although Montreal Alouettes didn't have the opportunity to try running the ball out. It didn't affect the outcome. Edmonton won 34-19.

The weather has played some nasty tricks on Grey Cup competitiors in the past but until this year there was nothing to match the mud bowl of 1956. Varsity Stadium became a quagmire and the players were indistinguishable. Al Dekdebrun taped thumbtacks to his fingers so he directed a Toronto Argonauts attack that turned back Winnipeg 13-0.

In 1924 they didn't have an East-West game at all. Officials and players of Winnipeg Victorias, the western champions, squabbled over choice of rail lines to be used for the trip east.

When they finally settled their differences, Queen's University, the eastern representative, had packed up for the season and had been awarded the Canadian championship.

All that's left now of this year's fogfest are the arguments and the unpaid bets. And the bets will be paid long before the controversies are settled.

Bombers Win Cup, Controversy Rages

Fog, Fury, Argument

By WILF GRUSON

TORONTO (CP)—The weirdest Grey Cup final in the 54-year history of Canada's East-West football classic today left in its fog-shrouded wake a lively controversy over a game that took two days to play.

The defending champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers squeezed out a 28-27 victory over Hamilton Tiger - Cats, finishing the game Sunday, nearly 25 hours after it started, because dense fog had interrupted it with nine minutes and 29 seconds remaining on Saturday.

The game resumed from the point where it was ordered halted by Football Commissioner Sydney Halter and the second portion of the unprecedented serialized cup final was scoreless as Bombers held on in a spine-tingling windup to win their fourth Grey Cup from Hamilton in five years.

The suspension became an immediate topic of debate among football executives, reporters and fans. Some questioned whether the game should have been started Saturday with the threat of fog so great.

As it turned out, conditions improved on Sunday. Had completion of the game been impossible, it would have gone into the records as no contest.

Before an estimated 15,000 die-hard fans who were admitted to the stadium with their Saturday ticket stubs, the two clubs engaged in a scoreless duel that was in contrast to the 55 points chalked up Saturday before a capacity 32,853.

The Bombers, with a one-point lead, held on gamely and fought the tenacious Tiger-Cats almost to a standstill even though they were hurting. Fullback Charlie Shepard, who handled almost all the punting duties, was on the sidelines with an ankle injury.

Defensive halfback Tommy Grant was out of the Hamilton defensive backfield with cracked ribs and rookie Joe Zuger, who has gone all the way at quarterback Saturday, was confined to punting duties because of a sprained left ankle as Canadian Frank Cosentino took over.

The game resumed with Bombers in possession at the Hamilton 54 on second down and 10 to go. During the remainder, Winnipeg was unable to manage a first down. But the closest Hamilton could get was the Winnipeg 47-yard line and on the last play of the game Zuger went for the tying point with a punt that Kenny Ploen grabbed at the three-yard line as the gun sounded.

DROPS THE BALL

The turning point came with about three minutes to go when a third-down Hamilton play at midfield. Off a fake kick formation, Zuger attempted to retain possession for Ticats with a short pass down the middle to Dick Easterly. The halfback dropped the ball and Bombers took over at midfield instead of being hemmed in their own end.

Trimble said later he called the fake punt and justified it on the grounds that Hamilton needed to hold on to the ball if it hoped to win.

Ticats struck back with their last-gasp effort in the final seconds when Cosentino passed to Garney Henley for seven yards and then tossed to Hal Patterson who made a spectacular catch at the Winnipeg 47.

Each team scored four touchdowns Saturday and the difference between victory and defeat for Hamilton was two missed converts by usually reliable Don Sutherin.

EACH SCORE TWICE

Halfback Leo Lewis, who played probably his greatest Grey Cup game, and Shepard scored two touchdowns each for Winnipeg, and left-footed Gerry James converted all four.

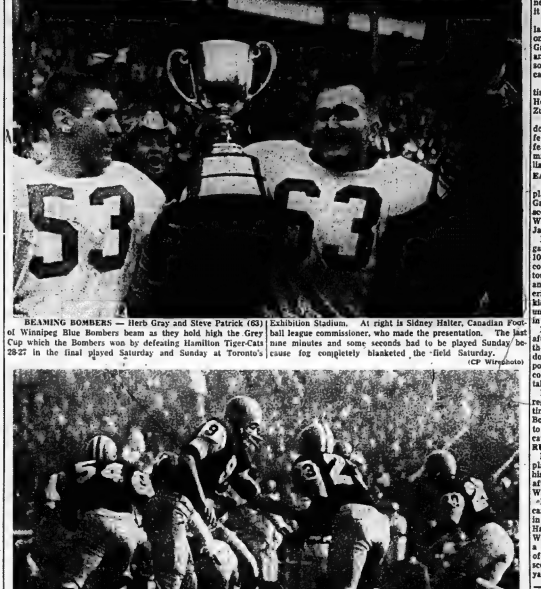
Henley, the individual ground-gaining star of the game with 100 yards in four carries, counted two of Hamilton's touchdowns and Bobby Kuntz and Dave Viti one each. Sutherin, besides converting, two, kicked a single on one of two unsuccessful field-goal attempts in the second half.

Hamilton shot into a 6-0 lead after less than five minutes on the first of Henley's touchdowns. Winnipeg scored 21 points in the second quarter, coming from behind twice to take a 21-19 half-time lead.

In the third quarter Hamilton regained the lead for the last time, going ahead 26-21 but Bombers wiped out the margin to take a 28-26 lead before Ticats got their final point.

RUNS 74 YARDS

Henley, a brilliant two-way player, sprinted 74 yards for his first - quarter touchdown after a fine block by Vitiat the Winnipeg 28 cleared the way. Ploen, the former all-American from Iowa who alternated in the quarterback slot with Hal Ledyard, paved the way for Winnipeg's first touchdown with a 45-yard run on the last play of the first quarter. Lewis scored standing up from six yards out at the 13-second mark of the second quarter.

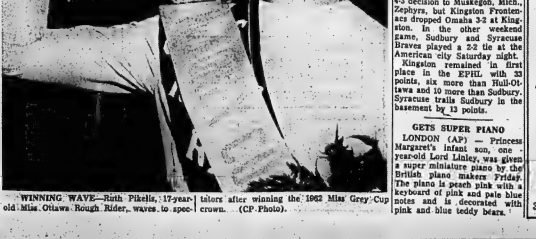


A 52-yard pass from Ploen to end Ernie Pitts set up the Bombers' next touchdown. Lewis then took a handoff from Ledyard and fired a pass to Shepard in the end zone.

Zuger set the stage for a one-yard touchdown plunge by Kuntz when he passed to Henley for 29 yards and then ran 12 yards himself.

A fumble by Ledyard at the Winnipeg 18 opened the gates for Henley's second touchdown. Zuger raced back to the 34 as if to pass but instead handed off to Henley who raced around the end to score without a Winnipeg player touching him.

Lewis scored his second touchdown in the final seconds of the first half. Ledyard came off the bench with a play from Grant and passed to Farrell Funston who lateralled to Lewis, the speedy half completing the 36-yard scoring play.



Viti went 36 yards on a pass from Zuger for the next Hamilton touchdown. But Bombers struck back quickly after Lewis dashed 69 yards to the Hamilton 22 on the kickoff. They moved to the Hamilton four, from where Shepard crashed over.

Montreal Canadiens strengthened their position at the top of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series with a 3-2 win over Peterborough Petes in Montreal Monday night. The win placed them three points ahead of Peterborough.

Saturday night, Hamilton Red Wings, scoring two goals on consecutive third period penalties, managed to salvage a 4-4 tie with St. Catharines Black Hawks.

Montreal and Peterborough players clashed in a brief but wild brawl late in the second period after Montreal left-winger Yvan Cournoyer was elbowed by Peterborough defenceman Bill Plager.

Montreal defenceman Don Fedun was flattened by a solid right to the jaw by Peterborough defenceman Bob Jamieson and Montreal left-winger Bob Charlebois and Tom Carty of Peterborough, clashed in a stick-wielding duel. Charlebois broke Carty's stick and was winding up for another swing when Plager jumped him from behind.

TAKE A LEAD

Montreal took a two-goal lead in the first period when Andre Boudrias and Cournoyer counted and centre Bill Inglis scored their final goal after 26 seconds of the second period.

Attacking desperately, Peterborough took the score to 3-2 with goals by defenceman Brian Watson and Danny O'Shea in the third period, but were unable to even the score.

The draw moved Hamilton into a third-place tie with Niagara Falls Flyers, one point ahead of the Black Hawks.

Hamilton held a 2-1 margin at the end of the second period after goals by rookie Bob Thomas in the first and Bryan Campbell in the second. Snider got Black Hawks' single in the second.

Halter Stands By Decision ★★★★★

Fog Checks Make Grey Cup Debut

By JIM PEACOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Was it right or wrong to start the Grey Cup football final in the face of a threat of dense fog?

Was the decision to play influenced by the Canadian Football League's contract with an American television network which telecast the national final across the United States?

Arguments over these questions swirled with the fog here during the weekend—and they'll probably continue indefinitely as a result of the unprecedented situation that developed.

The Grey Cup game, eventually won by Winnipeg Blue Bombers 28-27 over Hamilton Tiger-Cats, for the first time became a serial, starting Saturday and finishing Sunday.

Much of Saturday's play—nine minutes and 29 seconds were played Sunday with no chance in the scoring—was obscured from the fans by fog which eventually became too dense on the field at the lakefront stadium to continue play.

Sunday Crowd Small

Sunday the field was clear but only about 15,000 of the 32,- 655 who'd been there Saturday returned to the stadium. Several hundred of the missing were visitors who couldn't wait for the completion.

Football executives, reporters and fans debated the situation at length.

Some suggested the game should not have been started in the face of the fog threat, but they were in the minority.

The majority agreed with the decision to start the game but said it should have been called at half time since fog by then had already made it difficult for fans to follow the field action.

Some said the whole weird situation made the 1962 Grey Cup one of the most unique and exciting sports events in years.

"I wouldn't miss this for anything," said George Frazier of the Boston (Mass.) Herald, who came from the U.S. to see the game.

"It's a unique first in sport—the first time in history they've given out fog checks."

STIRS UP TEMPEST

Jack Matheson, sports editor of the Winnipeg Tribune stirred up a tempest among football executives when he said Saturday in a television interview that Canadian football had sold its soul to an American TV network, gambling away television relations in the U.S. against the fans in the stadium.

His inference was that the decision to play in spite of the fog threat was reached largely because of the U.S. television deal.

Commissioner Sydney Halter and President Jake Gaudaur of the Canadian Football League, who made the decision to play, termed the suggestion ridiculous.

"The television arrangement had nothing to do with the decision," Halter said. "That should have been obvious from my statements when I announced we were gambling strictly on the account that there were thousands of fans from out of town who might not be able to stay another day to see the game. It was doing because the weather man assured me there would be no improvement in the next day in the fog situation."

Gaudaur, key figure in negotiating the contract with the American broadcasting Company to carry the Grey Cup game across its U.S. network said he was "absolutely nothing to do with our decision."

REVENUE 'NEGLIGIBLE'

He said the purpose of the U.S. telecast was to get exposure of Canadian football there. Revenue to the CFL—estimated at about $36,000—was negligible.

"The ABC crew here had set up all Friday night editing film of the Montreal-Hamilton Eastern final for use in case the Grey Cup was postponed," Gaudaur said. "We'd have had the U.S. exposure anyway."

The ABC did telecast the Grey Cup game, as far as I went Saturday, on a delayed broadcast as its feature "Wide World of Sport." It took a CTV network feed on Sunday's play and will telecast it next Saturday as part of the same weekly program.

Some agreement with Mathenon's contention that the network deal influenced the decision was found among other football reporters, but most of these agreed with the decision to start.

Ted Reeve of the Toronto Telegram said the game should have been completed regardless of conditions, an opinion shared by Bud Grant, coach of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who said his club had finished the job even when the game was called. Grant said the fog didn't interfere with the club's field play.

'HAD TO BE CALLED'

Tiger-Cat coach Jim Trimble said the fog "was hampering players' visibility, especially on high punts and passes, and had to be called. Hamilton fans in the sea suits as a unique happening about which little could be done.

Annis Stukus of Toronto, football player and coach in the past and now a television commentator, said the game should have been considered complete at the half. It was called Saturday and a second game scheduled next weekend with total points to stand.

Hal Pawson, sports editor of the Edmonton Journal, injected a note of humor:

"Winnipeg," he said Saturday night, "should come out with one helluva play on the first play tomorrow. They'll have had more than 20 hours in the huddle."

Incidentally, Winnipeg didn't. They made no gain on the opening play, but had the ball advanced five yards by a Hamilton offside penalty.

The Scoreboard Fogged Out!

By PAUL RINSTEAD

TORONTO (CP) — It's bad enough when you can't see the players, the field or the markers—but when the scoreboard disappears, that's the last straw.

The hardy football fans in the upper seats lost all contact with the first chapter of the 1962 Grey Cup game Saturday.

The grandstand on the opposite side of the field was the first thing to disappear as heavy fog settled down on the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium.

Then fans could see only a portion of the field.

Next the players disappeared.

But the fans, by watching the markers on the sidelines, could tell where the play was. They didn't know who had the ball, mind you, but they knew Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats were out there somewhere.

Then the markers disappeared. Still the fans were not beaten.

They watched the lighted scoreboard.

Then the scoreboard disappeared.

"Only one thing left to do," yelled a Winnipeg fan who stood to face the crowd behind the Hamilton end zone. "Turn on some serious drinking."

This was just before the game was called with nine minutes and 29 seconds remaining in regulation time. Things were starting to drag for the upper-seat fans now that the scoreboard was gone.

But a Hamilton fan, climbing the steps in an unsure fashion, livened things up. A Winnipeg fan on an aisle seat made a remark about Ticats.

The loyal Hamiltonian threw his bag of popcorn in the Westerner's face and received a solid left to the jaw in return.

Fists flew, people squealed and the fog and the boredom was broken.

Police arrived shortly and assisted the combatants from their seats.

"Well" yelled an angry Blue Bomber fan as the police officers and their captives disappeared down the stairs, "how d'you like that!" He slammed his hat against his leg.

"It cost me $00 bucks to come here this weekend and what do they do? They stop the only thing I can see."

In The Dressing Rooms

By GRAHAM COX

TORONTO (CP) — As uproarious as the immediate celebration was, Sunday evening was quiet for Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who held on to a one-point lead for nearly 24 hours to defeat Hamilton Tiger-Cats 28 - 27 for the Candian football championship.

The game was played both Saturday and Sunday as dense fog forced postponement of nine minutes and 29 seconds of the game.

Though coach Bud Grant was elated after the game, his greatest praise for the team came Saturday night, in the quiet of his hotel room.

"This is the quittest team I've ever been associated with. There are lots of teams, even in the Western Conference, physically better than we are, but none are as great.

Finals Next Year on emotion.

LEADS IN PRAYER

"Before every game, I leave them alone in the dressing room for a few minutes and they get down on their knees and pray, different players leading the prayer before each game.

"When I let them out of the dressing room Saturday (Saturday), there was hardly a dry eye among them. They get emotional as a football team.

"They haven't had a rest all year and they still keep on getting up. Now when they keep on getting it I don't know. Have you ever seen a team like this? After the finish Grant said: 'We know we didn't have much in it, but we had to come up and retain their short passes and ground game.

Another fine position on the field we figured to hold them in.

"If it had gone into overtime, I don't know what we'd do."

"Hamilton was definitely stronger out there today. We didn't give away any long yardage either."

NO MORE WHOMP!

As he was being carried away on unscheduled shower by his players, line coach John Michels smiled: "I have no comment, but they'll have to take the words wallop and whomp out of the dictionary now."

Trimble's prediction was a maistrom of noise as Grant patrolled it shaking his players' hands.

Halfback Leo Lewis, who scored two touchdowns and passed to Charlie Shepard for another, was doused under a pail of champagne in the melee.

The only comment from the beaming back was: "It was a lot more slippery out there today than yesterday. I don't know why, but it was."

Halfback Ted Collorelle, who led round after round of cheering among his teammates, also got a champagne shower.

JUST WONDERFUL

Steve Patrick, co - captain of the team, said: "They had so much pride . . . It was just wonderful. We have a lot of stuck in our minds and we just wanted to get out there and play today."

Wayne Robinson, former coach of the British Columbia Lions who has been scouting for the Bombers, did a little mind-reading.

"Old Cotton-on-Chest Trimble still doesn't know how they kept coming back. He was hoping to beat them with words, but now he knows he can't.

"The team has to be the greatest."

Lions Ragan-Nips Sanders In Playoff

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Dave Ragan of Orlando, Fla., survived a five-way playoff in the West Palm Beach golf tournament Sunday.

Ragan teamed with the back nine with a four-under-par 32 for a four-round total of 277- 11 under par. Ragan won $2,000.

Tied for second place money of $1,000, Dow Finsterwald of Tequesta, Fla., wound up with $1,400 with a four-round total of 278 good for third place.

George Knudson of Toronto, who fired a 69 Sunday, tied for sixth spot with Joe Campbell. Both had 280 totals, good for $675 in prize money.

Al Geiberger of Montreal picked up $670 for 11th spot, shooting a four-over par 284 total. Bruce Crampton of Toronto blossomed to a 73 Sunday but his 285 total earned him $340.

Al Balding of Toronto and Jack Bissegger of Val Morin, Que., finished in a tie for 16th at 286, each earning $203.33.

Mikita Leads Hawks To Top Spot

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Chicago coach Rudy Pilous doesn't hesitate to name the player who has led his Black Hawks' surge into first place in the National Hockey League standings.

"Our sparkplug," he said Saturday night, is a little guy named Stan Mikita.

"He's the hardest competitor in the league and one of the smoothest play makers. He's only 22, but he plays with the maturity of a man of 30."

Mikita's four-assists performance during the weekend — as Chicago beat the Montreal Canadiens 2 - 1 Saturday night and won 5-1 over New York Rangers—shot him into the league scoring leadership with 24 points, one more than Rangers' Andy Bathgate.

Mikita missed the first six of Chicago's 24 games to date, due to an ankle injury which still bothers him. When he came back Hawks were tied for fifth place and had managed only one win.

With Mikita sparking the Hawks in their last 18 games, they won 10, tied four and lost four to dislodge Detroit Red Wings from the standings leadership.

MOVE INTO LEAD

Hawks' win over Rangers shot them into first place as Red Wings lost a 3-1 decision in Toronto Maple Leafs.

Hawks have 28 points, two more than Detroit, Montreal and Toronto, all deadlocked in second place with 26 points.

Both Leafs and Canadiens swept their weekend games. Leafs trounced the lowly Boston Bruins Saturday night and beat Detroit Sunday night. Canadiens, after defeating Chicago, shut out Boston 3-0.

Detroit has only played 21 games—three more than Hawks —while Montreal has played 22 and Toronto 23. The Rangers are the eight points behind the three second - place teams with 18 points, and Bruins are another eight points back in the league cellar with 10.

The Leafs humiliated Boston in their 8-2 victory in Toronto Saturday night. Leafs took a 4-0 lead in the first period and didn't look back.

Big Frank Mahovlich scored twice for Leafs on blazing shots. The pair gives him the league lead in goals with 13.

"Mahovlich is playing the way he should," said Toronto coach Punch Imlach after the game.

NEVIN GETS TWO

Toronto's other goals were scored by Mahovlich's linemate, Bobby Nevin, with two, and George Armstrong, Dick Duff, Bob Pulford and Eddie Shack with one each.

Boston centre Bob Leiter, playing his first NHL game, and Tommy Williams were the Boston scorers.

Johnny Bower, returning to the Toronto nets in place of Don Simmons, made only 23 saves, compared with 25 for Boston's rookie netminder Bob Perreault.

In Montreal Saturday night, the Hawks protested bitterly but to no avail about Canadiens' second goal in their 2-1 triumph.

Both Chicago goalie Glenn Hall and Pilous claimed Montreal's Billy Hicke shoved the puck over the goal line again and again to keep the score 1-1 until the last 2½ minutes of play.

Commissioner On Spot

The Way Halter Saw It

By MEL SUFRIN

TORONTO (CP)—An unmilling G. Sydney Halter stood on the sidelines at the Canadian National Exhibition stadium on Sunday and recounted the last events of two days he'll never forget—the day the 1962 Grey Cup game started and the day it finished.

He tall, grey-haired Canadian Football League commissioner from Winnipeg was the man on the spot as fog played havoc with the East-West final between Winnipeg Blue Bombers and Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Winnipeg won 28-27 but in minds of many the score was secondary to the fact that the game started Saturday with the kickoff at 1:08 p.m. EST and didn't end until 1:53 p.m. Sunday, 24½ hours later.

Here is the chronological report on one of the most trying weekends Halter ever expects to face:

Saturday

8 a.m.—It called the weather office and was told indications were the fog might move in and then out during the morning hours during the day, and that late in the afternoon it was possible it might move in to stay.

9 a.m.—Arrived at stadium and found the weather fairly clear although the fog still lurked over Lake Ontario a few minutes away.

10:30 a.m. — Called the weather office again and got the same report although it was a bit more optimistic.

10:45 a.m.—Decided to go on with the game and called newspaper men together to tell them.

DOJACK GETS ORDERS

11 a.m.—Talked to referee Paul Dojack of Regina and told him that if at any time during the game conditions on the field became impossible the officials should consult him at the sidelines.

1 p.m.—Took his place in the royal box halfway up in the covered stands on the north side of the Canadian National Exhibition Stadium; was joined by Prime Minister Diefenbaker, who had just performed the official kickoff.

1:15 p.m.—Fog was rolling in off the lake and in the next hour he made several walks down to field level whereever he found visibility was good even though fans high in the stadium were having trouble seeing.

2:15 p.m. — The first half ended with Winnipeg ahead 21-19 and Halter met Dojack and decided to reduce the half-time intermission to 15 minutes.

2:30 p.m.—The second half began and he remained at field level.

3:30 p.m.—The fog was so thick that many fans were booing because they couldn't see at all. Dojack came to the sidelines and said it was dangerous to continue. Told him to call a five-minute halt.

3:38 p.m.—Told Dojack to order an additional 15-minute delay and send the teams to their dressing rooms. Telephoned the weather office and was told fog was expected to settle in for good.

3:50 p.m.Met with club presidents Hart Wintemute of Winnipeg and Jake Gaudaur of Hamilton; advised them he proposed to call game and they concurred.

3:58 p.m.—Had the public address announcer tell the crowd of the decision.

In the evening Halter met with Wintemute, Gaudaur, coaches Bud Grant and Hugh Campbell and Jim Trimble of Ticats, Winnipeg general manager Jim Ansley and Eastern and Western conference presidents Ted Workman of Montreal and George McMahon of Calgary. He told them that if the game couldn't be completed Sunday, it would be declared no contest.

Sunday

9 a.m.—Called weather office and was told conditions would probably permit completion of the game.

11:15 a.m.—Called weather office again and was told visibility was not improving. Told that if weather was at least as good as the early part of Saturday's game, he and that there was less danger of fog.

11:16 a.m. — Announced to press the game would be finished, starting at 1:30 p.m.

1:53 p.m.—Watched as game resumed in a slight mist.

1:53 p.m.—Breathed a sigh of relief as Grey Cup game ended with Blue Bombers in possession on their own three-yard line.

Formality Goes By Boards

'Happy' Empire Games End

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

PERTH, Australia (CP)—The seventh British Empire Games, a 10-day sports extravaganza involving a multitude of nations from the far corners of the Commonwealth, have gone down in sports history as the Happy Games.

Happiness was the theme right to the end Saturday when formality went by the boards for the first time in the 32-year history of the Games.

More than 1,000 athletes from 34 countries whooped it up during the closing ceremony, engaging in some impromptu horseplay that delighted the 30,000 spectators.

Australia, the host country, dethroned defending champion England in the over-all competition that involved 104 championships in nine sports—track and field, swimming, fencing, boxing, wrestling, weightlifting, rowing, cycling and lawn bowling.

WIN 185 MEDALS

The Australians piled up a monumental total of 105 medals, 38 of them gold. And in the unofficial points standing—frowned on by games officials — they scored 846½ points, more than the combined total of second-place England with 507½ and third-place New Zealand with 245½. Canada finished fourth with 31 medals, including four gold, and 136 points.

During the keen competition in which 10 world records—all in swimming—and 42 games marks were broken, bickering among athletes or officials was kept to a minimum.

An argument at the start of the Games Nov. 22 involving Ghana was quickly resolved. Ghana' officials had protested against a South African judging boxing matches involving Ghanaians. The issue was settled when the South African judged only bouts in which there were no Ghanaians.

Two countries that played a major part in the Games four years ago in Cardiff, Wales were not represented here. South Africa, no longer a part of the Commonwealth, could not send a team while India, involved in an undeclared war with Communist China, did not send one. Also missing were Nigeria, Brunei and Gambia.

WORKED FOUR YEARS

Perth's friendly people worked themselves into the ground to make the visitors—athletes, officials and tourists—happy. They had planned and labored for four years to stage the Games, at a cost of $15,000,000.

No one could blame the crowd for chuckling and applauding the antics of the athletes during the closing ceremony. A hint of things to come was evident when the athletes struggled into the stadium behind the Royal Australian Navy band.

They were ready to burst into any kind of song and dance as soon as the serious business of formally closing the Games was concluded by Prince Philip.

And they didn't disappoint. The Australians, who love informality, relished every minute of it. They had entered pubing into the big Perry Lakes Stadium early and by noon the place was jammed with a yelling mob that watched their country take exactly half of the final 10 in track and field events.

The Canadians had one of their most miserable days Saturday. The highly-rated pole vaulters dropped out one by one leaving only two in the first six—Gerry Moro of Trail, B.C., who took fourth and Bob Watson of Langley, B.C., tied for fifth. Al Groom of Summerside, P.E.I., wound up in 8 six-way seventh-place tie.

The mile relay team was a hapless sixth and last as Abigail Hoffman of Toronto, favoring an injured left leg, was seventh and last in the women's 880-yard run. Jim Irons of Brampton, Ont., finished eighth and next to last in the mile. And Pat Dobie of Saskatoon did not qualify for the final of the women's discus.

Ti-Cat Best Carrier

Henley, Ledyard Standouts

By ED SIMON

TORONTO (CP) — A converted defensive backfielder and a quarterback-turned-halfback were the offensive standouts of the 1962 Grey Cup game.

Garney Henley, a breakaway speedster whose total offensive contribution for Hamilton Ti-Cats in the 1961 Canadian final was 11 yards, emerged as the outstanding star in Saturday's even though his team lost 28-27. And 29-year-old Hal Ledyard, who called only his first year for Winnipeg Blue Bombers in last year's 21-14 victory, was the most effective passer in this one.

Henley, who still takes his turn on defence in the versatile Hamilton backfield, overshadowed everyone on both sides of the field in the fog-interrupted game that ended Sunday.

He picked up 100 yards rushing in four plays, almost doubling the total gained by the Ticats' first-string teammate Bobby Kuntz, who netted 52 in 17 tries. And he gained another 62 yards by catching five passes, again topping the list.

RECORD SET

In addition, Henley posted the longest rushing gain, a 74-yard touchdown gallop in the first quarter, and completed the longest pass play, a 54-yard effort that set up another Hamilton touchdown in the third.

PLAYED WITH PACKERS

Henley, a native of Huron, S.D., where the Ticats picked up from Green Bay Packers of the National Football League in 1960, appeared offensively in the 1961 finish between the same two clubs but was not enough to snare two passes for nine and two yards.

Ledyard, a second - year Bomber from Montgomery, Ala., spent five years with Ottawa Rough Riders of the E.F.C. and Sarnia of the Ontario Rugby Football Union before heading West.

Hampered by injuries, he had been used sparingly by the Bombers this season. Although he is noted primarily as a passer, he was better than seventh in the WFC passing statistics.

It was the pass that Winnipeg had to rely on Saturday when they took the field without fullback Charlie Shepard and with two of their other rushing threats, Charlie Shepard and Gerry Ashlee, sidelined by injuries.

Ledyard got his first chance late in the first quarter when Kenny Ploen failed to complete his first four passes and was thrown for a loss twice before he even got the ball away.

START UNPROMISING

After an unpromising start—a loss of 11 yards on his first play — Ledyard proceeded to complete five of his next six throws in a drive that led to the first Winnipeg touchdown.

Alternating effectively with Ploen, Ledyard finished the game with a record of 13 completed passes in 18 attempts for a total yardage of 190 and a completion percentage of 72.2, both of which are new records set by Sam Etcheverry of Montreal Alouettes in the 1953 final. Hamilton's Joe Zuger, completing fewer passes but throwing a longer ball, gained 189 yards from eight completions in 23 attempts. Ploen completed four of 11 tries for 89 yards and Hamilton's Frank Cosentino clicked on four out of seven for 104.

Converted Episode Into Psychiatric Exploration

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Writer Jerome Ross reworked the same naval episode of 1842 that led Herman Melville to write his classic Billy Budd to make Sunday night's NBC show of the week, Mutiny.

It was the story of a 17-year-old apprentice seaman who was executed for fomenting mutiny aboard a training ship.

But where Melville made his book a sort of psychological morality tale exploring the many faces of evil, Ross converted the episode into a psychiatric exploration.

In Philip Cantrell, Jr., the young apprentice (well played by Robert Walker), we had a senator's son, disobedient, blustering and—obviously from the outset—deeply disturbed. In other words, a juvenile delinquent.

In the end, however, the fascinating build-up led only to letdown. In good, traditional television style, it turned out the boy was not really executed, but similar overboard into the sea. And that he wasn't really a bad boy—just a sick one. Merville never would have settled for such a watered - down windup.

Recommended tonight: Leonard Bernstein and the New York Philharmonic, CBS, 7:30 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. EST—repeat per[illegible]

Reds Crowd Aces for AL Lead

Providence Reds, unbeaten in four games, have vaulted into second place in the West Eastern Division race in the American Hockey League, just one point back of the leading Rochester Aces.

The Reds got four goals from their Bi-line Line of Jim Bartlett, Stan Baluik and Pierre Brillant and stormed over Springfield Indians 5-2 Sunday night.

Quebec picked up a single point in a 2-2 overtime tie with Hershey Bears. Rochester Americans whipped Cleveland Barons 6-3 and Buffalo Bisons mauled Baltimore Clippers 6-1 in the others.

In Saturday games, Providence beat Pittsburgh Hornets 4-3, Baltimore and Cleveland tied 3-3, Buffalo edged Rochester 4-3 and Springfield defeated Hershey 4-2.

Chick Balon scored for the Clippers.

Minor Hockey

It was another busy weekend for players in the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's Peewee, Bantam and Juvenile divisions, with a full slate of games played in each case.

JUVENILE

The Comets whipped the Tigers 8-2, sparked by J. Boyle's three-goal effort. T. Bennett, C. Dyble, Woodley, C. Lange and Thomson also scored. Dyble and Emerson had two assists each, Heath, Lange and Fisher, one. F. Farrell and Fisher scored for Tigers. G. Woods and Casciano getting assists.

Hornets topped the Aces 4-3 with Boomhower scoring two goals and assisting on another. Woodcock and McGuire also scored, the latter also helping on one. Wilbur and Mott were the Aces' marksmen, Stewart Follwell, Hannah and Hallam drawing assists.

BANTAM

Canadiens dumped the Black Hawks 5-1, led by D. Lamb's with a pair of goals. P. Jury, C. Rump and R. Bone also scored. P. Ford, R. Simmons, Storms and Bone had assists. Fuller scored for Hawks with B. Long helping.

Bruins took a 6-2 decision over the Red Wings with J. McKenzie firing two goals. R. Wishart, P. Hunter, E. Hanoski and D. Wallbanks also scored with assists going to S. Hunter, G. Kaye, McKenzie and A. Bradley. Whittle and D. Cayre had Wing goals with D. Prentice getting one assist.

A three-goal performance by F. Howe sparked Barons to a close 6-5 win over Quinte. Howe also had one assist. Thompson scored on scored twice and S. Lee once for the winners and T. Middleton had one assist. Quinte goals were shared by Muir, J. Lee, V. Fisher, R. Summers and T. Schwager. G. Bankey and D. Meagher had assists.

The Maes whipped the Browns 8-3 with P. Goodfellow, B. Gibbons and D. Muir scoring two goals apiece. A. Thompson and T. Price added a goal each while K. Allen had two assists, Muir, Goodfellow and B. Reddick one. T. Boulter scored a pair and R. Reeves one for Browns. B. Mc-Morrow having the lone assist.

PEEWEE

Mats took a 5-3 win over the Maple Leafs with Mitchell scoring two goals. Powell, T. Gill and Thompson also scored. Mc-Clain helping on two, Wermark and Powell on one each. Richardson scored two for Maple Leafs and P. Hayes got the other. Devaau and Genereaux drew assists.

Rangers shaded the Browns 4-3 with Morrison getting a pair of goals. Creswell and D. Topping also scored while Sallows and Cooper had assists. Phillips; Curtin and J. Rushlow were the Browns' scorers, Muldoon getting the only assist.

Barons defeated the Canadiens 4-2. Scoring for the Barons were Richardson, D. Bailey, R. Lambert and Lattimer with P. Mills, Bailey and Hall drawing assists. J. Potts and T. Tyatt were the Canadiens' marsmen.

Black Hawks took a 4-1 win over the Red Wings on single goals by S. Hawkins, Bill and Jim Fahey and Rivers. Royea and McCarey had assists. Bunkell was the Wings from a shutout.

Bruins nipped Quinte 7-6 with S. Sharpe scoring three goals and S. Moore two. Wylie and J. Barry also scored and Sharpe had an assist. Janitsch potted three Quinte goals, Noble two and Adams one. Janitsch also earned two assists and Noblie one.

Bellefair and Trenton All-Star Peewee teams played to a 3-3 tie at the R.I.D. rink the other evening. Carr and Meagher scored for Belleville with Benson and Acquafredo drawing assists. Courture and McFall fired Trenton goals.

Nip Bears 26-24

Giants Win Eastern Title

NEW YORK (CP)—New York Giants clinched their second straight Eastern Conference title in the National Football League by defeating Chicago Bears 26-24 Sunday on two touchdown passes by Y. A. Title and one field goals by Don Chandler.

But it was still an open race in the Western Conference as top-place Green Bay Packers trounced bottom-place Los Angeles Rams 49-10 and Detroit Lions stayed one game behind the Packers with a 37-14 victory over Baltimore Colts.

Green Bay and Detroit will have two games to play. The conference winner will meet the Giants Dec. 30 for the NFL title.

Cleveland Browns lost 45-21 to Dallas Cowboys in a brawling game in the Texas city. Minnesota Vikings 35 - 17 and Philadelphia Steelers downed St. Louis Cardinals 28-7.

In the American League, Buffalo Bills upset Dallas Texans 23-14 with juggernaut fullback Cookie Gilchrist picking up 11 points on a touchdown, a field goal and the west coast.

Gilchrist, acquired from Toronto Argonauts near the start of the season after he was waived out of the Canadian Football League, also covered 63 yards in 19 carries to pass the league rushing record. With one more game to play, he has a 13-game total of 953 yards, three more than the mark set last year by Houston's Billy Cannon.

Houston Oilers defeated Denver Broncos 34-17 to protect their AFL Eastern Division lead, while San Diego defeated Oakland Raiders 31-21 in a late game on the west coast.

Met at Airport

Athletes Get Warm Welcome

By BRUCE LEVETT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Thirty two Canadians, the winners and the losers who gave their country its best post-war showing in international sport, arrived home Sunday night from the British Empire Games.

And across town, a 33rd member of the team, Jack Harold Ran of Prince George, B.C., in bowling, were also part of the national contingent Canada sent to the Games in Perth.

They were welcomed home by the cheers and shrieks of about 100 friends and relatives who gathered in the rain at International Airport.

They talked about their wins and their losses — and they talked about Harry Jerome, the Vancouver 100-yard-dash man who preached them home.

SPEAKS FOR JEROME

Harry flew to Seattle Tuesday night and drove home from there, avoiding many of the reporters who wanted to ask him why he had been unable to put uncounted times before — how he failed in the event in which he was the no-holds-barred record.

Sunday night Fred Foot, manager of the track team, spoke up for Jerome:

"Harry got off the blocks well and he was going good right up to about 60 yards. Then he grabbed his leg and that was it."

Some observers said Harry had only been as sore as he couldn't win a gold medal. Fred Foot said no — there was no suggestion of soreness. He had torn a muscle in his left leg.

Harold Mann, the southpaw belter whose sweet-swinging left hook won for Canada, said he has been professional "if I get the proper offer."

TURNS DOWN OFFER

Mann, who described himself as "a wholesale automotive parts man,' said he had refused an unofficial offer to box professionally in Australia, but had not taken it.

He won a gold medal with a technical knockout of Rhodesia's Brian Benson in the final of the light-middleweight division.

Kidd, the distance runner who won his gold in the 10,000-metre (six mile) run, was resplendent among his red - jacketed team - mates in a blue Hong Kong blazer and a Rhodesian hat he was given after the swaps.

Both medalists said they doubted they could make the Pan-American Games in Brazil next April.

Most of them, with the exception of the Vancouver-area athletes, were to depart today for their homes across the country. The rest of the team will drift back within the next three days.

The swimmers are competing in invitational meets in New Zealand and several members of the track and field team will tour Australia and New Zealand.

The Tracks

NEW YORK (CP)—Kelso became the fifth horse in earn $1,000,000 during a track career when he won the Governor's Plate at Garden State Park in New Jersey Saturday. The victory was worth $25,000 and pushed the five-year-old Gold-ing's earnings to $1,011,940.

Kelso, owned by Mrs. Richard C. du Pont, easily outdistanced his four competitors to cover the 1 ⅛ miles in 2:30 1-5, lowering the track record by a full second.

Robert Bensinger's Sensitive, winner of his last two races in New York, was withdrawn earlier, so that Kelso had only four foes in the race for prize money totalling $54,000.

RETURNED $2.80

There was win betting only and Kelso returned $2.80 for $2. He was given a good ride by Miemael Velenzuela, under 122 pounds.

The victory before 29,681 fans, was Kelso's sixth in 12 starts this year. Kelso's main rival for champion honors recently, was paraded Saturday before fans at Tropical Park, Miami, before being retired to stud at Acala, Fla.

His earnings—third highest—total $1,170,825. He raced 33 times and was in the money 23 times.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

MANILA, The Philippines (AP)—Canada's Lethbridge Native Girls defeated National Town, China 55-47 Sunday night for the championship in the opening games of the invitational international basketball tournament here.

The United States, favorites to win the tournament, crushed Spain 99-73 while the Philippines beat Australia 60-53 in Sunday's other games.

The Canadians, who beat the Philippines 63 - 52 Saturday, rolled back the Formosans after trailing 27-23 at halftime.

US College Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Southern California polished off a perfect season and all but locked up the U.S. college football championship Saturday and Alabama completed the major bowls line-up and may have clinched Army Saturday in the wind-up weekend of the college gridiron season.

Southern Cal swept past Notre Dame 25-0 for its first perfect season in 30 years. The national champion will be determined in the final Associated Press weekly poll next week.

Alabama crushed Auburn 38-0 while Mississippi had its hands full in completing an unbeaten season against Mississippi State 13-6. Each victor, an expected, immediately announced acceptance of bowl berths, Alabama in the Orange and Ole Miss in the Sugar.

Oklahoma, which had won the Orange Bowl berth the week before, completed an amazing rebound to national prominence with a 37-6 triumph over Oklahoma State and an 8-2 record.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Stan Mikita of the Chicago Black Hawks moved into first place in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race by picking up four assists in two week-end games.

He assisted in three Chicago goals in the 3-3 tie Hawks downed New York 5-1 Sunday, bringing his total to eight goals and 18 assists in eight games.

New York's Andy Bathgate slipped to second place when he picked up four assists Sunday to bring his total to eight goals and 13 assists.

Ab McDonald of Chicago picked up two goals Sunday to move into a tie for third place with Bernie Geoffrion, who scored once and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, all with 22 points.

McDonald and Geoffrion each have two goals and 12 assists while Delvecchio has six goals and 16 assists.

Seven players with 19 points share the last scoring slot. Frank Mahovlich of Toronto has five goals-one in the league—and six assists, Montreal's Gilles Tremblay has 12 goals and seven assists, Parker MacDonald of Detroit 10 and nine, Gordie Howe of Detroit nine and 10, Bobby Hull of Chicago and Henri Richard of Montreal, both with eight and 11, and Billy Harris of Toronto, seven and 12.

EIGHT INJURED

HAMBURG (Reuters)—Eight persons were injured, two critically, during a fire on board the 2,758-ton West German motorship Levante in harbor here Sunday. Three sailors were allowed on board before the Levante left port, were among the injured.

New Melrose U. C. Built Since Fire in January Dedicated by Congregation

NEW MELROSE CHURCH — Congregation leaves Melrose United Church after a Sunday afternoon dedication service. It was rebuilt on the site of the January fire which gutted the original 75-year-old church. Inset is pastor, Mr. Douglas L. Steven.

CHURCH INTERIOR — The symbol of Christian worship, the Cross, is the dominant feature of the new Melrose United Church interior. Made of oak it stands 11 feet high. The pews —yet to arrive—will seat 192 worshippers. Sidewalls and ceiling are of British Columbia cedar.

Melrose United Church, destroyed less than 11 months ago by fire, once more is a material reality — thanks to the sheer physical application of its own membership.

Those months of congregational endeavor ended yesterday with the dedication of a new, modern church on the site of the former edifice which served Melrose churchgoers since 1885.

The new church was filled to its doors for the service, specially invited guests joining the congregation for the event.

The new brick building was constructed in near - record time by the churchgoers themselves, who set to work immediately after the January blaze. In the interim, services were held in Tyendinaga township hall.

It was this community attitude which was the key theme of Saturday's dedication sermon, given in the new church by the Rev. Dr. R. B. Green, United Church theologian at Queen's University.

"Today we have reached the end of a hill from which we can look two ways.

SHOULD LOOK FORWARD

"Looking backward we can remember the old church, but it is most important that we should look forward with faith and hope in the belief the community should have a church.

"The function the Christian Church plays is to proclaim the Word of God and bear witness not only by the ministers, but by the people — both from pulpit and pew.

"The congregation," said Dr. Green, "can aid the minister proclaim faith by being receptive. Better listeners make better sermons.

"It can also help by giving to worthwhile church work. There may be a danger in forgetting the church is a part of a large fellowship. Remember, a church that is not a missionary church will soon be a missing church.

"We should not only proclaim by word of mouth, by good sermons preached and listened to—but also by the way we live, he concluded.

The dedication of the new church was conducted by the Rev. C. W. Coleman, Holloway Street United Church, representing the Belleville Presbytery.

Prior to the dedication Mr. Coleman formally received the keys to the church from Jack McFarlane, chairman of the project's building committee.

PASTOR ACCEPTS KEY

Construction of the new church was co-ordinated by three main committees. Congregational support during the project drew thanks — and congratulations—from clerk of the session, Donald McFarlane, yesterday.

"It is my honor to thank you of this congregation for your generous support in time and money," Mr. McFarlane said. "Many have worked sacrificially and long to build the church. Many have given beyond their means in order that we might reach this day with a minimum of debt.

"Countless good friends outside our congregation have shown their friendship in our time of need and have helped us in unexpected and wonderful ways with gifts of money, furnishings and time."

The new buildings is 70 by 36 feet. Of brick veneer, it has four laminated arches and gables of grey masonry. Its sidewalls and roof decking are of varnished British Columbia cedar. Direct and indirect lighting floods the interior, which is oil heated. It seats 192 parishioners.

An 11-foot solid oak cross dominates the interior. The aisles are carpet-covered and the sanctuary is load with wall-to-wall broadloom.

For lay events held in the church basement, a modern kitchen has been installed. Besides a counter-top stove and a large warming oven, it has about 40 feet of cupboard space, three sinks and can cater to a 200-plate banquet.

MANY JOIN IN SERVICE

Visiting clergymen who joined in the service were Rev. A. W. Lougheed, Trenton, a former pastor of Melrose, now retired and Rev. John Robinson, Powassan, one - time student minister of the congregation, now ordained.

Mr. Robinson's wife participated in the ceremony, joining with Mr. Newton Demille in a duet. The choir also contributed an anthem, with Mrs. Lorne Weese, church organist, officiating at the new church organ.

Greetings were read at the service from the United Church Bay of Quinte Conference, the Belleville Presbytery, Rev. Alfred Poulter, supervising pastor of the Melrose charge, and the Rev. Harry Davis of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville.

Greetings also were sent from the father of the pastor, Douglas Steven, who himself is a United Church minister in Ottawa.

More than 500 members, former members and guests thronged the church for the service. The overflow was seated in the church basement and heard the dedication over a public address system.

Following the service, the ladies of the church served refreshments in the basement.

43 Fatalities Across Canada During Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Heavy fog in many southern Ontario communities contributed to several of the 14 traffic fatalities in the province during the weekend—nearly half the total of highway deaths across Canada.

A Canadian Press survey from 6 p.m. local times Friday to midnight Sunday recorded 16 accidental deaths in Ontario, 11 in Quebec, three in each of New Brunswick, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia, two in Manitoba, and one each in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

The survey does not include industrial accidents, natural deaths or known suicides.

Ontario dead:

Chinese Fire On Straggling Indian Troops

Demilitarized Zone Not Acceptable

CP from Reuters-AP

NEW DELHI — Prime Minister Nehru said today the Chinese Communists had fired on Indian stragglers on several occasions in the Northeast Frontier Agency since the cease-fire announced by China Nov. 21 but there had been no casualties.

Nehru was asked after his announcement of the Chinese firing if any instructions had been given to Indian troops not to open fire after the cease-fire, and if so, whether the stragglers had observed these instructions despite the Chinese "provocation."

The prime minister said there was no question of the government giving any instructions. He said it was open to Indian troops to defend themselves if attacked.

Another questioner asked if the Chinese action did not betray the "deceptive involved in their so-called unilateral cease-fire" announced by China Nov. 21.

Nehru said he could not say precisely what the Chinese intentions were. He said it might be deception but it could also be a deliberate attempt to harass returning Indian personnel or that the Chinese feared they might themselves be attacked by Indian troops.

WILL MOVE TO BORDER

Meanwhile, Mrs. Lakshmi Menon, Nehru's parliamentary secretary for foreign affairs, told reporters in Colombo, Ceylon, India will not abide by Red China's plan to leave a 12½-mile wide demilitarized zone on each side of the northeast frontier. She said Indian troops will move right up to the border—the disputed McMahon line—if the Chinese make good on their promises to withdraw.

Mrs. Menon was not accept ing the limits to our advances laid down by the Chinese ceasefire plan, Pty said.

The Chinese government, in announcing the cease-fire, said the Chinese troops would pull back 12½ miles beyond what it called the actual "control line" of Nov 7, 1959, and said Indian troops should stop 12½ miles short of this line.

She explained that there is a dispute between India and China as to the location of the 1959 control line.

Child's Crying Saves Family From Death

COOKSVILLE, Ont. (CP)—A child's crying saved a Meadowvale family of seven from asphyxiation Monday when a leaking coal furnace filled their two-storey home with carbon monoxide fumes.

Mrs. Murray Hurren and Norren were awakened when their son Donald, 4, began crying. They smelled the fumes and began to evacuate their five children.

Mrs. Hurren was overcome collapsed and was dragged to safety by her husband.

Mr. Hurren said his family "dropped like flies" as he tried to get them out of the house. "I'd get one off the front door," he said, "then another one would collapse."

The family was treated at hospital and later released.

HOUSE PASSES FIVE PIECES OF LEGISLATION

Opposition Claims Govt. Filibuster

OTTAWA (CP)—In one of its most productive days of the session, the Commons Monday whipped five pieces of government legislation through various stages. A Liberal frontbencher indicated production would have been even better if the government hadn't staged a filibuster for the last hour of the sitting.

"An unfair suggestion," said government House Leader Donald Fleming (PC—Eglinton) of Liberal Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) said it was "unfortunate" that business had bogged down on a filibuster.

Half a dozen Conservative backbenchers along with several from opposition parties, had spoken on a government bill to amend the Coal Production Assistance Act.

Other Liberal members said later during the Commons it was obvious the government had no other legislation ready for the night session if the coal bill had been cleaned up before adjournment at 10 p.m.

The bill, which received second reading just before the House rose, would allow easier repayment of loans given to assist the movement of coal. The basic act would not be substantially changed.

POLICY GETS ROASTING

Prior to this, the government's transportation policy was given a roasting by opposition spokesmen.

Before Transport Minister Balcer told members that the government is preparing legislation to settle the financial problems of the CNR and the CPR for "a long time," he had said that the government was "weak-kneed" and "spineless" in its failure to formulate a

Magazine Article Denounced by Adlai Stevenson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, has denounced a magazine article which he said "grossly misrepresented my views" on Cuba.

Stevenson referred to an article in the Saturday Evening Post, titled In Time of Crisis and written by Stewart Alsop and Charles Bartlett.

The article says Stevenson disagreed with President Kennedy's decision to blockade Cuba during the "preferred political negotiation" to the alternative of military action.

The article carries a picture of Stevenson with a caption saying "Stevenson was strong during the UN debate, but inside the White House the hard-liners thought he was soft."

QUOTES SALINGER

Facing newsreel and television cameras in the state department Monday, Stevenson quoted lengthily what presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger told White House reporters earlier in the day.

Salinger Stevenson noted, had said the deliberations of the National Security Council must remain secret "to permit most of the people to the frank-est expression of views."

"I can state flatly," Salinger said, "that Ambassador Stevenson strongly supported the decision taken by the president on the quarantine and brilliantly defended the U.S. position at the United Nations during the days which followed."

Bartlett is a close personal friend of Kennedy and introduced Kennedy to Jacqueline Bouvier, now Mrs. Kennedy.

White House sources said Bartlett had never taken advantage of his friendship with Kennedy to report inside information.

Municipalities Divide On Issues of Fluoridation And Sunday Observances

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario communities divided on the issues of fluoridation and Sunday observances as dozens of cities, towns, townships and villages voted Monday in scores of municipal contests.

Fourteen cities had mayoralty contests, including Toronto and Ottawa where two nationally prominent candidates were fighting for re - election. Toronto's "mayor of all the people," 70-year-old Nathan Phillips, lost his bid for a fifth term to his finance chief, controller Donald Summerville. In Ottawa, firebrand Charlotte Whitton won another two - year term in a three way race.

Windsor's Mayor Michael Patrick Hanna won a strong bid by a labor-endorsed candidate, A. H. (Gerry) Weeks, to win his fifth term in another three - way race. The margin, however, was his smallest since he took over in 1954.

The two major issues put to the vote were the use of sodium fluoride in drinking water as an agent against tooth decay and the open Sunday in sports, movies or both.

The proponents of fluoridation appeared to have won a narrow victory on the basis of incomplete returns. Its opponents, who claim its application is useless, dangerous and a violation of civil rights, held the upper age in the city itself, but in-

Canadian Resolutions Seek To Rescue UN From Debt

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—Canada submitted financial measures Monday to the United Nations which also heard a new warning from Secretary - General U Thant that bankruptcy threatens the world body.

Two resolutions were introduced by Brig. John R. Price (Mississauga—Canadian delegate to the 110-member budgetary committee. The first, co-sponsored by 10 countries including the United States and Britain, asks the UN General Assembly to set up a voluntary committee regarding peace-keeping operations handed down last July by the World Court in The Hague.

SUMMERVILLE SNOWS UNDER NATE PHILLIPS

Allan Lampert Returns to Board

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's ers of Nathan Phillips has ended in a landslide of mayoralty votes for Donald Summerville, 47-year-old controller and advocate of business - like civic government.

After an unprecedented eight years in office, the 70-year-old mayor, known far and wide for whooping up publicity for his city but under fire from opponents for easy-going administration, was snowed under Monday by a margin of more than two to one.

The city's first Jewish mayor, who had weaved a spell over the electorate for a generation, suffered his first political defeat in 36 years. He had been an alderman for 28 years before winning the first of his four mayoralty contests.

Mr. Summerville, a real estate man and theatre operator who had served a term on the board of control, defeated Mayor Phillips by 171,031 votes against 51,932 for the mayor with all but two of 1,338 polls reporting.

Lawyer Frank Nasso ran a distant third with 4,966 and three other candidates picked up only handfuls of ballots.

FLUORIDATION WINS

Less decisive was an area-wide vote in metropolitan Toronto on the fluoridation issue, perhaps fought with more gusto than the relatively unexciting mayoralty contest.

Early today, incomplete returns indicated a close win for the fluoridating of drinking water in the common supply of the 13 Metro communities with the vote at 169,116 for and 162,-112 against.

Toronto city had voted against it 81,318 to 68,701. Final figures were lacking only from the big municipalities in North York and Scarborough, where the issue was favorable. The overall vote would give Toronto a question for all 13.

There was little doubt about the mayoralty contest from the time the first returns began. Mr. Summerville, a schoolboy when the mayor began his string of electoral wins, quickly rolled up an amazing lead, and Mr. Phillips conceded in about two hours.

PHILLIPS' FIFTH EFFICIENCY

The new mayor, who will take office for a two-year term Jan. 1, has promised Metro more efficiency in the mayor's chair and hit at the veteran incumbent on the claim that he spent too much time travelling and attending functions and too little attending to civic business.

Unlike his predecessor—whose waving white mane and pink features have turned up indefatigably around the globe—Mr. Summerville is little known outside Toronto and the villages of Long

Ireland, Wishart, Bailey Returned As Aldermen

Murray, David, Deacon And Allin New Members

Mayor A.-McLean Haig was given a third term as the city chief magistrate in the municipal elections here yesterday, defeating his lone opponent, Alderman William E. Jarvah, by a majority of 694.

Mayor Haig polled 3,864 votes as against 3,170 for Alderman W. E. Jarvah, and the win increasing his lead as the final polls were tabulated.

Three of the 1962 council were re-elected and four new aldermanic faces will be seen in city hall next year.

Three of these, however, are former aldermen returning to the municipal fold. The other is a brand new candidate.

The question of "yes" or "no" for the installation of public water supply of this municipality went down to substantial defeat. The "yeas" voted 2,956. The "nays" 3,744, a majority of 778.

In the election for separate school trustee for Ward Four, Robert Peter Griffin was elected over B. C. Smith by a majority of 20. Mr. Griffin polled 93 votes, Mr. Smith 73.

The aldermanic election was one of the closest. If not the closest in the city's election history. It was a "banana-bunch" finish with, as one alderman put it, a "cliff-hanger" battle for the seventh and eighth finishing positions.

According to the latest figures released by city hall, yesterday's vote was much lower than anticipated in pre-election estimates. Some 7,054 voters went to the polls as compared to 7,462 of a year ago.

This figure roughly represents about 34 per cent of the electorate estimated this year around 20,000. Last year about 52 per cent of the electorate exercised the franchise.

Elected for another two year term and leading the polls was Alderman Jack Ireland who came from behind early in the aldermani- fight to take the lead and never looked back-wards. He polled 4,171 votes believed to be a poll-topping record.

ON NEW MEMBER

The only elected alderman with no previous municipal experience Mr. Frank Murray, manager of CJBQ radio station finished a fairly close second behind Alderman Ireland. Mr. Murray was given 3,828 votes, 343 behind the leader and 216 ahead of third place Alderman George Wishart who finished with 3,612.

The next three in order of election are two ex-aldermen and one newcomer. Mr. Enos David finished in fourth position a scant 32 votes behind Mr. Wishart. Fifth place is ex-alderman John Deacon with 3,385 votes a mere 41 behind Mr. David.

Ex-mayor Jack Allin who got away to an auspicious start and led the polls for the first two polls faded towards the end and finished in sixth place with 3,381 votes, 178 in arrear of Mr. Deacon

Alderman Bailey polled substantial votes in a dramatic finish to win the eighth position defeating Alderman Whalen by 83 votes. He polled 3,354 as against Whalen's 3,271.

Toronto Suburbs Swing Decision In Favor of Fluoridation Move

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto suburbs Monday endorsed fluoridation of its water supply despite a hard core of opposition in the city of Toronto and most of its older suburbs.

Early returns from city polling subdivisions in city electrations produced a pronounced majority for fluoridation, but as returns came in from the three largest suburbs the lead was gradually whittled away.

With 16 city polls and more than 100 in North York Township yet to be heard from early today the count was only 169,897 to 163,606 in favor of fluoridation but the trend of voting in North York indicated the majority would be increased when the final returns were in.

Besides North York, the huge twin cities of Etobicoke and Scarborough and the village of Forest Hill were solidly in favor of the addition. Opposed be sides the city were East York and York Townships, the towns of Mimico, Weston and New Toronto and the villages of Long

Edward Roelofson, chairman of a committee favoring fluoridation, said approval represents the greatest step forward in public health since pasteuri sation of milk.

"It means that now both the rich and poor will reap the benefits of healthy teeth and improved general health which must follow," he said, predicting Canada's other larger cities will follow Metro's lead.

George MacMillan, chairman of the anti-fluoridationist Citizens Health Research Association, he may file an application for a recount. "It is too close a vote on such a serious matter."

Ask Producers to Increase Cheese Exports to Britain Before Euromart Is Formed

Every effort should be made to increase exports of Canadian cheddar cheese to England and thus prepare for the day when that country enters the European Common Market and erects a tariff barrier against the Canadian product.

This was urged at Stirling Monday by Hector C. Arnold, chairman of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board, as he addressed the annual meeting of the County Cheese Factory Association.

Mr. Arnold said that when the United Kingdom enters the Common Market a tariff of up to six cents per pound could be expected against entry of Canadian cheese.

But if exports of cheese to Britain were increased now, the English would again acquire their taste for distinctive Canadian cheddar and would be willing to pay an extra price to get it.

This year, Canada could have sold double the amount of cheese to England — if the cheese had been available, Mr. Arnold said.

BRIGHT FUTURE SEEN

But despite the problematical United Kingdom cheese export situation, Mr. Arnold predicted a bright future for the cheese industry in Canada, noting that the price of cheese during the past year had been very encouraging.

A board price of 37¼ cents per pound had been realized with the federal subsidy of 25 cents per cwt. for milk and the one per cent premium brought the price up to 41¼ cents.

"It is a record price for cheese," Mr. Arnold said, "and it is a sound price as the domestic market is ten million pounds ahead of the quantity on hand at this time last year."

He predicted a good price for cheese next year and said that the present price might even be bettered.

If such was the case, he predicted a swing by farmers from butter production to more cheese.

This was indicated by the fact that there was now a surplus of 82 million pounds of butter oil and 156 million pounds of butter in storage—with no market available.

Jack M. Bain, director of milk products for Ontario, foresaw a shortage of qualified cheesemakers in the near future if the present trend toward amalgamation of cheese factories continued.

Larger factories called for more skilful operators, he said. The situation would have to be evaluated and an effort made to get the right type of men to enter the field.

Mr. Bain congratulated cheesemakers in the Central Ontario region for their achievement in making more than 99 per cent first grade cheese during the past year.

He reviewed the "multi-milk" question and said efforts were now being made at the government level to determine whether the product should be classed as fluid milk or manufactured milk.

Producers supplying the "multi-milk" plant were now receiving $3.35 per cwt., plus the 25 per cent producers' subsidy.

FIELDMEN HEARD

Other speakers heard were W. Ernest Henderson, and Thomas Heath, both fieldmen for the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Henderson said the record of Hasting's County cheesemakers was good this year, but noted there was still a problem of undergrade milk. Three to five percent of the producers were responsible for all undergrade milk arriving at factories, he said.

Dirty equipment, pails, milking machines and dairy equipment, was still the main cause of undergrade milk. This could be cleared up only through proper care and washing.

Thomas Heath, fieldman in charge of milk samples for quality milk tests, said that in November South Hastings farmers were paid 96 per cent No. 1 milk. No. 3 milk was said acceptable for milk destined for a milk manufacturing plant, he said.

A.N.A.F. Weekly News

With Christmas just around the corner, most everyone is busy doing their shopping and the attendance at the semi-monthly dance held Friday was smaller than usual.

Those who did attend however, enjoyed themselves and were delighted with the prizes they won. The next dance will be held on December 14th. It has been cancelled by the entertainment committee as it will be busy putting the finishing touches on the arrangements for the Children's Christmas party. Presents and entertainment for the kiddies will be bigger and better than ever.

Volunteers will be needed to help with the annual preparations on Saturday morning, December 15th and are asked to be at the ANAF Clubrooms at 8.00 a.m.

Next Saturday evening there will be the draw for the roll. All members and guests are welcomed. An advertisement will appear in the Intelligencer, giving full details.

The Legion Pipe band has been invited to attend the Bowmanville Santa Claus Parade after which a musical performance rendered in the Bellevills Santa Claus Parade last Saturday. The Yule spirit is here and their helpers can look with pride on the results of their hard work in organizing the band.

You are asked not to forget Nomination Night on Thursday, December 13th.

County Council To Have First Woman Member

Hastings county council will have its first woman member next year when reeves and deputy-reeves meet in January for their 1963 inaugural session.

Mrs. Audrey Sexsmith will take the place of deputy-reeve for the village of Bancroft and will be the first member of her sex to sit on the county board.

Mrs. Sexsmith won the deputy-reeve position by acclamation as a prelude to municipal elections Monday which saw former deputy reeve M. J. McAlpine returned as reeve over last year's deputy reeve Allan Bronson. Mr. McAlpine polled 463 votes as against 336 for Mr. Bronson. This year's reeve J. H. Brown has retired.

Elected as councillors were John S. Haitio, 443, Eric Halley, 400 and Gordon Groves, 383. Defeated candidates were Russell Hailey 298, David Callaghan 277 and Gerald O'Shaughnessy 245.

School Board member George Whitfield was elected by acclamation.

Three Trustees, Commissioner Are Elected

Residents of the town of Deseronto went to the polls Monday to elect a public utilities commissioner and three members to the board of education.

Mr. Percy Lash was elected utilities commissioner with a vote of 341, defeating A. Percy Brooks who received 100 votes.

Public school board members elected were Mrs. Elizabeth McVicker, 296, John R. Neal, 264 and Eric M. Keech, 262. Defeated candidates were Donald S. Johnston, 230, Robert Whatiam, 224 and Mrs. Eleanor Schell 222.

The town mayor reeve and two councillors have still a year to go of their two-year terms.

However, there will be a second nominating meeting on Wednesday to fill one position still vacant on town council. Following the previous nomination meeting only three candidates for council qualified and were elected by acclamation.

ANNOUNCES CHANGE

LONDON (AP)—Admiral Sir David Luce will succeed Admiral of the Fleet Sir Caspar John as a lord commissioner of the admiralty, first sea lord and chief of naval staff next summer, the admiralty announced today. Sir David last month became the first commander-in-chief of the new unified three-service command in the Far East.

Woman Elected To Council Seat In Thurlow Twp.

Thurlow Township will have a member of the fair sex as municipal councillor for 1963.

Mr. Casey headed the polls with 488 votes. Mr. Mitchell received 474 and Mrs. Ash 409 votes.

Other candidates running for council were Ralph Plumpton with 387 votes and Kenneth Bradshaw with 248.

There was a turnout of about 50 percent of the voters which in view of the weather was considered good by township clerk Earl Dafoe.

This year's reeve, Harry Pound, is retiring from municipal life.

Noisy Muffler Tripped Chain of Circumstances

A noisy muffler tripped a chain of circumstances that now has confronted Belleville magistrate's court with a fine legal problem.

Charged with possession of stolen goods this morning were three Windsor youths: Elie Seremack, Reggie Bouffard and his brother, Roger Bouffard.

Originally charged with possession of goods valued over $50, they elected trial by a judge and jury. This morning, set for trial, after pleading the value of the goods charged in their possession was revalued under $50.

The slight alteration made it necessary for them to dispense with a jury trial.

Mr. Sexsmith won the deputy-reeve position by acclamation as a prelude to municipal elections Monday which saw former deputy reeve M. J. McAlpine returned as reeve over last year's deputy reeve Allan Bronson. Mr. McAlpine polled 463 votes as against 336 for Mr. Bronson. This year's reeve J. H. Brown has retired.

Elected as councillors were John S. Haitio, 443, Eric Halley, 400 and Gordon Groves, 383. Defeated candidates were Russell Hailey 298, David Callaghan 277 and Gerald O'Shaughnessy 245.

School Board member George Whitfield was elected by acclamation.

The grave was filled and the sod replaced.

The watch was the crucial hinge in the legal argument that followed.

Mr. Temple claimed the value of the watch and the money, added together, was in excess of $50 — therefore the youths had the right to elect the method of their trial.

We should like to submit to the status of a preliminary hearing."

City watchmaker Fred Kemp, called to identify the watch, was asked to appraise its value.

"The value is about $25. It may be worth more to the owner."

Mr. Temple objected to the amendment.

"I do not think the objection has any weight," countered Mr. Pringle. He pointed out that there was no specific evidence identifying the money allegedly taken from the service station.

"I am sorry I cannot agree with you," said the magistrate. "The way this evidence is given there is an irresistible inference that the watch and the money all were obtained at the same place and time."

The accused unable to obtain bail were remanded in custody.

WILFRED HENRY STEPHENSON

Engineer with the Northern Electric Company for 20 years, Wilfred Henry Stephenson, 50, Crowstrier Ave., died suddenly at his home on Monday.

He had worked all day at Northern and had complained from a heart attack after returning home. He was in his 49th year.

Son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Stephenson, he was born in England and had lived in Belleville for the past 12 years coming here from Toronto. He was a member of the Anglican Church.

Mr. Stephenson was educated at Jarvis Street Collegiate Institute at Toronto and the Montreal Technical School. He entered the employment of the Northern Electric Company in Montreal and when the war broke out in 1939 he entered the RCAF where he was a wireless school instructor. He retired from the Air Force with the rank of Flight Lieutenant and again joined the Northern Electric and was moved to this city 12 years ago where he became an engineering associate.

He was a past commanding officer of the Bay of Quinte Power Squadron and an instructor in power squadron training with the rank of Lieutenant Commander. He was one of the few men in Canada to have taken all power squadron courses and held the rank of navigator. He was well known and highly respected in many walks of life in the city.

He is survived by his wife, the former Agnes Fox and one son Peter Stephenson, at home; a daughter, Cheryl Lynn, age three. Two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Cowsill (Beverley) and Mrs. Darlene, 17 and a brother, Bryan, eight, also survives.

Rev. Ben D. M. Smith of St. John's United Church conducted the funeral service from Bonter's Funeral home on Tuesday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Pall bearers will be Lloyd Maracle, Ellis Ellis, Tom Holmes, Walter Grills, Jim Holmes and Gary Heard.

Interment will be in Mt. Pleasant Cemetery.

MRS. CLARENCE COLE

British Frogman Killed, Another Man Vanishes

AVALON, Calif. (AP) — One British frogman was killed and another, coming to his aid, vanished into the depths during an experiment 1,000 feet deep in the Pacific Ocean.

Peter Small, 35, a reporter with the London Daily Telegraph, apparently died of the bends. Christopher Whitaker, 25, a student at the University of California, is missing in the depths.

They were experimenting Monday with a mixture of gases which they believed would enable man to survive deep in the sea.

Burtt, Weaver and Todd Elected, Sunday Movies Out

TRENTON — Something more than 5,000 Trenton voters went to the polls yesterday to elect three councillors, cast a more than two-to-one vote of confidence in last year's PUC chairman, Charlie Hilton, and turn thumbs down on Sunday movies for the town.

While all figures are still considered "unofficial," 2,009 out of 7,243 eligible voters walked or drove through a light fog to decide Trenton's political destiny for another year.

Veteran councillor Ross Burtt led the polls with 1,060 votes. Gerald Weaver, a former councillor, came second with 915 and 1962 councillor, Ed Todd, polled 896.

Defeated were George Greer, 611; Dan Senik, 561; Richard Whitley, 509; Alfred Vaughan, 406 and Arthur Collette, 356.

Charles Hilton, asking for a vote of confidence, as utilities chairman, polled 1,446 votes. R. E. "Roly" Whitney, in spite of the fact that he had issued a public appeal for the voters to endorse Mr. Hilton as commissioner, received 501 votes. After qualifying to run for the one vacancy on the commission, Mr. Whitley decided that he couldn't handle the job and tried to resign. But according to law, his name appeared on the ballot along with that of Mr. Hilton.

Sunday movies were endorsed by 1,039 ratepayers; 1,257 persons didn't want them.

Members of 1963 council, the acclaimed school board members and utilities commissioners, will be sworn in after the first of the year.

Murray Hereford Is Re-elected In Close Vote

Three councillors were elected from a slate of five. Leading the polls was Keith Johnson with 806 votes; second, 1962 councillor Ronald Webb, and third place went to Walter Thompson with 573.

160 Persons Donate Blood At Clinic

TRENTON — Despite a heavy fog and a power interruption lasting almost two hours, over 160 people presented themselves to donate blood at the Blood Donor Clinic held by the local Red Cross unit yesterday evening at Ebenezer Christian Reformed Church.

Besides Trenton residents there were many from Brighton, Frankford and Bloomfield who braved the heavy fog. The power interruption came at 5.15 p.m. when many were present. They remained until the power service was resumed at 7.00 and donors could again be taken. The power interruption was due to a burned wire, according to a Public Utilities spokesman.

Huge Hercules Helpers for Santa Claus

TRENTON — Huge Hercules turboprop transports of the RCAF's 435 "Chinook" Squadron are giving Santa Claus a big assist this year in delivering Christmas mail and parcels to Canadian servicemen on duty away from home.

Last Friday, a Hercules returned from Biak, New Guinea, and Saigon, Indo China. The eight-day trans-Pacific flight brought equipment and supplies and Christmas mail to the RCAF Otter Detachment providing flight air transport facilities for the U.N. organization in New Guinea, and a similar load to Canadian members of the International Truce supervisory Commission in Saigon, Indo China.

On December 9th another Hercules transport will leave home base at Edmonton, Alta., to carry out the annual "Operation Santa Claus" — the winter re-supply of remote Arctic outposts and weather stations.

Dependent on the conditions the Hercules will land at the weather stations of Eureka, Isachsen, Mould Bay and at Alert, northernmost of Canada's Arctic establishments, all above the Arctic Circle.

The majority of the Arctic outposts will be supplied by parachute, however. The men serving at seventeen tiny weather stations will welcome the sound of the mighty Hercules flying overhead, for it will be their last chance for mail from home before the Arctic winter sets in in earnest.

The equipment, supplies and mail will be loaded into special wicker panniers, woven for the RCAF by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. The loaded panniers will then be parachuted from the Hercules at it flies low over the Arctic detachments. Each pannier has a tiny light attached to assist those waiting on the ground to recover the valuable parcels.

Charlotte Just Keeps Rolling Along As Mayor

The controversial 66-year-old, named five times as Canada's newsiest woman, won another two-year term in city hall Monday with an increased, 6,000-vote margin over the same man she defeated in 1960.

In her hour of victory over two male opponents, she chanted the campaign tune of Old Man River:

"She didn't steal ballots and she's not forgotten.

"Old Mayor Charlotte just keeps rolling along."

Warm Welcome Is Given Tito By Khrushchev

By PETER JOHNSON

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Khrushchev today warmly embraced Yugoslav president Josip Tito, on his first visit here since 1956, and declared conditions are right for good relations between their two countries "to continue to develop and to strengthen."

Khrushchev recalled he had said in Bulgaria last May that Russia and Yugoslavia had "identical views on many international problems" and added today the personal contacts between the leaders of the two countries "would help to strengthen friendship and co-operation."

It was Tito's first visit since the Hungarian revolution which shattered the post-Stalin era recon ciliation between the two Communist countries.

After Tito stepped from his train, the Yugoslav leader and his wife received bouquets of flowers from Moscow schoolchildren and then proceeded on in a route lined with Muscovites to a special residence set aside for them in the Kremlin.

Liquor, Beer Stores Beaten In Stirling

There was no election in the village of Stirling yesterday but residents went to the polls anyway to decide on whether liquor and beer stores would be permitted in the municipality.

Both questions were soundly defeated with the "dry" gaining approximately 58 per cent of the vote.

The "wets" required 60 per cent of the vote to carry the questions.

It was the second time liquor and beer stores have been defeated at Stirling in the past six years. On the previous occasion the "dry" also won by a wide majority.

Warden Convenes Winter Session of County Council

The final 1962 session of Hastings County council got underway today at the county administration building, with Warden Harold Varty welcoming members to the three-day conclave.

Warden Varty noted that many of the present county councillors will not be back next year as more than the normal number have decided to retire from municipal life.

This was true in his own case as at the year end he would bow out of municipal life. Other councillors retiring are Sidney Reeve Harleigh Hamilton, Thurlow Reeve Harry Pound, Reeve Elmer Wilson of Huntingdon, Reeve J. N. Brown of Bancroft, and Reeve William Davis of Madoc, Wickiup and Bangor.

The December session of council is expected to be a comparatively quiet meeting with only routine matters to be considered.

Appointment of county representatives to the various high school district boards will be made at the session and in most but two instances, new representatives will be named.

Brooks Allen, county representative on the Bay of Quinte High School Board, has indicated he will not again accept appointment and Reeve Lincoln Elliott, representative on the Centre Hastings High School Board, has also indicated a wish that another appointment be made.

Municipalities

City mayors elected outside of Toronto, Hamilton and Windsor were Lyman Gilford, who made a comeback in Oshawa and defeated Mrs. Christine Thomas, who had unseated him in 1960; Franklin J. Miller, mayor of Niagara Falls who will head a city of more than twice its size when Stamford Township amalgamates with it on Jan. 1; A. MacLean Haig, Belleville; Nick Kanos, Sault Ste. Marie; Griffiths, Galt; Ralph W. Smith, Guelph; W. T. Mills, Kingston; Ted Kiely, Peterborough; Clarence Boorman, Peterborough, who unseated Mrs. Alene Holt; Henry T. Ross, Barrie; and William Dutton, Woodstock.

Mayors in the other cities voted by ballot were: Hamilton, London and a number of suburban municipalities in the coming week.

FOG AFFECTS VOTE

Voting was relatively light although the weather was mild for December. The persistent fog of the last few days kept many of some in some areas by evening, when most of the voting was expected after 5 p.m. for the workaday day. The fog also hampered collection of returns in many areas, and Toronto suburban results were badly delayed, with many races still in doubt early today.

The day's voting elected one woman mayor as well as defeating Mrs. Holt in Peterborough. Mrs. M. G. (Mamie) Cunningham was over two councillors tenders in the northern town of Cobalt. In Toronto Alderman Margaret Campbell was defeated in a try for the board of control, along with Communist candidate Mrs. Phyllis Clarke and another woman candidate, Dorothy Cruise, in a try at the Toronto suburb of East York.

While there were a number of close contests, only two recounts are anticipated. In Prescott Donnell O'Higgins, whose Irish luck ran out, will try Harry Johnson by one vote — 611 to 610. And in the village of St. George, near Brantford, where three police trustees were to be elected, the top two winners scored 167 and 166 respectively, and two others tied for the third position with 104 each.

County Council Talks Safety On Opening Day

Safety precautions at county property occupied the attention of county councillors today.

One of the matters to be considered as result of the discussion will be a railing or fence at the top of the Campbell Street wall which was rebuilt during the past summer.

Another will be the railings on the stairs of the county administration building where upright are spaced far enough apart to allow children to drop through.

Both matters were referred to the county finance committee for consideration.

The report of the county finance committee noted that increased rates to the county jail had been authorized at the entrancenway, in the receiving room and in the doctor's room. This consists mostly of painting and replacement of tile floors.

Although the customary $600 grant to the Belleville United Appeal was authorized the committee recommended that the annual grant to the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic and the grant to the United Appeal increased accordingly.

Committee chairman Thomas Burnside noted that his committee had learned there had been some duplication in the present system of grants.

In the future, councillors attending conventions within the county will receive 10 cents per mile mileage, plus committee pay of $10 per day.

For conventions outside the city councillors will receive the same mileage, plus county council pay of $18 per day for each day of attendance. If the convention is more than 200 miles from home the delegate will receive an additional day's pay at $18.00.

Appointed county officials attending conventions will receive actual expenses and mileage.

Detention Room May Be Set up At County Home

The long discussed problem of a detention room for juveniles for the county of Hastings is expected to be solved during the December session of county council which got underway today.

There is every possibility that a detention room will be set up on county home property by the west end of the city. The quarters proposed are presently being used for storage and would be renovated for use as a detention room.

The county would provide heat, water and light for the three-room quarters at a suggested rental of $500 per year. Supervision would be the responsibility of the Juvenile and Family Court officials.

Saturday Judge Jack N. Brown said the detention room for juveniles was "badly needed" but that it was the responsibility of the county to provide such quarters.

He noted that such detention quarters were in use only from 30 to 40 days per year. Normally juvenile jail guards were hired to act as guards when juveniles were in detention.

Cheese Producers Elect G. Bailey for Another Term

Gordon Bailey of Rawdon township was re-elected president of the Hastings County Cheese Producers' Association for 1963 at the annual meeting held Monday afternoon in the Stirling community hall.

Vice-president George Woods also was returned to office as was secretary treasurer Percy Ray.

The meeting saw close to 100 county producers and cheesemakers in attendance hear addresses by Jack M. Bain, director of Milk Products Division, Ontario Department of Agriculture, and by Hector C. Arnold, chairman of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Marketing Board.

Named county directors were the following — Sidney Glen Bush; Thurlow, Don Sills; Tweedsmuir, Raymond Clarke; Rawdon, Leslie McKeown; Huntingdon, Elmer Woods; Hungerford, Harry Coulter; Marmora, Jack Bell and Madoc, Stanley Franks.

Voting delegates to the provincial annual meeting to be held in Toronto early in January are George Wood, Don Sills, Glen Bush, Gordon Bailey and Percy Ray.

ALTERNATE DELEGATES

Alternate delegates are Stanley Franks and Lindsay McKeown. Federation of Agriculture delegate is George Carson and Auditor, Fred Beckett.

On recommendation of Roy Sills, and George Greer, the meeting went on record requesting the Cheese Producers' Marketing Board to petition the federal government asking grants for improvements to co-operatively owned cheese factories on the same basis as those provided for privately-owned factories granted amalgamation has taken place.

It was noted that although the number of cheese factories in was on the decrease, there were still many co-operatively owned factories in the province with many instances, however, these factories were operating in the same small outmoded buildings they were in 50 years ago.

It was felt government grants would allow modernization of the factories, which former could not afford.

TO EVICT SNAKE

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—Cornell University requested today that a friendly get rid of its pet boa constrictor which it could be determined whether the 7½-foot snake poses a danger. The Delta Tau Delta fraternity said it would comply with the request made by Charles Wagner, assistant dean of students in charge of fraternities.

One Mishap And It Was A Dandy!

Fog, heavy as Canadian pea-soup, clung tightly to the district for the second successive night last night.

In the Belleville area it was excessively heavy, with visibility in the city suburbs and the surrounding countryside reduced to feet.

Despite police apprehension-ario there was only one serious accident, as motorists nosed their vehicles gingerly through the fog-bound night. However, the single mishap registered a high for property damage in recent traffic accident reports.

It veered across the sales lot of Card Motors, struck two automobiles, ramming one against a hydro pole. One car — a new 1963 model — was demolished at a loss of $2,300. Damage to the second car was $400; some $500 repairs were estimated needed to the airman's car, and $75 damage was caused to the pole.

Police total of property loss: $3,175.

CHEQUE-CREDIT
from Scotia BANK gives you extra money to spend but helps keep your budget
SCOTIA PLAN CHEQUE-CREDIT
is The Bank of Nova Scotia's system of "revolving credit". This is how the plan works.
1 You select the monthly payment that you can afford and then apply for twelve times that amount.
2 When your application has been approved you receive a book of special personalized cheques.
3 You are not confined to spending in specified stores. Your cheques are good for anything you need, anytime, anywhere in Canada.
4 You pay only on the amount of credit actually used. The charge on Cheque-Credit accounts is $6.00 per year for each $100 owed. You do not pay anything for the money held in reserve for your account.
5 Each month you will receive a statement of cheques written, payments to be made, and the amount of credit still open.
6 Your monthly payment is approximately one-twelfth of the amount of credit you have used, so far.
7 Each payment you make rebuilds your Cheque-Credit reserve, giving you a continual supply of credit.
Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit is lifeinsured, too, at no extra cost to you. Find out today all about Cheque-Credit at your nearest Scotiabank branch.
How to determine your total Cheque-Credit
IF YOU CAN REPAY — YOUR TOTAL CREDIT IS $20.00 a month — $240.00
$30.00 a month — $360.00
$40.00 a month — $480.00
$50.00 a month — $600.00
$75.00 a month — $900.00

Election Turnout Poor

Belleville citizens have scant reason to congratulate themselves on Monday's civic election. Most of them took no part in it.

Congratulations are in order to Mayor A. M. Haig on his re-election to serve his fourth term as mayor, to Ald. Jack Ireland who headed the poll for aldermen, and to the six others elected as aldermen. Also to ex-Alderman William Jarvah, without whose entry into the mayoralty race the turnout at the polls would certainly have been even smaller than it was. But the election as a whole was most disappointing to public-spirited and community-minded citizens.

Last year, 7,442 votes were cast for the candidates for mayor. This year, with the electorate increased by approximately 2,000 from 18,000 to 20,000, the number of votes cast in the mayoralty contest declined, to 7,034. This is approximately 34 per cent of the eligible voters, a disgraceful proof of widespread indifference to civic affairs. Except for a little fog the weather provided no excuse for those who failed to go to the polls. On September 26, with practically the same number of eligible voters, 10,176 cast their ballots on the question of whether liquor should be sold in cocktail lounges and dining lounges.

As for fluoridation, The Ontario Intelligencer has no apologies for supporting this efficient and safe method of preventing tooth decay amongst our children. Apparently the citizens of Belleville are not yet prepared for this forward step. We hope their reluctance is based on misgivings regarding its safety, for these misgivings are eventually dispelled as more and more Ontario residents enjoy the benefits of fluoridation. The decision of Toronto citizens to fluoridate water supplies should provide a much-needed impetus to the movement throughout the province. We would be reluctant to think that the rejection of fluoridation here was based on a niggardly objection to the relatively low cost. Uneasiness about the safety of the process, while hardly justified in the face of the great weight of scientific opinion to the contrary, is perhaps understandable and will certainly be eliminated by the passing of time.

Wrong System

Running for Parliament is the cheapest way of getting out of the British Army. Most British soldiers enlist for nine or eleven years. If they want out, they can buy out from the government up to $750. But regulations say a soldier who stands for Parliament must be discharged. Running for Parliament costs as little as $450.

A report from London says the government will likely plug the loophole by forbidding a soldier to run for Parliament unless he buys his way out of the army.

This is not the part of the law that needs changing.

The idea behind the retirement that a soldier pay the government if he quits the army apparently is that the government has a considerable investment in his training, and is entitled to compensation if it does not receive his services for the period agreed upon.

Continental powers take just the opposite view. They insist on universal training, discharging men as soon as they are fully trained and training new recruits. In this way, they have a vast reserve of trained men, if war should break out.

This appears the more reasonable attitude. But even if one accepts the basic premise behind British regulations, there should be some other deterrent than the cost against quitting the army. The rich or the thrifty now get out of the army; the poor and the spendthrifts have to remain in it. A more equitable arrangement would be to pay a special surtax on the income of a man who had quit the army. Or to deprive him of certain civil rights—such as the right to vote, or to run for Parliament.

Our citizenship is another occasion for pride. For the poor it consists of supporting and maintaining the rich. At this task they must labor in the face of the majestic equality of the laws, which forbid rich and poor alike to sleep under bridges, to beg in the streets and to steal their bread.—Anatole France.

More than half the prime space of what has been downtown Los Angeles is now taken up by freeways, parking spaces and garages. If we got rid of all the cars, if someone put them all in a huge crate and dumped them into the ocean, the relief would be magnificent.—California designer Allan Temko.

Winch Wonders at Wisdom Of Winning Allies With Aid

By RICHARD JACKSON
(from The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA — Look who has come home from abroad, all disenchanted with international "do-gooding."

Harold Winch, veteran (32 years in provincial and federal Parliaments) New Democratic MP for Vancouver East, and long one of those starry-eyed bleeding hearts who cried that Canada was never doing nearly half enough in the field of foreign aid.

It did not matter that the Government — be it Liberal or Conservative — never seemed to have enough money to build all the post offices and armories, pay higher pensions and family allowances or even cut taxes at home.

What always worried Harold Winch and the other CCF-former NDP was that the government never spent the amount of money they insisted it should on foreign aid for the so-called under-developed and less- privileged countries.

Let the Government spend $20 million as it has in a year on foreign aid, or even $50 million - - and that still was not enough for Harold Winch and the "world-savers."

Not enough, that is, until he landed back the other day from a five-week Parliamentary mission to Nigeria.

NICE COINCIDENCE

It was almost funny, too, that on the homeward-bound flight Harold Winch, there arrived in Ottawa, on what is known as a "visit" the Honorable Alajii Inuwa Wada, the Nigerian Minister of Public Works and Information - Executive retiuse of bershed and bespangled dignitaries.

They had a merry "junketing" to Canada all the way from West Africa to accept, from External Affairs Minister Howard Green, the first of a series of maps of Nigeria being made in a Canadian factory - finished — it is costing $1,250,000 — aerial survey.

This was strong aid.

And was Harold Winch pleased by this piece of international "do-gooding" which should have been right up his world-savin, alley?

He was not.

Rather, he was furious.

Furious to discover that Canadians were being misled about Africa and all those supposedly under-developed and less-privileged continents.

In his five weeks in Nigeria he had found, to what must have been his disgust, he enjoyed embarrassment, that the Africans had been making pasties out of Canadians and all the taxpayers of the other white nations of the free world who have been indulging in the luxury of "foreign aid".

So when back to sound off with, but when the Honorable Dignitaries from Nigeria were visiting the Canadian Capital?

FRIGHTENED

"We are not being told what is going on there", said Mr. Winch breaking into Front Page print.

"The Africans have only one thought in mind, and that is the Pan-African union with the black race dominating the world.

"I am very frightened".

He agrees with those that black republics were "black mailing" the Free World, extorting money under the threat of doing business instead behind the Iron Curtain.

And he also discovered that the money the political leaders of the black republics supposedly were using for economic development, actually was being drunken-sidered away on frills for Pan-African style "prestige" and "status".

It is strange that Harold Winch had to go to Nigeria to make this discovery.

For he frequently has been a member of the Canadian delegation at the United Nations and must have seen some of the African delegates on the posh Delegates Dining Room . . . . see them as they drank their way through the long, long, high, high noon from wine bucket-topped in solid circles around their tables . . . seen them as they lolled in their chairs, their sharp, pinch-leg Madison avenue suits bursting at the buttons.

Strange, too, that it was to Nigeria that one-time do-gooder Harold Winch made his voyage of disillusioned discovery . . . for Nigeria is supposed to be the best of the new African states.

Ah, well, there are other worlds to save — other places for do-gooding — such as right here at home.

Problems Harassing Our Writers

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of words and names, as I was yesterday, and the ways in which we emotionally color our arguments, an editorial writer I know said to me not long ago: "It's impossible to answer a letter that disagrees with what you didn't say."

This is a problem for everyone who writes in the public media. Letters, people often ask me what percentage of my mail agrees, and what percentage disagrees, with my daily views. Actually, there is no simple division here.

About half my mail agrees with what I have said; the other half is made up of those who disagree with what I have said, and those who disagree with what they thought I have said.

I think that I write clearly and directly. Yet the majority of the "anti" letters I get really disagree with me — they disagree with a private interpretation of what I have written. They draw assumptions and conclusions from what I have wholly unwarranted in what I have said — and then they charge me with drawing the assumptions and making the conclusions.

To take a simple and non-controversial example: in a recent column, I spoke of those "compulsively cheerful" personalities who affect their hysterically high spirits upon others, especially early in the morning. I suggested that these people are just as divorced from reality as are the chronic gloomers.

Immediately, I received a mass of letters "defending" cheerful people. I was asked a frown. I was incidentally told that a smile wasn't better than it's smile wasn't better than a frown. I was asked whether what the world needs is more cheeriness. I was upbraided for my pessimism, my cynicism and a few other isms I had never even heard of.

These correspondents were extrapolating from my column and charging me with views I had not expressed and do not possess. I made a modest and reasonable observation about certain types of manic personalities — and they translated it into an arrogant and unreasonable attack upon orderly good spirits.

It is this sort of reaction that makes an editorialist's task so dis-spiriting. He can stand disagreement; indeed, he relies upon it. But when he is lambasted for something he did not say, then he begins to worry that either his readers cannot read or he cannot write. Admittedly, some editorial writing (and thinking) is fuzzy; but in many cases cases the reader puts on his own colored glasses and then accuses the writer of distorted vision.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

December 4th 1942

Women of Belleville are asked to rally to a special emergency call of the Red Cross headquarters, to assist in making three thousand surgical dressings within the local branch within the next few days, it was announced at the meeting evening. This appeal has just been received, and the Belleville branch which has always been noted for the response of its workers to sudden calls for help, is asking the women of the district to assist again in this manner.

The Canadian Pacific Communications Office on Bridge Street East, has the proud record of having put its telegraph operators in the armed services. Included in the list are, Frank Hitchon, Carman Spencer, Clare Carter, all of the Royal Canadian Air Force; and Gordon Gregory, Frank Pepper, Les Cole, Harry Lummiss of the Royal Canadian Navy. Clarences Cook, one of the present operators, joined the Navy yesterday and will report in the spring.

Members of the Belleville Cheese Board voted for adjournment for the season at the conclusion of Thursday night's session at which a number of cheese boarded suffered a decided drop from the previous session. For the balance of the season the different factory heads will therefore make their own arrangements for the sale of cheese, although the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has pegged the price of factories at 20 cents per pound at the shipping point.

December 4th, 1932

Mr. Harry E. Clarke, B.A., has completed twenty-five years as public school inspector for South Hastings and last evening one hundred and fifty members of the Teachers' Institute of South Hastings assembled in the Hotel Quinte to tender Mr. Clarke a complimentary banquet. The chair was occupied by Mr. L. A. Kells and the reading presentations and illuminated address was performed jointly by Mr. A. C. Wilkin and Mr. M. Hall.

Mrs. Clarke was presented a bouquet of beautiful deep red roses by the work done at the event and expressed in sincere terms the high esteem in which Mr. Clarke is held by the teachers in the district and in the teaching profession generally.

Mr. Clarke, with the Wharf Street Debating Club entertained Mayor Geo. Thrasher, members of the present council and new candidates for municipal honors at their club house. He was bright breezy affair with brief speeches and a surplus of hot dogs, pop and pickles.

The chair was occupied by Eddie George. Matt Weir held the piano and was assisted by willing helpers. Pat Boland took charge of the supply of the members as they paid their fees and James Cornell handled the money. Many humorous stunts demonstrated once again how easy it is to remove pop bottle caps with the teeth. Bert Aselstine acted as inner and outer guard and tried to keep the kids from getting into trouble.

To celebrate the entrance of Bridge Street Methodist Church Sunday School upon the second centenary of its history and to recognize the men's work in the church, a tea has been formed to be known as the "Centenary Club". The aims of the clubs are manifold, including discussion and community service. Following are the officers elected: President, Rev. F. E. Maloft and Fred S. Deacon; president — Dr. N. J. Neilson; vice-president — Dr. Morley A. Day; secretary — W. H. Lee; treasurer — Dr. Douglas Reid; chairmen of committees — music, Ernest A. Ridley; membership — Geo Cook and Cecil W. B. Deacon; service, G. E. McKinnon. Next Sunday His Honor Judge Brooke will address the members of the club.

50 YEARS AGO

This morning a fair sized sheaf of second crop oats was gathered in the yard at the rear of Tickell and Sons furniture store on Front Street. It is quite remarkable that the same season has been; if this continues, Belleville will be placed among the semi-tropical centres in Canada.

An elevator owned by Mr. Robert Coyle at Frankford was burned to the ground. There were about 5,000 barrels of apples in the building, and the greater part of them was destroyed.

Is System Killing Self?

Vancouver Province

A recent study by The Financial Post reveals that the number of Canadian businesses which have been bought up by foreign investors over the past few years has increased to an alarming degree.

During the same period many new smaller businesses have been absorbed into large national organizations.

Against the competition of efficient mass-production international complexes with unlimited capital and experienced know-how, the small businessman is rapidly vanishing from the Canadian business scene.

Disappearing with him are the conditions under which other small businessmen with initiative and a sense of adventure are attracted to take his place.

This land of ours, particularly this western country, came to the present century almost truly the great "land of opportunity."

Is that the case today? Where are the challenges for the young man with a little capital who is willing to work hard to establish a business for himself? Even the cattle ranches are developing into big enterprises.

Maybe we are old fashioned, but we still think of free enterprise as a condition which makes it possible for a man to start with a push barrow and wind up with a department store, or build a knife-sharpening business into a machine tool industry.

Our national government has set up an economic commission a productivity council and industry committees to study banking and various other factors which affect the welfare of our free enterprise system.

It doesn't seem that anyone is attempting to make a comprehensive study of the system itself. At election time, in dedicating itself to the preservation of free enterprise, is the government concerned with the free enterprise for gigantic organizations with head offices in Montreal, New York or London?

Perhaps the time is here to take a new look at free enterprise in Canada to see if it has changed greatly from the pioneer days of half a century ago. Is it something that still needs to be defended against the inroads of socialism and government controls, or is it something which can be left to look after itself?

Is business destroying the very system under which it has prospered?

Plenty of Rest Is Best Treatment for Cold Sufferers

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

(This is the second of two articles on colds.)

Yesterday I told my say about flu vaccine, explaining why I think it would be wise for everybody to have such a vaccination once a year.

What about cold vaccines for other types of respiratory illnesses? Already one flu vaccine is aimed against some forms of adenovirus, a respiratory type.

Doubtless we will be hearing someday about vaccines for other varieties, but since there are scores of viruses involved, and each must be studied separately, the "common cold" is going to be with us for a long time to come, even with vaccines.

Colds, like most other diseases, are a consequence of interacting factors: The intensity of exposure to the germs, and the degree of the person's resistance, plus other factors.

Why are respiratory infections more frequent in the fall, winter and spring? We don't know. Temperature may be involved, or changeable weather, or humidity or dryness.

Experts have reached the point at which they can explain cold viruses, then give other people colds of the same type — sometimes within a couple half the time. Presumably people who don't catch the colds have been exposed to the same viruses before and have acquired immunity. The ones who do catch the colds have had little lost whatever immunity they had.

How much your general state of health has to do with immunity, I frankly don't know. Some, I think. But perfectly healthy youngsters, starting school, come down with just about every kind of cold, thereby gradually acquiring some immunity.

Other things being equal, I suspect that all of us are more likely to catch colds if we have sacrificed vigor by not getting enough sleep, not eating properly, not having at least a minimum of exercise, and not accustoming ourselves to changes in temperature.

But whether this affects catching cold, it certainly is an important element in how well we throw one off once we have it. The virus is present, we have to depend on our bodies to drive the invaders off. And to keep other germs from following along! The cold that hangs on is often the result of some secondary bacterial infection getting a start in the virus-inflamed membranes.

Therefore, quite aside from avoid giving the germs to other people, I heartily recommend staying home and if possible in bed when a cold strikes. Drink plenty of water. If aspirin makes you feel better, use it. Get plenty of sleep, too.

But that's really all we can do about colds effectively. We can't avoid getting them, we can take care of ourselves so they will run their course as soon as possible, and will have left chance of spreading into lung infections or stubborn throat irritation.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would a vocal cord nodule cause a burning feeling in the throat after talking? Does a nodule go away without surgery?

No, the nodule will not go away without surgery, but will not cause any throat hoarseness and perhaps other symptoms. However it would not cause burning. This sounds like a chronic inflammation or irritation in the area. Nasal drainage down the back of the throat can also be a factor.

Dear Dr. Molner: If the hymenal membrane has never been broken, can a girl become pregnant?

If sperm are deposited at the opening, pregnancy may occur. Penetration does not have to be broken.

Shingles can be a painful disease! To receive a copy of my pamphlet, "The Facts About Shingles," write Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 15c in coin to cover handling.

Goodgriefwise!

Our capacity for surprise is not yet exhausted, not for disgust. On the radio a teacher talking about the school problem in Canada saw fit to say that "educationalwise" we were doing all right but that buildings and planning ahead were not so good. Seems from here he'll be better off to mind himself, Englishwise he's a moron.

THE PACKSACK

—by GREGORY CLARK

There has reappeared recently another one of the suggestions in places far apart that the problems with the welfare of politicians will be solved if we trained in the science and industry of governing. Should politicians be educated in their profession? Should not a man or woman presenting himself or herself to the public for election be obliged to offer his credentials from some technical education, or from some board of examiners who would testify to the qualifications of the applicant? Doctors can't practise without such education and verification. Lawyers just can't hang out their shingles because they have the gift of the gab. Why should government as important as medical science or law?

It is an interesting question; and the day may come when some such premise might be adopted, unless we are smart.

For politicians really don't govern. They are merely the errand boys of the public will, public opinion, public vision, sent by another name. Against the rewards of the true government, which is the civil or civic service, the politicians will be a race of men and women highly educated in the science of government forbears and lifetimes of almost anonymous duty. A politician with the gift of the gab can disturb the true, wise government for a little while, maybe; but he does not get very far. Out he goes. And it is the people, not the true government, that bounce him.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Still staggering from Monday's bout with profit-takers, the stock market sagged slightly in the opening hour today.

All sections but base metals showed fractional declines on index, with industrials slipping most.

In the main list, Abitibi and Bank of Montreal both dropped ¼, Aluminium, Consolidated Paper, Toronto-Dominion Bank and Interprovincial Pipe Line all dipped ¼.

Losers of ¼ went to BA Oil, CPR, Walker - Gooderham and Distillers Seagrams.

Gainers included Algoma Steel, Trans - Canada Pipeline, Canadian Husky and Dominion Foundries and Steel, all ahead in a ¼ to ¼ range.

On the exchange index, industrials dipped .50 to 566.79, golds .09 to 86.08 and western golds .01 to 117.35. Base metals rose .48 to 186.88. The 11 a.m. volume was 650,000 shares compared with 459,000 at the same time Monday.

In base metals, Noranda climbed ¼ to a 1962 peak of 30¼. Falconbridge gained ¼ and International Nickel ¼ while Hudson Bay Mining dropped ¼, and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ¼.

Among western oils, Pacific Petroleum declined ¼ and Home A ¼. Bailey Selburn A fell 10 cents to $9.65.

Weakness hit the market Monday.

By the close, industrials had taken their biggest index drop in a month. Base metals dropped more than ¾ point, while golds declined fractionally. —

Banks were weakest in the main list, with Royal and Toronto - Dominion each off 1¼, and Bank of Montreal and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce both down 1¼.

Steels also slumped as Algoma fell 1½ and Atlas and Steel Company of Canada each ½.

Moore Corporation and Interprovincial Pipe Line both declined 1¾, Aluminium ½ and Walker-Gooderham ¾.

Among base metals, Hudson Bay Mining dropped ¾, International Nickel ¼ and Consolidated Mining and Smelting ½. Noranda gained ¼ and Falconbridge ¾.

Robert Tanner Guest Speaker At Rotary Club

Sociological research is the most important field of research which must be developed by mankind today — toleration and understanding amongst men is required before all else, said Robert Tanner, speaking on "The Research Revolution" before the Belleville Rotary Club yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Quinte. Mr. Tanner, a former Belleville resident, is an executive with the Northern Electric research laboratories in Ottawa.

The many technological advances which have been given mankind over the past half-century, will prove of little use if man is unable to stay around to enjoy them, the speaker said. Intense study in the field of sociological research is required in order to find out why man should desire to go to war when his intellect and reason tell him to refrain from such activity, Mr. Tanner suggested.

He traced the recent development of research in modern North America, mostly the United States, from its initial stages when some 300 research laboratories existed in 1919 and about 200 millions were spent on research projects in 1920. In 1959 there were 5,000 labs and nine billion dollars spent, and this amount may be expected to double about every three to five years, said Mr. Tanner.

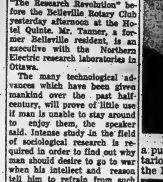
In Canada, research has lagged considerably behind that of other countries in research development, he said, and cautioned that if Canada were to stay in the world's manufacturing field it would be necessary for Canadian firms to put a greater portion of their sales dollars into research.

He noted that research flourished best where the research organization was divorced of a firm's manufacting facilities and was not, therefore, confined in scope.

The speaker listed a few items which have come from research in the past half-century, amongst these he cited insulin, sulfa, pencillin and antibiotics in the medical field; synthetic fibres, plastics and silicones in the chemical field; the vacuum tube and the transistor in the electronics field; atomic energy in the field of physics; the aeroplane in the field of transportation.

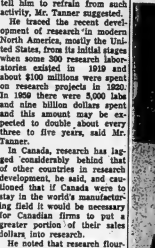
He pointed to such rapid developments as the entire field of electronics and the air craft industry as but mildly indicative of the imagination and rate of progress which could be expected of the research revolution in the next few years.

It is almost beyond the imagination of man to foresee how far research can carry him, Mr. Tanner suggested. He then emphasized the point that man had sadly fallen behind in a study of himself — that technological advances had far outstripped sociological knowledge.



The state of imbalance would have to be corrected before man falls victim to his ignorance of himself and loses everything because he cannot control his own actions, suggested the speaker, concluding on the note that although much research is required of industry in Canada the need for sociological research should be placed highest on the list.

Mr. Tanner was introduced by Stuart Robb and thanked by G. H. "Bud" Trill. Bob Long, president of the radio club at Quinte Secondary School, was the student guest of the club. President Harry Burns conducted the meeting.



Napanee Man Is Killed, Woman Hurt

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP)—John MacEachern, 21, of Napanee, was killed when the sports car he was driving collided with another car about four miles east of here Monday night.

Mrs. Pauline Cole of Napanee, a passenger in the second car, was taken to hospital at Kingston with undetermined injuries.

Treated 'Fairly Well' Says Returnee From Cuban Jail

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Douglas Buchanan, 23-year-old poultry specialist from Harrow, Ont., says he was treated "fairly well" in a Cuban jail the last five weeks.

Buchanan, jailed for picking up a note tossed from a hotel room by two detained reporters, plans to fly to Toronto today.

In Harrow, his father Keith Buchanan said word of his son's release Monday was "wonderful news."

The younger Buchanan was imprisoned on allegations of smuggling when he picked up a note thrown from the Hotel Capri by the reporters, Canadian Press Canadians, being confined there.

SOUNDED SHAKY

"He told me he was feeling fine but he sounded a bit shaky. He didn't say much about the trouble except that they (Cuban police) had been suspicious of him. I guess these things happen in war time."

He had been in Cuba more than a year setting up turkey hatcheries for the Castro government. Buchanan represented his uncle, Max Tingen of Harrow, a turkey farmer. Harrow is 20 miles southeast of Windsor.

In Mexico City Monday he was met at the airport by an attache of the Canadian embassy, Denis Hughes.

"After they arrested me, they questioned me and later charged me with smuggling in Canadian money and jewelry," Buchanan said. "They were not rough on me, but a jail is a jail, anywhere."

The five reporters confined to the Hotel Capri were finally allowed to leave Havana Nov. 16. While held at the hotel they spent much of their time trying to smuggle out messages to their embassies or to their countries.

THREW NOTE

One of those confined, Don North of Vancouver, arrived in New York Nov. 18 and told of trying to throw the note to Buchanan and another Canadian, cargo plane pilot Roderick MacKenzie.

North, a freelance contributor and one-time CBC announcer, was deported from Cuba to Mexico Nov. 15. He said he and NBC correspondent Robert (Robin) MacNeil of Ottawa called Buchanan and MacKenzie and then tossed the note addressed to the embassy, but it fell on the roof of a one-storey militia station.

Buchanan was pulling down the note with a long pole when he was arrested, North said.

Guy B. Hughes Elected New Reeve of Tweed

Mr. Guy B. Hughes is the new reeve for the village of Tweed defeating two other opponents in Monday's municipal election for the council head's position.

Mr. Hughes polled 222 votes obtaining a plurality of approximately 50 votes over Mrs. Barbara Allen who polled 274 votes. Third man in the race was Mr. Ted Courneyea who polled 233 votes.

There was no election for village council as insufficient candidates were nominated to fill the positions open, so result there will be another nomination for council this week.

In Elzevir township Clayton McMurray of Queensboro was elected as reeve over Arden Robinson, who was seeking re-election. Mr. McMurray polled 227 votes to Mr. Robinson's 183.

Elected to Elzevir council were Ed. Alexander with 242, Kenneth Cassidy, 225, J. Kehoe, 283 and Charles Reavie, 195. Stuart Ray with 194 was the other candidate.

In Tudor and Cashel township Reeve Verne McMurray was re-elected over Perry Cooney.

This means that county council will again have brothers as members. Clayton McMurray was reeve of Elzevir a year ago but dropped out of municipal life this year.

Doing 45 In 30-Mile Traffic Zone

An excessive 15 miles an hour cost a motorist $23 in Belleville's magistrate's court this morning.

Torontonian David Ross was convicted by Magistrate T. Y. Wills of driving at 45 miles an hour on Dundas St. West.

The area—where attempts by city council in recent years to raise the speed-limit have been repeatedly defeated—is in a 30-mile-an-hour zone.

Ross, who did not appear in court, was fined $15 and $8 costs after the magistrate had entered a plea of not guilty on his behalf.

Glamorous Hostess Could Be Mistaken for Film Star

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP) — Mrs. Magdelaine Lapointe, wife of lawyer and industrialist Louis A. Lapointe and one of Montreal's most glamorous hostesses, could easily be mistaken for a film star.

Yet she calls herself "unsophisticated" and proudly mentions that she has recently become a grandmother.

Devoted to her family in the French-Canadian tradition, the slender, brown-eyed, mother of three—Francine (Mrs. Bruce B. Everly), 22, Robert, 21 and Louis, 16—is well known in Montreal for her work with the Museum of Fine Arts, the Montreal Symphony Orchestra and the exciting Place des Arts project, scheduled to open here next year.

Place des Arts, of which her husband is president, will be Montreal's long-awaited downtown centre of culture. Mrs. Lapointe played a major role in the fund-raising campaign three years ago, when the idea of a home for the performing arts in Montreal was a four-year-old dream.

LOVES THEATRE

She has a special interest in the plan because of her love for the theatre. "I'd go to the theatre morning, afternoon and night if I could." Once on a 15-day stay in Paris she went to the theatre 11 times.

One of her talents, flower arrangement, is a hobby by accident. A few years ago when the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts asked her to complete arrangements for the annual "Fete des Fleurs," she protested that she had never done such a thing.

But she entered all 10 classes —and won third prize. Since then she has submitted arrangements each year, and only once hasn't won an award. "But I never did win first prize," she laughed.

Mrs. Lapointe believes in keeping busy. "People who haven't much to do forget about others and tend to think too much about themselves."

"PUBLIC BEGGAR"

Born and raised in Montreal and educated in Outremont Convent, Mrs. Lapointe considers benevolent work important and has in the past served as co-

GLAMOROUS GRANDMOTHER—Mrs. Louis Lapointe, wife of the Montreal lawyer and industrialist, is an attractive grandmother whose interests run to family and theatre. chairman of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association and worked with the Red Cross and local hospitals. "I've done a bunch canvassing that my friends at one point were beginning to call me a public beggar."

Mrs. Lapointe has been involved in Montreal's social whirl since she was a young girl when her father, Ovid Taillefer, then chairman of the executive committee for the City of Montreal, often took her to receptions. Now her life revolves mainly around her busy executive husband.

Again in the French tradition she is a firm believer in a woman looking her best at all times. As for myself, I can't afford to neglect my appearance. Sometimes I have only a moment's notice to go somewhere—or I must be ready on the spot."

"And," she added with her charming smile, "A woman should use every trick she knows to stay young."

SPEAKING of MANNERS

UNUSUAL HOSTESS GIFTS

The "hostess with the mostest" is the one everyone is apt to envy and admire, but even her staunchest rooters get a feeling of defeat when the title-holder crops up on their gift lists.

Whether the present is for Christmas or a thank-you for hospitality, what does one give a hostess who seems to have all the necessities and most of the frills for gracious entertaining?

With this thought in mind and a few such problems children on our list — we set out on a safari through our favorite stores in quest of Christmas presents we'd like most if we were a hostess who had the mostest of everything.

A brush was the first item that caught our fancy — but not just an ordinary brush. This one is especially made to smooth out the nap on such fine mink, sable, beaver or seal, so it's easy to see what an elegant addition it would make to a handpicked guest room or dressing table. It's trimmed in leather and, happily, has a mink tail attached, just so less-knowing guests don't get the idea the brush is for an ordinary cloth coat or to shine shoes.

If your particular hostess is the busy precise type who frets over her seating arrangements for hours, then here's an item that will make her mulling more relaxing. It's a table arranger — a leather board about a foot long that has an inset representing the white table and twenty name cards representing, well, name cards. With this propped on her lap, the conscientious hostess can move her guests above and below the salt until she has the seating satisfactorily worked out and at her fingertips.

For the hostess who does most of her inviting and accepting over the phone, here's an ingenious item — a time-a-call diary which looks like a chubby pencil. After dialing a number the user presses the top. This sets off a precision timer that keeps track of how many minutes a conversation is lasting. By keeping a wary eye glued on the minute gauge, a smart hostess knows when to sign off without running into expensive overtime charges.

Just in case something breaks down during sapparty — like a table or the radio — practically anything but a guest's arches — a ladylike tool compact would be handy to have in reserve, and certainly is the sort of gift no hostess is apt to get two of. The one we selected for just such emergencies is a plastic case filled with an elegant little hammer, pliers, several screwdrivers, tacks, screws, nails and even a measuring tape. With such a charming little kit safely tucked away nearby, any hostess can be sure her party will be kept in good repair.

Mrs. H.Y. — Instead of sympathy, all I get from her is advice.

Mrs. A.J. — Instead of bestirring herself, all she does is complain.

Mrs. H.Y. — Here I am living alone, no husband, no children. He's his husband's sister lives uptown, about a half-hour's bus ride away. Yet she expects me to call about once a month, and I can only get her down to my place with special event, like having my mother over, or being real sick myself.

She has such a full life. Her children are in college and high school, so she's always at meetings or lectures. You'd think she'd give up a few hours and act like a sister to me, even if she's only a sister-in-law. Instead she tells me to copy her and keep busy. Well I can't. For one thing I live in a terrible neighborhood and can't venture out after dark. Also, I'm too alone and there's not much you can do alone.

Mrs. A.J. — I'm acting like a real friend, not just a sister, when I tell her to quit pestering and start a few projects of her own. When she's hands out all her charity work doing nothing, I blow my top and talk to her like a Dutch uncle. She can't take that kind of talk because it's honest. She's looking for help which she's not entitled to.

Why doesn't she sign up for an interesting course? Her answer is the bad neighborhood. Baloney! There are lectures at the Y from 9 to 5 and while the streets are still lively and light. Why it's the safest time. Because she's selfish. She has an old mother living a block away and never thinks of her or her ailing uncle. She can't take that kind of talk because it's honest. She's looking for help which she's not entitled to.

The Council: Remember Eve? When she was cornered, she didn't own right up and confess to being weak. She looked around for someone to blame. Since there was only Adam around, naturally she said, "He made me do it." And ever since, troubled people who can't stand the heat by admitting their own shortcomings fall about for excuses and scapegoats.

Many Protest Pictures of Mrs. JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jacqueline Kennedy, wife of the U.S. president, is pictured as sorry she has become a darling of film magazines.

So are a lot of people who write to the White House. Aides of Mrs. Kennedy say correspondents have been penning protests by the dozen about full cover pictures and headlines featuring Mrs. Kennedy on magazine that devote most of their attention to what's going on in movieland.

Replying to the distressed letter writers, the White House says in effect: "Sorry, but we can't help it."

For months, one U.S. magazine or another has been decorating its cover with a photo of Mrs. Kennedy and beckoning readers with such banner lines as:

"Jackie turns her back on Hollywood."

"Whistler attacks Jackie."

"Jacqueline Kennedy — America's newest star. What you should know about her fears."

White House informants said no effort has been made to challenge the publications lest they be steered to even greater interest. But they emphasized Mrs. Kennedy never has co-operated with such magazines.

Mother-to-Be Honored With Baby Gifts

On Wednesday evening a surprise baby shower was held for Mrs. Jack Sherman at the home of Mrs. T. Delmage with Mrs. Gerald Stratton as co-hostess. There were about 25 guests present.

The evening was spent playing contests and games after which little Miss Jo-Anne Belnap wheeled in the carriage laden with gifts.

Irene thanked everyone for the lovely gifts after which a delicious buffet supper was served and a social time spent.

Yule Meat Pie

by Mary Moore

Please clip this now if you intend to use it this year.

Last year about this time I gave you a deep beef pie with puff pastry crust. This was popular with our readers — especially those of British origin.

I have one laconic observation to make re meat pies: while they are being made up in the pie state they are a tedious chore before they are ready for the oven. But once they are baked dinner is ready.

The one I am giving you this year for your holiday dinners that are not quite as festive as Christmas and New Years, calls for English pastry that is so tempting you cannot resist it and it crumbles to your touch.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu

Pan Fried Baby Beef Liver with Cream Gravy; French Fried Onions; Whipped Potatoes; Individual Dessert Fruit Salads of Pineapple Rings, Grapefruit Sections, Cheese-Stuffed Prunes, Nut-Coated Cheese Balls, Fruit Cream Dressing; Tea. —

YULE MEAT PIE (Serves 10 generously):

Pastry: (English) 4 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 teaspoons salt, 2 cups best quality shortening (divided), 1 cup boiling water, 4 teaspoons lemon juice, 1 egg yolk.

After sifting the flour and measuring, sift it again with the baking powder and salt into a large mixing bowl. Cut in 1 cup of the shortening with pastry blender until size of large peas. Put remaining 1 cup of shortening in the hot water, add the lemon juice and stir to melt shortening. Stir in egg yolk and then stir these liquids into flour mixture until blended. Freeze this pliable dough by hand, line 2 baking dishes (mine measure 7½ x 2½").

Line bottom and sides by pressing dough evenly and patiently to ¼" thickness — reserving enough to make thicker top crusts. Dough need not be refrigerated.

Filling: ½ lb. mushrooms washed and sliced, 1 medium onion, chopped, 1 lb. boneless and skinless chicken breast meat cut into narrow strips, ¾ lb. lean pork from shank or shoulder (this may be cooked ham if desired), ¾ lb. lean shank or shoulder veal, 1 8-oz. can oysters (not drained), 1 or ½ pt. raw oysters (only oysterlikers should add these for the flavor is dominant), 2 hard-cooked eggs sliced, 1 raw egg, 1 cup evaporated milk, ½ teaspoon powdered thyme, 1 can consomme, undiluted.

Apportion half of each ingredient above into each pastry-lined casserole in order given, except the raw egg, evaporated milk, thyme and consomme which mix together and pour over evenly last. Pat out the remaining pastry on floured board by hand to fit tops of 2 baking dishes. Make deep gashes or a centre hole in each to allow steam to escape. Seal edges carefully. Brush tops all over with 1 egg yolk diluted with 1 tablespoon cold water. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes, then reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours.

Unsurpassable served at once hot with chutney. However, if desired, you could serve 1 pie hot to 5 people and reserve the other one for a future occasion when it could be reheated at 300 deg. Fahr. for 1 hour. It is not as good reheated.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Dodds, North Park Street were honored at a surprise party given by a number of friends and relatives on the occasion of their 20th wedding anniversary, on November 24.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitfield Lough are pictured following their recent marriage in Ryerson United Church, Ancaster, Ontario. The bride is the former Miss Catharine Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wood, of Ancaster. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart W. Lough, of Belleville.

LOUGH — WOOD

Tall standards of pink gladioli and white 'mums adorned the chancel steps and white satin bows designated the guest pews in Ryerson United Church, Ancaster, when Catharine Jean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wood of Ancaster, became the bride of Robert Whitfield Lough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart W. Lough of Belleville. The Rev. Donald S. Wright officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Mrs. Hewittson of Hamilton, organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Olive McDonald in her renditions of "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony, and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was radiantly lovely in her floor-length bridal gown of white satin-faced peau de soie featuring a fitted bodice with a scooped neckline, long sheath-like sleeves, lily-pointed over the wrists and a full skirt which cascaded into a chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion tulle fell from a tiara of seed pearls and crystals and she carried a cascade bouquet of white gardenias and stephanotis. A single strand of cultured pearls, the gift of her bridegroom completed her nuptial ensemble.

The bride was attended by Miss Judy Marshall of Ancaster, as maid of honor, wearing a sea-green street-length dress of bengaline taffeta, with fitted bodice and featuring a shoulder cape. Her headdress was a matching flower with small tulle veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white 'mums, mingled with ivy.

The flower girl, little Janice Ritchie was sweet and demure in a plain pink nylon chiffon frock over pink taffeta, with flowered bandeau and carried a basket of pink and white baby 'mums.

Mr. Dan Flegel, of Toronto, attended the bridegroom while the ushers were Messrs. Arvo Puttonen of Windsor, and George Hewitt, of Dundas, brother of the bride.

The reception was held at the Scottish Rite, Hamilton, where the bride's table was centred by a three-tier wedding cake, topped with two white doves holding wedding rings and misted about the base with tulle. Topping white candles and the bridal bouquets added to the setting.

The bride's mother received the guests from Windsor, Hamilton, Toronto, Simcoe, Belleville, Marmora, Delhi, Dundas and Ancaster, wearing a French wool broadcloth sheath dress, beige shoes, small dressed hat, matching accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, gowned in autumn brown brocade sheath, gold accessories, matching feather hat and a corsage of bronze roses.

For the wedding trip to the mid-Eastern U.S.A., highlighted by the Shenandoah Mts. of Virginia, the bride chose an olive-green woven wool sheath, boxy-brown fur jacket with a corsage of bronze roses.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was entertained at two miscellaneous showers: one at the home of Miss Marshall, her maid of honor, and one at the home of Mr. T. Ritchie; also a china shower at the home of Mrs. Margaret Parsons.

The bridegroom was the recipient of a beautiful hand-carved walnut chime clock; from his Trent Road friends and neighbors of Belleville, also a presentation and party from his Canadian Pittsburgh Limited associates.

Mr. and Mrs. Lough are residing in Stoney Creek, Ontario.

U.C. Women Sponsor Fine Tea, Bazaar

An event of interest to Wellington and surrounding community was enjoyed when the United Church Women held their annual tea and bazaar last Wednesday afternoon.

A yuletide atmosphere filled the Centennial Parlor and the Sunday school hall of the church when Mrs. Truax and Mrs. J. Pierson welcomed the guests.

The tea room, under the convenership of Mrs. Mac Greer was the scene of continual activity, where Mrs. Don Van Meer, Mrs. V. R. Vanderwater, Mrs. H. Wright, Mrs. H. R. Adams, Mrs. D McKenzie, Mrs. E. Hubbard, Mrs. B. Alyea and Mrs. Albert Fritz served delicious refreshments.

Pouring tea during the afternoon were: Mrs. F. Harris and Mrs. Ida McFaul; Mrs. Doris Gay and Mrs. Laura Wight; Mrs P. Elliott was tea hostess, assisted by Mrs. N. Webster, Mrs. E Bond, Mrs. W. Cox, Mrs. W. Baverstock and Mrs. A. Foster. Mrs. H. Nash was tea room treasurer. Mrs. Lewis McFaul and Mrs. E. Marshall attended the fish pond to the delight of the children.

In the Sunday School Room the respective tables were laden with articles which drew many compliments. Mrs. Hicks convened the bake table, assisted by Mrs. R. Dorland and Mrs. W. Tesky.

A delicatessen table was convened by Mrs. E. Fine and Mrs. G. Dorland and Mrs. S. Foster.

The fancy work was sold by Mrs. V. Jackson, Mrs. N. Allison and Mrs. F. Harris.

The aprons were supervised by Mrs. W. Adams, Mrs. R. Bishop and Mrs. O. Bovay assisting, and the oportunity table was convened by Mrs. L. Palmer with Mrs. R. A. Thompson and Mrs. Campbell assisting.

Mrs. R. Pierson and Mrs. G. Parks looked after the candy booth.

Of special interest was the table of Christmas decorations convened by Mrs. Dart assisted by Mrs. H. Earl with Mrs. Vanderwater.

Mrs. G. Parks was general treasurer and reports the day a financial success.

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard A. Rumleskie are shown signing the register in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, following their recent marriage. The bride is the former Rumleskie — Rochon — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rochon of the bridegroom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Peter Rumleskie.

RUMLESKIE — ROCHON

Baskets of lovely white chrysanthemums and pink carnations adorned the altar in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, November 3rd, at ten o'clock in the morning, for a very pretty late fall wedding, when Monsignor J. P. Sullivan united in marriage Shirley Ann Rochon, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Rochon to Leonard Anthony Rumleskie, of Belleville, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Peter Rumleskie.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charming in her pearl de soie pure white bridal gown, featuring a fitted bodice having a square portrait neckline with long lily-point sleeves, and long, full skirt. Seed pearls adorned the bodice, and the tulle illusion veil which was held by a tiara headdress studded with seed pearls. She carried a "T"-shaped bouquet of Sweetheart roses, white stephanotis tied with white satin streamers.

Mrs. Yvonne Mandi, oldest sister of the bride, wearing a gown of baby blue lace with scalloped frills, matching short veil and shoes, and carrying a bouquet of white 'mums centred with pink carnations, was the matron of honor.

The bridesmaids were, Miss Jean Rochon, and Miss Diana Cochon, sisters of the bride, who were gowned in pink chiffon with matching shoes, and wore pink hats. They carried white 'mums centred by pink carnations.

The little flower girl, Miss Celeste Baragar, and Rosemary Baragar, nieces of the bridegroom, were attired in pink chiffon frocks with full skirts similar in style to the bridesmaids, and carried nosegays of matching flowers.

Mr. Leo Labelle, of Belleville, attended the bridegroom, while Messrs. Ronald Rochon, and Hubert Baragar, both of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception and dinner was held in Club Canara, where the bride's table was appointed with white damask and centred by the traditional three-tier allwhite wedding cake, and flanked by candelabra with tall white candles. The bridal bouquets added a pretty accent to the nuptial setting.

The guests were received by the bride's mother, who wore a mouse-green suit with bronze 'mum corsage. She was assisted by the bridegroom's sister, who wore a mustard colored ensemble with corsage of gold 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Toronto at Westbury Hotel, the bride chose a gold and brown checked suit, with dark brown accessories, gold-colored hat, and gloves, and corsage of a mauve orchid.

Guests attended from Oshawa; Napanee; Detroit; Vancouver, B.C.; Barry's Bay; Ottawa; Madoc; Tweed; Actinolite; Ohio; Peterborough; and Trenton, Ontario.

The bride was the honored guest, prior to her marriage, at showers held at the home of Mrs. Carolyn Cox; at the home of Mrs. Doris Lee, and at the home of Mrs. Hans Mandi.

Mr. and Mrs. Rumleskie will reside at 80 West Bridge Street, Belleville.

Will Likely Change Law Respecting Women Jurors

LONDON (Reuter's) — Feminists have won another battle in their fight for equality in Britain: A government promise to have another look at laws which prevent most women from serving on a jury.

Women have been entitled to jury service in Britain since 1918, but have been hampered by a law passed in 1825.

Under this measure, a juror must be a householder, owning land or property. As the householder is usually the husband, the average jury is nine men to three women.

Women's organizations have been up in arms for years over it.

SHE'S MORE MATURE

As one of them put it: "Women used to be shielded from the facts of life as little innocents, but now we share the unpleasant aspects of life with men. With many young couples, the woman is often more mature than the male."

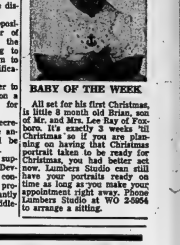
It was time, she said, for equality of the sexes in the dispensation of justice.

Mrs. Judith Hart, an opposition Labor party member of Parliament, has prodded the government by threatening to bring in a bill of her own to remove the property qualification.

She wants a jury member to be anyone who has been on a parliamentary register for three years.

Deputations met Home Secretary Henry Brooke, and he announced their case would be considered by a committee.

The women have a warm supporter for reform in Lord Devlin, an eminent judge who considers the present laws produce juries "predominantly male, middle-class, middle minded and middle-class."



The property qualification not only debars the male householder's spouse but also millions of people who rent their homes. Only one adult in eight is eligible for jury duty.

WOMAN DIES

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 24-year-old woman, listed in police files as a drug addict, was found dead Sunday outside an emergency entrance to Deaconess Hospital here. Police said she may have taken an overdose of a narcotic drug. Police said the woman, Miss Eleanor Sanford of Buffalo, had been dead less than an hour when a hospital attendant found her body.

Colored Bills Favored by Treasurer

MONTREAL (CP) — If the former treasurer of the United States had had her way, the various denominations of American currency would be distinguished by their colors instead of being all green.

And if that sounds like a takeoff on Canada's practice, it is. In fact the treasurer in question is a former Canadian.

Montreal-born Mrs. Elizabeth Rudel Smith Gator became U.S. treasurer in 1961 shortly after President Kennedy's election. She left her post last summer for "matrimony" and moved to California.

Interviewed during a visit to the city in which she grew up, Mrs. Gatov said that while treasurer she tried to introduce colored bills.

"It would be more efficient if the United States would adopt the Canadian system, but my idea was not accepted. Mind you, it has not been rejected either."

She said she thought the idea wasn't accepted because "some people were worried that in future campaigns it might be said all the Kennedy administration ever did was introduce colored money."

Mrs. Gatov was born in Montreal of parents who were U.S. citizens. She was educated here and went on to study archeology at Barnard College in New York. When she was 21 she became a U.S. citizen.

How did archeology prepare her for a career in politics?

"It taught me how to dig."

G. G. Assoc. To Make Presentation

MARMORA — The Girl Guides Association met at the home of Mrs. H. G. Parkin, with a fair attendance.

Mrs. A. M. Jones presided at the meeting and the usual opening procedure was carried out and items of business discussed.

It was decided to have a banquet early in January when Miss Rosemary Brady will be officially presented with her Gold Cord.

Mrs. Parkin served refreshments.

PERSONAL PERFUME

Mefiance Du Barry had her own distillery woman who brewed fragrant waters exclusively for her personal boudoir and rooms.

Club Activities

KUM DOUBLE CLUB

HALLOWAY — The meeting of the Kum Double group was held Wednesday evening last at the home of Coleman and Verna Townsend with 28 in attendance.

The conveners, Lorna and Emburg Brough, conducted the devotional period, the theme being "Kindness is Love in Action." The Scripture, Psalm 25:1-6 and Psalm 117:1 and 2 were read by Marie Emerson.

The business was in charge of Pat Robson. Mervin Bowers, "treasure," reported over $100 on hand.

The nominating committee is to report on the new slate of officers for 1963 at the next meeting on December 12th, to be held at the home of John and Pat Robson with Fred and Irene Wellman as conveners.

It was decided to make a donation of $3 to the Belleville Presbyterial funds.

Regarding securing a stove for the church basement, Mervin Bowers reported on a bullin oven and cooking unit available.

The Howlar was read and lunchaws served by the hostess and her assistants, Jean Robson and B. Snider.

GETS CHECKUP

GENEVA (AP)—King Saud of Saudi Arabia arrived in Switzerland Monday for a medical checkup in a private hospital in Lausanne. The 60-year-old monarch underwent abdominal surgery and two eye operations at a Boston hospital last December.

Wants Proper Recognition of Female Sport

VANCOUVER (CP) — Proper recognition of female athletes is the aim of the newly formed Calgary Sportswomen's Association and its founder, Mrs. Pearl V. Bergal.

"Records prove that per capita, Canadian women athletes outshine Canadian men, but they're not getting the same support," said the sportscaster during a visit to Vancouver.

Mrs. Bergal is a former champion swimmer and speed skater. Since her marriage she has taught riding and swimming. She is the only woman member of Alberta's Board of Athletic and Outdoor Education; president of the Canadian Barrel Racing and Rodeo Association and heads the Female Football Fan Club.

Women athletes are not getting the support because they're not getting the publicity, she says. She hopes the new organization will soon develop into a national body to help correct the situation.

Salmon Point United Church Is Rededicated

PICTON — "To the Glory of God and in memory of Harvey R. Stark, a benefactor of this church, reads a plaque was unveiled in Salmon Point United church, reads a plaque was the occasion was the church's 85th anniversary and the rededication of the renovated church and the new furnishings which were made possible by a $10,000 bequest of the late Mr. Stark last year.

The dedication was impressively conducted by Rev. C. W. Coleman, minister of Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, who is immediate past chairman of Belleville Presbytery. The plaque was unveiled on behalf of the congregation by the clerk of the session, Franz McConnell.

As noted by student minister Donald Harvey, the church is practically a new place of worship.

The exterior of the church was stuccoed white and woodwork trimmed. An old kitchen at the rear was replaced with a cement block one to house a modern oil furnace. The interior of the church is truly a place of beauty with walls in contrasting shades of natural wood, the darker across the front, on which a six-foot wooden Cross has a central place.

Pulpit and Communion Table in modernistic style, and modernly designed pews to seat one hundred, are among the chief furnishings. The ceiling was lowered and attractive lighting fixtures installed. The pulpit dais was raised and covered with beige carpeting, while wall-to-wall carpeting runs from the altar, over the new polished hardwood floor to the main entrance.

HAVE SEPARATE ROOMS

At the entrance an interior wall and door were erected to form two rooms from Sunday school classes and a choir room.

Guest speaker at the afternoon service was Rev. Harold Lester, B.A., B.D., Superintendent of Home Missions for Bay of Quinte Conference. The seventeen members of the junior choir, in new blue gowns with white collars, were accompanied by Mrs. James Whiteford, Jr., at the piano as they sang, "Questions and Answers". The beginning of the advent season was marked in the service, at the close of which two childfen were christened.

"The Channel of God's Saving Grace," was the theme of Mr. Coleman's inspirational and challenging sermon, and this he defined as the Gospel of Jesus Christ, the saving power for everyone. We have lost sight of the value and purpose of the gospel. There must be a rededication of work for the glory of God and propagation of the Word, he said.

A church, new or old, does not fill its purpose unless that is the aim.

"Jest a Second"

"I know it's original dear, but I'd still much rather have a photograph of you!"

"You are a channel through which God's gospel flows to others. We boast of the church but how many are proud of the Gospel?" asked the preacher as he urged all to live it.

Through the Gospel we learn we are children of the living God and under His care; all are part of the Divine Family — If we are outside it is because of our own will. Jesus Christ came to seek and save, and the Gospel is God's plan for man's salvation. The gospel is the saving power for man's salvation, said Mr. Coleman.

He referred to the fact that 17 different denominations advertised services in the Belleville paper. "It is a tragedy, a disgrace," he declared.

"The old time religion is not good enough today. It was largely a denial of fleshly pleasures rather than letting the love of God shine through their hearts. We should live the saving gospel. The church's task is to spread it. We must go forth with the enthusiasm of the apostles and proclaim 'I am proud of the gospel, for it is God's saving power'," concluded Mr. Coleman.

At the evening service, the junior choir sang "Faith of Our Fathers." Mrs. Gilbert Stackhouse of Northport was at the console of an electric organ, kindly loaned for the occasion, and Mr. Harvey expressed appreciation for this added contribution to the memorable occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Whiteford opened their home when ladies of the congregation served delectable refreshments during an hour of fellowship.

Children Spurred by Belief All Male Babies Must Die

HAMILTON (CP)—Two eight-year-old boys charged with juvenile delinquency in the sadistic beating of a 23-months-old Hamilton infant were spurred by the belief that all male babies must be killed, juvenile court was told Monday.

Police testified before Judge H. C. Arrell that the pair took Kees Hanrath, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hanrath, from his yard on Nov. 25 with the intention of hanging him.

The child was tortured for more than an hour and was found five hours after his disappearance under an overturned oil drum in near-freezing weather, about six blocks from his home.

A detective read statements by the two boys to the court. Their statements said that at first they wanted to hang a cat, but then they saw Kees playing in his yard.

BOARDS TOO HIGH'

"We came to a haunted house and we wanted to hang the boy from a tree, but a man came and we ran. We went into a garage but the boards were too high to hang him from," the statements read.

Police testified that one boy put a rope around Kees' head and a second kicked him.

"He began to fight and we hit him with sticks until one stick broke," the statements read.

One boy's statement told how the pair choked the infant with a rope.

"Isn't it fun," one boy was quoted as saying, adding that he wondered what the child would look like dead.

Shocked court officials, the boy's parents and social workers also learned from the statements that "blood came out of his nose and" (the other boy) "struck an ice pick in the little boy's back. He pulled it out and said 'Stick it in his gut' and then we jumped on his head."

The other boy's statement told of how the pair lifted the baby up "so he wouldn't die."

He told police that he wanted him to "go to sleep so he (the first boy) could kill him when he wasn't crying."

The two told police they stuffed the infant's mouth with dirt to stop him from crying and finally abandoned him under a dirt-filled oil drum.

Kees was taken to Hamilton General Hospital after he was found. Doctors could not recognize him as a child . . . "It just looked like a bundle of dirty clothing," they said.

Judge Arrell reserved decision for one week on the future of the two boys. They were remanded for a week in custody.

sound transportation policy.

Frank Howard (NDP — Skeena), who used the terms, said the government sticks its head in the sand like an ostrich and hopes it transportation problems will disappear.

Under debate was a resolution to extend provisions of the Freight Rates Reduction Act from April 30 this year to April 30, 1963. The act involves a $20,000,000 annual railway subsidy to hold back a freight rate increase.

'CLOTHING BUT CONFUSION'

The government is bankrupt of transportation policies, charged Douglas Fisher (NDP —Port Arthur). There had been nothing but confusion for five years, and he wondered whether he could support the measure without being given a statement by the transport minister on government policy.

The resolution was referred to committee study.

Other legislation to advance in the parliamentary mill included second reading of a government bill that clarifies a section of the British North America Act concerning public harbors in Ontario.

The bill ratifies an agreement between the federal and Ontario government that describes in detail 27 Ontario harbors under federal jurisdiction. Under the BNA act the federal government was given ownership of all public harbors in use at the time of Confederation. But it does not list them.

Given first reading was a bill that would provide the transport minister with authority to set up special boards of inquiry with power to question witnesses under oath in connection with plane crashes.

In other House business Opposition Leader Pearson accused Agriculture Minister Alvin Hamilton of a "false statement, made with deliberation," about the Liberal party's stand on the sale of wheat to Communist China.

He was commenting on the text of a speech Mr. Hamilton was to have delivered in Calgary which said the Liberal and New Democratic Parties were opposed to the sales.

As Mr. Howard was terming the statement "malicious," Mr. Hamilton's office was issuing a correction which said it was the Liberal and Social Credit parties that opposed the sales.

infants requiring public support," Maremont said, "we are creating a liability of $100,000 a day. If adequate birth control advice and assistance avoided 80 per cent of these births, we are saving $80,000 a day."

Commissioner James M. Cleary argued that such a program would subsidize the "crimes of adultery, fornication and prostitution."

Unwed mothers or married women with or without children are eligible to receive contraceptives. Single women without children are not.

Coming Year May Alter Shape, Power of Organized Labor, Real Testing Time

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP)—New stresses and strains fashioned from a fitful 1962 will tug and tear at the inner workings of organized labor in the year ahead.

Big labor plunged past several historic turning points this year, setting an uncertain course into an uncertain future.

If 1962 was a year of crossroads, then 1963 promises to be a year of challenge—a time of testing that may alter the shape and power of organized labor.

Turning Point No. 1: Decision to embark on a sophisticated, scientific campaign to woo and win white collar workers, a long-term drive that will either give new vitality and strength to labor or mark the decline of trade unionism as a broadly based power bloc.

Turning Point No. 2: Decision to force the federal government to investigate the turbulent maritime labor field, a calculated risk pitting the hope of democratic unionism against the possibility of restrictive legislation.

RISKING RUPTURE

Turning Point No. 3: Decision to censure Canada's second largest union, the United Carpenters Brotherhood, for violating Canadian Labor Congress policies, thus risking a rupture in relations between the business unionism of craft brotherhoods and social unionism of the more modern industrial unions.

Turning Point No. 4: Decision to break away from the National Productivity Council, a tactical move on the political front aimed at dramatizing the faltering liaison between labor, management, and government on the social and economic challenges of the automation era.

These were crossroads in the path of labor in 1962. They set the movement that claims to represent more than 1,423,000 workers, a family grouping of one-quarter of Canada's people, on to a road of new obstacles.

Labor's strength, as measured by its total membership, is ebbing, threatening to result in the union movement becoming the voice of the blue collar production worker at a time when white collar workers are increasing swiftly.

MEMBERSHIP DECLINE

In 1961, for the first time in 12 years, total trade union membership in Canada declined although the labor force increased. The peak was reached in 1959 and 1960 when membership totalled 1,459,000. In 1962, it dropped to 1,447,000.

In the last five years union membership as a proportion of the non-farm work force has declined, plunging from 33 per cent in 1958 to 30 per cent in 1962, a proportional drop matched by a reduction of 96,000 in absolute membership in the last three years.

The power struggle in the American labor movement, pitting AFL-CIO Vice - President Walter Reuther of the auto workers against AFL-CIO President George Meany, will have its repercussions in Canada. They may be muted, since the merger of industrial and craft unionism has taken grip here in a firm, tangible way, while in the U.S. the bonds have been loose and uneasy.

INTERNAL FEUDS

Relations across the border within international labor are facing new strains, partly reflected in the Reuther-Meany conflict but evident also in the harsh words hurled by labor leaders at one another in the glare of the federal inquiry into Great Lakes labor strife.

Suspension of the 63,000-member Carpenters' Brotherhood by the CLC may be imminent, since it has defied the Congress in organizing Newfoundland loggers and refusing to pay per capita dues since last March.

Mr. Justice T. G. Norris will report soon on his investigation of shipping disruptions on the Great Lakes. His inquiry, really a searching probe of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada, has been a spectacle of labor leader denouncing labor leader, a no-holds-barred combat that has tarnished labor's public image.

And the outcome? There may be new curbs for all labor.

GIRD FOR CAMPAIGN

On the political front, labor is girding itself for a new election, filling the war chest for a determined assault, through the New Democratic Party, on the seat of federal power: Parliament.

The minority government of Prime Minister Diefenbaker has offered a national economic development board, in answer to labor's plea for a socio-economic advisory council. Until the legislative details are known labor is holding back public criticism, yet keeping up the pressure for high-level machinery for labor - management - government co-operation and consultation.

On the wage front, trade unions can be expected to put new fire into demands for more pay, shorter work weeks and greater fringe benefits. The emphasis is expected to be on job security in new contracts, with demands geared to meeting automation's erosion of job opportunities and the continuing high level of unemployment.

DECLINE CONTINUES — Union membership in Canada declined for the second straight year in 1962, dropping to 1,423,000. Graph shows trend in union strength since 1952. Peak was in 1959-60, when membership totalled 1,459,000. (CP Newsmap)

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

From time to time complaints regarding referees of minor hockey have reached this desk, the greater majority coming from parents of the puck-chasing muppets.

Some of the gripes emanate from the youngsters themselves, who do doubt disagree with official decisions—and make no bones about it.

I am not saying the referees in minor hockey are letter-perfect. They, like the rest of us, are human, too, and prone to make mistakes.

They, like the youngsters, perhaps have something to learn hockey-wise, but, I believe all of them are out there trying to do the best they can.

Organization of minor sports is no sinecure, take it from any level you wish. This applies particularly to hockey, where, as is the case in this city, nearly 12500 youngsters come under the aegis of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association.

It must be remembered that these men, the coaches, the managers, the referees, are doing a job that is purely voluntary. They are not selected because time and cut is a certain field. They are men, who like the boys, like hockey and want to see the youngsters enjoy their rightful sports heritage.

One of the annual bugaboos of organization of minor sport, particularly baseball, softball and hockey is the scarcity of officials. As was mentioned, those who do come out and make it a point to spend weeknights and Saturdays trying to help the youngsters are volunteers. They get nothing for their effort except some pride of achievement when they note advancement in the efforts of their young proteges.

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association recognizes this fact and is anxious to remedy any shortcomings, both in officials and players.

The men who sit in the seats of the mighty at the head of the OMHA executive have years of experience behind them. They have whom they believe are the best men to look after their interests in all parts of the province.

They, like their representatives, are anxious to see that the game is played right—and the men who look after the work of officials, coaches and managers, get assistance.

They realize that officials, particularly referees, contribute much to the success of teams, leagues and associations, and with this in mind they are anxious to improve not only hockey but the men who are in charge.

With this in mind and as part of their annual program OMHA representatives hold annual Referee and Rules Forums in various parts of the province. One has already been held in this city—and was a complete success.

Another forum has been arranged for the district. OMHA executive member Jim Kinkley of Napanee, advises that it will be held in the Community Centre in Picton on Saturday, December 8th, starting at two p.m.

All referees, coaches, managers and players in this area are invited to attend and take part in the informative discussion of the playing rules of hockey. Parents who can make the trip are well advised to attend.

The chief aim is to improve the calibre of refereeing and thereby make hockey an even better game with fewer injuries and brawls which do not belong in this great sport.

THE OMHA will provide all materials for the forum as well as a topflight instructor who will lead the discussion. Last year 12 similar forums were held throughout Ontario with over 600 interested participants.

Additional facts may be secured from Jim Kinkley, Box 1022, Napanee, or call 354-3597. Jim will be delighted to help.

Boston, Wings Make Deal

Pronovost for Kennedy

BOSTON (AP) — Boston Bruins acquired forward Forbes Kennedy from Detroit Monday and sent defenceman Pat Stapleton and forward Wayne Connelly to a farm team to make room for two young players.

Boston gave Detroit left-winger Andre Pronovost in exchange for the 27-year-old Kennedy, who has been playing for the Red Wings' Edmonton farm team in the Western Hockey League.

Connelly and Stapleton were sent to Kingston of the Eastern Professional Hockey League, making room for rookie centre Bob Leiter and defenceman Eddie Westfall, who came up from Kingston.

Leiter, only 21, played with Boston in its two weekend games, scoring once against Toronto Saturday night. Westfall, 22, who joined the team Monday, was with the Bruins last season.

Lean Towards Criticism ★★★★★

Sports Editors Vary On Halter Call

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Reaction of Canadian Sports writers to football Commissioner Sydney Halter's serialized version of the Grey Cup spectacle was varied but undeniably weighted toward criticism.

Sports Editor Hal Walker, of the Toronto Telegram notes that "Halter was accused by one writer (during the telecast) of scuttling and selling out the national (football) final to an American television network at the expense of Canadian fans and $26,000."

Walker comments that this is "sheer nonsense" because, he says, an American Broadcasting Company crew spent Friday evening studying clips of the Winnipeg-Hamilton semifinal to show in the event that the Grey Cup contest couldn't be shown.

He says Halter was thrust into an "unenviable" spot and "even now, with some of the heat off, I'm glad it wasn't me who had to make the decisions."

Other comments:

Tom McMillan, Regina Leader-Post: The decision to play the remaining minutes . . . Sunday was the one the commissioner could make. . . . It was a pity the show hadn't been called at half-time, but fairly obvious the fog would get worse.

'VICTIMS OF HOAX'

Jack Matheson, Winnipeg Tribune: They (the fans) were the victims, and there were 32,855 of them, of the greatest hoax in Grey Cup history. . . . The commissioner pushed Canada's biggest sports spectacle into the middle of the table, gambled and lost.

Red Fisher, Montreal Star: Halter had every reason to allow the game to start . . . hindsight dictates that no effort should have been made to resume play after half-time.

Steward Little, Moose Jaw Times-Herald: Decisions by G. Sydney Halter . . . were probably the most difficult he has ever had to make and we have no quarrel with them. . . .

Jack Park, London Free Press: We will never understand the thinking of officials behind the decisions made . . . we feel they should have been courageous enough to postpone the game. . . .

Jack Dulmage, Windsor Star: If Halter made a mistake . . . it was that he permitted circumstances of the decisions rather than dictating to the circumstances. He put himself in the position of the weather raiser than the weather forecasts.

Jack Kofman, Ottawa Citizen: Halter is not to be blamed for starting the game. But he should have called it at half-time and ordered the second half played the day if the fog had lifted.

Bill Westwick, Ottawa Journal: You couldn't fault Halter for starting the football game on Saturday and it was sheer second-guessing to try and hang the horns on him for this.

Bombers Get Reception

WINNIPEG (CP)—Winnipeg's Blue Bombers took their bows Monday night to the noisy acclaim of 5,000 cheering fans.

The occasion was the Bombers' return from Toronto where they came from defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats in the Grey Cup football classic and this year turned into a two-act weekend feature.

Although the Bombers have won the Grey Cup four times against Hamilton in the last five years, welcome by more than 2,000 fans seemed the most vociferous and spontaneous yet.

The Canadian chartered plane landed at the RCAF station here and was greeted by wives and families with bouquets of Mrs. Clare Rauhus, who earlier in the day presented her Blue Bomber husband, Norm, with a baby boy.

Lieutenant - Governor Errick F. Willis, welcoming home "the best football team in Canada," said one of the players told him, "We want to play for money. We now play for Bud Grant."

At each mention of the coach's name the crowd burst into yells.

TRIAL ADJOURNED

NEW YORK (AP)—The trial of Jacob L. (Jack) Molinas, charged with bribing college basketball players, was adjourned Monday because of the illness of Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Sarafita. No date was set for continuing the five-week-old trial.

Four of Top Ten

Dogs Lead Senior Race

GALT (CP)—Windsor Bulldogs's marksmen have assumed command of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A hockey individual scoring race.

The league-leading Bulldogs own four of the top 10 scorers including defending champion Irwin Gross and right wing partner Bobby Brown who are waging a two-man battle for the lead. Gross maintained his edge with a 3-point week and has 33 points, including a league leading 24 assists.

Brown made the biggest gain vaulting from third to second place past Kitchener-Waterloo Tiger right winger Lou Angotti, on the strength of a 12-point pickup. Brown has 31 points, 16 of them goals, to stand second in the sniping department behind Angotti with 17.

Angotti, in third place, is nine points back of Gross while George Ustalo and George Aitken of Chatham Maroons are tied for fourth place with 22 points each.

Tommy Walker, third member of Bulldogs' powerful Gross-Brown-Walker trio, is sixth with 21 points while Chatham's Ted Power and Woodstock Athletic rookie Carl Hymers share seventh with 20 points.

Sarnia Rams' Al Bennett also maintained his lead among the regular goaltenders with a 2.81 average in 16 starts. He also leads in shutouts with three and is the only goalie with an average of less than three goals per game.

While other department leaders remained the same, there is a new leader in penalty minutes. Sarnia's Ray Moffitt supplanted the old bad man, Galt's Alex Keeling. Moffitt has served 90 minutes, more than teammate Ray Morton and seven more than Keeling.

Wharram Top Marksman

Mikita Leads NHL Points Race

Constable Int. Loop Top Hurler

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Constable of Toronto Maple Leafs, a left-hander who was out of baseball for three years because of a nervous breakdown, was officially confirmed today as the International League's leading pitcher for 1962.

The 29 - year - old southpaw topped the triple A league's pitchers in earned run average, 2.56, and winning percentage, .800. He won 16 games and lost four; for the second-place Leafs and finished season with Milwaukee Braves of the National League.

Ron Taylor of Leaside, a suburb of Toronto, pitching with the pennant - winning Jacksonville Suns, finished with a 12-4 record and was second in the E.R.A. department with a 2.87 mark.

MONTREAL (CP) — A good little hockey player may not be any better than a good big hockey player. It just looks that way, at this point in the current national hockey league season.

Stan Mikita, diminutive sparkplug of the Chicago Black Hawks, leads the individual scoring race with 24 points on eight goals and 16 assists.

But he's not the league's best marksman. That honor belongs to another Chicago player—an even smaller one named Ken Wharram.

Official NHL statistics released today show the 155-pound right winger, far down the scoring list in a four-way tie for 30th place, needed only 15 shots on goal to score six times. That makes him the best shot among the NHL's top point - getters, scoring on 40 per cent of his attempts.

Mikita, by contrast, needed 42 shots for his first six goals. He was successful on only 13 per cent of his tries.

HENRY FOLLOWS

Second to Wharram as a sharpshooter is New York's Camille Henry, who has ranged between 138 and 151 pounds as the NHL's smallest player since he made the big league in 1953. Henry scored on 39 per cent of his attempts, six goals in 20 shots.

How are the bigger boys doing?

Bobby Hull of Chicago, last season's leading goal scorer with 50—scored 29 shots on goal to score his first six this season—a percentage of only 6.3.

Montreal's Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion scored six in 52 tries for 11.5 per cent and Detroit's Norm Ullman netted six of 60 shots for an even 10 per cent.

Mikita's capture of the scoring leadership is the more remarkable since he scored his 24 points in 19 games.

New York's Andy Bathgate, in second place with 23, averaged one point a game this season.

THREE TIED FOR THIRD

Tied for third with 22 are three players — Geoffrion, Ab McDonald of Chicago and Alex Delvecchio of Detroit.

Toronto's Big M, Frank Mahovlich, is all alone in sixth spot with 20. He also leads in goals scored with 13.

The Hawks have taken over first place in the standings with 28 points.

Detroit, Montreal and Toronto all have 26, but are ranked in that order since Montreal has played one more game than Detroit and Toronto two more.

New York is fifth with 18 and Boston last with 10.

Terry Sawchuk, Detroit's 41-lb. veiled netminder, still ranks as the best in the league—although Chicago's Glenn Hall has tied him for most shutouts with three.

Sawchuk has allowed 44 goals in 21 games for a 2.10 goals-against average.

The Hawks are the most penalized team withs total of 344 minutes and Detroit defenceman Howie Young the most penalized player with 73 minutes.

Schmidt Wins Welter Crown

MONTREAL (CP) — "Your daddy hits awfully hard."

Through bruised lips, Joey Durelle uttered those words to little Susan Schmidt at midring Monday night.

The tot was hoisted up after her dad, Peter Schmidt, won the vacant Canadian welterweight boxing title with a split decision over Durelle in 12 lively rounds.

There were no knockdowns and neither fighter was hurt until the final round when Durelle was shaken up by a two-handed flurry and was left reeling at the bell. Schmidt weighed 147, a pound more than Durelle.

Schmidt, 29, a Romanian immigrant living in Toronto, drew the votes of two of the three judges with sharper punching and a strong left hand. The third voted for Durelle, 24, a native of Baie St. Anne, N.B., who now lives in Trois-Rivieres, Que.

Ottawa's Gale Kerwin vacated the title last spring to go into retirement. The same two boxers battled to a 12 round draw last July in Trois-Rivieres.

Schmidt and his manager, George Sheppard, said they are prepared to meet any challenger designated by the Canadian Professional Boxing Federation. The federation's titular commissioner, Gene Lemoignan of Quebec City, mentioned two possibilities, Don Ross of Toronto and Leonle Sparks of Halifax.

Before the fight, Durelle talked about quitting the ring if he lost. But he quickly banished any suggestion that he would afterwards.

"I'll just have to punch a little more," he said.

Jerome Sprint Future In Balance

Must Wait Six Months

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sun says Harry Jerome must wait six months or more before he'll know if he'll ever be able to sprint again.

Jerome, co - holder of two world sprint records, is reported progressing favorably in hospital from surgery that patched up a muscle torn loose in the final of the 100-yard dash at the British Empire Games in Perth.

Sun Sports Editor Bruce Larsen says Jerome was told before he consented to the operation that without surgery the muscle tear would stop him from all future track competition.

"The two specialist-surgeons who did the patching told him his only chance for further competition was through the operation," Larsen's story says. "They didn't give him odds on success."

The actual injury was a complete severance of one of the four main muscles down the front of his left thigh.

The newspaper says the surgeons decided to operate immediately after finding the muscle had begun to atrophy (shrivel) last Thursday.

After surgery, Jerome's left leg was placed in a case from ankle to hip. Elaborate traction holds the leg immobile. In 30 days, the surgeons will check to see if the sutures have held. The cast will stay on for another month.

Fight In Los Vegas Saturday

Griffith Is Favored Over Fernandez

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—World welterweight champion Emile Griffith of New York, who won, lost and regained the throne of the 147 - pounders, makes the second defence of his second go round as the title-holder Saturday.

The opponent for the 23-year-old native of the Virginian Islands is Jorge Fernandes of Argentina, a veteran of 27 years and more than twice as many fights as Griffith.

Griffith will be the favorite when they step into the ring for the scheduled 15-rounder.

Last July Griffith successfully defended his title here with a 15-round decision over Ralph Dupas of New Orleans. It was Griffith's first fight after his knockout of Benny (Kid) Paret that regained the title for Griffith and led to the death of the Cuban Kid.

Since the Dupas bout, Griffith won in 10 rounds over Danny Moyer in Tacoma, Wash., and Don Fullmer in New York in non-title engagements.

Fernandez waged his last bat-tle here in Winnipeg a 10-round decision over Charley Scott of Philadelphia. It earned Fernandez another shot at Griffith and a chance to avenge two decisions he dropped to Emile in 1960 in New York.

Griffith first won the title with a 13-round knockout over Paret April 1, 1961, in Miami Beach, Fla. Paret took the title back by a decision in 15 rounds in New York Sept. 30, 1961.

HOME VICTORIOUS — Bruce Kidd of Toronto, left, and Harold Mann of Prince George, B.C., made triumphal return to Canada with Canada's British Empire Games team Sunday night. They displayed Australian koala bear and Mann's gold medal in lightweight boxing at Vancouver International Airport. Kidd, who won three-mile track event, got another of Canada's four gold medals. Metals Whip Lightfoots

Led by the one-two scoring punch of Teddy Batchelor and Bert Faulkner, Crawford Metals whipped Belleville Lightfoots 97-64 in a Bay of Quinte Basketball League tilt at Moira Secondary School last night.

Crawfords were never threatened last night as they opened up a 49-26 lead at the game's half-way mark.

Faulkner and Batchelor combined to score as many points as the entire Lightfoot club, each hooping 32 points. Larry "Soup" Campbell also starred for the winners with 18.

Don Smith paced the construction crew with 23 points, followed by Gary Duggan with 15 and Don Skinner with 11. Lightfoots had 12 men dressed compared to the winners' half dozen.

Lightfoots picked up 8-for-26 from the foul line while Crawfords made good on 11-for-21.

Belleville Lightfoots (64): G. Duggan 15, T. Ewing, B. Marner, D. Skinner 11, M. Carwell 6, G. Reynolds, G. Mutter 7, D. Bell H. Pasternak 1, G. Plummer, D. Morden 1, D. Smith 23.

Leo Labelle Bowls On TV

Leo LaBelle one of the city's top bowlers is doing right well for himself and his city.

Mr. LaBelle who currently is carrying an average of 247 and 251 in the Major "A" and Quinte Classic Leagues will be seen in action on television next Saturday afternoon.

He meets Jackie Wilson of London, Ontario in a match on Channel 11, Kingston.

TIES CANADA

MANILA (AP)—The United States defeated Puerto Rico 79-60 Monday night and tied Canada for first place in team standings in the invitational international basketball tournament here. The Americans and the Canadians, who did not play Sunday, each have two victories and no losses.

Departmental Hockey

Public Utilities defeated the Fire Department 6-2 while the Ontario Intelligencer downed Public Works 7-3 in a pair of Interdepartmental Hockey League games last night.

Don Wood, Bill Bourette and Rick Hay scored two goals each while Ralph Harris bagged the other for the Intelligencer. Scoring for the Public Works were Rushlow, Davis and Lonsey.

WORSLEY IN HOSPITAL

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Rangers of the National Hockey League have lost goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley indefinitely. He was admitted to St. Clare's Hospital Monday to have his injured left shoulder set in traction.

Worsley was injured Sunday night in Chicago against the Black Hawks in a collision in front of the Rangers' nets. His replacement has not been announced. When he left the game Sunday, Marcel Pelletier replaced him for the third period.

Napanee Nips Picton

PICTON (Special) — Napanee Red Wings took a 6-4 victory over the Picton Merchants in an OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League game played at Napanee last night.

Napanee took a 1-0 lead in the first period and moved into a 5-3 lead at the end of the second before the clubs split a pair in the final twenty minutes.

The Merchants were outshot 47-39 but great play by goalie Don Branscombe kept it close most of the way. The Red Wings outshot the losers 20-13 in the first period but the only goal was a low sizzler off the stick of ex-Picton player, Doug Dafoe, at 17.50.

Haddock tied it for Picton early in the second but Cruil, Galt and Smart shoved Napanee ahead 4-1. Haddock and Pero made it close again but Buck's blueline shot in the dying seconds of the period made it 5-3.

Picton again closed the gap to one goal when Haddock scored at 12.15 of the third. Galt wrapped it up for Napanee at 14.22.

The game was a rough one with 11 of the total 23 penalties coming in the third beat. Napanee had 11 minor penalties in all while Picton drew ten minors plus misconducts, in the third, to Bob Brown and Gord Dewan.

Picton's Harold Haddock led all scorers with three goals. Larry "Pocket" Pero had a goal and assist while Carl Stacey and George Sainsbury had two assists apiece.

Dwight Galt was a two-goal man for Napanee with Mike Cruil claiming one goal and two assists and Ed Buck one of each. Doug Dafoe and Ted Smart also scored, Smith and Richardson getting assists.

Picton's next game will be at home against Cobourg on Thursday night at 8.30.

King of the Hill

Challenger this week for the crown was Jim Begley, with 1140 for his five games. Once again Cec Harckwick came through to retain his title.

MURDERERS SPARED

OTTAWA (CP)—The cabinet commuted 20 death sentences for murder in the three-year period 1959-61, the government reported Monday in a reply tabled in the Commons for John R. Matheson (L—Leeds). During the period there also were 351 unconditional releases from prison and 44 remissions of sentence.

Why don't the wheels spin?

The Volkswagen engine is in the rear with its weight directly above the drive wheels.

That's why the Volkswagen keeps moving on any surface. Snow. Ice. Mud. Sand.

The underside of the VW is completely flat. Like a toboggan. Nothing hangs down to hold you back in deep snow. (You can come to a drift without coming to a stop.)

The wires and rods, that are usually exposed, are inside where salt and water can't get at them. (The only thing you'll find under a Volkswagen is paint. Four coats of it.)

The cooling system can't freeze.

Ever.

There is no water in the VW because the engine is cooled with air. That means no radiator. No hoses. No water pump. No anti-freeze. No change-over with every new season. (If you feel left out of things you can change the oil. But that's all.)

Want to make winter driving easier? See your Volkswagen dealer. He's got the car that made spinning wheels old fashioned.

Irene MacDonald Possibly Best Diver in Her Field, Now Excellent Teacher in B. C.

By DENNIS ORCHARD

VANCOUVER (CP) — The time was the summer of 1960, the place was Rome, the event was women's diving.

The diver was Irene MacDonald, possibly the best in the field, but not at all likely to prove it.

"I was in my best shape ever," Miss MacDonald recalled the other day. "I was convinced I was going to win.

"But I'm a worrier and the strain was tying me up inside. I was just blue."

So, the tall woman diver ever produced in Canada finished sixth at the Olympics. That's creditable by normal standards, not by hers.

"But it wouldn't be any better the next time. I couldn't go through it again."

She came back from Rome and quit. At 28 she is officially retired from competitive diving, although she still has all it takes for the sport, including the figure.

NOW A TEACHER

Now she teaches, and she's a corker of a teacher, and she fully intends to send a diver to the 1964 Olympics in Tokyo. If necessary, she will terrorize bosses of the Canadian Amateur Swimming Association—if she hasn't already.

Back of her instruction is the experience in Rome and the desire to save her students from the same thing.

"That's why it's important to have divers believe in you. You have to have someone standing there beside the pool because this is an individual sport—parallelled perhaps only by gymnastics.

"There are several different ways to do every dive, depending on the child. Some ways may not be mechanically perfect, but they're right for that girl."

"It's this kind of individual attention and reassurance Miss MacDonald attempts to give 15 hours a week to no more than seven students at a time.

TAKES ONLY BEST

It takes almost all her spare hours after a full day as head teller at a downtown Vancouver bank. And it takes almost all the spare time of her top students, who averages 10 hours a week cutting into a pool.

Parents who send bow-legged, flat-footed, fat daughters to her are in for disappointment.

"I'm particular who I take; about size, shape and temperament. Otherwise it's a waste of my time and theirs. I'm trying to produce good divers, not mediocre ones."

And this Hamilton-bred girl—who was Canadian champion for 12 years, who went twice each to Olympic, Empire and Pan-American games, and who won the U.S. National diving title six times—has her own ideas about making good divers.

They can range in height, but they need agility. They can bring along a measure of fear, but they will have to overcome it.

Miss MacDonald admits she spent eight years in the sport before she dared try diving from towers.

KIDS MUST BELIEVE

"I was chicken when I first started. I had a lot of battles. But you get to the point where either you're going to do it or nuts to it all."

When she got to that point, she learned lower diving in a month, setting a rigid schedule for the start of practice on each new dive.

But that transition should be the job of a diving coach, says the vibrant blonde. And the job has two sides — psychological and technical.

The first means simply "that the kids believe every word you say." The second de-emphasizes fear and the requirement of diving skills.

Thus, when her students are ready to graduate from the one-metre to the three-metre board, she makes them approach the new techniques from the lower board. It involves "going in" the wrong way, with painful results, but it prepares them for whacks they will suffer later.

"When you start learning higher dives you start getting basic—a bloody nose maybe, or you land flat—and that really separates them."

They will have to be well separated for the road ahead. Big-league competition requires an age-group system with long hours for beginners' classes. It also presents a long list of dives to be mastered. The full list normally takes three years to learn.

Miss MacDonald has a select group of exciting prospects—

chief among them tall Carol Ann Morrow, 15, and pellite Jane Ellison, 12—whom she wants to see get a crack at Canada's 1964 Olympic swim team.

Miss MacDonald expects another fight over selections with the CASA and disappointments for her students.

Nobody is kidding her, a realist from away back whose work may not show for years.

"Diving is going to soar in Canada," is her mixed metaphor. "But it's going to be a long haul."

TO RESTORE SHIP

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — The Bear, an 89 - year - old wooden auxiliary sailing ship that took Admiral Richard Byrd to the Antarctic in 1933 and 1939, is to be restored and towed to Philadelphia for conversion to a combination restaurant and maritime museum. The 98-foot ship, owned by Shaw Steamship Company of Halifax, has been bought by Alfred M. Johnston of Philadelphia.

Over Pension Plan

Old Stars Sue Present Crop

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of baseball's former stars have sued the present crop over baseball's prosperous pension plan.

The suit was filed in federal court Monday. It asks the court to wipe out a new pension scheme that gives increased benefits to current players but leaves out the old-timers. The increases went into effect this year.

The suit was filed in the names of Frank Crosetti, former New York Yankee shortstop and now a coach, and John C. Schulte, former journeyman catcher.

FILED ON PRINCIPLE

"Very few of these men need the money, of course," said lawyer J. Norman Lewis, who filed the suit. "But it is the principle of the thing."

The Baseball Players' Pension Committee has two days to answer the suit. It will probably be in court, perhaps by next June.

"We didn' want to go to court in the first place, but the pension committee refused to change its mind," said Lewis. "The active players don't want to cut the old-timers in.

"I feel they have shown a selfish disregard for the men who fought for the pension in the first place and helped produce it."

Lewis, former counsel for the players' association, was one of the architects of the original baseball pension plan.

Sports Snapshots

By MARVEN MOSS

MONTREAL (CP) — A Montreal potato chip salesman is organizing an international basketball Jamboree here for 1964.

He is Marcel Racine, founder of a fledgling Canadian affiliate of the International Federation of Amateur Baseball.

In an interview Racine said the tournament will feature teams from the federation's 12 member nations, grouping ball-players 19 and under.

Portugal, Ecuador, Venezuela, Cuba, Mexico, Costa Rica and Nicaragua are among the countries as well as Canada and the United States.

Montreal was designated as the site for the three-week August affair by Carlos M. Zecca of San Jose, Costa Rica, the federation's president.

Racine also said Zecca has promised support for a suggestion that the tournament be held every four years as part of the World's Fair hullabaloo.

He estimates cost for the 1964 event at $55,000 to $60,000. But he doesn't anticipate trouble raising it.

MAJOR LEAGUE SCOUT

Aside from grants from the city of Montreal and the provincial government, he is counting on "a couple of wealthy guys to kick in."

His plans also call for a Canadian all-star team to take part in the 1963 tournament in Mexico.

"Everyone moans that baseball is dying," he said. "No one tries to improve it. But it can be a great spectator sport with exciting competitions. As it stands now in Canada, it's the only amateur sport where there is no competition outside of the respective leagues."

Racine is an animated little guy of 32 with a consuming passion for baseball, a game he never played as a kid in Montreal's teeming east-end where hockey is the vogue.

But he developed an interest in baseball's strategic aspects and went into coaching and managing. Now along with his sales work he doubles as a scout for Los Angeles Angels of the American League.

Racine's National Federation of Amateur Baseball was launched last spring with Marcel as president. The age limit for players is 21.

SEVEN OUT FEELERS

As affiliates there were six leagues in Quebec province entering seven teams—a seven-team league in Montreal, a five-team Eastern Townships circuit and four-team leagues in Quebec City, Granby, Sorel and Drummondville.

All told there were 416 players with another 1,820 younger boys playing with farm clubs. Racine said he is hoping to extend the organization nation ally in the next few seasons. He sent out feelers to officials in the major centres of the nine other provinces and received replies from five.

Spokesmen in Vancouver, Edmonton and Regina said it seemed attractive. But their baseball programs were not strong now at the junior age level. Ottawa was out and from Toronto came word that junior prospects there for the forthcoming season are "shaky."

"I didn't expect everyone to jump aboard immediately," said Racine. "But it will come in time."

FANS INJURED

LA REOLE, France (Reuters) Twenty-six rugby fans were injured Sunday, nine of them seriously, when a bus taking them to a game in Bordeaux plunged 50 feet down a ravine near here.

Hitting Camera Of Reporter To Bring Charge

KINGSTON (CP)—Crown attorney John D. Simpson said Monday he has issued instructions for a charge of common assault to be laid in the smashing of a newspaper photographer's camera.

Fred Ross, 25, of the Kingston Whig - Standard, reported his camera was smashed Saturday night as he attempted to take a picture of a provincial police officer and a captured escaper from Collins Bay Penitentiary.

The incident took place in front of a house where Kingston Penitentiary guards were attending a party.

The Crown attorney declined to identify the person who would be charged, but said it is likely other charges will also be laid.

Astrological Forecast

For December 5

By SYDNEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Think twice about long journey. Cycle moving to point where "breaks" are on your side. May not be necessary to spend time, energy, going away. Take time to analyze, perceive.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Take initiative. Make some of your dreams become realities. Let Taurus determination shine through. Show those in authority you have friends, knowledge, background. Be sure, confident.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): You are able to see "cards" held by opposition. Your perception is accurate. Make use of vital information. Don't tip your hand. Be cautious. Don't let anyone take advantage of you.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21): Good lunar aspect; today points up idealism, inner urge toward greater knowledge. Means you can advance, but avoid so-called "crazy" ways. Remember that you receive nothing for nothing.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21): Tendency to follow crowd should be overcome. Weak position would be to seek harmony at any cost. Do what you know is right, despite obstacles your course appears to create. Be true to yourself!

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22): Avoid needless worrying. Step building up straw men. Actual facts are that there is minor delay. This is no reason for panic. Dispute with family member soon settled if you maintain sense of humor.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Very important that you are considerate of feelings of those working for or with you. You are judged by your actions, not by what you say you would like to do. Others may be critical.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Excellent evening for attending theatre, being with exciting friends. Be gracious. Stake your claim on happiness. Break out of rut. Refuse to be buried with details!

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Some responsibilities no longer can be "put off." Face facts. Get job accomplished. Trust your intuitive intellect. Accept help offered by Capricorn individual. Look to future security.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Speak, write, communicate. Good for dealing with children in realm of teaching. You are able to put across valuable points. Don't waste day in emotional shell. Get out and around.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Cooking, social contacts, budget, various areas affecting finances all are spotlighted. Be ready, willing to meet new people. Do more listening than talking. Invite friends for "pot luck."

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Gossip at place of work or in connection with neighbors proves distressing. Ignore it! Your own judgment proves accurate. Cycle continues high. Refuse to be "bullied." Rely on own principles.

If today is your birthday ... you are filled with intellectual curiosity. You want to learn and to impart knowledge. Indications show you are quite attractive to members of opposite sex.

• • •

General Tendencies: Secrets become known. Much is made of fact that prominent persons were premature in actions.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

(Advertisement)

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make this astounding statement as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret if a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific foundation. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

He came closest to public attention as standby goaltender with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League in the 1920s but never saw league action.

He whiled away time at headquarters Monday night by demonstrating for amusement his style of Chicago Black Hawks goalie Glenn Hall — "the only fellow I know who has strange mannerisms than me."

Even after his election was conceded, Mr. Summerville went unrecognized by a policeman on duty at the door, who stopped him as he tried to slip in by a side entrance.

GETS IMPRESSIVE VOTE

Nevertheless, the controller—backed by Toronto's three daily newspapers in his first bid for the mayoralty—piled up more votes than the 1960 combined total of Mayor Phillip (63,222) and his main opponent, former mayor Allan Lamport (46,384).

Mr. Lamport, a tobacco figure in municipal politics for years until his 1960 eclipse, came back part of the way by winning one of the four controllers' seats in a nine-way fight.

Phillip Givens headed the controller poll, nosing out Mr. Lamport for the top spot, which carries the prerogatives of president of city council, budget director and member of the metropolitan Toronto council.

Elections in the dozen metro suburbs saw two cliff-hangers. Incumbent Mayor Lloyd Dickinson edged Mrs. Elizabeth Nealson by 13 votes in Leaside and Councillor Jack Mould beat Christopher Tonks by 89 for the township of York two-man race. It was Mr. Tonks' second defeat since his previous reversal by acclamation to a judicial inquiry in 1960.

East York's first woman reeve, True Davidson, had an easy win and North York Township re-elected Reeve Norman Goodhead by about 9,000 votes.

make our constructive contribution to strengthening the United Nations."

TWO STEPS INVOLVED

Two fine-sing steps were involved in the resolutions presented by price.

The first step would have the assembly endorse the World Court 9-to-5 opinion that the expenses of the Middle East and Congo peace - guarding operations are legitimate expenses of the UN since they were ordered, and their costs assessed, by the General Assembly.

With the endorsement a fact, the sponsors of the resolutions in hem would ask the assembly to put a 18-nation committee to work to draft a formula for financing future peace - keeping costs.

Canada has been deeply involved for several years in efforts to find a solution of the peace - keeping financial problem and was instrumental in setting up the 15-nation committee in 1960.

Canada and other co-sponsoring countries urged support of the world court's position.

Although rumors of recounts were heard in the city hall council chambers it is doubtful there will be any change in the figures released last night by election officials.

The returns were checked and re-checked because of the closeness of the race and at one time several substantial changes were made.

MAYORALTY FIGHT

Mayor Haig took a slim five-vote lead in the advance poll and never looked backward.

But from this point until several polls were returned the issue appeared to be in doubt. Haig led 358-325 with five polls in and 601-505 after ten polls were tabulated.

From here in he gradually pulled away and led 851-704 at the 15-poll mark. With 22 in he had a 203 lead and with 30 in he had increased the lead to 301. He slowly upped his majority from here to the finish.

Alderman Jarvah led the voter in sickness of the 87 polling subdivisions.

The question of fluoridation was not a controversial issue from the start. The "Nays" ran up a substantial majority early in the voting and the issue, to observers, never seemed to be in doubt. The "Yeas" narrowed the gap in the last nine or ten polls but it was not enough and the affirmatives went down to defeat.

Consensus of some at the city hall council chambers was that advance polling would had some effect on the voting. Others claimed that a number of people found their names missing on voters' lists.

LITTLE INTEREST

If the council chambers can be judged a criterion public interest in the election was low. Only 13 people by actual count, outside of city hall staff and radio and newsmen were present at close.

There were few nores at any time until the word had got around of the closeness of the aldermanic race and by the time the final tabulation was the mayoralty—piled up more votes than the 1960 combined total of Mayor Phillip (63,222) and his main opponent, former mayor Allan Lamport (46,384).

Future Status of Kashmir To Be Discussed in Talks

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Optimism over a possible settlement of the long-standing Kashmir issue has been generated in the western camp by the agreement of India and Pakistan to reopen negotiations on the future status of the disputed state.

But observers who have watched the Kashmir issue closely suggested the optimism may be premature.

Both Duncan Sandys, Britain's Commonwealth relations secretary, and W. Averell Harriman, assistant U.S. state secretary for the Far East, have raised hopes of a settlement after talks with India's Prime Minister Nehru and Pakistan's President Ayub Khan. Sandys says the prospects of settlement are greater than they have ever been.

But it is obvious that Nehru agreed to reopen the Kashmir talks only after facing the point of a gun-and that China gun.

CHINA MAIN FOE

Both Britain and the U.S. made clear that Commonwealth countries there would be no great flow of military aid to India if it went to war with Pakistan continued to deploy that aid along their mutual border. The common enemy, in the Anglo-American view, is Red China. That's where the guns should be pointed.

Nehru anticipates his fight with the Chinese will be long and costly. He needs assistance said. Britain and the U.S. have indicated aid will be slow in coming if India and Pakistan don't end their costly Kashmir quarrel.

Nehru is in no position to bargain. So, with evident reluctance, he has agreed to reopen talks on Kashmir, at the same time making clear he wouldn't like to see the present Kashmir situation disturbed.

The deeply - religious Moslems, closely aligned to Pakistan, are in the majority in Kashmir but they are a minority in Hindu India. Hindus and Moslems are reported getting ready fairly well in India. But if the Hindus suddenly get the idea Moslems are grabbing all of Kashmir, they may react with violence. Some form of civil war might be the result in India.

RICH VALLEY PRIZE

At present Pakistan controls about one-third of the disputed state while India holds the other two-thirds. The prize in Kashmir is a rich, fertile valley of about 3,000 or 4,000 square miles. Pakistan, it is believed, would be satisfied if it could get its hands on this area. This would mean moving the India-Pakistan control line, a change which Nehru says would cause great suffering.

A suggestion frequently heard in Washington is that both sides might agree to allow Kashmir to become some form of independent state or a trusteeship under the United Nations. Such a solution might not settle the issue for all time, but it would at least ensure peace while Nehru concentrates on his efforts to overcome the humiliation suffered at the hands of the Chinese.

Liberals Name Seven Men to Head Campaign

By KEN KELLY

OTTAWA (CP)—As the Liberal party puts the finishing touches on its lineup of federal campaign chairmen for the 10 provinces, Liberal Leader Pearson seems to have decided to emphasize youth.

The Liberals have appointed seven men to head the campaign in the next federal election in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. Their average age: 36.

Liberal sources say this is part of a deliberate policy to bring hustle and vitality to the organizing job for the next federal election campaign.

ALBERTAN IS YOUNGEST

"Baby" of the crop is Alberta campaign chairman James A. Coutts, 24-year-old Calgary lawyer. At 15, he was campaign manager for the Liberal candidate in Macleod constituency. Now national president of the Young Liberal Federation of Canada, he was an unsuccessful candidate last June.

Otto E. Lang, 31, dean of law at the University of Saskatchewan, was chosen in his province and George D. Wither, 36, and Douglas D. Everett, 33, business executives in Winnipeg, are co-chairmen in Manitoba.

Ontario is in charge of Daniel A. Lang, 43-year-old partner in a Toronto law firm which includes former Commons Speaker Roland Michener, a Progressive Conservative MP from 1953 until last June.

The "daddy" of the group is Irvine Barrow, 49, president of the Nova Scotia Liberal Association, who headed the federal campaign in Nova Scotia for the June 18 election. He is senior partner of a Halifax firm of chartered accountants and a director and founding member of the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council.

Conservatives Win Two Seats In Byelection

HAMPTON, N.B. (CP)—Progressive Conservatives have retained a party stronghold by winning two vacant Kings County legislature seats in a byelection.

John B. M. Baxter and George E. Horton, defeated Myles V. Jenkins and John W. Turnbull, their only Liberal opponents, in Monday's voting.

PC Leader C. B. Sherwood holds the third Kings seat in the 52-seat legislature.

Liberals polled 41 per cent of the popular vote Monday. More than 10,000 of the 15,856 eligible voters turned out.

The seats became vacant when H. N. Jonah resigned April 27 to become a county court judge and R. G. L. Fairweather resigned May 4 to contest Royal constituency which he subsequently won in the June federal election.

Is Summer Romance Puppy Love?

DEAR DORIS—This summer at our cottage I had a crush on our neighbor's 13-year-old daughter. (I'm 15). We have been neighbors for several years and in the past the two of us and her girl friend have had a lot of fun in the summer.

But now that summer is over we probably won't be able to see each other very often, as we live on opposite sides of town. Do you think we should still stay in contact with each other during winter, or should I forget about her and just consider this as puppy love?—PUPPY LOVER.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR PUPPY LOVER—No reason to cross her off your list. She could come to your birthday or Christmas party; you might send her a Christmas card for friendship's sake.

Just so long as you see it for what it is—puppy love—It's o.k. Don't start any foolishness like going steady, at your age, and here.

DEAR DORIS—My marriage was one of those hurried underage things that you prophesy will never be happy or last. But, quite to the contrary, mine has always been wonderful. I had been going with my husband for two years. Then at 17½ years (he was 19), we realized we had to get married. I was three months pregnant, our parents were upset, but right from the beginning we made a new life together on our own. Although only 17, I soon learned the ways of being a wife and six months later a mother. We know God has forgiven us because He has always helped us in all our moves.

What my worry is: Should I tell my two other children how we had to marry earlier than we had wanted to? Every anniversary I keep quiet. When they were younger, we would celebrate this day by going out to dinner, but now my son is older and my daughter is 10. I just hate the word anniversary coming. I know one day soon my daughter will ask how does it take a baby to grow?

How can we encourage our son later to be a gentleman always, when his father and mother lost all control? My one regret in life is that we loved too deeply too early. I want my children to find the love we've always had, but after the altar, not before.—STUMPED.

DEAR STUMPED—You are covered with horseshoes! You did all the wrong things and they came out right.

If you make something of that anniversary date, your teen-agers will start calculating—and then the cat's out of the bag. I don't advocate a lie; just don't make a point of what you did.

Young people who are informed of the facts of life and are helped with some good healthy socializing are less likely to go off the rails than we may imagine. Later, the facts of your life can be told with little danger of starting a trend.

• • •

CONFIDENTIAL TO SUE—Good for you for questioning these things. If you want a private reply, please write again enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope and your full name.

Tourist Trade With States Shows Profit

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in many years Canada has a favorable balance of tourist trade with the United States.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, reporting this today, said Canada had a surplus of $89,000,000 in its travel account with other countries in the third quarter of the year. Last year the surplus for the same period was $58,000,000.

The bureau said the improvement reflects a substantial reduction by much larger U.S. spending in Canada.

It notes that the change coincided with last May's pegging of the Canadian dollar at 92½ cents in U.S. funds, and the reduction in the duty-free customs allowance for returning Canadians—one of the government's austerity measures.

Today's statement gives no breakdown of Canadian - U.S. tourist spending.

It points out that in the first nine months of 1962, Canada had a net deficit in its travel account with other countries of $71,000,000 compared with $126,000,000 in the same period last year.

However, it adds that the deficit was entirely from transactions with overseas countries because for the first time in many years there was a surplus with the U.S.

KILLER SMOG STILL CHOKES BRITAIN

Automation Comes To RCAF Air Command

Brain of Giant Robot Will Be at St. Hubert

OTTAWA (CP)—Automation comes to RCAF Air Defence Command early next year.

Pilots and navigators still will ride the jet interceptors but apart from takeoffs and landings there will be little for them to do unless the automatic equipment breaks down.

Automation will apply to both the command's ground and air activities.

The command headquarters at St. Hubert, Que., will move underground into the brain of the giant robot known as SAGE, the letters standing for semi automatic ground environment, located near North Bay, Ont.

SAGE, in effect a bank of computers, collects all information from radars and other intelligence sources, computes courses for jet fighters to steer to reach their targets, selects the handiest squadron to make the interceptions, keeps an eye on magic eye, of course—on the weather and other factors in air combat and even fires a missile by remote control, whether it be the Bomarc or an interceptor's armament.

CAN HANDLE MANY

Up to now, the largest number of interceptors a radar operator could handle at one time with the present manual system was five. SAGE is able to channel information on 300 interceptors every 15 seconds.

There are 22 SAGE combat centres in Canada and the Air Defence Command. The one near North Bay is the only one in Canada and the only one built underground. The SAGE system has cost $1,000,000,000. It will eventually replace some 16,000 personnel in NORAD.

While SAGE takes care of the brain work, the ground control system known as Tiddle—time division data link—looks after automation in the air.

An RCAF spokesman said today the Bomarcs at North Bay and La Macaza, Que., and the 64 CF-101B Voodoo jets in Air Defence Command will all be equipped with Tiddle.

This equipment program will be carried out right after the SAGE at North Bay has its first extensive workout, probably in September, 1963.

Jet interceptors now receive

FOG BLAMED FOR TWO DEATHS, TRAFFIC TIE-UPS

Cooler and Drier Air Moving In

TORONTO (CP)—The heavy fog that today went into its seventh day in the Toronto-Hamilton area has been blamed for at least two deaths, traffic tieups and diversion of airline flights.

However, the weather office said early today that cooler, drier air moving into the province from the west would end the fog by mid-day.

Two men employed as surveyors by the Burlington engineers' department were killed Tuesday when they stepped from the path of an eastbound train and walked into the path of one coming from the opposite direction. Visibility at the time was limited to 30 feet. Killed was R. Flock, 27, of Burlington and A. Green, 23, of Hamilton.

The fog spread into the Niagara Peninsula as well, halting shipping traffic and slowing road traffic.

Toronto International Airport was closed once again Tuesday night and its satellite airport at Lines diverted some flights to nearby Downsview Airport.

The fog, which rolled into the area last Thursday, was also blamed for slow rush-hour traffic in Hamilton Tuesday night while drivers in most Toronto area services were bothered with haze. Traffic was brought to a halt in the Lake Ontario end of the Welland Canal where 8 ships were held in the locks awaiting inbound passage and four more were in the process of being moved between locks one and four for downbound passage.

Urge Revision of Bill of Rights As Result of Case of Arsonist

TORONTO (CP) — The citizens committee for Robert Roberts, self - confessed arsonist whose 5-year prison term was halved by the Ontario Court of Appeal in November, has appealed to Prime Minister Diefenbaker for a revision of the Bill of Rights.

The committee, comprising 10 Toronto lawyers and a number of Toronto citizens, today released the text of a letter sent to the prime minister earlier this week.

"The decision to reduce the sentence to 12 years given Robert Roberts for Ronald Martin, the name he concealed with the crushing weight of the original sentence," the letter said, "has made impossible under the present law, this decision was reached by a back-door route . . . because the Court of Appeal of Canada in the trial whose conduct appalled citizens."

Markle, 31, of Toronto, gave himself up to police April 7. He was tried without counsel later in the month, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 24 years in prison but the 20, again appearing without counsel.

Markle first appealed his sentence in June but the Ontario Appeal Court rejected the appeal June 25 without giving reason. On Aug. 20 Justice Minister Fleming, in answer to a number of citizens' petitions, invoked a ministerial power rarely used in Canadian history to reopen the case.

It was once again taken before the Court of Appeal, and Nov. 5, the sentence was cut from 24 years to 12 years.

Today's Chuckle

"You know, I wouldn't say anything about her unless it's good, and, oh boy, is this good!"

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A break in the current mild but foggy weather appears at hand with cooler air and a band of light rain advancing slowly across Ontario. The leading edge of this cooler air extends from near Hamilton across Georgian Bay to Kapuskasing. Unsettled weather can be expected. Snowflurries will be frequent, with northerly winds over northern Ontario tonight and Thursday. Over southern sections it will be mainly cloudy with scattered snowflurries and cool northwesterly winds.

13 PREPARING FOR INVASION OF CUBA HELD

One Man Picked Up Is Canadian

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Thirteen khaki - clad men, including a Canadian, were arrested Tuesday on a tiny island in the Florida Keys and accused of preparing an armed expedition against Cuba.

Wearing U.S. Marine battle fatigues, they were picked up as they boarded an arms-laden boat at Marathon Key, about 40 miles northeast of here. All but three are Americans.

At a hearing before U.S. Commissioner William V. Albury, the men denied the accusation. But Albury found sufficient cause to turn them over to U.S. agents in court in Miami, Fla., for hearing later on a formal charge of conspiring to violate the U.S. Neutrality Act. They were held under $1,000 bond each.

The Canadian identified himself as William J. Dempsey, 21, of 210 William St., Stratford, Ont.

The men—two Cubans among them—told Albury they were undergoing training at the time of their arrest. They said they had been recruited for the last six months without interference.

OTHERS TRAINING

Later the apparent leader of the group, Gerald Patrick Fleming, 25, of Los Angeles, Calif., indicated there were other guerrilla groups being trained in Castro regime training in the Florida Everglades.

Fleming identified himself as a "special instructor." He said he had been in Castro's air force, he said.

"We have no name and belong to no other anti-Castro faction," Fleming said as he sat in a cell with his mates in the Monroe County Jail.

U.S. border patrol and customs agents swooped down on the small band at Marathon before dawn. Albury said: Their boat carried 18 rifles, five pistols and ammunition; two plastic bombs, and a hand grenade.

"We got our arms and ammunition through friends and from sympathetic organizations," Fleming said. "But we didn't have enough gas last night to get even halfway to Cuba. We were going ashore over for manoeuvres at No Name Key.

No Name Key is an isolated spot of land near Marathon, according to Fleming. He described it as the "departure point" not only for his group but for others in training in the area.

HURT WHILE JUMPING

In the group was James A. Lewis, 24, of San Francisco, Calif., who had a badly swollen ankle. He said he broke it while practising parachute jumping five days ago. Lewis said he had been treated in hospital.

"Oh, we are all checked out as parachutists," said Fleming. "We were receiving no pay or anything," Lewis added. "It haven't even had a beer in the longest time."

The Cubans in the group identified themselves as Eneo O. Alvares, 26, and Reasigio Arce, 43, both now residing in Miami.

Two others were Ronald F. Ponce de Leon, 22, born in Cuba and now a U.S. citizen; Charles J. Howard Jr., 27, of Pico Rivera, Calif.; Edwin A. Collins, 27, Justin J. Wilson, 28, Wilton Seymour, 25, Edmund Colby, 31, and Joseph C. Garman, 32, all of a single Miami

One Person in Three Will Drink Fluoridated Water

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

More than a third of Ontario's 6,342,000 residents will drink fluoridated water in future as a result of Monday's plebiscites.

Before the plebiscites only one person in 10 lived in an area where the water was fluoridated.

Despite this apparent victory for proponents of fluoridation, 15 of the 22 municipalities which voted on the question Monday were opposed.

The last increase results from Metropolitan Toronto's narrow acceptance of fluoridation by 176,576 votes to 170,418—a majority of 6,160.

The City of Toronto rejected the question, along with seven of the suburban municipalities, while the other five suburbs voted in favor. But, since Metro communities receive their water from a common supply, the result is taken from the over-all vote.

Only three other municipalities — Windsor, Amherstburg and Prescott—approved fluoridation Monday, all by fairly substantial majorities.

Besides the eight Toronto-area municipalities, Ottawa, Belle-

Jodoin Reported at Odds With Meany on Autonomy

WASHINGTON (CP)—Claude Jodoin and George Meany are reported to have split on a demand by the Canadian labor leader that disputes between Canadian international unions be settled in Canada and not in the United States.

Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, and Meany, head of the AFL-CIO, held confidential talks Tuesday which Jodoin later described as "excellent" and "encouraging." Neither he nor Meany would disclose details of their discussions.

However, an AFL-CIO source close to Meany said Jodoin came to Washington to argue that Section 21 of the AFL-CIO constitution dealing with union battles should not be applicable to Canada where the CLC should have full control over its membership, including international unions which have their headquarters in the U.S.

This informant said Meany rejected the Jodoin view, maintaining the AFL-CIO constitution makes clear the decision of the U.S. body set up for appeals on question of union jurisdiction and other issues must apply not only to the parent

Now Dosey-Do to Corners All, This Here's a Politicking Ball

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Things who bemoan what television has done to the old-time political meeting should come to Prince Edward Island.

In this tiny island province, where the farmer is still king, the party rally in the community hall retains a major role in political campaigns.

With the Dec. 10 election drive reaching a climax, local candidates are holding forth in public halls across the island.

Tuesday's edition of The Patriot carried announcements of 19 such gatherings during the next three days—seven by the Conservatives and 12 by the Liberals—in a province of 103,000 people with only 15 electoral districts.

Political meetings in P.E.I. are social events. Some are

Find Mysterious Device in N. B. Bush

Glass-Fibre Box Holds Radios, Camera

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — An army officer planned to leave for army headquarters at Fredericton for discussions on a mysterious object found in the bush near here.

The 400-pound, glass-fibre object, equipped with radios and camera, was recovered by a woodsman last week.

Maj. E. A. Flewelling of the No. 5 Militia Group here examined the unmarked device and estimated it had been in the bush at least two years.

The navy examined the object, under lock and key in lieutenant-colonel McPherson's garage at nearby Indian Mountain and determined it was not naval property.

Preliminary examination disclosed the object contained three or four radios, some with North American identification, two windows and a camera lens projected from one side.

The object is about five feet long, three feet wide and three feet deep.

McPherson, who said he first thought the object was a refrigerator, said he will keep it locked in his garage until he is sure it will remain "the right hands." He and friends used a bulldozer and a truck to haul it out of the bush.

BOARD TO AID MARITIMES MAY BE DEVELOPED

Bill to Create Board Introduced

OTTAWA (CP)—A government bill to create an Atlantic development board has been given first reading in the Commons with general—though not unreserved—support from all parties.

Revenue Minister Hugh John Flemming said Tuesday in introducing the measure that it is "the most forward step ever taken, in my lifetime, for the benefit of the Atlantic provinces."

Liberal, Social Credit and New Democratic Party spokesmen applauded the proposal but some of them suggested provision of a capital fund to make the board effective.

NDP Leader T. C. Douglas chided some Conservative MPs for "incoherent exaggerations" about what the board will do.

Social Credit Leader Thompson said the country is getting more boards when what it needs is "more bread and butter."

Mr. Flemming, former premier of New Brunswick, said the Atlantic development board's main task will be to advise the federal government on policies, measures and projects to help raise the economy of the Atlantic region.

WOULD AID REGION

It had tremendous possibilities which should help bring about higher income levels and increased employment in an economically - depressed region of Canada.

Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland are a "special situation, deserving special consideration and demanding special action," he added.

Under the bill, which comes up for second reading today the board would be made up of five members appointed by the federal cabinet for five-year terms. The chairman would be paid $25,000 a year, the other members only out-of-pocket expenses.

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

TUESDAY, Dec. 4

Forestry Minister Fleming announced a measure for an Atlantic Development Board, saying it will spur the economy of the Atlantic provinces.

Social Credit Leader Thompson said there are enough boards already working on Atlantic problems and some action is what's needed.

H. J. Robichaud (L—Gloucester) suggested the proposed board be given a capital fund to finance projects it finds are needed.

Malcolm MacInnis (NDP—Cape Breton South) said he hopes the board won't lead to more federal procrastination and delay in Maritimes aid.

An NDP blockade allowed only one out of 397 divorce bills to get through the second reading stage.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 5

The commons meets at 2:30 p.m. for more debate on a proposal adding three members to the National Productivity Council. The Senate meets at 3 p.m.

Even Birds Walk As Chill Gloom Creates Chaos

32 Persons Drop Dead On Streets of London

LONDON (CP) — A suffocating two-day-long killer smog—causing widespread death and delay—blanketed most of Britain today, and weathermen predicted it may cling on for another 48 hours.

The freezing, choking gloom appeared to be the worst since the killer smog of 1952, that lasted more than 96 hours and caused at least 4,000 deaths in London alone.

Police said 32 people had collapsed in public places and died since Tuesday morning in London.

Many others have died in hospitals and in homes.

Chaos on the railways, city streets and road mounted.

An Automobile Association spokesman said:

"Visibility is down to nil in some London areas."

An AA patrol in London's Hampstead district reported to headquarters by radio:

"Even the birds are walking."

TRAVEL DISRUPTED

Trains were cancelled or delayed—some as much as six hours—all over the country.

Those that did rumble cautiously through the icy gloom into London were packed with almost unbelievable jams.

Two commuter trains crashed outside London and injured three.

Refusing to face the packed trains in dresses, many girl secretaries and stenographers came to their offices in slacks.

Shipping was halted. Car shipping was halted. Car drivers bumped along in long agonizing lines. Thousands abandoned their automobiles. London Airport was silent. Planes due at London Airport were automatically diverted. No civil aircraft have moved for more than 38 hours.

GIVE WARNING

Health authorities warned that babies and old persons should be kept at home.

"The situation is potentially serious," said a spokesman for the Medical Research Council. "Smog particularly affects the very young, and the very old and people with weak hearts or chests."

London's last great exposure to smog was in 1952 when 1,000 persons died with chest and heart afflictions during a five-day siege.

Exactly 10 years ago, the toll was 4,000, with some estimates 12,000, in an eight-day period.

Against the latest smog, Londoners including policemen put on protective masks and went about their work as best they could.

Stevenson Says He Approved of Cuban Blockade

NEW YORK (AP) — United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said today that he had approved of the naval blockade of Cuba at least three days before the government decided to impose it.

Reiterating his denial that he had opposed the blockade, Stevenson said on the NBC television Today show:

"I was emphatically in favor of it."

Stevenson previously had denounced as inaccurate a Saturday Evening Post article that portrayed the ambassador as having urged a soft line in the Cuban crisis.

He asserted today the article was "fallacious from beginning to end, in every detail."

Asked if he had been asked to resign his UN post, Stevenson replied:

"On the contrary."

He did not elaborate.

Stevenson said that despite his support of the blockade, he hoped that the time has not come in the United States when it is fait disputes should be settled by war rather than peaceful means.

"If that time comes, the world is doomed," he added.

Tito Hunting With Mr. K Outside Moscow

MOSCOW (Reuters) — President Tito and Premier Khrushchev today began an all - day hunting trip in an atmosphere of increasing cordiality resulting from the Yugoslav president's first visit to Russia since 1956.

Tito and the Soviet premier left Moscow Tuesday night for a hunting lodge in the capital following the Yugoslav leader's arrival which observers believed could herald a new era in relations between the two communist countries.

At Xlev railroad station here Tuesday, Khrushchev declared Yugoslavia was fruitful for the development of Soviet - Yugoslav relations and said all the essential factors existed for their strengthening.

Ouimet Wants 'Dual' Broadcasting With CBC Outside BBG Control

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC President J. Alphonse Ouimet today proposed eventual establishment of a "dual" broadcasting system in Canada which in effect would place the publicly-owned corporation outside the regulatory control of the Board of Broadcast Governors.

He suggested that completion of CBC's nationwide television coverage with its own stations, instead of having to depend on private affiliates, would by itself eliminate over the years the major complexities in the Canadian broadcasting system.

Mr. Ouimet told a Canadian Club luncheon that the CBC has done the private stations and the CBC could eventually operate entirely independently of one another. The separation would greatly simplify the relations between the two boards (CBC and BBG).

"Eventually, the main concern of the BBG would be to regulate and recommend regarding private stations," he said . . . "with the CBC continuing to answer directly to Parliament on all its activities but without the present inter-relationship between it and the BBG."

Mr. Ouimet said the recent Grey Cup television controversy, which he described as the hottest in Canadian broadcasting history, suggested there may be room for improvement in the Canadian system.

He suggested that an inquiry, perhaps a royal commission, be launched as soon as is feasible to determine whether the present system could be modified to reduce or eliminate bullfrog conflicts and to simplify its operation and administration. This should be followed by periodic review of the entire broadcasting system.

"We need in Canada a long-range master plan, a blueprint for broadcasting. We need to establish clear long term goals and objectives for the system as a whole as well as for each of its parts."

'Juvenile Delinquency' Topic Given at Ministerial Assoc.

The Belleville Ministerial Association held its regular meeting Tuesday morning in the Y.M.C.A. with the president, Venerable Archdeacon A. S. McConnell in the chair. In addition to the regular business of the Association, the members listened to an address by Mr. D. MacKinnon, probation officer for the County of Hastings.

Mr. MacKinnon stated that 75 percent of juvenile delinquents have never attended either Sunday School or Church and urged the members to consider the value of reaching the large numbers of boys and girls at present outside the influence of the Church.

"One of the contributing factors to the prevalence of Juvenile Delinquency in our day is the failure of the father to exercise his authority as head of the house. Parents should recognize that children need and values which must be obeyed," Mr. MacKinnon said.

Thanks for the address were extended by the president, Rev. C. W. Coleman.

The Belleville Ministerial Association plans to sponsor the annual 'Week of Prayer' service in the first week in January. These services will be held Monday through Thursday, January 7 to 10, 1953, in St. Andrew's, Holloway St., Wesleyn Methodist, and St. Thomas' churches.

President Elect Special Guest Of Y's Men

Last Thursday, at their supper meeting, Belleville Y's Men were highly honored to have as their special guest, the International President-elect, Pat Mackenzie of Acton, Ontario. Several Y's Menettes and past service members accompanied regular members to meet next president of Y's Men's International and to hear his address. Also attending was the District Governor from Cobourg, Harry Hoselton.

Mr. Mackenzie, an elementary school principal, gave an inspiring and challenging address, using as his theme, "The Opportunities for World Service Through the Y's Men's Club." He outlined the infinite opportunities that the YMCA has to promote world brotherhood. The "Y", he noted, has demonstrated its ability to draw diverse creeds together, and to give, in more than a material way, to the needs of today.

The speaker cautioned that, to many people, the YMCA is merely a building with a gym and a pool. A YMCA program is, however, three-sided, fostering the development of the mind, body, and the spirit.

He stressed that the "Y" possesses the enormous potential toward improving world brotherhood, through its promotion of spiritual growth. He calling the words of Norman Vincent Peale, "a few dedicated people can change the world," the president-elect challenged local Y's Men to truly serve the YMCA but also to demonstrate the ideals of the Christian faith to others.

The effects of a Y's Men's work, he concluded, will, through its emphasis on service and love for fellow man, multiply itself for generation and generation.

At the conclusion of his address Mr. Mackenzie presented to the club a banner denoting that Belleville is the home club of the International directorelect, in the person of Rev. Hugh Watson presently holds this position.

The speaker was introduced by Hugh Watson. Bill Prentice expressed the appreciation of the club. President John Hayman was in charge of the meeting.

Once Hitler's Predecessor — Now Lives in Obscurity

NORWICH, Vt. (AP)—He's an old man now, alone with his memories in a simple cottage on a knoll overlooking this picturesque Connecticut River valley.

But 20 years ago Dr. Heinrich Bruening, soldier, politician and scholar, held in his hand the destiny of a mighty country.

For Bruening was chancellor of Germany during two tumultuous years when he led an unsuccessful struggle to maintain a democratic government in that strife-torn country.

His resignation, forced on May 30, 1932, during the last desperate months of the German Weimar Republic.

Seven months later the chancellorship was entrusted to the man who would bring an end to a 13-year attempt to make democracy work in Germany—Adolf Hitler.

Bruening was leader of the Catholic Centre party before he assumed the chancellorship. His was part of a fruitless succession of coalition governments which drained the strength from Germany as well as other democratic countries.

Intruder Threatens Hoffa, Air Gun Fired at Trial

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A man waving what appeared to be some type of pellet gun dashed into the federal courtroom today where James R. Hoffa was on trial and fired several shots at two Teamsters Union president.

Hoffa was not injured.

"I saw the gun," Hoffa said. "I knocked him down."

Hoffa said he saw the man approaching and that he was aiming a pellet gun.

"I dunked, I saw it was coming and I'm all right and I'm not hurt.

The man, not identified, was beaten and subdued by U.S. marshals and taken into custody.

JURY WAS OUT

The incident occurred while federal district judge William E. Miller was on the bench but while the jury was out of the room. The jury had just came through the rear door of the small courtroom, and walked down the aisle to the jury box gate separating spectators from lawyers and principles in the trial.

He then lunged through the gate, pulled the weapon from beneath his coat and leaned toward Hoffa, seated at the defense table.

Three defence lawyers ducked to the floor as the man opened fire. The shot made small popping sounds.

Hoffa ducked, then lunged at the man and knocked him to the floor. Several marshals piled on top of the assailant and dragged him away as Hoffa brought the swinging gate and started kicking the man.

Special counsel withdrew at Hoffa's insistence.

U.S. Attorney Elmer Dixie payne led the man, blood streaming from his head and face, from the courtroom and would not permit reporters to question him.

There were approximately 50 or 60 spectators in the courtroom at the time, listening to lawyers argue over contents of testimony in Hoffa's $1,000,000 conspiracy trial should be continued.

Trent University $11-Million Plan Announced

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Inauguration of a five-year building and development program for Trent University, calling for an expenditure of $11,225,000, was announced today by Board Chairman C. S. Fraser.

He also announced the imminent organization of a foundation to be known as the university seek voluntary contributions from corporation, individuals and foundations totalling $1,-520,000.

"We confidently expect that provincial and Dominion grants, student fees and special gifts will provide the balance of $6,705,000," he said.

Mr. Fraser said Trent will move to its permanent campus on a 100-acre site on the banks of the Otonabee River at Nassau, Ont., in September, 1957.

The university will open in September, 1964, in temporary quarters at a public school here.

Half Argentine Ministers Quit, Back Austerity

CP from Reuters-AP

BUENOS AIRES — President Jose Maria Guido today presented his cabinet with military and other advisers on the crisis caused Tuesday night when Vice-President Alberto Gainza Paz withdrew support of resigning Economic Minister Alvaro Alsogaray.

The latest resignations, including the presidents of four state banks, were submitted to back up the widely criticized austerity program of Alsogaray.

Only 24 ministers of interior, foreign affairs, health, defence, education and justice and three secretariats of the armed forces remained in office.

Unconfirmed reports said Rear-Admiral Carlos A. Kolmglia also had resigned as navy secretary.

Alsogaray resigned after a cabinet meeting pressure, charging that division in the government had left his campaign to hold the line against inflation.

WILL CONSULT

Guido neither accepted nor rejected the mass resignations immediately. He told Alsogaray he would start a round of consultations with leaders of the military leaders of the government—today.

The new secretary, Lt.-Gen. Benjamin Rattenbach, apparently precipitated Alsogaray's decision to quit his post at a press conference that the economic minister's policies were not adequate to put Argentina out of its slump.

Alsogaray said the head of the army told him Monday "other cabinet ministers were feeling the same way." Alsogaray's austerity policy was always opposed by large business, labor and armed forces groups, but he and his team also have strong connections with certain business, political and military factions.

One-some winner was a rink skipped by F/L Slucox of the RCAF Trenton, with a 24 and George Brown's rink, at Cobourg, got 21½ runner-up honors.

This Saturday, Trenton curlers will host a mixed invitational bonspiel. Sixty rinks curlers are expected to take part. The annual Christmas bonspiel, sponsored by the local club, starts on Dec. 27. This too, is a mixed 'spiel.

Plan Chapter Of Heart Foundation

TRENTON — A chapter of the Ontario Heart Foundation is to be established in Trenton, thanks to the Quinte Toastmasters' Club.

Toastmaster president Doug Rushnell told about 15 members and guests at last night's regular meeting the Trenton Chapter is being formed to "fill a need which has existed for years." He said the organization will be important not only to the town but also to the surrounding district, where it is hoped to name "captains" in such centres as Brighton and Frankford.

Les McKenna, public relations director of the new chapter, said participation in the Canadian Heart Fund drive in February will be apart from the Toastmasters' regular activity. But it was only through the club Toastmasters had become aware of the need for such an organization in Trenton.

Aim of the chapter is public awareness of the need for research into heart disease, the Trenton chapter plans to distribute literature and films and to supply speakers for service clubs, parent-teacher groups, schools, hospitals, and other interested groups, during the fund campaign. Final arrangements for forming the Trenton chapter are being made with the help of Mrs. Ann Dunbar, of Kingston, suburban and rural canvasser of the foundation.

Besides Mr. Rushnell, president, and Mr. McKenna, others named to the executive are the Rev. Raymond Rayerott of the Church of the Nazarene, vice-president, and Doug Adams, honorary treasurer. Two medical advisers are to be appointed later.

Mr. McKenna's speech, deploring what he termed a lack of medical knowledge between public and separate schools, was judged best of the evening by evaluator Doug Tufford.

City Fathers Table Many Matters for Next Year's Council; a Short Session

With council powers reduced considerably because of the municipal election and the number of councillors who will not be returning next year, yesterday's meeting of city fathers was cut short as several matters were tabled to be dealt with by next year's council.

One of the measures referred to the 1963 council was creating a franchise for the operation of an ambulance service within the city and the setting of tariffs for the operation of such a service.

Also tabled was a recommendation authorizing the city engineer to obtain a photographic mosaic of the city at cost not to exceed $220.

Alderman Joseph Raycroft said the aerial map of the city would be of value both to the engineering department and to the city assessment department.

Also referred was a recommendation authorizing the city to enter a lease agreement with the Hastings County Home for the provision of juvenile detention facilities, the city to assume fifty per cent of capital costs for renovations to the property.

Leasing of the quarters in a separate building on the county home property was recommended to provide the detention quarters which Alderman Bailey said had been lacking in the county for some years.

Judge J. C. Anderson told council that following the municipal election council did not have the legal right to take action on the matter, although he suggested a recommendation asking next year's council to approve would be helpful.

MOTION APPROVED

Accordingly the two recommendations from the Juvenile and Family Court Committee were approved as submitted and referred to next year's council.

Also tabled until another meeting — but for a different reason — was a recommendation from the public works committee calling for approval of the new subdivision agreement with amendment of by-law No. 7918.

Delegations representing local building contractors and realtors attended the meeting stating they had not had the opportunity of seeing the agreement prior to its passing.

Alderman Don Whalen claimed council was acting in a "high handed" manner in not tabling the agreement available. He asked that the matter be tabled for two weeks and that copies of the agreement be provided as requested.

And Mayor Haig went even further in suggesting that deputation members and the council committee get together for a meeting before the matter was returned to council.

Alderman Joseph Raycroft as chairman of the public works committee did not want the matter to be held up. "We have got to get away from the Thurlow agreement", he said.

Alderman Stuart Robb had no objection to realtors and builders seeing the agreement but felt it should be understood that the city was under no obligation to include in the agreement any changes which they might suggest.

City Clerk Adam Stalker distributed copies of the agreement to the delegation and the matter will again be before council at their next meeting.

A rather spirited discussion developed with the reading of another public works recommendation calling for the city to pay 50 per cent of the normal owner's share of the cost of proposed sidewalks in the Bridge Street, Farley Ave. and Victoria Ave areas.

HAD NO ALTERNATIVE

The recommendation to council was in view of the recent Ontario Municipal Board decision in a Toronto area case respecting an application for approval to construct walks under Section 8 of the Local Improvement Act.

Alderman William Jarvah asked what the normal city share of costs for walks would be and was told it was in the neighborhood of 20 per cent.

Alderman George Wishart didn't think the city had much alternative but to go along with the O.M.B. ruling as outlined in the York county application.

"The O.M.B. says that where there is opposition it will not allow walks built under section 8 unless the municipality agrees to pay 50 per cent of the owners' share. It is just as simple as that," he said.

But City Manager J. R. Reynolds noted there were two specific conditions listed in the O.M.B. ruling. These were that the municipality would be required to pay 50 per cent of the owners' costs where the walks were for the safety of school children from outside the immediate area, and where there was a great amount of pedestrian traffic.

Alderman Ross Bailey agreed that it was not fair in such instances that the owner should be required to pay the full costs but suggested some policy should be adopted by the city setting forth what conditions would come under the ruling. He said he could think of several main arteries which would come within this scope.

Mayor Haig then presented an amendment to the original motion calling for the city to pay 50 per cent of the owners' costs on all Section 8 walks built in the city.

Mayor Haig, however, felt conditions of the amendment were too broad. "All walks in the city would become Section 8 walks," he objected.

Alderman Ben Corke wanted the matter referred to the further study but Alderman Les Digby countered by saying the Ontario Municipal Board had now made the policy for the city. He said there was no reason to hold the matter over.

MOTION CARRIED

Alderman Bailey's amendment for the city to pay 50 per cent of the cost of the Section 8 walks was carried by a majority vote.

Approval was given for the construction of a six-inch watermain on Aldbridge Road, under Section 8 of the Local Improvement Act.

Council approved the rezoning of part of lot 19, registered plan 217, on the south side of East Bridge Street from R-2 to R-M-3.

This property, comprising just over six acres is expected to be developed with apartments with the purchaser giving little of no consideration to the realtors' and builders' ahead; it is the real estate broker's duty to assist the purchaser in recognizing the practical aspects of buying a home.

Claiming that at one time, misrepresentation by the Department its biggest problem, the speaker stated that this was the aspect of which he gave credit for this higher level of standards in the "organize" real estate through such organizations as the Belleville Real Estate Board, Ontario Real Estate Board and others. Such organizations he said, provided a common meeting ground for brokers and their salesmen to exchange ideas and to raise the ethical standards of the profession.

For the future, "education" would be the key to success in any field of real estate endeavor, stated Mr. Richardson. "I is coming about because of the highly specialized nature of many areas in the business. The speaker hinted in closing that in the near future, real estate brokers and their salesmen might well be required to take formal courses and special training in order to remain in the field.

ANSWERS QUESTIONS

Following his talk, Mr. Richardson answered a number of questions dealing with legal and interpretative applications of the Act.

Acting as chairman for the evening was Donald Whalen, president of the Belleville Real Estate Board. Douglas Klark introduced the speaker who was thanked by W. McCormick.

The next course of the meeting Gerald Joyce reported to Board members on his recent attendance at the Ontario Board of Directors' meeting. In giving his report, Mr. Joyce outlined the many accomplishments of the Belleville Board including consultation with the City of Belleville on land use legislation; the consideration of a plan for low-rental housing in the city; many help to charitable organizations in the city; training programs carried on by Board members and their staffs and recent discussions with city officials on matters concerning land use and subdivisions in the city.

FAMED RHINO DIES

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Cacareco, the rhinoceros who received enough votes to be elected to the Sao Paulo city council, is dead. The Rio zoo said today he died of a liver ailment Nov. 14. In 1959, the voters of Sao Paulo cast write-in ballots for Cacareco in protest of the politicians running for office. His tally was better than several of the candidates who were elected.

Real Estate Board Holds Good Annual Dinner

Referring to the business of real estate as perhaps one of oldest businesses in the world, Mr. W. J. Richardson, Registrar Department of Insurance of Ontario, enlivened and enlightened the members of the Belleville Real Estate Board during their annual dinner meeting held at the Quinte Hotel, Tuesday evening.

Mr. Richardson, who is responsible for the application of the Real Estate and Business Brokers' Act under the Attorney General's Department, reviewed the advancements of the real estate profession over the years and pointed out some of the aspects of the Act that brokers and salesmen should be familiar with.

The speaker noted that a great development in the conduct of the real estate business has taken place since 1955. "Today he said, "the public has become conscious of the need for a higher standard of professional attitude on the part of the broker along with a knowledge of the trade customer, and a greater intelligence in business affairs".

Pointing out the licensing requirements for salesmen, required by the Department today, stated Mr. Richardson, salesmen entering the field should first take have much better qualifications than ever before "but" he went on, "we are the case of prudence".

HOME BIG PURCHASE

The speaker told his audience that in the field of Real Estate Brokerage, they are rendering a very real and final service. "You are offering the public a way of life" he said, "the purchase of a home is perhaps the greatest single transaction the average person ever gets into in his lifetime." Continued Mr. Richardson, "buying a home is not the aspect of which so many cares with the purchaser giving little of no consideration to the realtor's and builder's ahead; it is the real estate broker's duty to assist the purchaser in recognizing the practical aspects of buying a home.

Claiming that at one time, misrepresentation by the Department its biggest problem, the speaker stated that this was the aspect of which he gave credit for this higher level of standards in the "organize" real estate through such organizations as the Belleville Real Estate Board, Ontario Real Estate Board and others. May Be Recount In Stirling Liquor Vote

STIRLING — Spoiled ballots may yet prompt a demand for a recount in the village of Stirling's liquor outlet vote Monday.

The vote in favor of a liquor outlet was 58.76 percent of total cast. Some 58.19 percent favored a beer outlet.

Under provincial legislation a 60 percent majority must be registered for a win.

However, members of the wet committee seeking the outlet pointed out Tuesday night that 4.36 percent of the ballots cast in the election were spoiled.

"There is a good possibility there may be a recount," said one committee member.

The vote was:

	Yes	No
Beer outlet	392	277
Liquor Outlet	387	276

EX-MINISTER DIES

ROME (AP) — Piero Tomasi Marquis Della Torretta, 69, died Tuesday. He had been foreign minister in 1912, ambassador to London from 1922 to 1927, and Italian president in Italy during the transitional period of the republic before formation of the constitutional assembly.

Humane Society Inspector Finds Dog Eating Another

Forty-one dogs, confined in a barn, greeted Ontario Humane Society Inspector J. T. McCartney as he arrived at the dog and kennel inspection near Stockdale, yesterday. One of the dogs was busily engaged in feeding on the carcass. Inspector McCartney later told a reporter that he had never before seen a dog willing to eat the carcass of another.

Acting on complaints from unidentified persons, the Inspector and two OPP officers from Brighton inspected the kennels operated by Ralph Williams about 2 p.m. Inspector McCartney says they found several of the forty-seven dogs at the house sick. Dr. R. B. Murray, of Stirling, diagnosed distemper in one dog, according to Inspector McCartney and skin diseases in several others.

Questioned by a reporter today, Ralph Williams explained there had been some disease in the kennels but that some of the dogs appeared undernourished as they had just recently recovered.

No charges have yet been laid, the inspector says, but a second visit to the property, today, and no final decision to lay charges has been made.

Harry Moran, former owner of the land, now living on another farm, visited Mr. Richardson, the property at about 40 acres, which is cultivated now in addition to the dogs, he said there is one quarter-horse, three pigs and not a great number of cats, and five goats at the Williams place. Neighbors' children often ride one of the ponies on weekends.

Car Hits Pole Parked Auto

A Madoc man escaped injury this morning when his automobile crashed off Highway 14 a half-mile north of Foxboro.

Provincial Police say George Lemmins lost control of his car as it skidded on a curve iced with frost.

It struck a hydro pole, veered across the lawn of a house under construction and hit a parked car.

Damage to the Lemmins car totals $500 and $50 to the parked car.

Remarks Newspaper Men Get Kicked by Friend

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a newspaper men gets tired of hearing:

"Oh, you can't print that!"

"Off the record, I don't mind telling you but—"

"If he must be a newspaper man. Nobody else would wear a hat like that."

"Why is it newspapers always seem to be full of nothing but bad news? Is the world really that awful?"

"You fellows must get a lot of interesting people to talk to."

"Could you write a story about me? I'm a real character."

"I just phoned to give you an item about my daughter's wedding. Did you get it and put it on the front page, won't you? That'll really impress our neighbors."

". . . And furthermore, I'm just not an ordinary indignant reader. My husband is a cousin of the mayor."

"I thought a newspaper men went around with a big pencil stuck behind their ear."

"I used to read your regularly, but lately—"

"Hey, Pete, Mr. Cyzinowitsky is here to see me. He says five spelled his name wrong again. He wants to know what you're going to do."

Smith would it help you to get it right?

"Oh, no, I don't want to be quoted."

"Here's a cigar, son. Let's just forget the whole thing, shall we?"

"Gee, being a reporter sounds awfully exciting. You get to meet such interesting people."

"You don't mean they pay you to write things like that! Why, I sent my high years to high school, but I'll bet you I could do it."

"I used to be in the newspaper game myself—and then I got smart."

"No other man I know works such crazy hours. Why don't you get a job in sales or managing editor? Are you afraid of him?"

"Pete, there's a fellow out at the reception desk who says he's invented a perpetual motion machine and he's really works. Better go out and listen to him. He may be a subscriber."

"Hello, hello. This is Mr. Cyclopedia calling. I want to tell you an item about my wife being elected president of our garden club. Now, I'd like it like in centipede, "y" like in yesterday, "x" like in—"

GET NO COMPLAINTS

OTTAWA (CP)—The board of transport commissioners h a received no complaints about North Bay connections between CNR and the Ontario Northland Railway, Transport Minister Balcer advised Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming).

Quick Action Saves City From Bad Fire

A blaze which was noticed in time, could have resulted in disaster last night, by taking half a city block on the west side of Front Street.

The fire was discovered in a shed at the rear of Tillbrook Shoe Repair and the Fire Department was summoned. Fire Chief Gerald Vance said it looked as though some old paper had blown up to the door. How the fire started, "I don't know," said the chief.

The chief said there was no loss, however but there was a small amount of smoke damage.

'Deep Freeze' Is New Cure For Ulcer Victim

CALGARY (CP)—A Calgary doctor says treatment of cancer sufferers in Canada soon will receive a new painless "deep freeze" treatment which has been tested here.

Dr. A. W. Starink says the treatment, now known as cryofreezing, is so new "a lot of people in the medical profession have not even heard about it."

The first patients underwent the treatment in the United States in August and two residents of Calgary in their late 30s had it administered in there two weeks ago at Holy Cross hospital here.

The results were "very successful," said Dr. Starink.

He said a tube is inserted through the mouth containing a small rubber balloon. When the balloon is in the stomach it is circulated with liquid nitrogen at minus-15 degrees centigrade.

"The freezing of the stomach and as a board," said Dr. Starink, "it is then free and once the treatment is completed the patient requires no more medicine.

"They can eat just about everything they like after the first few days. Then they are on a soft diet."

The treatment may be administered in a clinic, leaving hospital bed space, he said.

AIRMAN RESCUED

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — A search party today rescued the navigator of a crashed RAF Javelin jet plane missing in the dense jungle of central Malaya since Monday, an RAF spokesman said here. The spokesman said the navigator, Sqdn. Ldr. Frank Jolliffe, was in good health but suffering from shock.

24 Charges Laid Against Five Juveniles

Belleville city police believe they may have cleaned up a rash of thefts today, with laying of 24 charges against five juveniles.

It was the second series of charges laid against juveniles in recent weeks.

The latest incidents involve theft of automobiles, theft from parked cars, and the switching of automobile licence plates.

In one case, police officers, an automobile was sprayed with a paint bomb.

The youths, who will appear in Juvenile court, are 14 and 15 years old.

The charges were laid after several weeks of painstaking investigation into the incidents by city detectives.

Three weeks ago charges of wilful damage were brought against two other juveniles after a string of fires were found deliberately set at the Kinsmen's swimming pool and a city recreation building at the East Hill playground.

Safe Driving Week Deaths Already 43

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three motorless were free of traffic fatalities during the first four days of Canada's safe driving week but the total number of deaths across the country is already nearing the mark for the entire week in 1961.

A survey by The Canadian Press shows 43 persons have died on roads during the week, sponsored by the Canadian Highway Safety Council, began at 12:01 a.m. Saturday and ends at midnight Friday, Dec. 1 to 7.

Last year 43 persons died in the first four days and 44 by the week.

Thus far Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and New Brunswick have clean slates. Nova Scotia reported only one death. Ontario has 15 deaths and Quebec 14, compared with eight each at the same point last year.

British Columbia has eight deaths, Alberta and Saskatchewan two each and Manitoba one.

Purpose of the week is to promote safe driving in December, when there are more hazardous month on the highways.

The day-to-day record this week with the 1961 seven-day totals:

Ontario Council Members Told of Role Expected to Make QEMO a Success

Hastings county councillors yesterday at their December session heard the role which elected municipality representatives were expected to take to help make the Quinte Emergency Measures Organization a success.

The council body was addressed by Lt. Col. Angus B. Duffy, emergency measures coordinator for the Quinte district.

Col. Duffy explained the setup of his organization and said the elected municipal officials were derelict in their duty if they did not work to encourage the success of the program.

"The government is insisting on the survival program", he said. "The reason is that Canada would be the "Belgium of any war". Costs of the program are borne 90 per cent by the Federal Government and 10 per cent by the municipalities.

He said an efficient survival program was one of the best assurances against a nuclear war starting. He pointed out that most wars started as result of nations not being prepared.

Col. Duffy said good progress in the survival program had been made in the Quinte area. "But I am still not satisfied", he said.

SPEAKER PRAISED

Important as the survival program was to the metropolitan areas it was also important in the rural districts as the knowledge of how to save farm animals from a nuclear attack was vitally important to survival.

Sidney Township Reeve Harleigh Hamilton complimented Col. Duffy on the progress made in emergency measures in the Quinte area.

He said that in the few months that the Q.E.M.O. had been in operation, Col. Duffy as co-ordinator had accomplished more than had been done in many other areas where the program had been in effect for several years.

The complete report was read by committee chairman Gerald Irvine who noted that installation of communication sevices for connection with the city sewer system were now about complete. The centres for the fire sewers had been granted to the city. City Construction for $15,988.

Home superintendent Kenneth Yorke spoke on the sewer system now ready for connection into the city mains at any time.

Working at handicrafts is encouraged by committee as a means of providing an interest for the elderly people.

Transport Group Plans Social Night

The Golden Triangle District of the Canadian Industrial Traffic League will hold its annual banquet-speaker Transportation night in Brockville on December 7th. At this function representatives from industry will be hosts to guests representing all modes of modern transportation.

The social evening is in response of carriers who have sided industry by helping them distribute their goods both throughout Canada and on the world market.

Brockville has been chosen for this transportation night and the location will be at the Peacock Inn, December 7th.

$2,800 Found Atop a Bed At Motel Unit

What some people do with their dollars doesn't make sense!

A Belleville district motel operator yesterday had good cause to do a double-take while taking stock of a unit just vacated by an overnight traveller.

Atop the bed was $2,800 in cash.

After the initial reaction, the startled owner called provincial police. While officers debated what should be done with the cash a long-distance phone call solved the problem.

The traveller had discovered his loss and called to request the money be lodged in a local bank and the deposit slip forwarded him.

Thant States His Viewpoint

Aside from the President of the United States and his counterpart in Russia, there are few men in today's world whose personal opinions and viewpoints are so important to mankind as are those of the Secretary-General of the United Nations. Though nominally he is the servant of the UN, in practice he wields tremendous influence. What he believes, therefore, can effect the lives of all of us.

U Thant has lost no time, after his election as Secretary-General, in placing on the record his personal convictions regarding the fundamental role on which all negotiating with international affairs should rest.

His basic premise is that Khrushchev does not want war.

"The West," he said, "does not seem to appreciate the full significance of this obvious change of political climate in the Soviet Union (since Stalin's death)."

There will be those who will interpret Thant's words as stamping him a "fellow-traveller," a man sympathetic to the communist cause.

This is ridiculous. Thant did not say that President Kennedy does not want war, but we may be sure that this omission was not because he has any doubts as to Kennedy's desires, but because he believed such a declaration was not needed. No statement regarding Kennedy's desire for peace could have been so meaningful as Thant's failure to make this statement.

After Dag Hammarskjold died in a plane crash in the Congo, Thant was chosen as acting secretary-general because the opposing big powers, unable to agree on a "strong" candidate, believed Thant a lightweight who could do them no harm.

He has long since proven what a false estimate this was of his character and his capabilities. Early in his regime, he commenced to speak in tough, plain words, when he believed the situation demanded it. No diplomat like Hammarskjold, he did not attempt to disguise his meaning in smooth phrases. He soon won the confidence of the West. His handling of the Cuban crisis brought him Russian support, too, and not one vote was cast against his election as Secretary-General.

Whether the U.S. would have found it so easy to support him if he had delivered his Baltimore speech before, rather than after, his selection may be open to question. Thant struck hard at a basic tenet of right-wingers everywhere, and the U.S. right in particular—that the communist system is inherently and wholly evil, and "hence compromise was betrayal." This Kennedy administration has drawn distinct signs—particularly in the Cuban crisis—of a willingness to compromise on details while standing fast on principles. But it might have faced political pressure at home against supporting Thant if he had spoken out earlier.

In our final analysis, though, Thant's view is the only one which makes any sense of any of the attempts to negotiate a modus vivendi—inside or outside the UN. If Khrushchev wants war, then war we will eventually have and any efforts the West may make to preserve the peace are just delaying the inevitable holocaust until conditions are more favorable for the communists. But if, as Thant believes, Khrushchev fears war, then it is essential that this fact be recognized and that on this mutual desire for peace the spirit of compromise should build machinery to eliminate the frictions which might otherwise drive two great power blocs to war against their will.

International Trade

The Republic of San Marino consists of 38 square miles of mountain, surrounded by Italy. The country has only 15,000 inhabitants but it provides jobs for some 3,000 Italians, who commute daily. Every year, about two million tourists enter the country.

Among the prime moneymaking enterprises in San Marino, the sale of postage stamps brings in about $1,000,000 per year from tourists. The fact that the stamps are actually printed in Rome, (the home of a lot of the tourists), makes no difference, according to an A.P. report.

Among big earning industry is wine. The wines of San Marino have such excellent flavor that the country cannot make enough to supply the demand. Their solution is simple: They import Italian wines, bottle them in San Marino, then sell them. Italy is a big customer.

This sort of business sense provides a good alternative to Britain's entry in the European Common Market. San Marino might be invited to enter the Commonwealth.

Letter to The Editor

Supports Hospitals For Retarded

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

We have heard a great deal of publicity about the drug thalidomide, and its effect on the unborn child. Some parents have accepted this cross and will do whatever they can to help the child make its way through life. Others are more unfortunate and cannot possibly care for their child at home.

But the few hospitals for retarded children which we have at present are appalling year after year for financially help have not with the children' response. The government has not as yet seen fit to help with the one more or less "Plaintiff".

I am sure if your reporters were to take a tour of that hospital personally and find out their needs and give it the publicity it needs from the press, soon a new hospe would be built.

With the growing population there is a far greater need than ever before as there will be a greater number of retarded children, children born to a parent could not possibly give the care. Parents will be be given the financial help some are receiving for their deformed child and the help that only come when the residents of this area make a strong public appeal from their elected representatives.

Medical Insurance Fears Unfounded

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

I would like to thank you for your leadi editorial of Nov. 30 concerning medical health insurance.

Premier Robarts is a clever man for many reasons and he recognizes the value that private enterprise can do the job better than any government could hope to do.

Your objection about the individuals who will not insure, even if they have the means, doesn't take the province's insurance agents into consideration. The agents will be selling this plan and you can be sure that they will do a thorough job. A healthy client, free of medical bills, is the kind that agents like to keep. Mr. Editor, I feel your fears are ill-founded and that after the initial wrinkles are out that you will be singing the praises of the proposed plan.

This Is One Way To Save Money

Editor,

I would like to express compliments to the persons responsible for compiling this years' municipal voter's list.

They must certainly have saved the taxpayer money by conserving time and paper by omitting many names.

Seeks Old Copies Of Baseball Guides

Editor
Ontario Intelligencer

I wonder if your "Letters to the Editor" column could help in a search for some obsolete baseball books. I am trying to fill out a set of the Reach and Spalding Official Baseball Guides. These are annual baseball record books which were published yearly from 1877 to 1941 and are valuable to the old timers among the readers of The Intelligencer who can "go way back".

The war brought an end to publication of the Guides making it a problem to complete the set, hence this appeal to you. Since the Belleville area has always been keen on baseball some of these books may be in the hands of your subscribers who might wish to dispose of them. Many Guides are just lying in the way around the house or are stored in the attics and cellars of veteran baseball buffs. I will gladly reimburse them for any copies and will be very grateful if they would write and let me know which books they have.

Hoping there is an element of unique novelty and unusual interest to all in my plea and especially that the senior citizens among The Ontario Intelligencer readers might benefit thereby.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 5th, 1942

The scuttling of the French Mediterranean Fleet at the great naval base of Toulon on Friday will rank as one of the major events of the war and one of the great naval events of history. It follows hard upon Hitler's betrayal and treachery, as for the second time he violated his pledge to unoccupied France, Two weeks ago he invaded Vichy France contrary to the pledge made at the time of the collapse of France in June 1940 and then promised not to molest Toulon or the French fleet there. Then he trumped up charges and under these he has committed his latest aggression. On Friday the Germans swarmed into Toulon.

The Frenchmen were expecting this treachery of Hitler and were ready; they set about scuttling the magnificient fleet of warships. They fought off the Germans who swarmed into the harbor, trying to board the warships, and killed many of them. The French navy had defied the treacherous enemy. It was their determination to deal a mighty blow at Hitler. Sailors went down with their ships. As the explains stayed on the bridge of their vessels and went down, many of them losing their lives.

Proud of their great navy, the French would not suffer it to fall into the hands of the enemy who had overthrown France. They have shown that the heart of France is with the democracies.

40 YEARS AGO

December 5th, 1922

Mr. H. E. Brintnell of Fort Leadership, Fla., formerly of this city, is here on a visit.

Mr. J. O. Herity gave a short address to those present at the social hour following the evening service in John Street Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. J. P. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson left today for Florida where they will spend the winter.

The Hastings County Council has spent $119,000 on the roads in this county during this year.

Judge People By Physique

School Caldness Worker

If your waist line is in the right place, you get the job with one French firm. Selection by physical measurement has for years been used successfully by Telemecanique Electrique of Vanterre, France, according to Andrew Cooper, a British electricity board executive.

The formula is simple, says Cooper.

"If we regard the length of the thumb as equal to 1.0, this is the elegant face should also be the height of the ear, and the distance from the underside of the nose to the base of the chin. The lower joint in the thumb should be 0.618 of the length of the thumb. If the distance from the feet to the navel is 1.0 the distance from the navel to the top of the head should be 0.618.'

Telemecanique Electrique's consultant, says Cooper, suggests that such relationships exist in the elegant, harmonious individual. He goes on to say that any significant departure from them indicates some departure from the desirable norm in the character and emotional traits of the individual.

These methods, comments Cooper, will be flatly rejected by the skeptic, but they have been used BBC broadcast. Specific, he said, destroyed more insects than all the other insecticides ever used against Britain put together; and if the insect population were allowed to grow unchecked all man's crops would be devoured, all his flocks and herds destroyed. It would be impossible for the human race to live.

There were about 540 species of insects in Britain, Dr. Gillespie said. One authority had estimated that there might be something like six million spiders of different kinds on every square foot of the area of a football pitch. They were busy for at least half the year killing pests. It had been estimated that the weight of all the insects destroyed by spiders in Britain in one year would be greater than the total weight of all the human beings in the country.

Man's Friend, The Spider

BBC London Letter

One old belief that is founded on good sense is that it is unlucky to kill a spider. Though few people have much affection for the animals (and they are animals, not insects) they are good friends to man, as T. H. Gillespie explained in a recently BBC broadcast. Spiders, he said, destroyed more insects than all the other insecticides ever used against Britain put together; and if this insect population were allowed to grow unchecked all man's crops would be devoured, all his flocks and herds destroyed. It would be impossible for the human race to live.

How We Fool Ourselves With Words

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Antics with Semantics:

When I proclaim that I can "take it or leave it," you can safely bet that most of the time I take it.

When I praise your idea as being "fine in principle," you may be sure that I haven't the slightest intention of putting your principle into practice.

When I say "I don't mean to be critical," that's exactly what I mean to be.

When I make the modest disclaimer that "Of course, I'm not an authority," it is invariably the prelude to an authoritative statement.

When I murmur "I have nothing against him, but . . ." you are going to hear something against him.

When I introduce "I don't mean to change the subject, but . . ." I mean to change the subject as quickly as possible in the direction of my own interests.

When I advise you that "I don't want this to get around," I am getting it started as early as my little tongue can spread it.

When I observe that "I'm not entirely sure that I agree with you," it means that I am absolutely sure that I utterly disagree with you.

When I begin with "I'm a liberal sort of person," it's a certainty that I am going to end with some violently intolerant judgment.

When I shake my head that "I don't understand children nowadays," I am using that statement as a launching-pad for a half-hour effort to fill up space trying to prove that I understand children very well, just, precisely, as they are.

When I protest that "I don't want you to change your plans on my account," I am looking forward to a general revision of plans on my account.

When I tell my audience that "I can't begin to describe . . ." I am off and running with a full-length description in gruesome detail.

When I leave you with the general reminder that "I'm in the book," I don't expect you to look there any sooner or later than I'll call you — which will be a freezing August afternoon.

When I insist that "I'm an independent voter," what I mean is that if my party were running a convicted kidnaper for office and the other party Schweitzer, I would probably vote for Dr. Schweitzer.

Says Parents Fear Children

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Are Canadian young-sters wasting their time? They are, the main fault, suggests Dr. E. G. Hall of the University of Western Ontario, is that their parents are afraid of and for their children — afraid to let them attempt and suffer, afraid to make them work hard. "I don't think fundamentally that anything is wrong with them," the university president said in a Toronto speech to a group of doctors, "but the world has changed, and their parents have changed with it."

It is not necessarily that there is a new attitude toward children, but today's parents have the money to do more pampering than parents of earlier generations had. Nearly one-third of university education are high — frightfully high — but not necessarily the ones getting the pointed out. Fees for the medical course are the highest in the university, but 90 percent of our students paid the full fee in 1961-62 at the end of the semester." There are many more students with cars in medicine than there are in any other course, "and these are not third or fourth-hand Jalopies either."

"How many of you or your fathers had cars when you went to university?" he asked. "How many could afford to pay the full fee at the beginning of the term? Or how many of you could afford to be married before you finished your course?"

It is acceptable to parents, suggested Dr. Hall, for sports coach to push a youngster hard and make him work hard to succeed. But why do so many high school coaches not go on to university? "Can the teachers put pressure on the students as the football coach can?" he asked. "Will the parents accept a seriously attitude toward academic achievement, or are parents afraid of their children?"

Disc Disorder Can Cause Pain in Neck

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: Frequently my husband suffers severe pain in the back of the neck. It has been diagnosed as a pinched nerve. An acquaintance of his, a derrydalogist, said he has the same thing. He spent a great deal of money to cure it and still has pain. He advised my husband to save his money and bear it out. This doesn't satisfy me in view of the achievements of modern medicine. Can't something be done? — Mrs. E.B.

I wouldn't settle for that give-up advice without having a more exerting analysis. Pinched nerves are pain that they feel like: A pain in the neck. They shouldn't be tolerated if there is a way to get rid of them.

Sometimes there is; sometimes there isn't. This sort of distress comes from different causes. Thickening of vertebrae in the neck (osteoarthritis) puts pressure on a nerve. A disc (the order "slipped" or "ruptured" disc between the vertebrae) does the same thing. Some ancestry of bone development such as a "cervical" or extra rib causes it. This can be corrected by surgery. An operation can also remove the pressure caused by a tumor. But by far-together two vertebrae.

Such correction must be decided upon only after careful study of X-rays, by electronics in advance whether it can be expected to succeed. If your husband hasn't consulted an orthopedist (bone specialist), he should.

However, there are several less drastic methods which help if the patient understands what to do and why he is doing it.

Since the trouble is pressure on a nerve, usually at the point at which it emerges from the spine, anything which removes the pressure relieves the pain.

Correct posture, which sounds so simple, is all that is needed for some victims. While awake, don't slouch. While sleeping, use of a higher or lower pillow sometimes does the trick. Learning to stretch out full length when sleeping (like to draw the spine out so no "kinks" or bends exert unwanted pressure between the bones) can be helpful.

Finally a simple neck-traction device, for the same purpose — to draw the vertebrae apart and relax the neck muscles — can be used at home after instruction by a doctor.

These simple measures have helped so many people that it is a shame to let anyone suffer from neck pains without knowing about and trying these remedies.

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 10, is anxious to gain weight. He is the typical "string bean" type and full of nervous energy — eats three decent meals a day plus an eggnog each night. Have you any suggestions? — Mrs. E.

Yes: Wait. These string beans grow that way. They have spurts of growing up and then spurts of growing out, and they usually have periods (whether they do or don't tell us) of wanting to grow faster than they are growing in one direction or another. If he just can't wait, give him some more between-meal feedings of high-calorie foods (malted milk, sandwiches, and such) which may add a little weight, and make him think he's "doing something" about it. Be careful that these are not times for us to interfere with his appetite at regular meals. What's about all you can do. Nature, you and I know, will solve things anyway.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any danger from sitting too close watching a 23-inch TV from a distance of eight feet or so, for 2 or 3 hours each night? And wear glasses? — Mrs. M.R.

No danger, but don't you get tired of it?

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Molner in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill. for a copy of his leaflet, "To Stop Those Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

THE PACKSACK

by GREGORY CLARK

For several years past, the sporting goods departments of the big stores, war surplus shops and even mail-order houses have been featuring a number of sporting goods stores that should know better. They are advertising packsacks by the word, old Lee Enfield rifles that the government is shedding in increasing numbers, from the arsenals of Canada and perhaps of the United States, and even some of the latest bargains have the brass butt-plate which had graced the rifle butts of men of the First World War. Maybe they have been dug up in Burma or Hong Kong, to satisfy the Canadian market.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP)—Industrials continued to gain strength while other sections of the stock market presented a mixed pattern in early morning trading today.

Gains on the main list were held to fractions. Texaco Canada showed the best advance with a gain of ½ to 45½. Abitibi, Aluminum, Acadia Atlantic and Northern Ontario Natural Gas all gained ¼.

Banks, one of Tuesday's stronger groups, were down. Toronto - Dominion dropped a point. Bank of Nova Scotia ¾ and Royal ½. Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce backed the trend and gained ¼.

On the exchange index, industrials were ahead 1.14 to 571.31 and base metals .17 to 189.95. Golds declined .05 to 85.93 and western oils .08 at 417.24. The 11 a.m. volume was 643,000 shares compared with 650,000 at the same time Tuesday.

The metals list was mixed with Consolidated Mining and Smelting down ¾ and Falconbridge ¼. Hudson Bay Mining advanced ¾. Among senior golds Hollinger gained ¼ and McIntyre Porcupine dropped ¼.

Western oils were extremely quiet. Home B advanced ⅛, while Pacific Petroleum declined ¼.

Late Tuesday the market bounced back in brisk trading to erase Monday's losses.

Industrials and base metals both climbed strongly, gaining more than two points each. Golds and western oils each edged slightly.

In banks Nova Scotia rose ⅛, Royal ½ and Toronto-Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce each ¼.

Steels also strengthened, with Algoma ahead 1⅛ and Atlas and Dominion Foundries and Steel both up ½.

Other gainers included Interprovincial Pipe Line, up ¾, Power Corporation ahead one point, and Trans-Canada Pipeline, ahead ¼.

Falconbridge spearheaded the base metals rise, jumping 2½ to 35¼. International Nickel followed one point while Noranda gained ⅜ to 31¼ after earlier touching a 1962 peak of 31¾.

Peg Record Tourist Hopes On Canada's Pegged Dollar 1963 May Be a Boom Year

By RON LEBEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Last May's devaluation of the dollar was received with mixed feelings by Canadians but American tourists seem to be all for the idea.

Preliminary statistics indicate travellers from abroad—90 per cent of them Americans—boosted their spending in Canada by an unprecedented 16 per cent this year.

Federal officials forecast that spending by foreign tourists will hit $550,000,000, a jump of $77,000,000 from the record $473,000,000 in 1961.

A Cross Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that all 10 provinces greeted Canadian tourists in record numbers this year despite generally cool, wet summer weather.

Federal and provincial officials agree the key factor in the tourist boom was the May pegging of the Canadian dollar at 92.5 cents in terms of U.S. currency.

HIGHWAY OPENED

Devaluation became an issue in the federal election campaign but American visitors had no reservations about it. With their dollar worth $1.08 they were quick to see the advantage.

There were two other lures—opening of the 4,860-mile Trans-Canada Highway and the Seattle World's Fair, which stimulated tourist business in the western provinces although it was a Washington State attraction.

The 4,859-mile highway was officially opened Sept. 3 by Prime Minister Diefenbaker after 12 years of construction. Most provinces reported sharply increased traffic on their sections.

"The Trans-Canada Highway is our biggest tourist attraction now," said Alan Field, director of the Canadian government travel bureau. He estimated that of 1,000,000 inquiries from prospective tourists handled by the bureau this year, one-third concerned the national high way.

MORE CAMPERS

There was a 20-per-cent increase in the number of visitors to national parks — 6,400,000 from 4,900,000 a year ago—reflecting the still-growing popularity of camping holidays, particularly among Canadians.

The federal parks branch is spending $24,000,000, this fiscal year to provide tent and trailer enthusiasts with modern services, including hot and cold running water, sewers, laundries, electricity and garbage collection.

Visitors to the 10 historic sites under federal jurisdiction numbered 1,025,000 compared with 902,000 in 1961.

The hundreds of provincial parks and picnic sites also drew more visitors, the number up 10 per cent or more.

But if more money came into Canada in the pockets of tourists, it also continued to go out at a rapid rate. Canadians still spend more abroad than foreign tourists spend in this country. They shelled out $329,000,000 in the first half of 1962 for an imbalance of $160,000,000 the same as in the first six months of 1961.

OPEN LONDON OFFICE

The travel bureau opened its first overseas office last June in London and it was kept busy handling 2,500 inquiries a month. Overseas visitors spent $44,000,000 in Canada in 1961 and officials are aiming for $100,000,000.

The bureau of statistics estimates that by the end of the year 2,900,000 cars will have entered Canada from the U.S. for visits of 48 hours or more. With the usual average of 3.2 passengers a car, this would mean 9,280,000. Air, rail and sea arrivals would boost it to more than 10,000,000.

British Columbia was a major beneficiary of the pulling power of the World's Fair across the border in Seattle, with more than 3,000,000 tourists compared with 2,250,000 a year ago. They spent $140,000,000 of $145,000,000 as against $115,000,000.

Alberta reports a 300,000 increase to about 30,000,000 with spending up $20,000,000 to a total of $90,000,000. Most tourists were attracted by parks in the Rocky Mountains.

With more than 600,000, Saskatchewan enjoyed a 10-per-cent increase in number of visitors and a $2,250,000 increase in spending to $25,000,000.

HOTELS BUSY

Manitoba tourist revenue was up about $2,000,000 at $20,000,000 with about 1,400,000 visitors or against 1,325,258. Business boomed at motels along the Trans - Canada Highway and tourists camps enjoyed a 10-per

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

CLEO H. — I say they'll never xxk you out a second time.

Nan F. — My friend, Cleo is refusing to double-date with me. She says I'm a wet blanket and spoil things for her. I know I have a much better time my way, which is to let a boy know as soon as possible that I'm not that kind of a girl. Then he knows how things stand and from then on we can have a pleasant date.

I'm 17 and I've had dates with both high school and college kids. The last one was with two brothers and Cleo. They were her friends. As soon as the wrestling began, I quit socializing and told Ken if he expected anything more than my company at the movies, he'd better ask someone else. Cleo says his brother assumed I was speaking for both of us and that's why they left early and the evening was a dud.

I think it was a nice evening and I bet they'll ask us again.

Cleo H. — Here I had hit a jackpot, two gorgeous men I met because my aunt knows their aunt. I looked forward to a wonderful winter. These fellows got to know me and share a big car, and can drive us, a gay whirl to all the football games, cocktail parties and hot spots we'd never get to otherwise. It was important to play things right and I did, onto them.

But Nan had to make it clear right off the bat that she's the original square from Squaredand. She could have put it in some sort of act, for the first date at least. Instead she started off with her sermon on how to act. I don't think Ken had any serious ideas when he put his arms around her. But she spoiled things for all of us talking like an old Sunday School teacher. I'll date alone from now on.

The Council: Want to know where most of the "squares" like Nan wind up, Cleo? Walking down the aisle with the cream of the marriageable crop, that's where! That hot water they throw on the first date dissolves all the cobwebs, and boys who want pleasant companions come back. Those who seek just one thing . . . keep seeking, elsewhere.

Perhaps Nan is too preachy in the way she comes right out and announces her limits, but she's wise to get the point across that it clears the air and turns the evening into one of relaxed enjoyment, rather than intense building-up to a crash.

From a boy's viewpoint this is often cause and a good one. He may think a girl expects him to maul her, even if he prefers to let her deliberately. He's relieved to be told that hand-holding is the ceiling for the first date.

It may comfort these friends to know that whenever surveys are held among teenage girls this very problem comes up as the top vexing . . . "How to decide how far to go on a date?" come out as the Number One worry among the senior girls in a California high school. They complained that society no longer defined clearly what dating and courting standards are acceptable, and they had a hard time defining these for themselves. How handle the sexy aggressive and a boy during a date? How hold the line, and still hold the boy?. . . these puzzles, believe it or not, were so widespread that the researchers recommended them as the basis for group counselling. "Most of the girls," the study concludes, "indicated they were ill prepared to understand and meet the sex demands of the boys they dated."

Instead of worrying about being asked out again by a first date, Cleo should worry about why her only way of holding a boy's interest must be petting. Sex kittens are for the movies. In real life they can turn into alley cats.

Nan is on the sounder track. So what if Ken doesn't call again: For wholesome attractive girls, the U. S. A. is full of young fellows. Even subtracting the "unavailables" there are 24,118,000 of them between 15 and 24 years of age. With or without Ken, with or without Cleo, she'll get to plenty of football games.

Tiddle will completely revolutionize this system by decoding, selecting and feeding information from the SAGE computers into the interceptor's flight instruments.

In other words, the SAGE computers on the ground will give commands to an obedient little black box in each Bomarc and Voodoo. The commands are given in numbers instead of words.

As soon as an interceptor leaves the ground, it is in the electronic hands of Tiddle. The robot supplies the course, altitude, speed and all other appropriate information that the fighter can intercept a hostile bomber.

Voice communication still will be used in Air Defence Command. But oral orders from the ground such as "Angels 35" (35,000 feet altitude) and "Buster" (full speed) will become more and more infrequent.

John Dempsey said he had tried to persuade his son to recognize the magnitude of any international question. He tried to explain that a small-scale force, "maybe commanded by some second lieutenant," can not hope to achieve any degree of success.

Bill Dempsey, on several occasions while at home here, talked about the threat of communism, his father said.

"He seemed to think we were not aware of it." ¶

Russia Promises India Will Get Jets Shortly

NEW DELHI (AP) — Soviet Russia has given assurances it will supply India with MIG 21 jet fighters "in December or a little later," Defence Minister Y. B. Chavan told parliament Tuesday.

Since the outbreak of India's undeclared border war with Red China there have been conflicting reports that the Kremlin would or would not honor its promise to deliver the MIGs, which might be used against the other Communist giant.

Six of the MIGs were originally scheduled for delivery in December and another six in January.

Last Friday reliable sources here said the Soviet Union had postponed delivery until a MIG factory it had promised to build for India is nearly completed.

This could take two to four years. Authoritative sources in Moscow later denied the report.

Asked about these conflicting reports in Parliament, the defence minister said:

"The Government has told our ambassador the MIGs will be supplied in December or in the middle."

He did not say how many would be delivered, however.

NERMU to MONCTON

Prime Minister Nehru intervened to say: "There was no question at any time of the Soviet Union backing out of the commitment they have."

"There was some difficulty," he added, "because of China but because of the world situation which rather critical because of what had already happened in the Caribbean."

This was partly the reason for uncertainty about the timing" of delivery of the Soviet jets, Nehru said.

"The main thing was establishment of a factory in India to finish," he said.

Nehru said that besides helping India build a factory to produce the MIGs, the Russians had promised "some for training purposes—samples."

The jets will come in December of this year, a few in 1963 and a few in 1964," Nehru said.

18 Hunters Die

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The 1962 big-game hunting season in New York State cost the lives of 18 hunters, about the same toll as in recent years. Thirteen hunters were killed by their own or other hunters' weapons, one died in a fall, and four died from natural causes. The hunters who died natural deaths all were over 50.

ville, Chatham, Peterborough, St. Thomas, Sarnia and Fonthill all rejected the question.

Despite support from many Ontario newspapers, doctors, dentists and other professional groups, only 30 of the provinces 200-plus municipalities have, or will soon have artificially fluoridated water.

Other communities, such as Stratford, Tillsonburg and Aylmer, have natural fluorides in their water.

Observers in Toronto noted a trend in which municipalities with a heavier concentration of young parents will small children voted in favor, while those with a higher proportion of older people voted against.

"The results in the different communities reflect the different age groups," said Dr. Gordon Nikiforuk, professor of preventive medicine at the University of Toronto.

But anti-fluoridationists apparently have not accepted defeat and said they are considering the possibility of court action to nullify the vote.

Moby Dick Did Not Last Long

unless but also on their branches in Canada. It was understood, however, that Jodoin feels the matter is not completely dead and that some satisfactory settlement can still be achieved.

INVOLVES AUTONOMY

Jodoin's position, it was learned, is that the question of Canadian autonomy is involved. International unions with head offices in the U.S. make up about 75 per cent of the CLC membership.

The Great Lakes shipping fight has been a factor in a general deterioration of relations between the two bodies. Hal Banks' Seafarers International Union has been expelled by the CLC but it is still fully recognized in the AFL-CIO as a branch of the SIU in the U.S.

At the Meany-Jodoin meeting were George Harrison, U.S. president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, and Frank Hall of Montreal, Canadian vice-president.

Their presence indicated the possibility that the role of Hall's union in the shipping dispute may have been explored. The railway clerks have been supporting the Canadian Maritime Union in opposition to the SIU.

2-d Sid-ey

2ND OF SIDNEY — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence MacDonald and children spent the day on Sunday with an aunt, Mrs. Levita Trono, of Stenabury.

The people of the community extend their sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson in the sudden death of her brother, Mr. Herbert Bulpit of Trenton.

David DeClerq was home on the weekend on sick leave having undergone his tonsils and is gradually improving.

George and Clifford Acker were callers of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers on Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. William Jordan and children of Whitby, spent the weekend with Sid and Mrs. Lloyd Bewley and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Chatten of Hilton and Heather Anne, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reid on Sunday afternoon.

Quarterly Plates For Commercial Vehicles Coming

TORONTO (CP) — Commercial vehicle licence plates will be made available for three, six, nine and 12 months in 1963, Transport Minister Auld announced in the legislature Wednesday.

Provision for quarterly plates, he said, was introduced to assist farmers and other persons engaged in seasonal occupations where a commercial vehicle is used during a portion of the year.

A different colored plate would be issued for each quarter at one-quarter the fee charged for full-year licences, said. Full year licences would be black and white.

To bring the supply of old plates in line with issue of the new plates, the transport minister said, the expiry for commercial plates date had been extended to March 31. All other licences would expire March 13.

In most cases entertainment and refreshments get almost equal billing with the speakers. The entertainment may consist of local singers and musicians, square - dancing, step - dancing or just plain dancing.

And there's no doubt that the emphasis is to be on entertainment rather than politics. Speakers tonight—Premier Walter Shaw, Parliamentary Secretary Heath Macquarrie, Provincial Secretary David Stewart and MLA Alban Farmer have been told to limit their remarks to two minutes each.

Fire Destroys Demorestville Home, Contents

PICTON — Fire completely destroyed the home and all contents of Mr. and Mrs. William Hamilton, near the village of Demorestville yesterday. The couple had left an hour earlier for work in Picton while their daughter, Gail, had left for Picton Collegiate on the bus. Neighbors noticed the blaze which had gained such a way. Loss is estimated at $10,000.

The community is arranging a shower for the fire victims to be held in Demorestville hall, Saturday night.

Council Offers $1,000 to Settle Suit

PICTON — Former town engineer Herb Gray has not replied to an offer to settle his suit against the town for one thousand dollars, solicitor R. E. Nourse advised town council Monday night. Mr. Gray had claimed $10,000 for wrongful dismissal and $4,250 for 8½ months salary to March 1, 1963. The writ was issued Oct. 24. Mr. Gray was dismissed by council "with cause" in June.

Mr. Nourse wrote "I am of the opinion that the sum of $1,000 ought, at this stage, to be paid into court, in full satisfaction of his claim. My reason for doing so is that it will probably be contended that dismissal was not effective until the date of the by-law which was the 13th of August 1962, and the $1,000, is now suggested be paid into court in full of his claim is the amount of his salary from the 15th of June, when he was last paid, until the 15th day of August.

"It might well be it would be held by the Court that the most evidence to which he would be entitled to his salary up to the date of the enactment of the by-law discharging him from the position of town engineer as of the 15th of June 1962, and from the position of building inspector as of the 13th August 1962.

Council did not discuss the matter but voted unanimously that the money be paid into court.

Former Mayor Dies Suddenly Of Heart Attack

PICTON — G. Nesbitt McKibbon, 69, who served eight years as mayor of Picton and in other capacities on council for a total of 21 years, died in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital early Tuesday morning. He suffered a heart attack the previous afternoon.

Funeral is being held in Picton United church at two o'clock Thursday afternoon with interment in Cherry Valley cemetery.

Mr. McKibbon became a town councillor in 1934, deputy reeve the following year, reeve for the next two years, mayor from 1938-45, then as councillor 1946-55 except for 1947-48-49 when he failed to gain a win the mayoralty.

Mr. McKibbon was prominent in fraternal, civic and church organizations.

A member of Prince Edward Lodge A.F. and A. M. No. 18, he was treasurer of Prince Edward chapter and Shekinah Club and a member of Picton Golf and Country Club.

Born in Athol township, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Stephen McKibbon, he was educated in Picton since 1927. He is survived by his wife, the former Constance Cottee.

Women's Institutes Want All Car Owners to Carry Full Liability Insurance

By GLADYS WARD

With a program based on the theme, "I am not afraid of tomorrow, for I have seen you yesterday, and I love today," the Women's Institutes of the Trent Valley Area opened at 10 Club Canara for their thirty-sixth annual meeting on Tuesday morning.

At the close of a reception committee of Mrs. Roy Badgley, Shannonville, and Miss Andrea Brickman, Carrying Place, who greeted the delegates. Registrations were in charge of Mrs. Mac Nobel, Mrs. Kenneth Jones, Mrs. Wm Brown and Mrs. A. Robinson, all of Belleville. Hot coffee and cookies were provided for those who had come some distance.

The platform was brightened with a decorated silver tree and Christmas sprays of pine setlas and pine boughs and potted chrysanthemums. Banners from the combined districts of Hastings, Prince Edward, Northumberland and Peterborough were hung at the windows.

Mrs. John Reid of Trenton presided at the opening session. With Mrs. Clifford Bartlett leading the singing and Mrs. Jack Parrott at the piano, the Institute hymn was sung and the Mary Stewart Collect recited in unison.

Two resolutions were presented by Mrs. Don Sandercock of Trenton for consideration at the convention. The first dealt with accidents on the highways resulting injuries and property damage. It was resolved to petition the Government of Ontario to make it compulsory for all owners of licensed vehicles to have insurance covering liability for damage and age. The second resolution concerned the necessity of conservation of trees. If Canada is to continue to be known as the Land of the Maple, trees must be planted and cherished for future generations. Straightening of roads has reduced shade trees and scenic beauty, and it was suggested that Arbor days would be a means of ensuring the increase of shade trees in Canada.

Mrs. T. M. Greshame of Colborne, introduced the guest speakers and officers of the area and presented each one with a corsage in the blue and gold colors of the Women's Institute.

ROLL CALL HELD

A pioneer event of your district was used as a roll call of districts. Mrs. C. Hubbs, of Foxboro, spoke for Hastings East, describing an old cemetery on the Bethel-Side area which had been neglected for years. It had headstones dating as far back as 1819. The Institute persuaded council to build a fence around it and clear the brush.

Mrs. Albert Bailey replied for Hastings North where the outstanding event was a visit from Countrywomen of many lands, including Finland, Australia, South Africa, United States and many more. The Institute entertained them at dinner in the United Church as they stopped on their trip from Ottawa.

For Hastings West, Mrs. Harold Phillips of Foxboro, told of an event in the family of one of the first settlers on the 9th of Sidney, when their five-year old daughter was lost in the bush. Indian scouts helped to search for her, but a halloterm barred their way. Five hundred searchers were organized and she was finally found alive. For eight days she had lived on berries, and had wandered barefooted in cold weather. She was almost a skeleton when discovered, but she survived.

Mrs. Earl Onderdonk, Carrying Place, said the important pioneer events were church services conducted by circuit riders. Large camp meetings were held. The White Chapel near Picton, was built in 1792 and completed in 1811. It was the third Methodist church to be built in Canada. It was a wonderful pulpit with a sounding board above it.

Third Sunday in June a service is held in commemoration of the oldest continuing church in Ontario, and it is well worth a visit.

Mrs. Wesley Bell of Bridgenorth, spoke for Peterborough describing the life of Adam Scott, who came to Canada in 1818 as a millwright. He built a sawmill in Cobourg, but it failed and he went to Peterborough where in 1820 his daughter was born, the first white child to be born in Peterborough.

Mrs. James Bird of Codrington replied for East Northumberland, with a description of the schooner "Speedy." In 1930 a picture was unveiled at Presqu'ile to commemorate the loss of the Speedy. About 1904, Presqu'ile was selected as the capital of the district, and all plans were made.

DRIVEN ON ROCKS

The Speedy with many prominent citizens of Upper Canada on board was to arrive at Brighton harbor, and houses were built along the shore. But a change of wind drove her on a rock, she sank and was never seen again. Following this disaster the capital was changed to Amherst, now Cobourg.

For West Northumberland, Mrs. F. Bilcox, Colborne, described Hastings, which is located between Grafton and Cobourg. It was one of the finest examples of Township architecture in Ontario. Preservation of the building is sponsored by the Township Council, with Council and the Architectural Conservancy of Ontario. A record 3,-000 visitors came there in June, 1962. It is now a museum and one of the articles on display is a piece of wedding cake from the estate of the late Alison Jamieson, the first woman in Ontario to receive a degree as Doctor of Medicine.

A report on Citizenship and Education was given by Mrs. Stevener, Mrs. William Harris of Havelock, with all branches and districts reporting. "Citizenship should be a prized possession, and we should all know it is a piece of work and duties as Canadian citizens are. A good Canadian does not just sit, he stands on his feet and accepts duty. Citizenship is the smile, the friendly greeting, the words of thanks for service rendered."

This is shown in our daily lives, by giving leadership in school affairs, acting on school boards, acting at polling booths, assisting needy families, by understanding our neighbors, and by learning co-operation in our own homes and communities. Some of the mottoes used were: the handclasp of friendship is stronger than any peace treaty; the Golden Rule adjusts, whether it polishes you up or wears you down depends on of what you are made.

Education is the door to success if the individual applies himself, making use of the talents God gave him, and the education provided for whatever his chosen course. Many trips were taken to Upper Canada Village where the displays of early Canada were rediscovered and enjoyed. Tours were taken to the county court house, and guided tours to Kingston TV station and Queen's University. Talks were given on many ways to make driving safer for the public; on the O.S.D. at Belleville; on the student drop - out problem. Prizes were given for public speaking, county scholarship assistance, local libraries to 4H clubs and girls' work, and first aid kits were supplied to schools.

GLEANINGS GIVEN

Mottoes included; readings is the basis of culture; rest not beneath the tree of knowledge, climb it; teen-agers need modesty, not critics. Some roll calls were: how parents can help the teacher; what I would do if I were Reeve; and the strength and weakness of the High School courses.

Gleanings from the District annuals were given by Mrs. H. Bird of Trenton, Mrs. and Mrs. S. Foster of Hillier. Mrs. Digweed found each meeting interesting with a good attendance and a good feeling of fellowship. Panel discussions at the annuals were lively. It was noted that more interest was taken in W.I. projects and fewer outside organizations were stated. There had been too much talk of inefficient farmers, not enough on modern living libraries, and more attention should be given to senior citizens' welfare. Girls' work should be encouraged. The speaker paid tribute to the Home Economist, Mrs. Smith. In Peterborough a new banner had been presented. The high light of the entertainment was a show of stuffed animals which were later used in a puppet show.

Mrs. S. Foster had attended four district annuals, where the conveners gave interesting reports. In East Hastings an impressive memorial service was held for departed members. In North Hastings a debate was given with the subject, "Women can take part in community affairs more than those who does not." In Pr. Edward 85 attended with a display of art, handicrafts and millinery, result of their win-

"Look at it this way, Ferguson, if I did give you a holiday I might find that we can do without you . . ."

"Take a long look into the past, and a long look into the future," the president continued. "Canadian women have got to take a more interested part in affairs of the world. We have got to respond to our responsibilities. we have had things too soft. We have not had to make sacrifices like the people of other countries. We haven't been over - concerned about what goes on at international levels. The world is at our doorstep, and we had better realize it and be as a friend than as an unknown. You sometimes do not know even your next door neighbor.

MAKE INFLUENCE FELT

There are six and a half million Institute members in forty countries and they should be using their influence felt at every opportunity. Sometimes we get the feeling that the Institute work is the beginning and the end. Some of this feeling will reflect all the way to Ottawa.

"This area contributed $863 to the Canadian Save the Children fund. So far $21,000 has been raised and this year we brought 1,000 layettes to Canadian babies and MacDonald Institute at Guelph. We gave $1,000 from the scholarship fund for rural education. She was extremely grateful for the assistance given, and we have a scholarship course, so she can be finished in one year.

"Overseas there is hunger and illiteracy there are obstacles, but when the people are fed and clothed they can be reached and helped. They not want charity, they want help so they can help themselves. A wise man said, Service is the rent you pay for the space you occupy on this earth. If we are going to be truly worthy of our citizenship we must accept our responsibility, we must become involved with things around us, we must be involved in the larger field of mankind. Every day the world comes closer to us.

"For years we accepted the fact that the best microscopes and lenses were manufactured in Germany. Now the lens and other parts are being manufactured in Japan and shipped to Germany. I was asked to sit on an advisory committee to promote the use of Canada wood. I was glad to do so. In my travels I have found beautiful articles made of wood and there is a solid here, and made in Japan. We are not pulling first things first. We are busy and shipped to Germany. I was asked to sit on an advisory committee to promote the use of Canada wood. I was glad to do so. In my travels I have found beautiful articles made of wood and there is a solid here, and made in Japan. We are not pulling first things first. We are busy and happy to work ten hours a day, six days a week and we are making more than ever before a week. We are becoming a lazy and slovenly people.

"In Australia they have accepted the fact of the European Common Market and are preparing to adapt to it and plan for it. They are an informed people and can discuss it intelligently.

"How can we know what is driving some of the other parts of the world when we do not know what pressures they are under. The meeting on the part of women for other women. Sometimes we build up walls of prejudice and use this prejudice as an excuse to keep from doing things. That wall can be broken down side if we really want to. Our goal should always be a little beyond our reach.

SAFETY VITAL FACTOR

"Sometimes we submerge our personalities to be one of a group. A pelican with a thousand gannets means nothing. Because you know people often sign anything to get rid of the person who wants them to sign.

"I don't think we know what public relations means. It means all of those things in every one of you do every day as a member of your organization.

"You have volunteers sitting in at the United Nations. They have been asked by the United Nations to do certain pieces of work, and you have gone to the United Nations and offered to do something for other countries if they will help you.

"It is a discouraging thing for officers to plan a meeting and have nobody come. It is a discouraging thing for members when they come to a meeting and nothing is planned.

"We must keep the lines of communication open. We must know our neighbor for what he truly is, and our foreign friends for what they really are. These values must be continually emphasized, and we must not sacrifice any of the ideals of our organization."

Mr. Moles from the Ontario Hydro Commission made a display to show the dangers and hazards that might happen around the home in the careless handling of electrical equipment.

Safety is a vital factor, particularly at this time of year," said Mr. Moles. "We need a safety campaign in the farm and home. Many of the electrical appliances from ten to thirty years old, and added appliances cause hazardous conditions. Wires into the house are often too small. The distribution panel is important, and blowing fuses is an indication of faulty wiring. It is cheaper to put in new distribution panels than to try to replace fuses with stronger ones as many people do. Wires and cords may cause fires. When buying Christmas lights, or decorations, be ratties or appliances always look for the Canadian Standard Association label which means they have been tested and approved. All areas should be well-lighted, especially those that are hazards such as the top of the stairs, garages, and roadways. All light should be able to be put on in the barn or other buildings quickly. Flashlights can save sight by good lighting, and read in comfort. All systems should be grounded. Polyethylene piping stops grounding. You should jumper it with copper wire to be absolutely sure. Any group may have a film or speaker by asking for it at the area office."

BRINGS GREETING

Mrs. Al Simpson, of Cobourg brought greetings from the Indian homemakers. The homemaker clubs have the same objectives as the Women's Institutes. The local club was organized in 1947. Mrs. Simpson spoke of famous Indians, including Tecumseh, who had contributed to the history of Ontario.

A quartet from the Codrington branch contributed two vocal numbers, "Silent Night" blending of voices, "The Bells of St. Mary's" and "The Hymn of All Nations."

The reception committee for the afternoon session was composed of Mrs. Ken Faul of Belleville and Mrs. Carl Hall of Harold.

Mrs. Geo. McCrimmon of Eldorado gave the report for the Historical Research and Current Events. Mottoes used included: If you are too old for something, do it anyway; a wise community preserves its records; live today, but remember yesterday; every privilege carries a responsibility; study the past, work in the present and plan for the future.

Some of the roll calls given were: a hobby I have chosen for my old age; a social custom of Grandmother's day; famous lovers; a current event of your childhood.

PAPERS AND TALKS

Papers and talks were given on Upper Canada Village; history of the old public school; John Glenn's space trip; why X-ray is so called; the life of Pauline Johnson. Articles included bus trips, and displays were given of old fashioned dishes; a fancy handwork or craft completed during the winter; a deed of a farm from the Crown; a plate 200 years old, and a wedding ring 106 years old, candle snuffers and a Bible written in 1700. Debates and films were given. Most conveners reported that current events were given at each meeting, and 39 Tweedsmuir histories were completed.

The delegates adjourned to visit the County Museum and Church Street, where a puppet show was put on for their entertainment.

TURKEY DINNER

A turkey dinner was provided in the Club Canara dining room at noon, and the head table was made by Mrs. R. S. Beatty. Those seated there were Mrs. Wm. Young, assistant secretary; Mrs. Grover Smith, Home Economist; Mrs. R. Robson, Co. President; Mrs. Ken Faul, board director; Mrs. Shearer, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Reid, 1st vice-president; her; Miss Eleanor Kidd from the Dept. Department of Agriculture, Toronto; Mrs. Jamieson, president of F.W.I.O.; Mrs. Beatty, 1st vice-president; Foster, Board director; Mrs. Gresham, 3rd vice-president; Miss Smith, home economist; Miss Spouse, home economist; and Mrs. Percy Ray, secretary - treasurer of the Area. Telegrams were proposed the toast to the Queen. Greetings were brought from the Belleville Council of Women by Miss Eleanor Kidd, supervisor of clothing home economics department. She urged the members to take advantage of the many services her department had to offer.

Mrs. E. Denyes and Mrs. N. Brown were in charge of the tidying of the dressing room.

On Tuesday evening the guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Gordon Wood, Mrs. Lock and Mrs. F. J. Payton of Lakefield, with Mrs. John Reid in the receiving line.

The Junior Institute report was given by Mrs. Grover Smith of Prince Edward county and included two W.I. districts, North Hastings with one branch and Prince Edward with two. All held the required six meetings. Demonstrations were given of flower arrangements, fancy sandwiches, Christmas wrappings, decorations and centrepieces. One branch had a meeting where a former junior member taught leather work, and other members used skirts and key cases. To add to the girls' interest in crafts, films were shown on "The Road to Sarpe" and "Habitant Arts and Crafts."

A strong recommendation was made for annual communication from the Sr. F.W.I.O. Jr. Institute board member to each Junior Institute branch.

WOULD BE HELP

Many Junior Institutes have a complete changeover in officers each year or sometimes within a year, and a yearly message from the more experienced girls on the board would be a great help.

Many worthwhile meetings, banquets and workshops were held in conjunction with the Junior Farmers. These included speakers from the department of Lands and Forests, Provincial Police, Ontario School for the Deaf, and representatives from the county farm safety council.

Christmas while gifts, indicating age and sex of the child were given to the county's Children's Aid Society.

Other joint activities included a Christmas party, chicken barbecue, a booth at the Plowing Match, public speaking and debating, square dance competitions, and a trip to United Nations. To raise money for projects the juniors sold mailbox signs and tickets on a CNR package tour, for two. Junior Institute members in this area are eager to do their part for home and country, and for self-help and community betterment.

Mrs. H. Digweed of Warsaw gave a humorous reading called "The Lady Boarder."

Colored slides of the Associated Countrywomen of the World at their conference in Australia were shown by Mrs. Lymburner. Travelling from Toronto to Vancouver and then to Tokyo, Japan, Mrs. Lymburner described in vivid detail her experiences. She and Miss McKercher travelled from the interior of Japan with an interpreter to visit farmlands. "The station at Tokyo was just a fantastic." Mrs. Lymburner said, "with trains coming and going every five minutes or so.

"The Japanese must surely be the busiest people on earth," said the speaker, "for all the rush our shoes were taken from us and sandals provided. Then our bath was prepared. We were given kimonas, and only after we were soaped all over and rinsed from a pail were we permitted to get into the sunken bath where three streams of water kept the bath hot. Six ladies were in the same bath.

"We visited a shrine that was over 800 years old, and were told by interpreters ever to visit that shrine. Flower arrangements in Japan are the quintessence of art.

DON'T SELL JAPS SHORT

"We visited a farmer who was considered to be extremely wealthy because he had twenty-five acres of land. The average farm is 2 or 3 acres. The farmer provides for his family, his parents and his grandparents. He is a very interesting factory, and a chicken farm where all eggs are marketed by a board.

"Don't ever sell the people of Japan short. They are very smar: and they know where they are going. They do not have how hard they have to work, they are happy just to have work.

"We saw degrading poverty in Hong Kong, living beside people of great wealth. The British have left their mark in deal there by putting 750 thousand in subsidized apartments. Everypore' too, is a sad place and seems to need a coat of paint.

"Sydney, Australia has been Americanized, but Melbourne is still British. Auckland is a beautiful seaport city rolling green hills. New Zealand is much like Canada. B. G. H. Board Of Governors Entertains

The staff and workers of the Opportunity Shop were entertained by the Board of Governors of the Belleville General Hospital at a tea on Nov. 28, at 2.30 o'clock in Education Hall.

The convener of the Opportunity Shop, Mrs. J. B. Casey, welcomed the guests, and expressed her sincere thanks to the ladies for their support of the work of the Shop.

Mrs. M. F. Jones, the president of the Hospital Auxiliary, of which the Opportunity Shop is a part, added her words of thanks to the workers, who give so willingly of their time, and expressed her special thanks to Mrs. Casey, who is doing such a fine job as convener.

Mrs. Jones introduced Mr. J. C. Yanover, chairman of the Board of Governors of the B.G. H., and Mr. W.O. Dasschel, superintendent.

Mr. Yanover expressed his thanks for the support which the Hospital Auxiliary gives to the B.G.H., and to the staff and workers of the Opportunity Shop, in particular, for their large share in the work.

There will always be a need for money for the Hospital, he stated, and especially so in view of the plans which are now under way, for increased facilities.

Mr. Dasschel also added his thanks, and stated that the Opportunity Shop did a three-fold public service to customers, to donors, and in the capacity of public relations.

Mrs. Casey conducted a discussion period in which suggestions were made concerning the best means in which the work of the shop could be carried out. Mrs. Casey closed this part of the meeting by stating that the Shop continued to grow, and that she hoped that 1963 would be the best year so far. She thanked her executive who are three prizers, Mrs. J. C. Young, Mrs. R. Vanevenderen and Mrs. R. Long; staff convener, Mrs. W. R. Bradshaw; recording secretary, Mrs. K. Bird; bookkeeper, Miss I. Eggleston, and treasurer, Mrs. W. Shand.

Mrs. Shand outlined the routine of the Shop from a financial angle, and added her thanks for the faithfulness and co-operation of the workers.

A social hour brought the afternoon to a close, with Mrs. J. C. Young and Mrs. Doris Donnely, both long-time workers in the Shop, officiating at the tea-table.

Club Activities

WOOLER MESSENGERS

WOOLER — The Messengers of the United Church met for their December meeting on Sunday morning, December 2, with 28 present. Mrs. N. Crosby and Mrs. J. Putnam presided.

Worship was taken from the December "World Friends." The Scripture was taken from Luke 1:26-38, read by Ian McCallum.

The offering was taken by Sandra Fox and Doreen Richards. The Korean song, "Bright Moon," was sung. Messengers enjoyed hearing the second and third chapters of their Study Book, "Sun Hee and the Street Boy."

Each family received the recent copy of World Friends.

Neighbors' Aid Names 1963 Officers

2ND THURLOW — The Neighbors' Aid held the November meeting at the Aid hall on Thursday afternoon with about 30 present. The president, Mrs. R. Portt, presided with Mrs. M. Mitchell at the piano. Thanks were extended to the hostess, Mrs. Gen Stratton.

Correspondence and thank-you notes were read from F. Vivian, G. Stratton, Mr. and Mrs. D. Morrison (nee Frances Jordan), for the community gift, and use of the Aid hall. Also thank you's from Mrs. D. Leeming, Mrs. O. Stratton, for sympathy cards.

Mrs. Robert Atkins told of letter sent to the child adopted by Aid.

The secretary read a summary of the meetings and activities for the year.

Mrs. A. Mitchell reported a successful year and gave the year's financial statement for euchres, strawberry social, afternoon teas and tickets sold on tea towels which amounted to about $62.

The auditors, Mrs. Harry Thompson and Mrs. Eric Leeming, reported the books neat and correct.

A vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Belnap, Mrs. G. Stratton for their efforts for making and embroidering tea towels.

A discussion took place on having the Hydro checked and some re-wiring done. It was decided to have it attended to soon as possible.

The president declared all offices vacant and asked Mrs. J. Chumbley to read slate of officers, with the following results: president — Mrs. R. Portt; 1st vice-president — Mrs. S. Ray; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. Ronald Atkins; secretary — Mrs. M. Dent; treasurer — Mrs. Arnold Mitchell; press reporter — Mrs. D. Atkins; auditors — Mrs. M. Mitchell, and Mrs. Robert Atkins; slate of officers for next year — Mrs. C. Keene; and Mrs. F. Tuepah; pianist — Mrs. M. Mitchell; assistant — Mrs. E. Grills; flowers up road — Mrs. M. Mitchell and Mrs. F. Grills; down road — Miss S. Stickney, and Mrs. R. Greatrix.

The president took charge.

Next meeting on December 12th with Mrs. J. Chumbley as hostess, with Mesdames H. Thomson; H. Grills; R. Portt; W. Lazaick to bake for December.

Mrs. H. Thomson, Mrs. J. Chumbley will convene euchre on December 14th.

Mrs. Harry Grills conducted the following program: community singing; poem, "Urge to Wonder," Mrs. Grills; travelogue, Mrs. Robert Atkins on their recent trip to Owen Sound, Detroit, Sarnia and Buffalo visiting many places of interest enroute; contest, "Jumbled Cities Across Ontario," with Mrs. Gerald Stratton having the most correct answers and Mrs. H. Thomson, low. There will be an exchange of Christmas gifts at the December meeting.

Lunch was served and social time enjoyed.

Women's Institute

WALLBRIDGE W.I.

The Wallbridge Women's Institute held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. D. Thompson. There was a good attendance. The president, Mrs. M. Phillips, was in the chair.

The treasurer gave a report on the proceeds realized from catering at the Belleville Fair. A letter from the Agricultural Representative, Mr. McDonald, regarding the safety place mats contest was read. It was decided to have each member bring a sample one to the next meeting, the best one to be chosen and forwarded.

Ten dollars were donated to the Trenton - Brighton Association for Retarded Children, also $10 to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society.

All were reminded of the area convention at Club Canada on December 4th and 5th. Mrs. D. Thompson is to be a delegate.

Instead of taking a bus trip this fall the members went out for supper to Page's Steak House.

Mrs. D. Shorey conducted a contest for Mrs. J. Cooper who was unable to be present.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and committee.

Chic Cocktail Costume

By TRACY-ADRIAN

Sepia Brown brocade in high trapunto relief was chosen by Adele Simpson for this handsome cocktail costume.

The notched collar, double-breasted coat features set-in sleeves and vertical seaming detail.

The story behind the coat is a white satin ascot that folds in shiny ripples over a spare princess dress made in the brocade fabric.

Zipper Is Now Enjoying Finest Hour in Singapore

SINGAPORE (Reuters) — The zipper is enjoying its finest hour in Singapore—enabling cheongsam slits, and male eyebrows, to rise as the lights dim.

The cheongsam is that simply elegant garment with a high, formal collar and provocative slits in the skirt which Chinese girls wear so well.

A few Western women try to use the cheongsam to exploit their charms, but not many can match the cool elegance of their Chinese sisters in this garment.

The basic style of the cheongsam is immutable, but the height of the slit is a matter of personal choice. More demure girls have the slit only a little above the knee. But from then on, the way is up, with only limiting factors being the courage of the wearer.

The more daring young misses of Singapore have the slits reaching two-thirds of the way up the thigh.

But the zipper has brought flexibility to the cheongsam. Thus, a girl can be innocently demure in the office and for general daytime wear, then tug at the zipper to raise the slit for the evening.

The zipper now in fashion can set the height of the slits anywhere from two or three inches above the knee to two-thirds of the way up the thigh.

The coming of the twist, too, has had its effect. The cheongsam fits like a glove, with little room for manoeuvring, and the extra height of the slits is needed for freedom in such dances as the twist.

Diocesan WA Observes St. Andrew's Day

KINGSTON — St. Andrew's Day was observed by the members of the Ontario Diocesan Woman's Auxiliary with a special devotional meeting in St. George's Cathedral Hall, Kingston. The Rev. John Neal conducted the devotional and Mrs. W. F. H. Mitchell presided.

The guest speaker, Mrs. A. J. Coleman, who is a member of St. George's Evening Branch; and also conducts a Bible Study Group, was introduced by Mrs. M. Noonan. Mrs. Coleman commenced by saying that "The Advent is one of the most difficult times of the year. It should be one of great expectation cumulating with joy on Christmas day. Instead, each day becomes more hectic with constant rushing and concern for material things, and the true meaning of Christmas is entirely lost.

"The greater part of the world does not adhere to the Christian faith, and according to the teachings of Christ, a true Christian is supposed to carry the gospel to all nations. Therefore, if only surface conditions are made and the frills of Christmas enjoyed, how can Christmas be meaningful to ourselves and others?

NOT RECITATIONS

"St. Andrew, if we allow him to be, can be a tremendous help. When he heard the words, 'Behold the Lamb of God' he got up, followed and stayed, firmly convinced that the Messiah with God wins the battle over evil. It is important that prayers, hymns and psalms not be recited, but absorbed and a meaning derived".

The speaker suggested that each sentence of a prayer be examined separately and searched for its message. Mrs. Coleman closed by stating that unless Christmas is observed in its true sense by all of us, we are an insult to the faith we profess to believe in and also to the world at large.

Mrs. Mitchell thanked the speaker and Mr. Neal pronounced the Benediction.

The Afternoon Branch served tea.

In Britain nearly a quarter of government civil spending goes on education.

St. Paul's UCW Sponsors 'Come And See' Tea

STIRLING — The U.C.W. of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, were pleased to welcome guests from Frankford, Eggleton, Marmora, Marsh Hill, Trenet, Mount Pleasant and Springbrook, and other local churches to the recent "Come and See" tea on Friday afternoon and evening.

The guests were greeted by the U.C.W. president, Mrs. D. Duffin, assisted by Mrs. Geo. Carlisle in the afternoon, and by Mrs. F. Hammersen in the evening.

Under the convenorship of Mrs. John Svoboda, the newly renovated Sunday school rooms were gay in red, white and silver in keeping with the approaching Christmas season.

Christmas and sacred music provided a pleasing atmosphere.

A silver tree, with silver and white ornaments centred the long table covered with a white fringed lace cloth. Presiding at the silver tea and coffee services were: Mrs. C. Davidson and Mrs. George Carlisle, honorary presidents; Mrs. J. L. Coad, vice-president, and Mrs. J. Ulmann, group-unit leaders, Mrs. Edwin Warren, Mrs. R. J. Patterson, Mrs. Jack Bush, Mrs. C. Richardson, Mrs. C. West.

Members of the various units served the guests and assisted in the bright, new kitchen.

The bake table with its array of delectable home baking, received generous patronage. Mrs. Alex Bush convened the bake table in the afternoon and Mrs. Ashley Brooks in the evening.

Mrs. Harold Johnson was general convener of this pleasant event.

ASKS NO PHONE ORDERS

TORONTO (CP)—A coroner's jury recommended Tuesday night that firearms should not be sold either through telephone orders or by mail order without a police permit or proof of age. The jury found that Terrence Ross, 15, of Toronto, shot and killed himself accidentally with a .22-calibre rifle he bought through a telephone order placed with a Toronto department store.

'Just Freezes' With the Boys

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—The other night I went to a church party and I didn't know any body. I didn't expect dancing as the other church groups I had been associating with didn't dance and I didn't either. I respect their beliefs but I couldn't change from the way my parents have brought me up.

I wasn't asked to dance and every time a "girl's choice" came up I froze. Whenever some boy came over I just stood, not looking at anything. I probably scared them away. If you could just give me a few tips to help me become better socially, I'd be very grateful. I like dancing but I can't seem to with boys.—BASHFUL.

DEAR BASHFUL—Settle your own problem first. Either you learn to dance or stay away from dances.

There's no room for an icicle at any party. Boys are bashful too and deserve help with mixing. If you can't smile and be pleasant, start thinking about someone else and it'll come more naturally.

DEAR DORIS—I have a son who has asked me to air a beef he has concerning girls. He says they expect too much and appreciate very little. They want to make all the decisions about dates, where to go and so on, but haven't even got the manners to thank them for it.

And many an evening costs more than a boy can afford. Also, they are ever ready to criticize us (boys) but think they are perfect. Just once he says he'd like to meet a girl that gives a little thought and appreciation to him for a change. He does try to please but wonders if it's worth while. (These girls are from good families too.)

How about it, girls?—MRS. D. S.

DEAR MRS. D. S.—Thank you. Is it true, girls? Are there times when we forget to show appreciation? Let's hear from you.

* * *

TO THANKS—I'd gladly send you my "Chart for Curves," but you haven't given me any clue as to who you are or where you live. Please write again, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR DORIS—After 15 years of marriage, I am looking for help. My husband has always been hard to get along with and it is getting worse.

We can never discuss a thing calmly. If he disagrees with me, he goes out to the little spare room over the garage and just stays there—even overnight. I always have to go and coax him back to the house and the bone of contention is never mentioned again. Lately he is spending most of his time out there.

I send my youngest son out to see him, but the others won't speak to him any more.—NERVOUS WRECK.

* * *

DEAR NERVOUS WRECK—Was there some deep hurt, years ago, which started him running away? Look closely at yourself for a clue. If you draw a blank, we must indeed suspect an emotional illness.

Your family doctor is the one who has the best hope of getting him to a psychiatrist.

TO DAWN D.—Next time he glances, try smiling and saying hello. Remember he's shy too.

* * *

(Doris can't begin to answer all enquiries in the column. To be sure of your reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

The Experts Say

Many Off-Beat Articles For Some Lucky Persons

By PATRICIA RUSAK

TORONTO (CP)—Is the man in your life one of those lucky creatures who have everything? In the Christmas shopping frenzy many women may feel this is the case, whether they're trying to pick gifts for fathers, husbands, brothers or uncles.

There are many off-beat articles from which to select. Does that hard-working executive have a touch-stone, for instance? It's a small piece of onyx that a man can hold in his palm and rub his fingers over. The effect is supposed to be tranquillizing, and this little gem retails in a Toronto department store for around $8.

There's also a solid walnut executive yo-yo. This gift will not only test the office man's skill and co-ordination, but can be used as a paperweight.

Also for the office man, there are available time-a-call telephone diallers that time calls up to six minutes; letter openers with changeable calendars and lighters on top; cigar cutters of gold, polished stag-horn or sterling silver.

Or how about a replica of a 18th-century flint pistol, $50—or an Aladdin's Lamp lighter for about $45?

You can get a parchment-covered ice bucket, with brass lid, for around $97.50. Presumably this would best suit the man who drinks only champagne.

For the calorie watcher, a Toronto specialty shop is featuring a doctor's scale plated in 24 - carat gold — costing about $195. The weight-watcher might also be grateful for an 18-carat gold pill box to hold his sugar-substitute pills.

How about an electric or battery-powered toothbrush, or an electric shoe polisher? A Toronto jewelry store sells one of the latter, complete with two brushes (for black or brown shoes) at around $25.

A variation on the old standard gift of a pair of cufflinks is a set that has slots in the side for hiding dollar bills. There are also bottle openers with poker dice attached; humidors covered in horse-hair; leather dice cups; decanter labels in sterling silver or gold, and a leopard-skin bathrobe.

You could get a brass dog tinter with a lizard trim for that bachelor brother who has everything.

The hunter is sure to appreciate a couple of steak plates in oak or hickory, and the skier might love to have a woollen ski mask or nose warmer. The latter comes in all colors, with a tassle on the end.

And the man in your life would probably marvel at your originality if you gave him a snuff box, and some snuff. At a leading Toronto jewelry store, gold snuff boxes start at $50.

40 Members Couples' Club Tour B. G. H.

On the evening of November 26, approximately (40) members of the Eastminster Couples Club enjoyed an interesting and informative tour of the Belleville General Hospital conducted by the Women's Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. J. E. Buchan.

They later adjourned to the church accompanied by a few members from Holloway St. Energetic Club where a business meeting followed the devotional presented by Ruth and Jack Field.

President Bob Graham turned the meeting over to group leaders, Harold and Lois Edey, who served a buffet luncheon.

GLAMOR TO TV WEATHER — Elaine Bedard, discovered as a French cover girl eight years ago at age 17, cuddles Gribou, one of two pet poodles, in her Montreal apartment. The model-actress-teacher added her grace and glamor to CBC's 701 television interview show as its weather girl during the summer. (CP Photo).

Elaine Bedard, Glamor Girl Of TV Thinks Women Should Try to 'Please Men' More

By JANET KASK

MONTREAL (CP)—The glamor of a cover girl, the grace and charm of Cio-Cio San, the independence of the modern career girl and the sagacity of the Frenchwoman — all these and more are what Montreal's Elaine Bedard is made of.

The 25-year-old model-actress-teacher blew on to Canada's English television this season like a fresh breeze and has captivated audiences—male in particular — as weather girl on CBC's 7:01 interview show and CTV's Pierre Berton Hour.

Her refreshing candor and gamin - eyed beauty quickly earned her the title of "TV personality."

Elaine is unusual, to say the least. She is one Montrealer who "loves Toronto." She finds the English more admirable than the French in some ways. And she chides North American women for not striving to "please men" more.

Her success story has a different twist, too. It began atop the Eiffel Tower where a photographer discovered her gazing down at Paris. She was 17 and had won a trip to Europe in a Montreal personality contest.

During the next few magic days her picture appeared in such publications as Paris Match and Le Figaro. She was swept off to balls Cinderella-style: At one, a perfume ball, she modelled a Lanvin gown named after the perfume Scandle.

Back home she was to become the most photographed color girl in Canada, called a "photographer's dream" by one prize-winning photographer.

Besides modelling, Elaine has done radio and television work on the French networks for several years, along with acting and cabaret entertaining. She sings and dances, too. Now she owns and runs her own charm school.

The slender five-foot-4½ brunette says that too often "60 per cent of a girl's qualities" are hidden by shyness. She feels Canada should have a system of finishing schools "similar to those in Switzerland and other European countries."

TALKS TO POODLES

An excellent advertisement for her own theories on charm, Elaine finds TV more challenging than live theatre because of the spontaneity. "In the theatre you know what you'll be doing night after night."

But TV has its difficulties. "You must keep renewing yourself and not getting dull for the audience."

Two poodles, Sascha and Gribou, make themselves at home in her tastefully decorated pink and mauve studio. "I love animals," she laughed in a disarming French accent, "but not so much cats as dogs. I have long talks with the poodles."

As for people, she finds the English "more discreet" than the French. "What I like about the English is they don't care what other people do."

When entertaining she likes both male and female audiences. "Women always make comparisons. Too bad we are that way but I guess we won't change."

Young Couple Presented With Gifts

2ND THURLOW — Over 70 friends, neighbors and relatives gathered at the Aid Hall on Friday night in honor of Mr. Harry Aikins and bride who were recen" married.

Right tables of euchre were enjoyed with prizes won as follows: ladies, Mrs. J. Chumbley; consolation — Mrs. C. Brown. Men: Ronald Whalen, consolation — Arnold Mitchell.

Mr. Sam Dean called the gathering to order and invited Harry and Marg to seats of honor and called Mrs. N. Keene who read an appropriate address expressing best wishes of all. Signed on behalf of the community by Mrs. C. Keene, Mrs. F. Tuepah; Mrs. G. Stratton; Messrs. Sam Dean and Jim Keene.

They were presented with a lovely dinette suite and service for six stainless steel flatware by Sam and Jim, assisted by Ronald Mitchell, Cameron Portt.

Harry and Marg made suitable replies thanking all for the lovely gifts.

They also received several lovely individual gifts; a lace table cloth, linen table cloth, vase, roast pan, pillow cases.

All sang, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows".

Lunch was served, after which dancing was enjoyed.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

AIDS TO ENTERTAINING

If you're planning to do a lot of entertaining over the holidays, it's well to take stock in advance of the grooming and primping equipment available to guests on the dressing table or in the powder room.

When a woman guest has a snagged hem or a chipped nail, she's often reluctant to seek out a busy hostess and ask for a pin or a bit of polish to do some patch work. A thoughtful hostess plans for such mishaps before they occur and considerately puts "wherewithal to remedy them in full view on the dresser or dressing table.

Many women, when they switch from one handbag to another, often find when they arrive at a party that they've left a compact or a lipstick back home in the brown alligator. If the night is rainy or windy, many a woman yearns to get her hands on a can of hair spray before facing a roomful of people with a wind-blown bob instead of the sleek coif she started out with. That's why it's well to make up a list of "staples" and another of "miscellaneous materials" to make sure the various needs of guests are adequately covered.

A "staples" list might include: face powder; disposable cotton balls or pads, possibly in an apothecary jar; a dispenser filled with cleansing tissues; a jar of cleansing cream or a bottle of cleansing lotion; a selections of lipsticks (pink orange and red are basics); a selection of nail polish in the same shades; polish remover; an emery board, nail file and nail scissors (these might be included in a small kit); hand lotion; a small clothes brush; hair spray; a comb; a liquid make-up base, "just in case"; a box of hair pins and bobby pins; a bottle of cologne and another of perfume in a neutral floral scent that's not apt to be overpowering on anyone.

A list of "miscellaneous materials" that would cover practically anything might include: a sewing kit complete with needles and thread in a variety of colors; a little box of snaps, hooks and eyes and tiny safety pins; a jar or box of buttons in different sizes and colors; a roll of adhesive tape (this comes in handy when a garter flews and a stocking needs an emergency fastener and a roll of scotch tape, which seems to have many uses — from fixing a broken nail to securing a broken strap.

"Must" items, of course, should include a well-lighted mirror, plenty of guest hand towels (decorative and disposable soft paper towels are as appropriate as pure linen), a waste paskt and attractive hand soap. A small floral arrangement, it might be added, always adds a final touch of warmth and color.

Sidney-4-H Club Decides On Name

The second meeting of the Sidney South 4-H Homemaking Club was held recently at Mrs. Meens.

The club decided to call its assembly the "Sidney South Sewing Sisters".

Next meeting is to be held on the evening of December 5 at Mrs. Meens.

The leaders led in a discussion on altering a pattern and in demonstrating on how to prepare the material for cutting. The patterns and material were shown which the members had bought and the leaders discussed the choices.

After the home assignment was given the meeting adjourned.

Melrose Women's Institute Visited by District President

MELROSE — The November meeting of the Melrose W.I. was held in Melrose Community Hall in the evening with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. M. Lagier, opened the meeting and welcomed everyone present and thanked the hostesses Mrs. J. Sherman and Mrs. G. Stratton.

Correspondence was read and business transacted. Mrs. J. McLaren and Mrs. A. English were chosen as delegates to attend the area convention in Belleville and the two resolutions to be presented at this meeting were discussed.

A photo of the Korean family of Yong Soon Sim (the young girl adopted by Melrose W.I.) was on display and postage on letters to Korea require 6 cents stamp.

DISTRICT PRESIDENT PAYS VISIT

Mrs. Lazier introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. T. Kelly, district president who gave a most interesting talk. She recalled pleasant memories of the School Fairs which were held at Melrose years ago, and at which she had taken part in the Public-Speaking Contest, choosing as her topic "The Value of the Consolidated School."

She brought the W.I. up-to-date on district happenings and reviewed her visits to several institutes. She reported that the new "Banner" was ready and would be displayed at the area convention and mentioned the recent A.C.W.W. conference in Australia, and compared it to a large wheel which cannot function without the help of the various branches, stressing the importance of the individual member, each with a special talent which helps to give it variety. Do not feel that you can not contribute your being present helps a lot and never overlook the little man.

The ladies 65 years ago formed the Institute to help one another and to improve themselves. They set a high goal for W.I. members with the whole world as the object.

The value of co-operation cannot be understimated and each one remember the last line of the Mary Stewart Colect 'Let us not not forget to be kind."

Mrs. J. McLaren thanked Mrs. Kelly for her thought provoking talk and presented her with a small gift in appreciation of her visit.

PROGRAM

At this stage, Mrs. Earl Badgley, leader for this month, took charge of the following program: community singing of the "Institute Carol," followed by Mrs. K. McMechan, who dealt with the motto, "Far Away Fields Look Greener". Mrs. D. Thompson read a short poem, "The Price of Milk," after which Mrs. R. Badgley gave a piano selection. Mrs. L. McFarlane gave a humorous reading, entitled, "Does it Pay to be Perfect?" which dealt with the growing of mushrooms and the fertilizer so necessary for their success.

Miss Christine Badgley favored with a dainty lunch after which Mrs. E. Pascoe read a poem, "The Farmer Feeds Them All."

Mrs. C. Weese reviewed the highlights of a speech given by Mrs. Higgins, who had attended the A.C.W.W. Conference in Australia.

Mrs. E. Badgley dealt with an amusing subject, "A Word to Wives," after which Mrs. Thompson favored with a solo, "Friends and Neighbors."

The "Art" contest proved most amusing as three teams competed in drawing an article chosen with Mrs. McMechan's group proclaimed the winner. This item brought a most interesting session to a close.

Refreshments were served and a social time was spent.

Chapter 278 OES Installs Officers at Masonic Temple

CAMPBELLFORD—The Masonic Temple here was decorated with potted plants and ferns on Wednesday night when the annual installation of officers of Campbellford Chapter No. 278 of the Eastern Star was held.

Mrs. Iva Carlaw was installed as Worthy Matron and Mr. Elden Carlaw as Worthy Patron for the year.

The toast was assisted by Mrs. Helen Marston, G.M., and past matrons and patrons of Campbellford Chapter.

Mrs. Irene Brady, P.M., presented the retiring Matron, Mrs. Helen Meyers with her jewel and Mr. W. H. Brady, P.P., presented Don Meyers with his past Patron's jewel.

Guests were present from Chapters in Port Hope; Colborne; Warkworth; Trenton; Belleville; Marmora; Bancroft; Havelock and Peterborough.

After Chapter closed, Mrs. Maythel Peeling and her committee served lunch and a social hour was enjoyed.

Sydney Jr. F. Hold Court at Aikens Hall

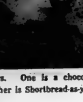
On November 29th at Aiken's Hall at 8.15 the Sidney Junior Farmer court came to order with Wayne Moore presiding. The prosecuting attorney was Rosemary Bush the sheriff was Bob Hamilton. The jury consisted of Barbara Sandercock, Beverley Clapp, Joan Vandervoort, Kari Loney, Carl Grills and the foreman, Arnold Dodds.

Those tried for various crimes such as not going straight home, skipping Conferences and staying up all night were: Wayne Frost, Wayne Moore, John Dudgeon, Bob Hamilton, Evelyn Harry, Joan Vandervoort, Janet Hamilton and Mary Willman.

All were found guilty and sentenced to punishments which the judge thought suited the crime.

After court adjourned, lunch was served and the meeting was closed with recreation.

Mother's Helper



YOUR YOUNG ARTISTS can make unusual pictures with colored tissue paper, glue and cardboard. Paint the cardboard generously with a half-and-half solution of water and the type of glue that is transparent when it dries. Drop pieces of tissue on the surface, push them into designs with a brush.

If you want to make goodies for gifts, be a smart operator and bake while the family is out. The sweets Mary Moore gives today invite raiders. One is a chocolate confection and the other is Shortbread-as-you-like-it.

Giftie Cookies

by Mary Moore

One of our offerings today is not a cookie — it is a confection. It made such an impression on our visitors that I became more impressed with it myself by the minute. I am offering to our Bittersweet Balls which my brother and niece and son compare to the light and dark chocolate "truffles" sold at Sprungli's in Zurich in Switzerland.

Both recipes today are of this same high calibre and their purpose is for gifts or holiday and high tea occasions.

SHORTBREAD AS-YOU-LIKE-IT

1 cup butter (room temperature)
½ cup sifted icing sugar
2¼ cups less 2 tablespoons sifted all-purpose flour

Cream butter and sugar until light. Add flour and work until blended in and smooth. Then turn out dough onto lightly floured board and knead until dough begins to crack. Flatten dough to round about 8" in diameter and chill, covered, on plate. Roll dough out to ¼" thickness with lightly floured rolling pin and cut with fancy cookie cutters. Decorated with "silvers", blanched almonds, sliced candied cherries, colored sugars. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. about 8 to 10 minutes. Do not brown. Preferably underbake. Makes about 4 dozen.

WEDNESDAY (Guests)

Dinner Menu

Yule Meat Pie (see Tuesday —trial run — to serve 8, make half recipe); Tossed Greens; Lemon French Dressing; Cherry Compote (see Monday) topped with Zabaglione (see Monday); Coffee.

BITTERSWEET BALLS
(like Swiss "truffles")

1 6-oz. package chocolate pieces (or 6-oz. semi-sweet chocolate broken)
2-3 cup (1 small can) evaporated milk (or vanilla-flavoring—to essence, peppermint, cinnamon
1-3 cup very finely chopped walnuts (preferably freshly cracked)
1-3 cup desiccated cocoanut
1-3 cup chocolate shot

Melt chocolate in double boiler being sure boiling water below does not touch bottom of top of double boiler; Stir in evaporated milk and cook, uncovered, for 40 minutes, stirring often. At this stage ours measured 1 cup. Divide into 3 cup portions. To one add ½ teaspoon rum flavoring. To another add ¼ teaspoon peppermint flavoring and to the third add ¼ teaspoon cinnamon (powdered). Chill 3 hours. Shape rum flavored chocolate into ¾" balls and roll in the finely chopped walnuts. Shape peppermint flavored chocolate into 1" patties 3-16" thick and coat with the desiccated cocoanut. Shape the cinnamon flavored chocolate into 1¼" logs 3-8" in diameter and roll in chocolate shot. Place on waxed paper to set. Store these in 3 layer carefully. If to be kept any length of time refrigerate.

Wife Preservers

To hold green peppers together while baking, run a toothpick in the holes of a cup-cake pan.

Many Friends Honor Newly Married Pair

HALLOWAY—On Saturday evening, about 50 friends from the community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Emerson to honor the newly-weds, Mr. and Mrs. John Emerson.

Mr. Roscoe Robson was master of ceremonies and presided over a brief program.

Mrs. Elmer Tufts and Mrs. Fred Wellman gave readings.

An address expressing appreciation and best wishes was read by Mrs. Embury Hough, and the presentation of a beautiful gold upholstered swivel rocker chair and a large picture was made by Ronald Denyes and Ray Cronkwright.

John and Carolyn thanked their friends and invited all to visit them in their home in Belleville.

Lunch was served by the ladies and an enjoyable time was spent by all.

KEEP FEMININITY

MONTREAL (CP) — Mayor Elizabeth Wood of New Westminster, B.C., said here that women in public life should strive to keep their femininity because "ladies are treated as ladies should be."

Liberal Party Will Not Extend Separate School Plan Beyond Present Level

- - Wintermeyer

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer has told the legislature that his party would not extend the Roman Catholic separate school system in the province "beyond its present level."

In his reply to the speech from the throne, Mr. Wintermeyer said Tuesday the Progressive Conservative government's proposed legislative program combined "little that was new clearly and precisely, and it left a great many things unsaid."

He said his party would provide elementary separate schools with a more equitable share of the tax dollar. The leaders of all three parties in the legislature have indicated they favor a more equitable tax share for separate elementary schools.

A brief sent to members of the legislature last October by Ontario Roman Catholic bishops advocated an extension of the separate school system beyond the present level.

WON'T ESTABLISH

Mr. Wintermeyer said a Liberal government would not establish separate teachers' colleges — also proposed by the bishops.

He said all tax - supported schools, separate or public, would be able to provide a basic high quality of education under what is known as the foundation program of finance.

"This government's throne speeches are rather like a work of long underwear," the Liberal leader said, "not very stylish but big enough to cover the subject without being too revealing."

He climaxed his speech by moving an amendment to the throne speech which would express regret that the government had failed to enunciate a program of tax adjustments and incentives for industry, failed to introduce a $1.25-an-hour minimum wage for men, failed to introduce labor-management councils and failed "to introduce a comprehensive prepaid, service plan of medical care insurance, without unnecessary fees, for all the people of Ontario."

CRITICIZES MOST POINTS

Mr. Wintermeyer's criticism ranged over most of the points of the 7,500-word throne speech which he said illustrated "a sad but inevitable fact of political life that governments are prone to some hoarding gifts at election time."

He also told the House that the Liberal party expected the three vacant seats in the 98-member legislature to be filled "without undue delay."

Two of the seats became empty through the deaths of the Conservative members for Hamilton and Sault Ste. Marie and the third through the appointment of former labor minister W. K. Warrender.

Mr. Wintermeyer called for redistribution of electoral districts, at present under study by a three - man independent commission, and said that "while the need for redistribution exists in many areas throughout the province, it is most critical in Metropolitan Toronto."

With the largest riding in Ontario having more than 120,000 voters and the smallest fewer than 15,000, he said, "there are many hundreds of thousands (of voters) who are not adequately represented."

The redistribution commission has not yet reported to the House, Mr. Wintermeyer said, has "pressed Premier Roberts for an indication of when a report might be expected.

PREFERS STUDY

The Liberal leader said the throne speech revealed "that this government prefers a course of study to a course of action, that its thinking is done for it by committees and not by the cabinet and that it has no policy but expediency,".

Although "the throne speech contained references to some 15 committees and commissions—real, promised and imagined," he said, "there is not one reference to the reality of the royal commission on crime and to the significance of its work for the people of Ontario."

The Liberal party "believes that the vital issues affecting the people of this province are those of full employment and economic growth, of the adjustment of our economy to the challenge of the Common Market and the movement towards free trade by the United States, of the need for greater cooperation between management and labor, of the need for clear-cut, long-range government policies (in agriculture) . . . the need for education equality in elementary and secondary schools, and the need for a comprehensive, service plan of medical care insurance.

"Little specific from the throne is vague and half-hearted about the government's policies and programs in these matters."

'ONLY NIBBLING'

On employment and economic growth, Mr. Wintermeyer said there is "government measures were "only nibbling at the problem".

"If the minister (Economics and Development Minister Macaulay) really believes his own statistics and advertising that domestic 'buy Canadian' campaign can create 60,000 more jobs in Ontario, then he is deluding himself and the people of Ontario."

"Consumers in Ontario will buy Ontario products only to assist them if they are competitive in price and quality . . . Lie essence of the problem, and the challenge with private investment in the establishment of enterprises . . . "

The Liberal leader advocated the formation of a council of economic advisors, composed of economists, management and agriculture representatives "to study all current economic trends and report their findings into the controllable future."

SUGGESTS COUNCILS

Government should also, he suggested, establish "within the economic council occupational area labor-management councils," aimed at promoting the co-operation between employers and employees.

Further, "the owners and managers of industry should consider the formation of an association of employers authorized by law for negotiation as a whole, and empowered to consult with government and labor on a province - wide basis on agreements governing the economic ground rules of our economy."

On education, he said the Liberal party is committed to the principle that every student in the province should be charged to all land and property, payable to the local school boards, which would be solely responsible for the difference between the local uniform levy and the money required to provide a reasonable, high uniform quality of education."

625 Reindeer Will Be Shot To Thin Herd

REINDEER STATION, N.W.T. (CP) — The annual slaughter of reindeer is under way at this Mackenie River Delta settlement 1,200 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The meat from the slaughtered animals is sold to residents in the delta area and other communities in the Far North.

Graeme Douglas, assistant superintendent of game for the Northwest Territories, says 625 animals will be shot here. Seventy-five reindeer were slaughtered last month at Tuktoyaktuk, 65 miles northeast of Reindeer Station.

The number of animals to be slaughtered this year is larger than usual.

"The herds are growing at a fast rate and are becoming larger than we are set up to handle," Mr. Douglas said. The present reindeer population in the territories is about 9,000.

Canada Has No Nuclear Arms Says P. M.

OTTAWA (CP)—All cabinet members know that Canada has no nuclear weapons, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday in the Commons.

This was his reply to opposition Leader Pearson who asked Mr. Diefenbaker to inform his colleagues and the Commons on the subject in view of the remark attributed to Trade Minister Hees in Toronto Monday that Canada has no nuclear arms "as far as I know."

Mr. Hees was reported to have corrected himself after saying originally that Canadian troops in Europe are armed with nuclear weapons.

Mr. Pearson said in reply to Mr. Pearson that he had referred to weapons capable of carrying nuclear warheads, not the warheads themselves, and that the reporter had "misunderstood."

THINKS HE'S WRONG

Hugh Herridge, from the Liberal benches and cries of "misquoted again."

QUESTIONED FURTHER

Mr. Pearson also questioned Mr. Hees about the statement attributed to him that some government departments were too large to know the details concerning nuclear weapons.

Mr. Hees said he had been asked details about certain weapons and had referred the matter to the defence department.

H. W. Herridge (NDP—Kootenay West) asked: "Is NATO a nuclear power?"

This question apparently referred to another statement attributed to Mr. Hees that Canadian troops in Europe are armed with the same weapons as NATO forces.

Defence Minister Harkness said NATO is an alliance of 15 nations of which three have nuclear arms.

Four Company Heads Forecast Good Business

HAMILTON (CP)—Presidents of four major Canadian companies Tuesday night gave optimistic forecasts for business in 1963.

The forecasts, given at the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce annual "presidents' night," were by George H. Blumenauer, of the Otis Elevator Company Limited; C. Sherman Jeffery of the International Harvester Company of Canada Limited, T. M. Mayberry of Firestone Tire and Rubber Company of Canada Limited, and Donald J. Clawson, vice-president of the Steel Company of Canada and moderator of the panel, with journalists.

"It is quite apparent that the panelists are cautiously optimistic, but bullish on business prospects. Next year will be at least as good as 1962 and probably a little better.

"It looks as though the economy will continue its slackening a few years back, resulting in a serious unemployment problem last year, but received some new momentum with consequent benefits for everyone."

Steel, based on Dofasco 1962 results that were the best in its history, expects a five-per-cent annual increase in tonnage in the next five years.

MAKE FORECASTS

Some other forecasts made during the discussion:

The automobile industry, now completing its second-best year on record, expects production and a sales to slacken only slightly from 1962's pace.

Rubber tire sales may hit 10,000,000 or 500,000 from 1962.

Farm equipment sales on the domestic market are expected to remain stable while the export market expands.

OFFICER RETURNED

HALIFAX (CP)—A Canadian naval officer missing for more than six months was returned to Canada Tuesday night to face possible disciplinary action. Lieut. Oliver Grenon, 35-year-old former weapons officer aboard the destroyer - escort Kootenay, attempted to conceal his face from photographers after arriving at the Shearwater Naval air station near Dartmouth, N.S.

Senators Will Call Each Other by Their Names

OTTAWA (CP)—The honorable members of that august body, the Senate of Canada, have finally got around to calling each other by their names, after 95 years.

The senators Tuesday night unanimously abolished a rule requiring them to refer to colleague only by their official designations.

Thus, when senators formerly addressed or referred to Senator Wishart McCutcheon, minister without portfolio and a key adviser to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, they had to call him "the honorable senator from Gormley."

Each senator chose his official designation after his appointment and most of them selected the name of their home town or county. But there were some interesting variations on the theme.

Senator Charles (Chubby) Power is the senator from Gulf, Senator Calletta is Savoie from L'Acadie, and Senator Michael G. Basha is from West Coast.

The rule was described Tuesday night as "completely illogical," "rather childish," "artificial" and "silly."

"After all, why do we have names?" remarked Senator J. W. deB. Farris (Vancouver South), who introduced the motion.

Senator H. deM. Molson (Alwood) said the rule has been broken more often that it has been observed anyway.

Senator Maurice Poulliot (de la Durantaye) suggested that the Senate "put the axe" to other rules "of a past age." For example, why not call the House of Commons by its name, instead of referring to it as "the other place."

He said the rules were "the relics handed to us old days in Britain when the House of Commons and the House of Lords were locked in a power struggle and "the big barons were jealous of the power of the little barons."

Adlai Stevenson May Be On Way Out Over Cuba

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Adlai Stevenson may be on his way out as a power and influence in the Kennedy administration. Cuban crisis policy has raised the stature of those who advocate a tougher line against communism.

The perfunctory support President Kennedy gave to Stevenson's proposals in a speech and a magazine article (Saturday Evening Post) attack appears to be the man who swings the presidential ballot is losing his influence with the administration.

Stevenson may continue as U.S. ambassador at the United Nations but the magazine article, according to him of having sought a more cautious line before the president decided to impose a blockade undoubtedly undermined his prestige.

The trend seems to follow the pattern of the Eisenhower years of Chester Bowles, another liberal who quarrelled with the Republican state department and the Kennedy team. Reports of Bowles' expected removal as undersecretary of state were denied amid public whisperings of his ineffectiveness until it was announced that he had switched to a White House post that now has proven obscure and minor importance.

Both Chester Bowles and Adlai Stevenson have advocated a "new look" in foreign policy. Stevenson's approach appears to be out of tune with the times in the United States government, which is to the intellectual. He thinks in terms of the underdeveloped countries or something akin to them, and believes the Communists can be defeated in the long run economically through peaceful persuasion.

But Kennedy's hard-line policy on Cuba paid off. He got the Soviet nuclear weapons out of Cuba without war. He forced the Russians to retreat. Barring some great misadventure, Kennedy's position in the world appears assured. He now can afford the luxury of reorganizing his administration to bring in men with ideas more closely akin to his own.

Stevenson may continue to speak at the UN; may continue to attend cabinet and national security council sessions, but his words may lack the authority they once had.

Police Officer Says Others Shared in Loot

CLEVELAND (AP)—A veteran city patrolman who was trapped in the act of a burglary said Tuesday 10 other policemen shared in the money he took in a series of thefts, Police Chief Frank Story reported.

William Marlowe, 40, a patrolman on the city force for 11 years, was arrested early Monday after he came out of a lumber company office on the West Side.

Police said he admitted the theft in marked bills he had in his possession were taken from a safe inside the lumber firm. Marlowe's superiors said they had put the money there to trap him.

Police continued to question him and they said he signed a statement in which he named patrolmen implicating other patrolmen in his West Side district.

Lt. Jim Kelley, who is heading the investigation, quoted Marlowe as saying he took the money because of financial need. In June, 1961, because he was in financial trouble, Story said an estimated $2,000 to $3,000 was taken during that time but no merchandise as far as he could determine.

"I'm astounded by this whole thing," Story said. "I am convinced all these men are guilty. None of those implicated had anything to say about the accusations. Possibly they were frightened and didn't know what to do at the time."

Marlowe, a father of seven, has resigned from the force, Story said he would be charged with burglary and larceny.

Council Turns Deaf Ear to Owner's Plea

OAKVILLE (CP)—Town council turned a deaf ear Monday night to A. P. Groote's plea to protect the family from bearded neighbor Peter Stickland's 36 pet alligators and crocodiles.

Mr. Groote said the crocodiles violated his moral right to quiet enjoyment of his property. He said the odor from Stickland's, and the danger to children, seriously deteriorated his property's value.

Mr. Groote added: "I do not want my wife and two small children maimed. It is council's duty to provide protection."

Council refused to reconsider its stand on a proposed bylaw which would prohibit more than four reptiles or lizards from residential areas. Council decided last week not to proceed with the bylaw.

Councillor McLean Anderson said he noticed no foul odor when he visited Mr. Stickland's home and recalled that Mr. Stickland had agreed to build an eight-foot fence around his property to prevent the reptiles from escaping.

Nehru Inspects Front Lines In Assam Area

NEW DELHI (Reuters)

Prime Minister Nehru flew to Assam today to inspect Indian front lines along the disputed northeast frontier with Communist China.

Informed sources here said Nehru would meet local army commanders and repatriated troops and judge for himself the Sino-Indian three-week cease-fire and withdrawal after fierce border fighting last month.

Tuesday, a 23-man party of doctors and stretcher bearers left Tezpur, the key Indian post in Assam, for the Chinese-held post of Bomdilla to repatriate the wounded Indian prisoners taken during the fighting.

Cannot Be Sure Blast Will Stop Oil Well Fire

MEDICINE HAT, Alta. (CP) Fire at a natural gas well southeast of here continued running wild today and famed firefighter Red Adair says he can't guarantee he can put it out.

"This fire is mean," Adair, his face red from the heat, said Tuesday.

The blaze, on the Pendant d'Oreille field, has been burning for four days. Home Oil Company, one of four firms which have an interest in the well, called in the 47-year-old Texas battler last weekend.

Adair, noted for his success in extinguishing oil and natural gas fires, said "there are a lot of technicalities like the fact that this well is connected to two productive gas levels. Who knows what will happen if the lower-level connection erupts to join the stream flowing now."

The well, in a gully on the open prairie 15 miles north-of the Alberta - Montana boundary, is spewing a stream of white sulphur feet of natural gas into the air each day.

Adair said he can only hope that his plan to use a charge of high explosives will extinguish the fire. The charge is designed to create a huge concussion that, well-head, putting out the flame.

"It's worked on other similar fires," he said. "But you don't write a guarantee."

Adair plans to set off the explosives probably Thursday.

Former M. P. Takes Blast at Certain Group

MONTREAL (CP) — John Farrah, a former member of Parliament, said Tuesday a group of members in Ottawa, "who have their own headquarters," has often been found drinking or playing cards in some remote corner of the city.

He was commenting, in a radio broadcast, on recent charges that a number of delegates were not seen at any time during the conference, spending their nights "drinking and sleeping by day." Pigalle is one area of night-life in Paris.

Mr. Farrah was defeated in the June 18 federal election in Jacques Cartier constituency by Gerard Cournoyer, Union Nationale member for Hochelaga.

Mr. Farrah said, "It is hard a number of elected representatives in Ottawa, including some who are not only lack ability to handle their jobs properly but who are either completely unaware of their incompetence or don't give a damn . . . "

Mr. Farrah was defeated in the June 18 federal election in Jacques Cartier constituency by Gerard Cournoyer, Union Nationale member for Hochelaga. He had won the seat in the 1957 and 1958 general elections.

Car Insurance Rates Will Be Up Next Year

TORONTO (CP)—Car insurance rates in Ontario will increase an average of eight per cent next year, the Canadian Underwriters' Association announced Tuesday.

The association said rate increases will vary from four to 15 per cent, depending upon area.

The association, representing 100 auto insurance firms, roughly half the number in the province, said rates are expected to go up by four per cent in the Metropolitan Toronto area and by slightly less in Niagara Falls, Oshawa, Sudbury, Timmins, Kirkland Lake and northeastern Ontario.

All other areas will have larger increases ranging as high as 15 per cent in Windsor.

Accidents in Ontario were up five per cent last year and the average cost of each accident increased by three per cent to $347.

The average boost of eight per cent is two per cent lower than the average increase which the All-Canada Insurance Federation predicted last month for the whole country.

Fluent Bilingual Witness Insists on Giving Evidence In French Before Inquiry

OTTAWA (CP)—The Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) has put its side of the story of labor dissension on the Great Lakes before the marine shipping inquiry in English, French and Greek.

And Mr. Justice T. G. Norris, who is conducting the searching investigation of labor strife, has indicated he'll hear pertinent testimony in almost any language—if necessary.

But Tuesday, when the SIU insisted that French be used for a fluently bilingual witness, the Vancouver jurist showed some impatience.

He granted the union the right to present evidence in French, if bringing in a translator to interpret the testimony, but he also provided a translator last week for some Greek-speaking SIU members.

But he also accused the SIU of trying to obstruct the inquiry by slow down the proceedings and create a cause celebre over the language issue.

TRYING MAKE HEADLINES'

"You are trying to make headlines," he told SIU counsel Joseph Nuss.

Mr. Nuss insisted that Bernard Boulanger, $15,000-a-year administrator of the Canadian Seafarers' welfare plan, be allowed to give his evidence in French.

"If you as counsel . . . give me reasons why you want this witness in your opinion needs a interpreter, then you will have it," said Mr. Justice Norris.

"I can transmit to the commission that this witness wishes to testify in French, that his mother tongue is French and that in communicating he feels more at ease and expresses himself better in French," said Mr. Nuss.

"Well," said the judge, "we will have it."

Raynold Robichaud, senior parliamentary interpreter, translated Mr. Boulanger's answers to questions in English from Mr. Nuss.

Then the SIU lawyer decided that he should also ask his questions in French — even though the judge had suggested that English be used wherever possible to speed up the inquiry.

'NOT HELPFUL'

"If you want to go along that way, you go ahead, but I have said that this is going to slow the whole thing up and it isn't helpful," said Mr. Justice Norris.

"I have the greatest respect for the witness' desire to speak in his mother tongue. That is right. But with the greatest respect it is not your mother tongue at all."

The right exists — whether it is my mother tongue or not," insisted Mr. Nuss, who is fluent in both English and French.

The question and answer process began again—in French, with translation each way.

Sometimes the witness slipped — and started to reply in English, then stopped and reverted to French.

The language issue grew hot again when J. A. Geller, a Toronto lawyer for Upper Lakes Shipping Limited, began his cross-examination of Mr. Boulanger—in English.

The SIU insisted that his questions be translated into French.

Once again, the judge acceded to the request—but rebuked the SIU for delaying tactics and headline-hunting.

At one point Mr. Boulanger blurted out a whole answer in English — and provoked loud laughter.

He suggested that a telephone document shown him by Mr. Geller was in French, not English.

The loud guffaws came from lawyers and others who knew that the document had been filed earlier by the SIU itself.

Residents Concerned About Money for New Fortress

LOUISBOURG, N.S. (CP)—Apprehension pierced through the living-room window of her hillside house and saw the family in bed, gasping for air, revelled in and peaceful waters of Louisbourg Harbor.

But that is soon to change. Her family and about 40 others will be moved soon to make way for reconstruction of Fort Louisbourg. The families will be paid for their homes near the fortress and the town of Louisbourg.

They learned this week that the Nova Scotia government will expropriate their lands to make way for the $1.25 million program for partial reconstruction of the old French fortress. The project, under federal auspices, to be completed in about two years, was met with mixed feelings.

DOESN'T LIKE IT

There were men like Fred Langley.

"I don't like it," he said. "It's the worst thing that has ever been to me. I've lived here 25 years and I've got a family should have spent the money over there at the fort and left us alone. There's no place else to take up land for miles around."

Fifty - seven acres comprise the actual fort site. But 20 square miles must be expropriated land landing and battle points can be included in the reconstruction.

Meanwhile, in her own home on the hillside, the housewife — who asked that her name not be used—turned away from her window.

"Our people have lived here for generations," she said. "At one time they lived over right where the fortress is. When they made it a park in 1920, our people were moved out. They settled over here. Now they have to go again. It seems to me unfair to ask people to prove twice in a lifetime."

Industry Minister E. A. Manson has promised the government will move slowly and offer all assistance to persons affected.

LIKES MARTIAL LAW

SEOUL (AP)—The South Korean military junta today lifted martial law, in effect since the May 1961 coup that brought the military rulers to power. The action came 12 days before a new constitution proposed by the junta will be put to a referendum.

Canada to Have In New York Has Been Sold

TORONTO (CP) — Canada House in New York City has been bought by American interests.

Purchase of the 26 - storey, $11,000,000 office building on Fifth Avenue was announced Tuesday by the buyers, Webb and Knapp (New York) Limited. The price was not disclosed.

Webb and Knapp held a half-interest in the building from December, 1957, to December, 1960, when Canadian ownership became complete.

Ray Lawson, the former Ontario lieutenant-governor and former consul-general in New York at Canada House, died of a heart attack Tuesday night that since the federal government wants more room for its staff in the country, it was more patriotic for the owners to sell the building.

Mr. Lawson spoke as president of Canada House (New York) Limited.

After the federal government let it be known earlier this year that it was not interested in acquiring the building, the company made known in New York that an offer to buy would be entertained, he said.

Mr. Lawson said that he and the other 17 original sponsors who each put up $100,000 to start the project did not want to see the money tied up in it.

COULD HAVE OBTAINED

He said the government could have obtained the building at any time for less than it cost, or it could have been had by the government at the end of its amortization period in about 25 years.

Canada House was lauded for its architectural excellence, was first proposed in 1953, and completed in 1958.

The idea of its sponsors was to provide a structure to house all Canadian government offices in New York, as well as Canadian business firms. Canadian consular and travel offices are in the building now.

The name Canada House is to remain.

START HYDRO PROJECT—Huge shovels and trucks are used to excavate a channel to divert the Peace River in northeastern British Columbia from its existing bed by mid-1963. When diversion is completed, contracts will be let for actual work on the 650-foot $100,000,000 Portage Mountain dam. — (CP Photo)

Tale of Two Rivers Gives Indication of New Progress As B. C. Enters a New Year

By JIM PEACOCK

VANCOUVER (CP) — The authors of British Columbia's tale of two rivers give indications of new chapters of progress as the province enters a new year.

The romances, centred on the hydro-electric potential of the Columbia and Peace Rivers, remained stormy through much of 1962, but one honeymoon was begun and, as the year approached its end, plans seemed near completion for another wedding.

The story developed on many fronts in 1962—on the banks of the Peace River, in the B.C. legislature, in Parliament, in the courts, and in the privacy of negotiations between Ottawa and Victoria and between Canada and the United States.

First major construction contracts were let and work was begun on the vast Peace River project, as the year was ending, 700 men were half way through the $18,000,000 job of diverting waters around the site of Portage Mountain Dam, a $100,000,000 structure for which contracts are to be let before mid-1963.

B.C. POWER MERGED

In the B.C. legislature, where the previous year the government expropriated engineering studies from Peace River Power Development Company and took over the giant B.C. Electric Company, the B.C. Electric was merged with the publicly owned B.C. Power Commission.

The new agency was called B.C. Hydro and Power Authority and was made responsible for public development of both the Peace, where it was decided the cost of power developed privately would be too high, and the Columbia.

At the same time the government changed the terms of the B.C. Electric take-over, a move aimed at defeating court action taken by B.C. Power Corporation, former parent company of B.C. Electric, to have the special expropriation legislation declared invalid.

The court action went ahead in 1962, opening May 1 and continuing to the year end. No decision is expected from the B.C. Supreme Court for several months.

ASSETS FROZEN

The Supreme Court of Canada entered the tale, too, ordering — on appeal of earlier B.C. court decisions—that the assets of B.C. Electric be held under control of a court - appointed receiver until the validity test was decided.

Effectiveness of the order may be comparable, however, to the king's men and humpty-dumpty, since the B.C. government had merged B.C. Electric with the Power Commission by the time the Supreme Court order was made.

Negotiation and parliamentary action revolved around the Columbia project, on which an international treaty signed by Canada and the U.S. early in 1961 set out terms of construction and benefit sharing, but on which Ottawa and B.C. have not settled fully the means of financing the $450,000,000 works in B.C.

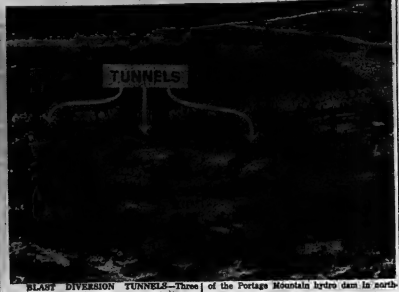
Premier Bennett has insisted that he be allowed to obtain the money by selling in the U.S. on long-term basis all of the province's share of so-called downstream - benefit power — under the treaty B.C. gets half the power generated at U.S. Columbia installations as a result of storage in B.C.

FEDERAL POLICY CHANGE

The Progressive Conservative government in Ottawa had insisted this power be returned to B.C. as power.

After the June federal election which reduced the Conservatives to a minority government, Mr. Bennett held private talks with federal authorities in Ottawa. A few weeks later, in the speech from the throne, the federal government announced a policy change, which apparently will permit sale of the downstream - benefit power as demanded by B.C.

Negotiations with the U.S. followed, presumably to establish the price at which the downstream-benefit power will be sold, and they were continuing as the year-end approached.



If they are successful, only one major step will remain before construction gets under way on Columbia in B.C., the ratification by Parliament of the international treaty which the U.S. Congress already has approved.

WORK STARTS SOON

Premier Bennett said in September that with ratification within a few months, Columbia construction would be started before the end of March, 1963.

Premier Bennett made at least two trips to New York late in 1962 to meet with financial institutions which he expects will lend B.C. the money to complete the Peace project, to cost about $450,000,000 by the time first power is produced there in 1968.

He has said B.C. will build the Columbia projects only if the downstream - benefit power sales will pay for them, and he expects they will.

BLAST DIVERSION TUNNELS—Three tunnels, 48 feet in diameter and 2,500 feet long, are being blasted under the west bank of the Peace River to divert waters around the site of the Portage Mountain hydro dam in northeastern British Columbia. The diversion work will cost $18,000,000. (CP Photo).

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Some time ago this column carried a piece about the growing necessity for ice facilities for the hockey-playing youngsters of the city.

The problem is a serious one. Officials of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association, doing the best they can under existing circumstances, view with more or less alarm the lack of these facilities for the rapidly-increasing number of young players.

As was written before; man can build arenas; bring down mountains; erect huge skyscrapers and bridges, but he cannot block the inevitable course of nature. Each year, as Time marches on, sees a substantial upsurge in the number of youngsters graduating to hockey playing age.

But while Time and Nature march on, ice facilities for the upcoming youngsters and their successors are standing still. And if this city is to continue its interest in providing hockey outlets for its citizens of the future, something should be done about it.

The arena commission is doing the best possible with its ice-time provisions for the kiddies. Other organizations and people are entitled to arena privileges, too. They cannot be given the cold shoulder.

Nearly 1,200 youngsters have been organized into hockey teams and leagues here this season. The majority of the teams are packed with some 28 players. This does not, with the limited ice-time, give the youngsters the ice-time they need in order to give all the chance to play which they should get. Don't blame the coaches, managers or the Belleville Minor Hockey Association. It is simply a matter of not enough ice-time being available with the limited facilities at disposal.

Other cities like Peterborough and Oshawa have separate arenas for minor hockey.

Unless something is done about it, or minor hockey is dropped, the situation here will worsen with the years. A new arena may be out of the question, but open-air rinks are not beyond the realm of possibility. Better yet, equip them with artificial ice plants. Other centres of comparable size have them.

Several minor hockey-minded men have approached this department on the question and concur that something must be done to help the youngsters along this line.

Armand Duffy, one of the better sportsmen of the city, talked with a group of men in the city hall council chambers Monday night after the fog of election had been lifted and the newly-elected had departed to rest on their laurels.

Armand, with Tom Neal and others, agreed that a new arena is out of the question, but felt that something might be done about open-air skating and hockey-playing facilities.

Duffy said he had talked with several influential people of the city who were in favor of the idea. "The consensus was," he said, "that if the city cannot see its way clear to build and operate open-air rinks, community-minded citizens would be willing to lend a helping hand."

"It would not be necessary to instal artificial ice machinery," Duffy said. "This age of science has developed a portable machine that could be used only when necessary. It is reported to be much less expensive and as I understand it, could be secured on a rental basis."

This department would like to hear from people interested in the idea. As was mentioned, something should be done to provide the city youngsters with these facilities, and now is the time to start talking about it.

Flyers Whip Guelph

Red Wings, Petes Tie

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

For the fan who derives little satisfaction from a tie game, the Ontario Hockey Association's provincial Junior A group this season just hasn't been his cup of tea.

A 2-2 deadlock between Hamilton Red Wings and Peterborough Petes last night was the ninth in 46 games this season, leaving the record at nearly one tie in every five games.

In contrast, the OHA Senior A group—where 10 minutes' overtime is played in the event of a tie after regulation time—has had only one tie in 49 games. The juniors do not play overtime during the regular season.

In Tuesday night's only other game, Niagara Falls Flyers downed the last-place Guelph Royals 5-2 before 1,500 fans in Niagara Falls.

Wayne Manner and Ted Snell led the Flyers with two goals each and Gary Dornhoefer scored the other one. Billy Taylor got both Guelph goals.

The win boosted the Flyers to within three points of the league-leading Montreal Junior Canadiens. They now are undisputed third place, a point ahead of Hamilton and one behind Peterborough.

Guelph remains seven points behind fifth-place St. Catharines.

Don Herriman and Keith Wright scored for the Petes. Ed Thomas and Pit Martin were the Hamilton scorers, Martin making it 2-2 at 11:45 of the final frame.

In OHA Metro Junior A action Tuesday night, Toronto Knob Hill whipped Whitby Dunlops 3-2 to move into a third place tie with Brampton. The loss was the winless Dunlops' 11th of the season.

BREAKS BOTH LEGS

CERVINIA, Italy (AP)—Christina Ditfurt, promising young member of Austria's national ski team, took a violent fall while training in this Italian alpine resort Tuesday and broke both legs. The 19-year-old girl, youngest member of her nation's team, lost her balance on a downhill run on a hard track. She somersaulted and fell head-first. Her ski tips flung into the snow, causing the fractures.

Injured Shoulder In Practice ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Sawchuk Latest Goalie Jinx Victim

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Goaltending has been a hazardous occupation in the National Hockey League this season.

Detroit's Terry Sawchuk, the only NHL goalie to appear in all of his team's games this season, is the latest victim.

He will miss the Red Wings' game against the Rangers in New York tonight with a shoulder bruise received from a flying puck in practice Monday.

The Wings say Sawchuk, who has the league's best goals-against average of 2.10 will be replaced by Dennis Riggin. He might be able to return Thursday night when Detroit meets Boston Bruins.

The fifth-place Rangers will also be missing their regular regular goalie tonight. Gerry Worsley is out indefinitely with an injured shoulder following a collision with Chicago's Murray Balfour Sunday night.

Marcel Pelletier replaced Worsley in the third period Sunday and Marcel Pallie, netminder for Rangers' Baltimore farm in the American League, is the likely starter tonight.

Detroit goes into the game tied with Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs for second place in the league's standings with 26 points, two less than league-leading Chicago.

Tonight's third game will be a crucial meeting between Canadiens and Leafs in Toronto.

Each team has two wins in the five games between them so far this season, with one tie. Both teams will be at full strength.

Leafs won both their weekend games and have improved sharply after getting a 5-2 lacing from Boston 10 days ago.

Toronto centre Billy Harris says goalie Johnny Bower has been given better protection by his teammates since Toronto coach Punch Imlach started using Don Simmons to spell off Bower.

"Johnny has made so many big saves for us over the years that, unconsciously or not, we were letting up in front of him because we were depending on him too much," Harris said.

Meanwhile, Canadiens have slowly replaced the Red Wings as the hottest team in the league.

Sparked by Sawchuk's three shutouts, the Wings went unbeaten in their first 10 games. But now they have managed only two wins and one tie in their last seven games. Their lapse into second place last weekend marked the first time this year they gave up first place in the standings.

Canadiens are undefeated in their last seven games with four wins and three ties.

PLANTE SPARKS HABS

Goalie Jacques Plante, who returned 10 games ago after missing 12 games with a respiratory ailment, has been the key figure in the Montreal surge. Ernie Wakely played one game and Cesare Maniago filled in for 11.

Chicago goalie Glenn Hall was spelled off in four games by rookie Denis DeJordy when he pinched a back nerve, snapping a 552-game consecutive streak.

Bob Perreault, a 31-year-old rookie, has handled most of Boston's goaltending this year. But another rookie, Ed Johnston, has replaced Perreault in six games.

Tonight's games will probably see some player changes. Detroit mayuse left-winger Andre Pronovost, acquired Monday from Boston in a trade for forward Forbes Kennedy.

Boston may use Kennedy, as well as 22-year-old defenceman Eddie Westfall, brought up Monday from Kingston of the Eastern Professional Hockey League to replace Pat Stapleton, sent down to Kingston.

The Bruins will also have rookie centre Bob Leiter in the lineup. He was called up from Kingston for Boston's two weekend games and scored a goal Saturday night.

Wolves Tie With Hull Ottawa

HULL, Que. (CP) — Sudbury Wolves came from behind to tie Hull - Ottawa Canadiens 3-3 Tuesday night in an Eastern Professional Hockey League game before 1,261 fans.

The game left standings in the 4-team loop unchanged with Kingston Frontenacs on top with 33 points, Canadiens next with 28, Wolves third with 24 and Syracuse on the bottom with 10.

Tuesday night's game was close all the way. The teams traded goals in the first period, Canadiens edged ahead 2-1 in the second, and Wolves tied things up twice in the last frame.

Sudbury opened the scoring at 6:49 of the first period on a goal by Dave Richardson. He skirted the Habs' defence while his team was shorthanded and drew netminder Ernie Wakely out of position for a picture goal.

Bob Courcy tied the game on a pass from Gerry Bower at 14:05 of the period. Claude Larose put Habs ahead at the start of the second period while close checking on both sides held up scoring until Larry McComb evened the score at 2-2 in the last frame. McComb scored while Wolves again were short one man.

Keith McCreary deflected a shot by Billy Graham as Canadiens scoring at 11:13 of the final period. Wolves came back and tied it a second later with a goal by Edgar Ehrenverth.

Wolves had three of the five penalties during the game.

Ed Babiuk was busy in Sudbury nets handling 29 shots compared with 18 for Wakely.

City Hockey At Arena Tonight!

First place will be right on the line when Welbanks Motors and Trudeau Motors clash in the second half of tonight's City Hockey League double header at Memorial Arena.

The two clubs are deadlocked at the top of the team standings, each with six points.

Trudeaus are undefeated while Welbanks have lost but once and that was to Trudeaus.

Welbanks, who added the Picton hardrock, Keith MacDonald, to their lineup last week, have been improving with every outing and hope to gain revenge against Trudeaus tonight.

Coach Ed Tata of Trudeaus, realizes that the winner of this game will take over the top spot all alone so will have his boys "up" for this one.

It starts at 9.15.

Joyce-Rollins Combines, who lost a heart-breaker last week, will have a tough test against the Pepsi's in the night's opener at 7.45.

The Pepsi's will be trying to gain some ground on the league-leaders while the Combines are still seeking that first win of the year.

The Hull brothers, Ron of the Combines and Gary of the Pepsi's, will be opposing each other in this one. Ron has the likes of Bob Taylor, Jackie Elliott, Larry Mavety, Don Doran and Ted Rowland on his side while Gary lines up with Dave Jones, "Shaker" Riley, Bob Brooks, George Jacklin, Doug Murray, Billy McGuire and others.

If Joyce-Rollins play as well as they did last week, this game should prove just as exciting as the nightcap.

175 Young Men Answer Ad

Wanted: Potential Heavyweights

By JIM BECKER

NEW YORK (AP)—"Wanted: Young men between the ages of 18-25, athletically inclined who wish an opportunity to become professional heavyweight boxers."

So read the classified ad placed in newspapers in large cities across the country.

Lured to New York by it were husky young men—among them two Canadians from the Windsor area—who include a policeman, a hairdresser, a day laborer, a coffee club singer, college students, a truck driver with eight children and a rich man's son.

The Canadians are Sheldon Safron, from Windsor, and Bob Serby of Riverside, Ont.

A syndicate headed by Gene Schoor, a New York restaurant man and writer, placed the ad. Some 175 young men responded. DRIVE FOR TITLE

Six or eight men will be selected to make a drive for the world heavyweight title.

"We don't know exactly how many we will choose," Schoor said, "because we haven't seen them fight yet."

The men chosen will get a weekly salary of $158 for a year. "This thing will cost us about $100,000 before we're through," Schoor said. "But eventually, there could be a fortune in it, for the kids and for us."

Schoor, who went to the University of Miami on a boxing scholarship 1935-39 and later coached boxing at Minnesota and in the Navy, says the syndicate is out to prove that "some pretty good guys, who have maybe only gotten a traffic ticket in their lives, can develop boxing champions."

"I owe everything I have to boxing," he said, "and the sport is being used as a whipping boy.

Brown Stars In Dogs 13-6 Win

Scores Five, Helps Three

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bobby Brown of Windsor Bulldogs skyrocketed into the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series' scoring leaders' top Tuesday night getting five goals and assisting on three others as the Bulldogs whipped Sarnia Rams 13-6 in Windsor.

Brown's eight points boosted his season's total to 39, one more than teammate Irwin Gross who picked up five points on two goals and three assists as Gross suffered his 17th straight loss.

The Rams, who dressed only 11 players for the game, are still seeking their first win.

In Tuesday night's only other action Wood district Athletics dumped Galt Terriers 6-1 at Woodstock, raising the third place Athletics within three points of Windsor and one behind Chatham Maroons.

Larry Pfaff, a former Woodstock player, was Galt's scorer.

At Sarnia, the Rams had to change goalies in the second period when Ron Urry suffered a slight concussion. Dale Caune, Sarnia's regular goaltender, finished the game.

Lou Bendo scored three goals for Windsor, Jerry Serviss getting two and Tommy Walker one. Reg Mulholland scored three times for the Rams, the other goals being shared by coach Don Savage, Tommy Clark and Dawson Schreader.

Two Rookies Top College All-Stars

Skypeck Also Unanimous

By PAUL RIMSTEAD

TORONTO (CP)—Two outstanding rookie backfielders were the only unanimous choices for the 1962 Intercollegiate Senior Football League all-star team announced today by The Canadian Press.

Brian Consacher of the University of Western Ontario Mustangs and Jim Young of Queen's Golden Gaels, two young power runners with breakaway speed, were unanimous choices in a backfield which includes Tom Skypeck of the champion McGill Redmen. Skypeck, named the league's most valuable player, was chosen by all but two of the selectors.

Skypeck, former Cornell University passing ace, was sensational as he led the Redmen to a win over Queen's in a sudden-death championship final this year.

The votes of the selectors—sportswriters, sportscasters and coaches—were weighted to give equal balloting strength to the four cities in the league.

McGill placed 10 men on the team, Queen's nine, Western five and University of Toronto three. McGill and Queen's tied for first place in the four-team league to force a playoff and western and Toronto tied for last place.

Consacher, son of the late Lional Consacher, Canada's Athlete of the First Half-Century who was known as the Big Train, was the Mustangs' leading rusher this season. He finished second in the scoring race to McGill's Eric Walter.

He didn't play football last year but played for Upper Canada College at Toronto the previous season.

Young, a driving fullback from Hamilton Westdale who turned down a football scholarship at Syracuse University to attend Queen's this year, has been called the best prospect ever to wear a Queen's uniform.

Skypeck, second to Queen's Cal Connor in the voting last season, finished his college career in style this year. Connor and Western's Gary Boug were tied behind Skypeck, but well down the line.

The talented passer from Chicopee, Mass., who graduates from the McGill School of Dentistry this year, completed five passes in succession to give McGill the title in the dying seconds of the championship playoff.

Mare Sells For $14,200

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Abbe Margaret, a bay mare in foal to Adios Butler, the world's fastest pacer, brought the top price of $14,200 Tuesday as the annual fall standardbred sale opened at Tattersalls.

The mare was purchased from the Hunter Hill farm consignment by Dr. T. W. Clark, an agent from Frederick, Md.

21-Room Chicago Home

Liston's Take Over Mansion

CHICAGO (AP)—The Sonny Listons moved into their new Chicago home Tuesday — a three-story mansion surrounded by a wrought iron fence and set in what was the south side's millionaire row 35 years ago.

A big moving van still was disgorging furniture from the heavyweight boxing champion's Philadelphia home when newspaper men arrived.

Music flowed from speakers in nearly every room of the house from Hi-Fi installations remaining behind after jazz pianist Ahmad Jamal moved out several days ago.

"I think the place has got 21 rooms," said Sonny, consulting a television set.

"It does have 21 rooms, including seven bedrooms and about eight baths," said his wife, Geraldine. "The kitchen is what sold me on it. We are renting with an option to buy. But we hope to build a home farther out some day."

Liston's mother-in-law and a niece will live with the family. Liston's sparring mate, Florneda Cox, and personal friend and chef, Teddy King, intend to stay in servants' quarters above the two-car garage.

Approves 196 Days Racing

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Racing Commission has approved 196 days of thoroughbred racing in the 1963 season.

The season opens April 6 at Fort Erie and ends at Old Woodbine Nov. 22. There will be no racing the first three Tuesdays of the initial meeting at Fort Erie.

The dates:

Fort Erie: April 6 to May 4 (22 days); Old Woodbine: May 6 to June 1 (24 days); Woodbine: June 3 to July 13 (36 days); Fort Erie: July 15 to Aug. 31 (42 days); Woodbine: Sept. 2 to Oct. 19 (42 days); Old Woodbine: Oct. 21 to Nov. 23) 30 days.

SERVED WITH LIEN

BOSTON (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service placed a lien Tuesday against $18,000 of the receipts of last Friday night's American Football League game between the New York Titans and the Boston Patriots.

The lien was filed to cover the New York team's tax defaults, IRS agents said.

Mexicans, Aussies in Cup Final

MADRAS, India (AP)—Rafael Osuna completed a two-day, five-set victory over India's Ramanathan Krishnan and then teamed with Antonio Palafox Tuesday for a doubles triumph that sent Mexico into the Davis Cup challenge round for the first time ever.

The Mexicans clinched the interzone final 3-0, and turned today's final two singles matches into a mere formality.

After a brief vacation in Hong Kong and New Zealand, the Mexicans will go to Brisbane to face Australia for the cup Dec. 28-30.

Will Turn Down Floyd, Fight Clay

Liston "Breaks" With Promoters

CHICAGO (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Sonny Liston said Tuesday he considers any contract with Chamberlain Sports, Incorporated as broken and if dethroned Floyd Patterson insists on that group as promoters of a return match he will not fight.

For his Sept. 25 title fight with Patterson in Comiskey Park, which he won with a first-round knockout, Liston said he received $25,000 for training expenses and $50,000 after the fight. He said about $280,000 still owing him is tied up by the government.

"If I meet Patterson again it will have to be under a different promotion and Baltimore stands a good chance of getting it," Liston said.

"I don't think the fight would be in New York. They didn't want me there in the first fight and I don't think they want me there now.

"I would rather fight Cassius Clay than anyone. He is a young boy and if I wait too long, age may catch up to me like it did Archie (Archie Moore, whom Clay knocked out recently). That one was like a grandfather fighting a grandson."

BURROUGHS HURT

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Don Burroughs, star defensive safety with Philadelphia Eagles, will miss the final two games of the National Football League season because of two fractured ribs. Burroughs was hurt on the last play of the first half last Sunday against Washington.

SEEK COMPENSATION

NANAIMO, B.C. (CP)—Nanaimo Redmen, juvenile football champions of Western Canada, are asking the City of Victoria for compensation for two players injured last Friday. Lorne MacKenzie and Ed Plesaky were taken to hospital with burns after Nanaimo defeated Winnipeg Rams in Victoria to win the Western title.

The Redmen said the players suffered lime burns from a substance used to mark the field.

Flyers Upset Crawfords

Trenton RCAF Flyers upset the Belleville Crawfords 52-44 in a Bay of Quinte Basketball League game played at the air station last night.

The Flyers outplayed the visitors all the way, displaying excellent marksmanship, their best shooting performance of the campaign. The win hoisted RCAF into third place.

Sid Forster, of the Crawfords, was ejected from the game in the early minutes for objecting too vigorously to an official's call. The losers finished the game with five players.

RCAF, sparked by aces Will Borden and Ernie Clarke, jumped into a 35-21 lead at half time and never looked back. Borden hooped 28 points while Clarke hit for 17.

Ted Batchelor was best in a losing effort with 16 points, far below his average, while John Bakker collected 12.

BELLEVILLE CRAWFORDS (44): T. Batchelor 13, J. Bakker 12, L. Campbell 9, B. Faulkner 9, R. Lukiew, S. Forster 1.

RCAF FLYERS (52): W. Borden 28, C. Clarke 17, C. Villette 4, M. McNicol 8, F. Willmet 1, G. Foyle 1, L. Dodds

Clay Ranks No. Four Heavy

NEW YORK (AP) — Carlos Ortiz, of New York, who knocked out Teruo Kosaka of Japan Monday in the first defence of his world lightweight title, was named fighter of the month by Ring magazine today.

In the heavyweight division, Cassius Clay of Louisville, Ky., advanced to fourth from seventh place because of his knockout victory over Archie Moore last month. Moore dropped to seventh from fifth.

Canadian heavyweight champion Bob Cleroux of Montreal, the only Canadian listed, was ranked ninth.

Floyd Patterson was listed as the logical challenger for Sonny Liston's heavyweight title, followed by Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore.

In the light-heavyweight division, Gullio Rinaldi of Italy was named the No. 1 challenger for Harold Johnson's title. Mauro Mina, who won a split decision from Henry Hank of Detroit recently, was moved up to third.

Despite the action of the New York Athletic Commission in revoking Paul Pender's fractional middleweight crown, the Boston fighter continued to be ranked on top, along with Dick Tiger, the National Boxing Association champ.

Gilbert Ties for EPL Top

OTTAWA (CP)—Bob Leiter, Kingston Frontenacs' hot shot is in danger of being pushed out of first place in the Eastern Professional Hockey League scoring race—just by not being there.

But Leiter, a 21-year-old six-footer, probably doesn't mind. He's too busy with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League.

Leiter was moved up to the parent club Bruins last week and scored a goal and an assist in his two weekend games.

Meanwhile, in the EPHL, his teammate Jeannot Gilbert moved up in the race to tie Leiter with 38 points.

Leiter, however, still occupies the top spot by virtue of his 15 goals against only 12 by Gilbert.

DUFOUR FOURTH

Don Blackburn, another Kingston player, follows with 34 points and Marc Dufour of Sudbury is fourth with 27.

Dufour broke the Kingston monopoly on the first five spots by edging out Gerry Ouellette in the week's play. Ouellette has 26 points.

Goalie Ernie Wakely of Hull-Ottawa Canadiens still has the best netminding average with 2.35 goals against him per game.

Sudbury Wolves retain the distinction of being the most penalized club in the loop with the individual honors with 90 minutes.

Aces Trim Bears 7-3

QUEBEC (CP)—Two goals each by Michel Labadie and Jean-Marie Cossette sparked Quebec Aces to a 7-3 triumph Tuesday night over Hershey Bears in a rough American Hockey League game played before 6,346 fans.

Skippy Burchell, Guy Black and Ron Atwell were Quebec's other goal-getters. Pete Concacher, Larry Zeidel and Cleland Mortson scored for the Bears.

Referee Dalton Macarthur handed out 15 penalties, including a matscondact to Les Duff of Hershey for arguing a decision. The Bears were assessed a bench penalty before the opening faceoff for changing the lineup they gave the official scorer before the game.

The victory stretched Aces' unbeaten string on home ice to 13 games and increased their lead atop the league's Eastern Division standings to three points.

HAS HEART ATTACK

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Linebacker Rudy Mayer of Pittsburgh Steelers suffered a heart attack Tuesday while hunting with two teammates 80 miles south of Pittsburgh. A spokesman for the National Football League club said Hayes' condition was considered serious.

REPLACES WORSLEY

NEW YORK (CP) — Marcel Pelille, goalkeeper for New York Rangers' Baltimore farm club, will be in the nets tonight when Rangers meet Detroit Red Wings here. Pelille has been called up to replace Lorne (Gump) Worsley, who injured a shoulder in Sunday night's game against Chicago.

The Squirts and Midgets took over Memorial Arena last night with a full slate of games being played in both divisions.

SQUIRTS

Maple Leafs dumped the Royals 7-3 with the Leafs' Jo Culkin scoring three goals. G. Graham, B. Clements, D. Lynch and M. Thompson scored one goal apiece. R. Buchanan and M. Rollins scored for the Royals.

Macs took a 5-3 decision over the Browns with two players doing all the Mac scoring. P. Frulick potted three goals and A. Wilson two. L. Kenark and G. Morton replied for the Browns.

Black Hawks whipped the Frontenacs 8-4, sparked by J. Mulvihill with three goals and M. Semark with a pair. L. Desjardins, D. Grant and D. Guest also scored. D. Hunt had two, G. Howe and J. MacDonald one apiece for the Frontenacs.

Bruins blanked the Red Wings 5-0 with Gerry Hyde Jr. getting the shutout. Bruin marksmen were B. Bradley, R. Reid, D. Crawley, Freddie Stickie and J. Cass.

Rangers also won with a shutout, blanking the Flyers 6-0. Bill Hurley was in the Ranger nets. Goals were scored by C. Jantzsch, B. Cousins, G. Bowen, R. Meagher, G. Sheffield and D. Fullerton.

Canadiens and Barons battled to a 3-3 deadlock. B. Grange and T. Ford potted Canadiens' goals while D. Lapenstis and D. James had the Baronz markers.

MIDGET

The Buzzers edged the Maple Leafs 3-1 in the tightest game of the three played. Duvall and Ron Brooks scored for the Buzzers with assists going to Rick Ellis, Gord McCreary and Ron Hannah. Don Muldoon potted the Leaf goal, aided by Gary Rutherford. The game was marred by slashing, charging and roughing penalties plus a misconduct to Don Muldoon.

Red Wings shaded the Rangers 5-4, with Gary Lucas scoring four goals, including the winner. Steve LaMocty, Rob Bateman and Lynn Thompson also scored with Mike Brennan getting two assists, Bob Lancaster, John Doran, Eisaman and Wayne Trice one each. Ranger marksmen were Dave MacMullen, Garth Muir, Bob Hunter and Eric Martin. Bob Chappel, Martin and John Blakely drew assists.

Black Hawks in a scoring wild to whip the Canadiens 9-1. Steve Ethier, Dennis Barragar and Jim Means scored two goals apiece with John Cole, Ron Culloden and Jim Ethier getting the others. Bill Carswell, Steve Ethier and Means had two helpers apiece, Ron Wardhaugh and Ron Culloden one. Ron Salter fired the Canadiens' goal with M. Flanders assisting.

John Homes, convener of the Midget grouping, passed along special thanks for the fine work of the St. John Ambulance Corps during last night's games.

Convict Two On Charges Of Bribery

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Two St. Louis men were convicted Tuesday of bribing North Carolina State College players to shave points in basketball games.

Dave Goldberg, 45, was held guilty of 18 counts of conspiracy or bribery and Steve Lekometros guilty on 14 charges.

They were expected to be sentanced today.

Each count carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison.

Goldberg was pictured by the state as a key money supplier in basketball game-fixing arrangements. Lekometros was described as his lieutenant.

They originally were charged with tampering with 10 games played by North Carolina State between Dec. 5, 1959, and Jan 7, 1961. However, Judge Heman Clark dismissed charges in two of the games for lack of evidence.

Key testimony came from Aaron Wagman and Joseph Greene, two New York men, who admitted getting in touch with basketball players and offering them money to play so as to win or lose games by a certain number of points. The deals were designed to give gamblers "in on the fix" a sure thing.

Also facing sentencing on similar charges are Wagman; Greene, Paul Walker, Michael Seigel and Louis Barshak, also of New York.

CANTWELL DIES

SALEM, Mo. (AP)—Benjamin Caldwell Cantwell, 60, who won 20 games and lost one in 1933 for the old Boston Braves of the National League, died Tuesday. Cantwell had been ill for several months.

Cantwell played with the Boston Braves, New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers.

'TWAS THREE WEEKS BEFORE CHRISTMAS . . .

When all over town
People hurried and scurried
Some wearing a frown.

Soon the stockings would hang
By the chimney with care
But what to put in them?
We feel such despair.

The children were nestled
All snug in their beds,
What to buy? Where to shop?
Buzzes through our poor heads.

Mum with her list
And Dad just confused,
Had just settled down
Not too exhaused.

When out of his chair,
Dad rose with a clatter.
Mother, surprised, said,
"What is the matter?"

The light from the lamp
Lit the flour up below,
Where Dad dropped the "Inteli"
His face all aglow.

Then to my wondering eyes did appear
An ad in the paper that made it all clear.
As rapid as eagles our ideas all came.
We whistled and shouted as we checked off each name.

"WATCHES AND DIAMONDS — EARRINGS AND BEADS— CHINA AND SILVER — ALL JEWELLERY NEEDS"

We had what we needed to fill up our socks,

Macs Beat Bowmanville

PICTON (Special) — Picton McFarlands climbed into second place in the Lakeshore Intermediate Hockey League here last night, defeating the loop — leading Bowmanville Shamrocks 8-5 in a four-point contest.

Sparked by the fine performance of Sam-the-Man Mulholland the McFarlands grabbed a 3-0 first-period lead and increased it to 4-0 in the second frame before the Shamrocks raced back to ram home three unanswered goals. Picton scored another before period end.

The Macs salted away the victory with three in a row in the final frame with Bowmanville scoring twice in the dying minutes of the period.

Mulholland, playing his best game of the season fired home two goals and assisted on three others. Sid Jones was good for two markers and an assist and coach Lloyd Bolley scored another before period end.

Keith MacDonald, Davy Jones and Ron Weese accounted for the other Picton goals. Jones, Weese, Joe Scott, Gilmour and Ron Hull were credited with assists.

Roberts scored a pair for the Shamrocks with Fairey, Snedden and Abbott getting the others. Cowie stood out with three assists.

Referee Tim Williams of Belleville had a fairly easy time handing out eight minor penalties, five of them to the McFarlands.

ADDS TO COUNCIL

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Rees introduced a resolution in the Commons Tuesday night to increase membership in the National Productivity Council to 23 from 22 and said he hopes Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress, will rejoin the group. Mr. Jodoin resigned several months ago, saying he disagreed with the council's terms of reference.

Santa Has Already Arrived At Beverly Hills Stores

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You'd better watch out . . . Santa Claus is coming to town.

Matter of fact, his helpers already have arrived at the emporiums of Beverly Hills, where the movie stars do their Christmas shopping.

Oh, it is a grand display of baubles, bangles and beads to entice the money-day mad. Here you can find the answer to the perplexing problem of what to give Frank, Dean, Peter and Sammy.

I took a walk along the glittering byways of Wilshire Boulevard and Rodeo Drive, the heart of bauble belt. Even such a prosaic section as (the Beverly-Wilshire) drugstore, features its perennial luxury gift: The wild-boar bristle hair brush at $500.

Kerr's sporting goods offers everything for the sport. Does he shoot? How about the Merkel over-and-under shotgun with gold engraving at $4,500, gift wrapped, of course.

Does he play chess? Then how about a hand-carved and painted Italian chess set at $350 sans board? Does he game? There's a $395 game chest with everything from craps to checkers.

Does he press duck? The duck press goes for $97.50.

On to Saks, where you can pick up a sable coat for $10,000. You might have just enough left over to buy the ultimate in caps for a man: In vicuna at $20. Or, for the diffident, in cashmere at $12.50.

Now for the kiddies. The gift headquarters for the Hollywood small fry is Uncle Bernie's Toy Menagerie. And what goodies Uncle Bernie has to offer this year!

Like a scale-model model T Ford that really runs! It can be had for $400. Feel bouncy? There's a trampoline for $340. Like a life-sized tiger at $325? The lion, equally tame, is $350. Uncle Bernie also has some wacky rabbits from Italy at $69.95 or a rocking giraffe at $90.

But my favorite offering is at Dunhill's, which advertises The Ultimate Executive Gift. It is a miniature airplane — "choice of models, choice of interiors— seats up to seven—from $72,- 000."

No sense in getting it for Frank. He's got one.

Precise Location of Fair In Montreal Will Likely Start Race Against Time

By ALEXANDER FARRELL

MONTREAL (CP)—A decision is expected within the next few weeks on the precise location of the Montreal World's Fair in 1967 and then the race against time will begin in earnest.

The city administration, from Mayor Jean Drapeau down, says it wants this fair to be the biggest and best of all universal expositions, surpassing even the highly successful 1958 fair in Brussels.

Valmore Gratton, director of economic development, says the current estimate is that 50,000,000 people will visit the six-month fair and the biggest headache confronting the city's planners are transportation and accommodation.

Construction of a monorail subway began last spring and 22 miles of rapid - transit lines, more than half of them underground are scheduled to be in operation by the time the fair opens.

But the subway was going to be built anyway and nobody knows for sure yet whether the fair will be held anywhere near it. "New expressways are planned," Mr. Gratton said. "And a monorail line may also be considered."

HIGHWAYS PLANNED

The provincial roads department has drawn preliminary plan for routes serving Montreal east and west if all goes according to plan, it should be possible to approach the city from all sides by superhighway in 1967.

Four-lane stretches of "the Trans - Canada Highway now are being built west of the Ontario border, in the direction of Ottawa, and east to Quebec City on the south side of the St. Lawrence River.

On the north, the six-lane Laurentian autoroute — a new highway — is being extended and, on the east, work on the Eastern Townships autoroute to Sherbrooke is scheduled to begin in the spring.

A four-lane highway joining Montreal to Ontario highway 401 has been started and another meeting the United States inter-state system at the New York border is planned.

Two of the 10 road bridges leading to Montreal island are being widened, one new bridge is under construction and another new bridge and tunnel are to be started next year.

City hall sources say the accommodation problem is not yet being tackled with equal vigor but they expect that several major hotels in the heart of the city will expand their facilities and that a number of new motels will be built in the outskirts.

FLOATING HOTELS

"People coming to this fair may be staying anywhere within 75 to 100 miles of the city,' one city official said.

He said the city may also try to have some ocean liners berthed during the entire fair period for use as floating hotels.

Parking space would have to be provided for 500,000 cars in the vicinity of the fair grounds but no parking would be allowed within the grounds.

"We hope the location of the fair and the quality of public transportation will be such that people won't all try to get to it by car," Mr. Gratton said.

He expressed confidence that the 1964-65 New York World's Fair which, unlike the Montreal fair, is not officially recognized by the International Bureau of Expositions, would not have a bad effect.

"Indeed it should only stimulate curiosity," he said. "Ours will be a larger fair and, in fact, the majority of the visitors will probably be American."

Capital costs of the Montreal fair, for service buildings, restaurants, fountains, pools, streets, promenades, and water and sewer lines, have been estimated at $40,000,000.

The federal government has announced it will contribute $20,000,000, the Quebec government $15,000,000 and the city $5,000,00.

The major financial outlays will be made by the participating countries, however, which undertake the cost, design, construction and outfitting of their own pavilions. They spent close to $90,000,000 at the Brussels fair.

Mayor Drapeau has said the fair is intended to illustrate the achievements of the human mind in all domains and its theme will be "Man and His World." He said it will open April 28, 1967.

That seems to be a long way ahead, but planners are keeping in mind a comment by Pierre Sicard, the secretary-general of the Belgain fair, who said the major problem in Brussels was time.

"We started planning this one (the 1958 fair) five years in advance, and that was the biggest mistake we made. It should have been seven."

The decision on the site of the Montreal fair is in the hands of a committee composed of the federal government, the province and the city. The chief federal representative is Pierre Sevigny, associate minister of national defence.

Actual work of plans for the fair and its operation and liquidation will be the responsibility of a federal corporation operating under a commissioner-general, expected to be appointed shortly.

SITE ON ISLAND

It has been announced that the fair will be on Montreal island, where the city's metropolitan area's 2,000,000 inhabitants live, and that it will occupy 1,000 acres.

Speculation about its location has centred around areas of Ile Ste. Helene, a big island suggested areas along the waterfront, where preparations for the fair would complement the tall large-scale redevelopment; the cloverleaf outlying areas near the east-end Anjou and northend St. Laurent, where there is still some undeveloped land and where existing and planned expressways and subway lines will provide relatively smooth access.

In conjunction with the fair the city plans to have events in music, theatre and sport "of both national and international character," Mr. Gratton said.

Place des Arts, comprising a concert hall, theatre and auditorium for chamber music, is scheduled to be completed next year and Expo will be well established as the centre of the city's cultural life by 1967.

As for sport, nothing definite in the way of new facilities and events has been announced but Mr. Gratton said the fair "makes it "more certain" that the city will have a large modern stadium within the next five years.

Doctor Will Face Charge Of Abortion

NEW YORK (AP)—A New York City physician, Dr. Harvey Lothringer, was escorted here Monday from Paris to face charges in the abortion death of a 20-year-old college girl.

His hands manacled in front of him, the fatitive was led down the ramp of an Air France plane by representatives of the Queen's district attorney's office.

The 41-year-old doctor declined any comment to reporters.

His return here came after an eight - nation search had traced him last December to Andorra, a tiny state on the French-Spanish border, to which he had fled with his attractive receptionist.

He was expelled to France and authorities there ordered him extradited to face the New York abortion and manslaughter indictment.

He is accused in the death of Barbara Lofrumento, a sophomore at the College of New Rochelle, N.Y., on whom he allegedly performed a fatal abortion last June 8.

The search for him began three days later when parts of her dismembered body were found in the sewer line of his $75,000 office-home in Queens.

Richard Boone Will Have Weekly Dramatic Series

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

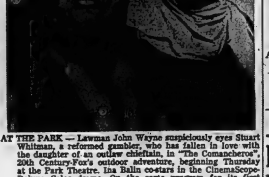
NEW YORK (AP)—The most positive, stimulating news to emerge from network television in many a month is that NBC's next season will sponsor a weekly dramatic anthology series of original dramas performed by a repertory company.

Richard Boone, a skilful actor who for the last six years has been getting bored (and rich) in CBS' Have Gun, Will Travel will be host and weekly performer in the series. Sometimes he will star, other times he will play the butler.

The regular company will be carefully chosen with the idea of making it a tight, smooth team under executive producer Mac Benoff, a television and stage writer.

Clifford Odets will serve as editor and sometimes writer of the scripts. Odets never has been involved in a television series before, but is a playwright with eminent credits, including Waiting for Lefty, Golden Boy and The Country Girl.

The series, to start next September, is a package by the Goodson - Todman organization, which has been so successful with its series of television game shows but which has been hankering to get into the area of drama. it will be filmed in Hollywood.



Recommended tonight:

Perry Como show, NBC, 9-10 EST — Carol Lawrence and Johnny Mercer;

The Assassin, CBS, 10-11— Circle Theatre dramatized opportunity about a professional political killer.

SCIENCE SERIES

The Nature of Things, CBC-TV's adult science series, returns to the national network with a 26-week lineup of Sunday programs.

AT THE PARK — Lawman John Wayne suspiciously eyes Stuart Whitman, a reformed gambler, who has fallen in love with the daughter of an outlaw chieftain, in "The Comancheros", 20th Century-Fox's outdoor adventure, beginning Thursday at the Park Theatre. Ina Balin co-stars in the CinemaScope-Deluxe Color drama. On the same program for its first Belleville showing "The 300 Spartans", in CinemaScope and Color starring Richard Egan. Thursday and Friday show starts at 7.10 p.m. "Comancheros" at 7.40 and "The 300 Spartans" at 9.40.

Marilyn Monroe Generally Unkempt Around House

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Isn't it a terrible thing about life, that there always seems to be something we have to live up to?"

Thus spoke Marilyn Monroe sadly just a few days before an overdose of sleeping pills ended a fabulous but tragic life.

Actress Edith Evanson is the source of the gum - chewing version. Miss Evanson, veteran of many film roles, coached Marilyn in a Southern dialect for the ill-fated Something's Got to Give.

Miss Evanson was in almost daily contact with Marilyn for most of the last two months of her life.

"Director George Cukor, an old friend of mine, asked me to coach Marilyn for her role," she recalled. "I met her first at her home. When it came time to leave, she pleaded with me to ride to the airport with her in her chauffeur-driven car.

"At the airport, she pleaded again that I accompany her to New York for the weekend."

HAIR UNCOMBED

"I was amazed at how she looked for the flight east. Her hair was not combed. She wore a dingy pair of capri pants that were much the worse-for wear. It puzzled me at the time.

"But she was gay, charming and lovable. At the airport, she begged me to make the trip with her. She was so pleading but I couldn't leave my husband and my home. She understood.

"When she returned, I spent many hours with her that day and many days afterwards.

"One morning I was at her house and Marilyn was outside in a magnolia. I asked her where she got it.

"She said: 'I was out walking with my boy friend last night and this one hung low enough for me to steal it.'

LOOKED SAD

"I said: 'The magnolia is so like you, so white, so soft and so beautiful.' She answered; "'Isn't it terrible that there must be something in life to live up to!' She looked so sad, so tragic when she said it.

Miss Evanson said Marilyn did not name the boy friend.

"I just assumed it was Jose Bolamos, the Mexican writer, whom she had been dating," she added.

"She never ate anything but chopped - up steak, breakfast, lunch and dinner. Around the house, she always wore a ragged old red housecoat. She was unkempt—just like the coroner's report said but I had always heard she was that way. I didn't think too much about it."

NOT DEPRESSED

"My work, of course, ended when the studio fired her. I talked often with her on the phone after that. The firing—at least from what she told me—never depressed her."

"Her death shocked me. I never noticed anything odd about her, except her too-casual—for a movie star—way of dress.

"But there appeared to be a gap in her life. She had only two moods. One moment, she would be a little girl. The next a serious, matured woman.

"There never was any young girl — or young womanhood— mood. Often she would dance around the house like a little girl.

"I remarked about it. She answered: 'You know, my husbands all said that, too.'"

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Stock up on food; check budget. Be ready for unexpected guests. Others are attracted to you today. Many ask questions, desire your company. Be gracious and sympathetic!

If today is your birthday . . . you seem to have an "ear" for thoughts, problems, talents of others. You would make a fine critic.

General Tendencies: Cycle up for Pisces, Aries, Taurus. Day when the old gives way to the new.

BITES OFF FINGER

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Police have the finger as well as the fingerprint for pursuit of a robber. Martin Nemeroff, owner of a cleaning establishment that was robbed Sunday night, clamped down with his false teeth on the intruder's finger. He found the finger Monday and turned it over to police.

Manitoba Hospital Plan Being Put to Crucial Test

WINNIPEG (CP)—An experiment under way in Winnipeg may have a direct bearing on the future autonomy of local hospital trustee boards.

Under the terms of the Manitoba Hospital Services Plan recently implemented, the province undertakes to pay all operating costs of hospitals and 80 per cent of capital costs, leaving the remaining 20 per cent of capital costs to be raised locally.

The government feels that leaving it up to local boards to raise the 20 per cent for any construction planned would mean retention of local responsibility and a modicum of local control.

Victoria General Hospital is attempting to raise $800,000 as its commitment to the addition of a 150-bed unit in a $4,000,000 project expected to be started late in 1963.

This is the first such project undertaken under the plans and its success or failure is expected to bear directly on the province's inclination to carry the plan further.

Health Minister George Johnson says the province doesn't want to have to take over complete control of the day-to-day operation of all the hospitals in the province. But, he adds, if the Victoria General Hospital experiment is not successful, there may be no alternative.

"If we have to pay all capital costs as well as all operating costs as we are doing now, there is no sense in talking local autonomy.

"Our plan is the most generous in Canada. We feel that by letting the hospitals run themselves, better patient care is maintained.

"There is more need for responsible citizens on the boards of our hospitals than there ever was. I don't want to be around if the 100-per-cent takeover happens."

A. Allyn Rossen, Victoria board chairman, is not particularly hopeful of fulfilling the obligation resting on his group in raising the $800,000.

He already has plans he hopes will raise $450,000 of the total, but the remaining $350,000 has to come from the public.

Several fund-raising groups already have turned down requests to take over the campaign.

Deadline for the start of construction is Oct. 1, 1963. After that time the government grant of $3,200,000 may not be available.

Chinese Red Frankly Admits Split in Party

ROME (Reuters)—The Communist Chinese fraternal delegation to the Italian Communist party congress here Tuesday openly admitted the existence of differences between the Chinese and other Communist parties.

Chao-y-ming, of the Chinese party's central committee, declared in a speech: "We must tell you here frankly that the Chinese Communists have different opinions" on certain matters to other Communist parties.

Chao gave three examples of the differences.

1. What the Italian interpreter of his speech in Chinese described as the "question of structural reform."

2. Yugoslav "revisionism."

3. Attacks against the Chinese-supported Albanian Communist party.

These attacks were not in accordance with the spirit of the two declarations of solidarity signed by Communist parties in Moscow in recent years, he told delegates.

The Albanians were unjustly attacked at the Italian party congress and this was a matter for "profound regret," he said.

COSSACKS RETURN

A band of bearded Cossacks who fled the Steppes in 1955 have returned to their homeland in Russia.

White's District

WHITE'S DISTRICT—Church service was held on Sunday morning at White's Church with the Rev. Dr. Swann speaking on the Bible, the St. James version versus the revised edition. The choir rendered an anthem, "Teach Us To Pray." The white gift service will be held next Sunday at the church hour with the Sunday School assisting in the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Marcis and Gail of Smithfield and Miss Brenda Taylor of Toronto were last Saturday evening visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones.

Sympathy of friends is extended to Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson and family in the sudden death of her brother, Mr. Herbert Bulpitt of Trenton.

Quarterly board meeting was held on Monday evening at Wesley United Church with representatives from White's and Centenary.

Mrs. Erie Jones opened her home on Saturday afternoon to practise for the Christmas party at White's Church on Sunday afternoon, December 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Noakes of Belleville were Tuesday visitors of Mrs. Walter Jones.

Choir practice was held at the home of Mrs. W. Jeffery on Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones entertained on Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. George Bilham and Larry, and Mr. and Mrs. M. Kleinstecher on the occasion of Mrs. Bilham's birthday.

Mrs. W. Jeffery spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Sickels and attended a social evening at Aiken's Hall on Friday evening.

Mrs. Will Jones of Trenton was a Tuesday visitor of H. M. Brown and family.

Mrs. William Hunter and Barry of Belleville were Wednesday visitors of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones.

The bazaar and tea sponsored by the Bayside Brownies and Guides on Friday evening was a decided success.

ETNA ERUPTS

Things Columnist Might Never Know if He Didn't Open Mail

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Favorite menu items of Americans are sandwiches . . . they eat 100,000,000 daily . . . there may be no connection, but—some 18,000,000 Americans also have ulcers.

Prosperity note: Mike Forrest, a furrier here, has developed a line of mink coats for Christmas dolls this season—the coats will sell for $395 each. (The dolls come extra.)

Oh, my aching back: Next to headaches, the most common form of pain is caused by backaches.

Masculine fashions: Girdles for men aren't really new. . . . In the first half of the 19th century, podgy gentlemen in London and Paris customarily wore corsets to achieve a slimmer waistline.

Quotable notables: "The best way to keep your friends is not to give them away."—Wilson Mizner.

Onward and upward with science: It has been found you can catch a mouse easier by baiting a trap with bacon rather than cheese. . . . British researchers discovered that the favorite scent of women (whether single or married) was orange blossoms.

What's in a name? . . . One Dr. Suzuki's bigest film stars is Innokenty Smoktunovsky . . . Imagine trying to get that one on a North American theatre marquee! . . . (He'd probably wind up being called Kent Smoke.)

Wise moppets: Your six-year-old child is smarter than you think . . . tests of first-grade children show that most have a vocabulary of 2,500 words—although the one they seem to use most in the home is "no."

Human puzzle: No wonder a man today gets mixed up. . . . To his lawyer he's a client, to his doctor he's a patient, to a hotel he's a guest, to a politician he's a constituent, to his bank he's a depositor, to his boss he's an employee, to a store he's a customer, to a sports promoter he's a fan—and to his family he's "good old dad," the provider.

Human bank: In 1958 surgeons in Durham, England, removed from the stomach of a 54-year-old man 424 coins and 27 pieces of wire weighing more than five pounds. . . . The value of the coins: About $5.

Cost Of Living Advances To Record High

2.2 Points Higher Than Mark of Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Living costs in Canada climbed higher during October, with the consumer price index advancing to a record 131.9 Nov. 1, up two-fifths of a point from 131.5 a month earlier.

The increase, reported today by the bureau of statistics, was the fifth monthly advance in living costs in the last half year.

The index—a prices yardstick based on 1949 levels equalling 100—now is 2.2 points higher than the mark of 129.7 Nov. 1 last year, for a 12-month rise of 1.7 per cent.

The October price advance was spread over almost all areas of consumer buying, with the heaviest impact on food, clothing and transportation.

Bread prices went up, along with some other cereal products, sugar, fats, some fruits and vegetables, ham and turkey. These increases were partly offset by lower prices for beef and pork, eggs, coffee and most Canadian-grown fresh vegetables.

The October result was a half-point rise in the food index to 127.7 from 127.2.

AUTOS HIGHER

Initial prices of new-model cars, higher than year - end prices of 1962 models, helped push the index of transportation costs to 140.6 from 139.9, while the clothing index rose to 118 from 115.6 due to higher prices for men's clothing.

The October price rise followed a fattening of pay envelopes during September. The index of average industrial wages and salaries for Oct. 1—latest date available—was 139.4 compared with 138.1 a month earlier and 133.3 a year earlier.

Besides the higher costs of food, clothing and transportation, the cost of housing, recreation and reading went up too.

Lower prices for some drugs reduced the health and personal care indexes to 159.8 from 160. Cigarette price cuts in some areas reduced the index of tobacco and alcohol prices to 117.8 from 118.0.

Final Tally In Voting

The final and — as far as the city clerk's department is concerned — official totals of ballots cast on Monday's Belleville municipal election, are now complete. It shows one change in the line-up of results hitherto accepted.

Alderman Ross Bailey has been moved from seventh and last slot in the aldermanic list to sixth. He is replaced at the bottom of the elected by Jack Allin.

The final count gave Alderman Bailey a round 3,400 votes over 3,385 registered by Mr. Allin.

These were the final tallies :

Mayor — Haig, 3,904; Jarvah, 3,212.

Aldermen—Allin, 3,385; Bailey, 3,400; David, 3,634; Deacon, 3,570; Ireland, 4,272; Murray, 3,782; Tice, 1,300; Whalen, 3,293; Wishart, 3,568.

Flouridation — Yes, 3,165; No, 3,783.

Cuba Shelled By Pirates

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A big ship coming from the north shelled Communist province on the northeastern coast of Cuba Tuesday night, Havana radio reported today.

The broadcast, monitored here, said the ship was manned by a Cuban counter-revolutionary crew. It said cannon and machine-guns were fired upon San Francisco beach, about 18 miles from the city of Caibarien.

Worried About His $1600 Deposit, Air Force Vet Routs Two Robbers

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP)—Robert Dischler was not about to let two bank robbers get away with his $1,600.

The 24-year-old U.S. Air Force veteran had just deposited the money Wednesday when two armed robbers entered the Bayway branch of the National State Bank of Elizabeth.

Six customers and 12 bank employees looked on stunned as one of the gunmen leaped to a teller to teller, stuffing $52,000 into a satchel.

Then Dischler swung into action. He jumped the bandit with the loot and wrested the gun from him. At close range, Dischler fired a shot and the robber doubled up, clutching at his stomach.

The second gunman advanced, spraying bullets. Dischler returned the fire until both robbers fled.

When the smoke of battle cleared and excitement for the hero began pouring into the Dischler home, Dischler's father commented:

"My son is a lucky guy. He could have had his head blown off."

"I'd do it all again if I had to," Dischler said.

"I was worried about a $1,600 deposit I had just made."

The bank's initial report receipts from the gas station Dischler operates here.

An unarmed vault custodian, William Petuskey, 65, got in the line of fire during the exchange and was shot in the left temple. He was in fair condition today at hospital.

Dischler left something behind when he went with police to give an account of the battle. He returned several hours afterwards to reclaim it — his deposit slip for $1,600.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: A complex weather pattern over the Great Lakes and eastern United States is giving widespread precipitation. Along just east of a line from St. James Bay southward through North Bay, London, Niagara and Washington this precipitation is in the form of rain with mild 40 degree temperatures.

West of this line is an extensive snow area covering northern Ontario, Michigan, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania.

"With this weather pattern we have the unusual situation of cooler air over the south eastern states pushing northward into southern Ontario. The arrival of the cooler air will affect a change over in precipitation from rain to snow and is expected to take place late today or tonight.

ATLANTIC AREA STILL DEBATED IN COMMONS

Bill Is Hailed As Key to Upsurge

OTTAWA (CP) — Only the tangy smell of drying cod is needed to give a complete Maritimes flavor to the Commons this week. A third straight day of debate on Atlantic region affairs is on tap today.

The issue is the government's bill to establish the Atlantic Development Board, as measure which Conservatives have hailed as the key to an economic upsurge in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

All three opposition parties have expressed general support for the bill, but their spokesmen have interjected some sharp criticisms.

The bill came up for second reading Wednesday. Revenue Minister Hugh John Flemming, former premier of New Brunswick, appealed: "Let us go forward with the bill," and expressed a hope that the bill will be speeded through the final stages of approval.

PICKERSGILL BALKS

J. W. Pickersgill, former minister of transport in the Liberal government and MP for the Newfoundland riding of Bonavista-Twillingate, promptly vetoed this idea, saying "We expected an executive agency and all this is another advisory agency. I say that is not good enough."

Mr. Pickersgill said he will support the bill, but only on the promising that "half a loaf is better than no bread."

"If one may judge from what we have read about it (the development board bill) its advance in the press, it would seem that it is more or less the product of a mutual backscratching match between the politicians of the Atlantic Provinces and the prime minister of Canada who lavish the most exaggerated praise upon each other, which in most cases is rather undeserved, I think."

(Brig. Michael Wardell, publisher of the Fredericton Gleaner, publishes The Advocate.)

Mr. Pickersgill urged Mr. Flemming to remind the governments of the four Atlantic provinces before the cabinet conference of premiers and federal members of the Atlantic Development Board.

REDS BEATEN OFF

SAIGON (AP)—More than 20 Viet Cong guerrillas were killed when they attacked a strategic hamlet in An Giang province near the Cambodian border Friday, the government press agency reported today. One of the defenders was killed and six houses in the hamlet were destroyed by fire, the report said.

Russia Removing Bombers From Cuba at Rate Likely To Finish Job in Few Days

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia is removing jet bombers from Cuba at a pace that could have all the planes off the island within days, informed sources report.

It appeared likely that the U.S.-Soviet diplomatic wrangles over Cuba will fade with the removal of the last of the Russian "offensive weapons."

Informants said the Russians have taken a hard stand in New York negotiations against forcing Cuban Premier Castro to accept international inspection which President Kennedy seeks to make certain Cuba stays free of atomic weapons.

With no inspection agreement in prospect, the U.S. appeared prepared to continue aerial surveillance as a safeguard and let the diplomatic contest melt into the background—perhaps with a statement by each side explaining its position to the country.

This would set the stage for a new and uncertain phase in East-West relations. The United States is expected to talk with the Russians on a number of other issues.

Sources reported Wednesday night that the Russians are shipping their bombers out of Cuba at a rate indicating all of the aircraft will be out well in advance of the Dec. 30 deadline promised by Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

The IL-28 jet bombers, along with 42 missiles pulled out of Cuba earlier, were the nuclear-capable long-range arms whose removal Kennedy demanded, terming them offensive weapons.

The defence department announced Tuesday that three of the IL-28 jets had been spotted by U.S. patrol planes aboard a Soviet freighter leaving Cuba. Informed sources said more outbound shipments of bombers

Douks Break Capital Camp As B.C. Govt. Promises Help

VICTORIA (CP)—A band of Sons of Freedom Doukhobors have accepted a government offer to relocate, called off their vigil of protest and headed home.

The 49 - member delegation broke up a bizarre campsite on the steps of the legislative building after a meeting with the premier in which it would do everything it could to solve the radical sect's problems.

They had arrived 29 hours earlier to put pressure on the problem posed at the village of Hope, B.C., where 1,250 of their estranged brethren are squeezed into ill-heated cabins and tents.

Paul Scherbi, village chairman who brought the group here, advised their return after a meeting Wednesday with Deputy Attorney - general, Dr. Gilbert Kennedy, and Deputy Welfare Minister Ray Rickinson. The meeting produced a "momentary truce," Mr. Scherbi said.

He said the government made no firm commitments but agreed to do everything it could. The government officials offered the delegation free transportation back to Hope, 100 miles east of Vancouver.

Mr. Dickinson called a statement saying "the Freedomites have been assured they will not be subjected to pressures of where they are." He said the Salvation Army will be subsidized for providing food and clothing to the Freedomites.

The delegation listened to Mr. Scherbi's report, conferred for some time and decided to go. Their bus arrived at dusk and they stood by for an hour

Consumers Switching Back To Butter in a Big Way

- - Hartwick

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian consumers are switching back to butter in a big way, J. M. Hartwick, president of the National Dairy Council of Canada, said today.

He told the annual meeting of the Ontario Creamerymen's Association that use of butter has increased by as much as 3,000,000 pounds a month—better than 11 per cent—since the federal government lowered consumer prices by 12 cents a pound.

Butter consumption was reversed by the government through a 12-cent-a-pound subsidy May 1, but jumped to the same general level to farmers at 64 cents a pound for top grades but reducing the cost to consumers.

Mr. Hartwick also said consumers have been getting offered butter of questionable quality as a result of pressure by dairy farmers at older butter stocks.

"Another major factor in the switch to butter is the uncertainty in the minds of many consumers as to just what the ingredients or combination of ingredients of the synthetic products may be at any given time," he said.

Students Burn Donald Gordon In Effigy

Disturbing Peace Charges Are Laid

OTTAWA (CP)—About 300 French-speaking university students narrowly avoided an open clash with police and firemen Wednesday when they marched to the National War Memorial and burned a large effigy of CNR President Donald Gordon.

The students, all from the University of Ottawa, later received a better reception on Parliament Hill. They were met by a group of Quebec MPs and later three of them had a 20-minute interview with Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

The students were protesting that not more than 13 per cent of federal government employees are French-Canadians. They told the prime minister that the proportion should be roughly 30 per cent, reflecting the population of Canada.

Student leaders called for the immediate appointment of more French-Canadians as CNR vice-presidents. All 17 vice-presidents of the national railway are English-speaking.

They quoted the prime minister as saying that all of their brief would be relayed to Mr. Gordon.

The effigy was collected shortly after the students left the Hill for a short time and decided to go. Their bus arrived at dusk and they stood by for an hour

Pope Celebrates Mass in Chapel

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope John, convalescing from a stomach disorder and fever, celebrated mass today in his private chapel.

Apparently it was the first time he had said mass since being ill nine days ago.

Vatican sources reported that he had celebrated mass before in that period but until today, the Vatican source confirmed, that he had. Today's information about the mass was published in the Vatican newspaper, L'Osservatore Romano.

L'Osservatore and other Vatican sources gave no report on his condition. But the news that he had celebrated mass was inquiring him to be on his feet at least 30 minutes—was considered evidence of continued improvement.

Toll In London Is Already 67; Many More Ill

Looks Like Another '52 Says Hospital Official

LONDON (CP) — A dense fog settled down on London again tonight, with the death toll already 67 and another 738 victims of the sulphurous fumes in city hospitals.

As the choking pall thickened with the early darkness for the fourth consecutive night, a prominent weather bureau spokesman said:

"It's a repeat performance of the previous nights—just as intense and thickening at the same time. The rest of the country now is comparatively clear, but there is no relief in sight for London and the lower Thames River areas until tomorrow, at the earliest."

Outside London dozens of automobile accidents occurred on city roads and another transportation freeze-up was predicted for England and Wales during the night.

A spokesman of the British Automobile Association said the number of smashed - up cars made some stretches of highway look like junkyards.

15 TWICE AVERAGE

Air tests in central London showed the midday smoke content to be 2½ times the average for a comparative December day. But worse, still, the concentration of the combustion byproduct — sulphur dioxide — was seven times average. This was blamed for the bulk of the deaths.

Most of the victims were elderly or were already suffering from respiratory ailments when they succumbed. Some of them dropped dead on London streets. Others died soon after arrival in hospitals.

London commuter train schedules were in chaos. Thousands who normally travel by bus flocked to the subway stations as the smog immobilized or killed a halt the double-decekers.

"This looks like another 1952 disaster," said Cmdr. John Langworthy, chief of London's emergency measures organization for hospitals. "There are masses of cases."

Police said final figures of sudden deaths due to the smog —when they come in from all over the London—would run into many hundreds.

The killer smog of 1952 lasted about nine days.

The current one has run but one-third that long.

Early today two empty electric commuter trains crashed head-on in a railway cutting south of London, in heavy fog. A member of one of the train crews was killed and both en

Veteran Mayor Of Hamilton Is Defeated

HAMILTON (CP) — Victor Kennedy Copps climaxed a meteoric rise in civic political Wednesday with a landslide victory at the polls that ended the unprecedented 13-year reign of Lloyd Jackson as mayor of Hamilton.

The 43-year-old radio advertising salesman surged to the forefront early in the counting and Mr. Jackson, 74, conceded defeat three hours and 20 minutes after the polls closed. Mr. Copps received 57,780 votes to Mr. Jackson's 23,067.

Mr. Copps will be the city's first Roman Catholic mayor. His career in municipal politics started only two years ago when he stood for election of control for the first time and topped the polls with a record 43,000 votes.

For Mr. Jackson, the defeat ended a record tenure, five years longer than any previous mayor in Hamilton's 115-year history.

The voters' decision follows a similar one Monday in Toronto, where Mayor Nathan Phillips, at 70, veteran of a record eight years in office, was ousted by Controller Donald Summerville, 47.

FRIENDS RECEIVE

In an expansive mood as he watched the results pouring in his favor, Mr. Copps praised Mr. Jackson's "wonderful" record, but added:

"It's unfortunate he didn't retire undefeated with decks flying as he was advised."

Mr. Jackson congratulated Mr. Copps on his victory and had little to say except that he was relieved it was all over.

An estimated 54 per cent of the eligible 147,552 voters turned out in clearing Saturday on a fenced fluoridation of the city's water supply by 43,872 votes to 32,532.

They approved Sunday movies 45,126 votes to 27,778 and extension of the franchise to all British subjects of the age of 21 who have been residents for one year by 45,025 votes to 22,532.

SS Colonel Detained in Chile, Interpol May Nab Higher Nazi

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—The arrest of a higher ex-Nazi on war crimes charges may follow the detention of a former SS colonel accused of ordering the gassing of 90,000 Jews in the Second World War.

Patrick Weichman, head of the international police organization Interpol in Chile, said: "an even higher Nazi war criminal" was believed to be in the country and his arrest may follow soon.

He made the statement after former SS Col. Walter Herman Julius Rauff, 58, appeared before the Supreme Court and declared his innocence of the war crimes for which West Germany is seeking his extradition.

Weichman refused to name the second man whose arrest is expected.

Last March Martin Bormann, Hitler's deputy party chief, was reported located in Chile but the suspect turned out to be another man. Bormann was reported to have met death in attempting to escape from Berlin in 1945 and was declared legally dead eight years later by a West German court. But rumors that he is alive keep cropping up.

Rauff was an office colleague of Adolf Eichmann who was executed in Israel last May 31 for complicity in the death of 6,000,000 Jews. Rauff was arrested in Punta Arenas, Chile's southernmost city, Tuesday.

He was flown to Santiago and appeared in his extradition hearing Tuesday.

"I have no idea what I am charged with," he said. "I don't think I've committed anything. I only followed orders given by many generals."

Eduardo Novoa Monreal, Chilean lawyer retained by West Germany to press the extradition suit, said an indictment in Hannover, West Germany, charges that Rauff was the head of a Nazi elite guard unit which herded 90,000 Jews into sealed trucks and killed them by gas.

Weatherman Pulls Unusual Switch

Storm Out of U.S. Dumps Snow on Ont.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Snow, driving rain and plunging temperatures swept through Southern Ontario during the night from the eastern United States and continued today to fan out west to Lake Huron and east across Lake Ontario.

Windsor received the most concentrated corner of the storm centered between Windsor and London.

To the west the storm dumped snow over Michigan and began moving into Windsor, Sarnia and east to Quebec.

A heavy downpour preceded snow in Windsor. Rain became colder, turned to ice and then snow which continued piling up throughout the area.

Liaemen today were restoring telecommunication circuits which collapsed in some areas from the storm's first shock wave.

Chased by strong winds, snow swept north to 12 miles south of Owen Sound and snow piled up to four inches at Durham. 29 miles south of Owen Sound.

Rural areas in Kent County also suffered heavily. Hundreds of residents were left without electricity for the second time this season's first snowstorm. The Ontario Hydro office said at least 200 services were still out of order at 10 a.m. Ice and snow, combined with high winds felled hydro poles serving the area.

Snow fell overnight at London and left a covering of two inches before a heavy deluge of rain today turned snow to slush.

Up to 12 inches of snow fell on the Strathroy district. The storm affected all centres in the wide southern Ontario region but in most districts early snowfalls were followed by rain.

The change in weather dispersed isolated patches of fog which hovered around most areas.

Weathermen are unable to accurately determine the course of the storm but said it will sustain through tonight and reach Muskoka and North Bay Friday.

Lord Only Knows Where He Is After Legal Squabble for Year

TORONTO (CP) — Lord Calpi, a German shepherd who has cost two men more than $1,000 in legal costs in a custody battle, may have scorned both prospective owners for the affections of a little girl.

The squabble over Lord's ownership began a year ago when Mr. and Mrs. Frank Orso took him with them in leaving an apartment adjoining a scrapyard owned by Benny Stark.

Stark charged Orso with theft. Orso contended he had bought the dog.

"I looked after him all the time," Orso said.

"I fed him every day," countered Stark.

The courts twice threw out Stark's charge with strong declarations from the bench about "a dog's feelings." The dog had become fond of the Orsos.

But Stark finally obtained a court order for the dog's return and five months later bailiffs returned Lord to the scrapyard.

A few days later the dog disappeared in the company of the little girl, who has not been identified. Stark says the girl was acting for Orso; Orso says he hasn't seen the dog since the bailiffs took him.

Orso was convicted of con-

County Council Defers Action on Appointment Of Building Inspector

For the second time this year Hastings county council yesterday deferred action on the appointment of a county building inspector as called for under the Ontario Construction Safety Act.

After a lengthy discussion during which councillors stated the county building inspector idea was "unworkable," the county fathers referred the matter to its "resolutions" committee with the suggestion that a resolution be drafted advising government authorities why no appointment has been made.

Bancroft Reeve Jack N. Brown referred to the provincial order as a "wrong piece of legislation," and said it would be a physical impossibility for any one man to inspect all the building in the county.

And Reeve Sarl Sager of Madoc township said "it was worse than foolish to put legislation on the books which cannot be enforced."

REQUEST LAID OVER

Council also laid over until next year a request from the village of Frankford for investigation into the possible formation of a county health unit to take in either all or part of the county.

Reeve Treacy Adams of Dungannon said this matter has been gone into several years ago with the report being that it was unworkable on a county basis.

Cost figures from other counties where health units are in effect, showed that the annual cost to the municipalities was $1 per capita and under.

The report of a special committee appointed to investigate purchasing practices by the various county committees resulted in a spirited discussion on the relative merits of buying for the cheapest rate possible.

Mile-Long Taxi Ride Cost Airman $100

A mile-long taxi ride cost a Trenton airman $100 this morning.

LAC Kenneth Rodney Wheeler was charged with taking the taxi without the owner's consent November 30. He pleaded guilty today before magistrate T. Y. Wills in Belleville.

Belleville OPP officer Keith Basinger told the court the taxi disappeared within seconds after its driver and a fare had parked it outside the main gates of the RCAF station. While they were obtaining an entry pass onto the base the vehicle was taken.

"Wheeler admitted taking the vehicle. He had driven the taxi from the main gates to the beer store in Trenton, a distance of approximately one-and-a-half miles," said the officer.

The airman, five years in the RCAF, told magistrate Wills he had been drinking earlier in the day.

"This was not your way of getting back to the station with it?" queried the magistrate.

"It was on making it a career," Wheeler replied.

"Your planning slipped a cog this time," commented magistrate Wills.

One of Wheeler's superior officers told the court any service charge laid against the airman depended on the magistrate's decision.

"All I want to know is if he will be useful to the airforce if he doesn't go to jail," said the magistrate.

"Yes your honor," the officer promised.

"I am not asking for a jail sentence," the crown attorney John Pringle advised.

The magistrate added $3.50 costs to the $100 fine.

Two New Fish Sanctuaries Are Established

Two new fish sanctuaries were established this year in areas of eastern Lake Ontario, Department of Lands and Forests officials announced today.

The sanctuaries were created to prevent overfishing of commercial species, whitefish in the areas where the bulk of spawning occurs.

They are located within the jurisdiction of the Tweed Forest District, and are known as the Prince Edward county and Amherst Island sanctuaries.

The Prince Edward sanctuary is located along the south shore of the county between Wicked Point and Prince Edward Point.

The Amherst Island sanctuary has been established along the south shore of the island from Nut Island to the eastern end of Amherst.

These areas are closed on an annual basis to all fishing commencing November 15 to December 31, both dates inclusive.

Some concern for the future welfare of commercial fishing in the eastern basin of Lake Ontario has been felt over the past two years because of poor year production of whitefish.

The Glenora Fisheries Research station situated near Picton, has kept records over the past years on whitefish year class production and population densities.

This valuable information on which population of whitefish allowable for commercial use is based, has figured largely in the restrictive measures taken this year in order that the whitefish will not be over exploited at a time when population density of brood stocks is at a low level.

Service Station Is Entered, $11 Taken

Provincial police from Belleville are investigating a break-in at the Orville May service station on Highway 2, east of Trenton.

Officers say thieves smashed a glass panel in the front door to open the lock.

JAMES A. WILSON

WEST HUNTINGDON — The funeral service of James A. Wilson was held from the Dudin Funeral Home on Monday, December 3, with a large attendance of friends and neighbors.

Mr. George Dyson officiated at the home and cemetery.

Bearers were: Chas. Wright, Russell Sills, Melville Donahue, Morley Haggerty, David Farley, Harold Thompson.

MRS. WILLIAM FULLER

Mrs. Florence L. Fuller of South Hepchimer Avenue, died at the Belleville General Hospital on Wednesday, in her 79th year. She had been in failing health for some time.

Born in Sussex, England, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Smith, she came to Canada in 1910 and lived in Point Anne, Trenton and Belleville since that time. Mrs. Fuller was a member of Christ Church.

She is survived by her husband, William Fuller; three sons, Arthur at the Thompson Roasto and George of Belleville; two daughters, Mrs. Godfrey (Annie) Visat of Carrying Place and Mrs. Joseph (Florence) Butler of Trenton; 23 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and seven great-great-grandchildren.

Funeral service at the Thompson Funeral Chapel, 38 Everett St. Funeral arrangements appear elsewhere in this edition.

JAMES HAROLD WELSH

The funeral of James Harold Welsh was held from the John R. Bush Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Alexander McDowell conducted the service in the chapel and also the interment in the Cherry Valley cemetery.

The bearers were: James Leigh, Willard Musser, William Dickey, Larry Dayton, Jack Hendricks and Ronald Hull.

Might As Well Learn Hard Way Says Magistrate

A Deseronto man was given two months in jail this morning for driving while his licence was disqualified.

In addition, Roy Green was given a stern rebuke from Magistrate T. Y. Wills for persistently ignoring the law.

Green's record tendered in court showed he had been involved in several traffic charges in recent years. He was also convicted of a similar offence one year ago.

Deseronto police chief H. M. Closter said Green was driving the car of his uncle, Arnold Brant, when arrested October 7.

"Have you any intention whatever of obeying our laws," asked the magistrate after hearing Green's record.

"I think so — after this," Green answered.

"What's changed your mind now?"

"I have had about enough of this stuff."

"I am going to strengthen his resolve a little bit," said the magistrate. "There are people who exist without driving a car. They seem to me people with the laws like everybody else you can drive a car like everybody else. You might as well learn the hard way."

Shopping Spree Costly to Trenton Man

A two-day shopping spree in Trenton cost a man three months in jail this morning.

Police claimed Carl Edward MacDonald spent $194 dollars in cheques at various Trenton merchants September 7-8. All the cheques bounced.

MacDonald pleaded guilty to a total of eight charges of false pretences before Magistrate T. Y. Wills in Belleville. Police said he was sentenced to two years in Bancroft yesterday for two charges.

The charges claimed MacDonald spread the cheques around Trenton to purchase groceries, clothing and taxi services.

One cheque, made out to a grocer, was for $50.

The magistrate made the sentence concurrent on all charges.

Frankford-Trenton Road On East Side of River Taken Over by the Govt.

The present county road from Frankford south to the 401 Highway on the east side of the Trent River is to be taken over by the Ontario Highways Department for reconstruction as a development road.

This was learned by Hastings county councillors yesterday as the council body was addressed by W. E. Sandercock, MLA for Hastings West, and Clarke P. Rollins, MLA for Hastings East.

Both men outlined highway construction programs planned for the county for 1953 and 1954 and brought councillors up to date on work already in progress.

Mr. Sandercock told council that the county road running from Frankford south on the east side of Trent River was a "must" for reconstruction as a development road.

He said it was heavily travelled, particularly by large trucks bringing pulpwood to Trenton mills from the north part of the county.

The new road would be a great benefit to many citizens, he said. Construction of the roadway was now underway, and tenders would be called in 1953.

OTHER ROADS

Mr. Sandercock also referred to the Belleville - Foxboro stretch of No. 14 which he said was built over 30 years ago with no improvements done since.

Now, however, the road was to be reconstructed with the contract awarded to the H.J. McFarland Construction Company, Mr. Sandercock paid tribute to Mr. Rollins, MLA Clarke T. Rollins for his efforts in bringing about the proposed reconstruction.

Mr. Rollins referred to the construction program on No. 62 Highway, the Bancroft-Madoc and Madoc and asked residents to bear with the inconvenience.

Next year was expected to see the completion of regrading of the Bancroft-Madoc county development road. With the completion of this road and the rebuilding of No. 62 there would be a highway of modern standard from Belleville to Bancroft.

"All I can say is to be patient and then compare the new road with the old," said Mr. Rollins.

Mr. Rollins also stated that progress was being made to-ward the construction of a high level bridge over the Bay of Quinte at Deseronto.

He said negotiations were now underway for the purchase of property on both sides of the bay. Work for the necessary approaches to the big bridge will begin.

"It all takes time," he emphasized.

Reformatory Terms Given For Break-ins

A Belleville man, sentenced to 21 months for a city break-in, this morning requested he be given a full two-year term.

Robert Bennett had his plea turned down by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

Sentenced to 16 months along with Bennett was Leonard Clifford Wood, also of Belleville. Both men earlier had pleaded guilty in a break-in and theft of Lafferty's Pool Room on East Bridge St.

Similar concurrent sentences were meted out by the magistrate to both men for other breakins. Bennett pleaded guilty to two other charges, Wood to four.

Evidence given earlier showed extensive damage in one incident charged against Wood.

"I cannot take this lightly," the magistrate told Wood.

Bennett, police claimed had to be subdued at gunpoint after he threatened an officer with a sledgehammer when arrested on the spot at the pool room.

The magistrate also noted this when giving Bennett the stiffer sentence.

Bennett immediately stated he preferred a two-year-term —which would have sent him to Kingston penitentiary.

"I am sure you would" retorted Magistrate Wills. "However, I am not directing the correctional institutions. "I am awarding what I think is the proper penalty in kind for your offence."

Three Injured, Car Skidded Out of Control

A car skidded out of control on Highway 14, south of Foxboro last night, struck a hydro pole—and sent its three occupants to hospitals.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Singing Of Nurses' Choir

Over 100 members and friends of the Belleville Senior Citizens Club once again assembled in the Conference Rooms on Wednesday evening for their regular monthly meeting. Mrs. Pomeroy Hyde, opened the meeting with "The Queen" followed by birthday greetings to those who would be celebrating a birthday during the month of December and also the singing of the club theme song.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and the treasurer's report indicated a rather healthy financial status. Mrs. Gist reported on the sick and visiting committee.

The members then joined in the singing of numerous Christmas carols with Mrs. Shirley at the piano and being led by a number of young ladies belonging to the Student Nurses club.

A special feature of the evening's program was entertainment provided by the Student Nurses choir from Belleville General Hospital, under the direction of Mrs. Riley. The numbers on their programs were as follows: "The Bells of St. Mary's" the choir, vocal solo by Miss Enid Cooper, choir selection, "Silver Bells," piano solo by Miss Karen Wickens and final selection by the choir, a special rendition of "The Lord's Prayer". Mrs. Riley and the group were sincerely thanked by Mrs. Aiker, chairman of entertainment committee and the president, which sentiment was heartily endorsed by all present.

The remainder of the evening was spent by all indulging in several rounds of euchre him under the direction of Mrs. Haley in which many of the young choir ladies participated.

The euchre winners were: Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Doyle, Mrs. Ford, Mrs. Hilton, Mrs. Gill and H. Robinson.

Mrs. Murphy was also winner of the door prize.

Final arrangements were discussed in regard to the annual Christmas banquet to be held on Wednesday evening, the 19th inst. in the Columbus Hall.

The hostesses on the refreshment committee served the usual delicacies including Christmas cake and the meeting adjourned in the usual manner.

Cheese Prices Drop Slightly

The price of cheese dropped back slightly on the Belleville Cheese Exchange this week, with the average price for colored being 36 7/16 cents and for white, 36¾ cents.

The top price for first grade white cheese was 37 1/16 cents and for white 36 13/16 cents.

Top price for first grade colored cheese was 37¼ cents for white, and 36¾ cents for colored.

Trenton Youth Arranged for Time Off Work

A Trenton youth, Arthur Whaley has arranged to keep off in case he goes to jail for driving without a licence.

Last week he pleaded guilty to the charge, but the case was reported by Magistrate T. Y. Wills who suggested Whaley should arrange for free time from his employer if sentenced.

This morning he turned up promptly before the magistrate.

"Did you arrange your holidays?" Magistrate Wills inquired.

"Yes—the second week after New Year's," Whaley informed in terse words.

The magistrate set the case for January 8.

"What will happen is you had better come in on the 8th and you will get out on the 14th," Wills told Whaley.

"And don't go driving in the meantime," crown attorney John Pringle warned him.

City Manager Outlines Different Systems of Govt. Visited During Past Year

The contrast in municipal government operation and administration and the different system of taxes in England and Northern Europe as compared to this country, was outlined to members of Hastings County council yesterday.

Council members were addressed by Belleville City Manager J. R. Reynolds, who told of his trip overseas in September as a member of the Ontario Municipal Association group.

The 84-member group toured England, parts of Germany and The Netherlands and also Sweden to learn of local government administration in these countries.

Mr. Reynolds said considerably more emphasis was placed on planning in England than in Canada. Agricultural lands were under strict control, to achieve the greatest production possible. Sales taxes were entirely free of taxation and were assessed only if put to commercial use. Property taxation was on a rental return basis rather than on assessed values.

ON PARTY BASIS

Also in contrast to this country municipal governments were run on a strictly party basis with an official opposition in each council.

Mr. Reynolds said he was amazed at the home building in England since the war and also at the industrial development.

In Hanover, Germany, municipal taxes are collected at the place of employment rather than in the area where the resident lives.

And in Sweden taxes are collected in the form of municipal income taxes which meant that all earned income paid taxes to the municipality whether or not they were property owners.

WELFARE STATE

Sweden was described as the most welfare state with its state providing for almost everything from the cradle to the tomb, under its social security program.

This program included unemployment insurance.

Mr. Reynolds felt that much could be learned by officials from such inter-country visits noting that they brought about a better understanding between the people of different countries.

In his opinion such visits should be extended to include Asian countries as well as those in Europe. And he also felt regional officials in other countries could benefit similar visits to Canada.

3-Car Smash Causes $1,000 In Damages

A three-car smash on Highland Avenue in Belleville last night sent two persons to hospital and caused $1,000 property damage.

Treated for cuts and bruises at Belleville General Hospital were Ronald Daniel, R.R. 1, Frankford, and Mrs. R.R. Allen, Belleville. Miss Waite was a passenger in a car driven by Daniel which left the road and skidded on a curve in the road. The automobile veered into an oncoming car driven by Norma Armstrong, R.R. 3 Belleville, which in turn was rammed against a car driven by James Stephens, 10 Harriet Street.

Damage to the Daniel car was $500, $500 to the Armstrong vehicle and $100 to Stephens' car.

Grandma of District Deer Lives Life of a Forest Floor Riley

The "grandma" of all the trail is the Tweed Forest District of the Department of Lands and Forests has been living the private life of a forest floor "Riley" since she was born.

Sixteen years ago "grandma" was a teeny little waif wandering lost and a trifle bewildered in the woods.

Her mother, against all laws of nature, never returned to claim her. She had probably left with her mate, a handsome buck with a roving eye, on an all-expense paid trip to James Bay.

Fortunately for "grandma," Mr. G. K. Thompson of Arden, three miles east of Kaladar, happened along.

Touched by the fate of the forest orphan he took the little fawn home and built a private apartment for her.

He took tender care of the youngster—in fact has done so until this day. She now resides in the pen all her own, and enjoys the life of a nurtured spinster of the wilds.

Next spring, however, she will observe her 17th birthday. She is enjoying excellent health and appears to care not for food. She has no desire to return to the haunts of her "doe-hood."

"Grandma's" life expectancy is believed to be a record. Land and Forests officials state they believe, if ever, examine deer over 7½ years of age.

Around The Tee

There will be eight mixed rinks in competition on Saturday at the Quinte Curling Club.

This will be another of the one-day spiels that have proved so popular at the club since the season started.

There will be three draws, one at nine in the morning, the second at twelve-thirty and the third at four o'clock and the prizes will be distributed at the end of mixed curling and the social evening.

The rinks have been carefully selected and good competition should result. The following rinks have been entered:

Mrs. Wyn Maund, Fred Maund, Mrs. Connie Wilkinson and Ernie Wilkinson as skip; the second rink will be, Mrs. Vera Fairman, Everett Fairman, Mrs. Audrey Gowsell and Ted Gowsell, as skip. The third rink will be Mrs. Olive Jones, Ken Pinder, Mrs. Kay Pinder and Orvin Jones as skip. In fourth spot will be Mrs. Ruth Neil and Jack Murphy, Mrs. Flo Reston and Stan Reston as skip. The fifth rink will be Mrs. Helen Lovett, Norman Moore, Mrs. Kay Moore and Charles Lovett as skip.

The sixth rink is Mrs. Connie McCullam, Don MacKinnon, Mrs. Ann Staiss, and Al McClam as skip. The seventh rink is Mrs. Jessie Arena, Cliff Neill, Mrs. Dorothy Neil and Joe McKay as skip, while the eighth rink will be Mrs. Gwen Monson, Jack Monson, Mrs. Bernice LaPalm and Ken LaPalm as skip.

There will be luncheon served between the first and second draws and light refreshments all day by the members of the women's section of the club.

To start the Christmas festivities off their way at the club, there will be a party one week from Saturday night and some lucky person will be given a ticket to the market to get his or her turkey because there is going to be a member draw for the birds. There will also be a bingo for turkeys and draws for hams, baskets of fruit and groceries. There will be free door prizes and everyone will be admitted free. Each member will be allowed to bring a guest and it should be the party of the year.

There will be a game of mixed curling at 2:30 p.m. for the rolling and then everyone is on his own for the rest of the evening. Fred Maund, Dan Cowley and Bill Meagher form the committee in charge. A large board has been placed in the clubhouse and after paying your membership fee you are allowed to pick any number you wish, write your name in and perhaps you will win a turkey for Christmas. It would be rather hard to get your name in the draw for the four committee members of the committee. When the crowd gets tired of bingo and draws there is also dancing and a first class orchestra will be in attendance. The committee are looking for the largest turnout of the season so bring a guest and join in an evening of fun for everybody. The fun will start at nine bells.

Mild Spell Set No Records

TRENTON—Temperatures in the Trenton area took a 12-degree drop today, bringing to an end an extended period of mild weather. Yesterday the temperature went up to 51; last night it was down to 39.

Although the length of the mild spell was unusual, no temperature records were broken, according to the duty forecaster at RCAF Station, Trenton.

On Dec. 1, this year, the maximum temperature was 51 degrees; record for Dec. 1 was 53 degrees, set in 1953.

Yesterday, the maximum temperature was 51 degrees. Last year, on Dec. 5, it was 32, rising from a low of 34 degrees on Dec. 2.

The fog, which has hung intermittently over the area for the past few days, delayed service out of Trenton to some extent, but no serious air problems as far as flying schedules were concerned.

Front, Sidney Trunk Sewers Ready Soon

TRENTON — Within a few days, the trunk sewers on Front and Sidney streets will be ready for use, Tatham Company workmen are testing the mains and town workmen are attaching laterals to homes where the owners have applied to pay cash for the installation. Later, others who have not requested the service will be hooked up but the cost of the installation will be charged brek to them in their annual tax bills.

Once the Front street main is working, sewers from Elgin street, which have been running into a large septic tank on the riverbank, will be connected in. This will clear up a great deal of river pollution at this point. Other streets in the vicinity of Elgin (Middle, Murphy and parts of King streets) will also be served by the Front street main.

Ontario Water Resources Commission authorities say that the sewage treatment plant in east Trenton is geared to handle the entire sewage from the two mains. As further mains are installed and hooked up to the plant, an addition will become necessary, likely within the next five years.

Clerk Answers Complaints

City Clerk Adam Stalker today answered the numerous complaints of persons who at the last moment on Monday discovered their names had been left off the voters' lists.

He agreed that there had been quite a number of names left off the list, but stated there had been an improvement over last year.

He said there were fewer complaints at the hall on Monday for voters' certificates than in 1961.

At the same time the city clerk noted that Belleville residents had had ample opportunity to ascertain if their names were on the list.

The voters' lists were posted weeks before the election and various advertisements appeared in the press and on the radio urging people to check to see if their names were on the list.

Radio Engineers Hear Talk by Dr. M. J. Marcus

The Institute of Radio Engineers heard an enlightening, interesting talk from Dr. M. J. Marcus recently at the Northern Electric plant. Dr. Marcus, manager of the Maintainability and Analytical Design Dept., spoke on the subject "Motivating Groups and Men in an Engineering Setting."

Dr. Marcus reviewed the findings of psychologists regarding the basic human needs, drives, behavior patterns and the application of this knowledge could assist managers in motivating their employees toward achievement of desired goals.

The basic human needs, viz. security, safety, belonging, esteem and self-actuation vary in importance as circumstances change. For example, if a dedicated gun is pointed at a man, he is not concerned about any other needs at the moment except his safety. The manager should recognize the relative importance of these needs to individuals when he wishes to encourage or reinforce their performance on the job.

Dr. Marcus pointed out that although basic needs, drives and behavior vary over a wide range, groups tend to seek a consensus norm or social norm level. However, the norms of one group are not accepted automatically by another group. Social norms are therefore relative, a fact which must be considered in the Engineering Group.

It is up to the manager to set the norms for the group concerning punctuality, quality and quantity of work, target dates, etc. Complaints are a good guide to determine whether the work load is too high or too low.

As an example, lack of complaints over a period of two weeks indicates that the norm for the group is set too low. Numerous complaints indicate that perhaps the norms are set too high and should be reviewed.

AFFECTED BY REWARD

People's performance behavior is affected by reward, approbation, reinforcement and encouragement. Reward, promotion and increased income should be related to job performance rather than to passage of time. Reinforcement based on time does not effectively motivate the rewarded group to increase its effort.

Approval and punishment are opposite treatments of performance but do not necessarily have opposite effects. Punishment can have a reinforcing effect when used sparingly and only when understood. Punishment should be dealt with in private but approval should be given in front of the group. In between these two treatments there sometimes is a manager's attitude of indifference to a worker. Indifference does the greatest damage to reinforcement. If a manager is too busy to be aware of all individuals efforts, then his group is too big for effective management.

Dr. Marcus elaborated on the manner of announcing promotions and mistakes frequently made in this regard. Management should be able to classify state to the group and the individual why a promotion was given and what is expected by way of performance. It is not enough to merely announce the promotion of successful pay. It is necessary to establish the next level of growth. A mistake frequently made is announcing a lateral move as a promotion on the bulletin board in order to assuage the invalid person's feelings.

After a lively question period, Mr. S. Sillitoe, Production Superintendent of Northern Electric Company thanked Dr. Marcus on behalf of the large audience present.

POSTED TO TOKYO — Corporal C. A. "Bernie" Bernard of Trenton, in January starts a one-year tour of duty with the Military Attache Establishment in Tokyo and Korea. Army authorities have announced. Madoc District Youths Failed To Appear

A warrant has been issued for four Madoc district youths who failed today to answer the terms of their probation and appear in magistrate's court.

The quartet, arrested six months ago for theft of mine equipment, were given suspended sentences, but ordered to discuss restitution in court today.

Failing to appear were: David James Lemmon, Keith Toma, Lemuel Sanford and Daniel Hector Andrews.

"They were told to be here," crown attorney John Pringle told Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

"Shouldn't there be a charge of breach of recognizance laid and a warrant issued?" the magistrate suggested.

Members of City, County Councils View Mock-up Plans of New Hospital

Belleville city council and members of Hastings county council gained their first real glimpse of the future appearance of Belleville General Hospital as they viewed mock-up models of planned hospital extensions.

Council members were guests of the Hospital Board of Governors at a noon luncheon in the Hospital Recreation Hall following which proposed construction plans were outlined by Mr. John Buchan, chairman of the hospital property committee.

Mock-up models showing how the hospital would look following the planned initial construction steps and completion of long-term extension plans were explained. The extensions would eventually provide a hospital with accommodation for close to 700 beds.

The long-term plan is for construction of a multi-storey patient wing to the southeast of the present structure with accommodation for 200 beds, together with required added facilities.

DESTROY OLD SECTION

Mr. Buchan said this entailed preparation of a master plan so that the hospital would know "where it was going." He noted that a master plan was something which the board has never had before.

In the over-all master plan there were three basic considerations. These were: (1) eventual demolition of the present non fire-proof older section of the hospital built prior to 1939; (2) retaining wherever possible present facilities constructed since 1939 which were worth an estimated two and a half million dollars, and (3) where re-allocation was necessary the temporary facilities be planned in such a way so as to be worked into the final plan wherever possible.

The planned multi-storey patient wing would be connected to the present hospital by a two-storey service building. The patient wing would rise five storeys above the main entrance and would be so constructed that additional floors could be added. In the initial stage two extra storeys would be "boxed in" for later completion. Eventually the patient wing would soar to 10 or 12 storeys.

ELEVATORS PROVIDED

Each floor of the patient wing would have accommodation for 60 beds. A double corridor construction principle would be followed with services between the corridors.

Separate elevators would be provided for staff and patients, and for visitors.

Planning for the hospital extension would be to retain the present laboratory and physiotherapy departments but with provision for expansion of these services as required. The present heating plant would be scrapped.

"Everything in the initial phase of construction is part of the final plan," Mr. Buchanan emphasized.

- It was emphasized that present planning was only in the initial stages and that suggestions from doctors and nurses would be considered before final plans were drawn and presented for approval.

Mr. Buchan said no definite date could be given for calling of tenders for the initial construction stage but it was expected this would not be before late 1963 or 1964. Completion of the initial stage was not expected before three years.

The completion of the remaining phase of the extension plans would be as finances permitted.

MONEY IS NOT PROBLEM

WELCOMED BY CHAIRMAN

Hospital Board chairman Jack N. Hanover welcomed members of city and county councils.

Mayor A. M. Haig of Belleville said such joint meetings were a good thing.

"They allow us to know each other better and this makes it easier to discuss our problems," he said.

Mayor Haig referred to the proposed agreement between the city and the county under which the county will become a part owner of the Hospital. He said a private bill in the Ontario Legislature was now in preparation which would make the agreement official.

Under the joint ownership membership from the city on the Board of Governors would be increased from nine to six members, while the county's membership would be increased from two to four.

Although the private bill was not expected to be passed until February or March Mayor Haig suggested that for purposes of board membership the agreement be taken at its face value as of January 1st. He said he would recommend this to city council.

The appreciation of the county council members for the dinner was expressed by Warden Harold Varty.

Sensible Amendments

Ontario's new Minister of Transport, Hon. James Auld, is to be complimented on at least two of the amendments he has introduced to the Highway Traffic Act. If and when these amendments become law, speed limit regulations will not apply to police vehicles and slow motorists not using the right-hand lane of multi-lane highways will be fined.

The idea of policemen being required to observe the speed limit was always ridiculous. All a traffic violator had to do was to speed up and exceed the limit and he escaped scot-free—unless the pursuing policeman also broke the law. In practice, of course, police ignored the law. This is to not the way to breed respect for it.

Police should be exempt from any speed limit —but we hope that their officers make it plain that this exemption must not be abused and that the exemption does not justify a police officer habitually driving above the limit, or even, when in pursuit of a car, driving at speeds which endanger the lives and limbs of other users of the highways.

As for the second amendment, requiring slow drivers to keep to right-hand lanes, it is long overdue. Some may wonder whether this law should be enforced during rush hours on such heavily-travelled roads as the Toronto by-pass section of Highway 401, but it will mean slow drivers will have to cut into traffic on their right. But the lane-hopping that will result from this regulation being enforced will be but a fraction of that which the slow driver causes today, when fast traffic in the left-hand lane often turns to the right to get around him. On the open road, of course, there is no defence for the driver who sticks to the left-hand lane when there is plenty of driving room on his right.

Pilgrimage

The people of Tristan da Cunha want to go home, to their lonely volcanic isle in the South Atlantic.

When all the islanders over 21 cast ballots, the vote was 148 to 5 in favor of ending their stay in Britain.

It would be interesting to know what prompted the five dissenters—how old they are, whether they had personal tragedies during their island life, whether they have won English sweethearts, whether in England they have found unusual outlets for some exceptional talents.

Be the explanations for their dissent what they may, the real story here is that the vast majority of the islanders prefer their former lonely life to the amenities of England. Of course, they have been living at a former air force base near Southampton, but that can hardly have prevented them from tasting the joys of civilization.

Then, too, they have seen the lovely Hampshire countryside, the winding lanes, the rolling downs with the white chalk pits. They have not been robbed of the sharp salt sting of the sea breeze, but have known it softened by April drizzle. They have seen the bluebells flood the woodland dells and the buttercups golden the meadows. They have known the soft call of the cuckoo in the spring dusk and the flying orchestra which is the skylark, the magpie's chatter and the clamor of the rooks—and they want to return to Tristan da Cunha.

Perhaps it, too, has its beauties—nay, of course it has. For these, as we have been told, lie in the eye of the beholder, yes and in his ears and nose and heart and memory.

What is a bleak and barren rock to one is beloved of another. If this were all, though, life would be simpler. But what is bleak today is to the same person thick with promise tomorrow and what is exciting today becomes flat as last night's beer...or last summer's love. Let us hope when they get home, the islanders find what they have been looking for. Let those who envy them what they were looking for was their true selves.

If we do not love at home, it seems to be useless to speak of loving those far off. World peace may well follow national peace but national peace will only come if there is peace and love in our homes.—Madam Vanier.

We need not worry much about communism's claim to have a monopoly of truth and salvation. Communism got that idea from Christianity, which got it from Judaism, which gave it to Islam too.—Arnold Toynbee.

A book that furnishes no quotations is, in my judgment, no book—it is a plaything.—T. L. Peacock.

How to Get Gordon Becomes Problem to Frustrated M.P.s.

By RICHARD JACKSON
(From The Ontario Intelligencer's Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—The Honorable Members who do not like Donald Gordon but cannot seem to stand up to the big, bluff boss of the CNR—have been letting their frustrations out on Earl Rowe, Chairman of the Commons Railway Committee.

Rowe committed the original political sin of praising Donald Gordon who, for years, has been using a habit of eating MPs—except Fort Arthur's almost equally hard - boiled New Democrat Douglas Fisher — for breakfast.

Big Donald just chews 'em up and spits 'em out.

Except, of course, the Lake-head's "Mountain-That - Walks-Like-A-Man," who alone of all the Members in the Commons, has the physical good fortune of being able to look Gordon level in the eye and match him word for word.

Everybody else sits meekly while the Big Bear from Montreal growls his way through the Commons Railway Committee — and then, after he has gone back to his executive den in CNR headquarters, they snap and snarl at Earl Rowe, the House Chairman who let him maul them.

NO PAPER

But if they thought they could chew out Earl Rowe, they picked the wrong man.

This is something of an old curmudgeon himself.

Been around Parliament Hill these 37 years and getting wiser and a harder-cooked egg by the minute.

"So the boys don't like Donald Gordon," he shrugged the other day, "who does?"

"Shucks, I can hardly stand the old grouch myself."

"Why you should have heard me chew him out when I was president of Great Lakes Power and he was boss of the hydro man of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, busy pushing everybody, including my outfit, around.

"I slanged him out as all kinds of a bullying, busybody Bureaucrat, but I had to admit then — and it still goes now, though we're double-crossed, he's the best damn executive to come down the business pike in 25 years."

Those are fighting words, calculated to drive any number of MPs up the wall.

For they are all ready to swear on a stack of CNR timetables that Big Donald, in cutting down on passenger services, has been getting them into all kinds of domestic hot water at home with railwaymen worried about their jobs and ordinary voters all steamed up over inconvenient and infrequent train schedules.

And every word of what they say is very likely true. Donald Gordon is getting them into hot constituency water.

SLOW BOAT TO CHINA

But is Earl Rowe weeping for them?

Uh uh.

"The boys think they've got Gordon troubles," he snorted, "why I've got a train in my riding we've been trying to get to Collingwood.

"Not until 6.30 this evening, he told me.

"But I'm in an awful hurry to get to the hospital,' she protested, 'I've just had a baby, if you must know.'

"Lady," sympathized the conductor, 'if you have any more going to have a baby, you should never have got on such a train as this.'"

"But I didn't know,' she wailed, 'when I first came aboard."

And that, grins Earl Rowe, shows you just how slow Donald Gordon's got the trains running in his part of Ontario.

So the boys are in a bad way in the Commons Railway Committee....they can't make Donald Gordon shake in his shoes like most witnesses who come before Parliament....and they cannot worry Earl Rowe much either.

Will Pay For It

Universal medicare coverage should have priority. If the people want it, or something like it, they should have it — but they should remember that it will be the gift of no one political party. Rather they themselves must pay it and pay for it as they have for all social security benefits.

Strictly Personal

Wives Sneer At Hubbys' Old Flames

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Purely Personal Prejudices: We speak of going from the sublime to the ridiculous as if it were a vast leap across an abyss, when in reality it is a thin line that we cross and recross without taking a deep breath; a flip through the pages of Wordsworth's poetry will nearly reveal how the sublime and the ridiculous meet and often merge.

Universities may be roughly divided into those that are arrows and those that are boomerangs — straight emblems go directly to their object, but crooked emotions like hate and envy return to their wielder and injure only him.

One of the most tolerant and understanding of observations about the aged was made by Cicero, who remarked, "It is unjust to think old people sexless; it they think only of themselves, it is because they have lost all who once loved them."

The reason so many women dress badly is that they don't know the difference between "fashion" and "style." Fashions change, and not all fashions look good on all women. But style, being a personal quality, does not change, and a woman who knows her style will always dress with appropriate distinction.

Watching a famous and glamorous symphony conductor knock himself out on the podium, I was reminded of Heinz Wills Moody's remark many years ago, "If you see a tennis player who looks as if he is working very hard, then that means he isn't very good."

One of the most accurate gauges, of a person's intelligence is his susceptibility to oratory; the more intelligent he is, the more he is likely to be divided into those who examine speeches and those who respond to them — and as long as the latter class is by far the most numerous, we can hope for little advancement in public affairs.

Outside of a handful of large cities in America, a small town that boasts a good college with a bad football team is the best place to live. Speaking of which, I am sorry, when will communities learn that putting censorship in the hands of policemen is the most grossly absurd—as putting professors of literature on the Homicide Squad?

Is there a wife who doesn't believe in secretly worrying overtly, that her husband had terrible taste in women — until he met her?

Unlike men, by the way, most women have two "telephone voices" — the first is an artificial one that is used in answering the phone, and the second depends on who the caller is.

How Arvida Got Its Name

Windsor Star

Most Canadians probably haven't any idea how Arvida, the great aluminum centre in the Lake St. John area of northern Quebec, got its name. Well, it got it by using the first two letters of each name of Arthur Vining Davis, dead at 96 in Florida. He was the founder of the Aluminum Company of America and had much to do with the development of the Canadian industry.

It is one of Canada's finest industries, based on the abundant water power of Quebec and bauxite ore imported from the Caribbean area. It also has been a prosperous one. Mr. Davis was worth an estimated $400,000,000, of which more than a little was made in Canada.

To Your Good Health

Surgery Is Often Advisable For Some Sinus Troubles

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: For five years I have suffered from sinus trouble and difficulty in breathing. I must use medicine or a nasal spray all year round in order to be able to breathe.

The doctor has given me shots, pills, etc., and has advised me to rest and take vitamins and I took treatment but didn't help, to have my prostrance removed. He explained the operation to me. But people have told me so many things, I don't know whether to undergo surgery or not. I still can't breathe without using a nasal spray about every hour. — Mrs. G.H.

Sinus trouble isn't mysterious. It is caused by something — and of a variety of things which impede drainage of the sinus cavities.

It may be inflammation, with swelling partially shutting off the drainage passages which are small. It can be polyps, or growths. It can be scar tissue from some injury or infection. It can be displacement of which bony structure.

For more details, I suggest you send for a copy of my booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." Others may enclose a long, unstamped, self-addressed envelope and 25c in coin with your name and address your letter to me in care of The Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, 211 East Ontario, Ill., and ask for "the sinus booklet."

Correction of whatever is clogging the tailgate is the only thing that will give permanent relief. If, at times, medicine seems to help, don't use medicine, shots, sprays or the like will remove tissues which close or almost close the nose.

Nasal sprays, by temporarily shrinking nasal membranes, can give temporary, but not permanent relief. In the long run, the drying and repeated shrinking can, in fact, make your discomfort worse.

Your doctor, obviously knows what is causing your trouble, as indicated by his advice to have the sinus passages removed. Whatever this is, it juts into the drainage duct, prevents one or more of the sinus cavities from emptying, makes you miserable and disrupts your breathing in general.

He is, I am sure, convinced that the shots, pills, vitamins, sprays and pills in the world can't give more than trivial relief. That is why he has advised surgery. Until you accept it, there is little else he can do for you, obviously.

As to what "people have told you," I realize that 30 or 40 years ago doctors themselves frequently recommended that patients not have surgery in the nose except as a last resort.

But decades ago that type of surgery was relatively in its infancy. Reliable success with these operations for a good many years now has changed the outlook completely. You can safely put aside the "things you have been told," because they are out of date today. Your doctor has advised you thoughtfully and correctly, and he is the one to whom you should listen.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes mycosis fungoides and can it be cured? Is there any way to dry up those running tumors on the body? Is there any food that causes this kind of allergy? — C.R.

The cause is unknown. These lumps gradually ulcerate, and may ulcerate and assume a chronic course. It does not appear to be an allergic matter; diet is not a factor. There is no specific treatment which I can suggest; consult a skin specialist.

Mrs. T.E.M.: With so many moles, your best prospect is to consult a dermatologist as to removal. Change in diet will not help the condition.

Dec. 6, 1962 . . .

The French freighter Mont Blanc with a cargo of benzol, picric acid and TNT and the Belgian relief ship Imo collided in Halifax harbor with an explosion that wrecked the north part of the city, killing 1,600 persons, 60 years ago today—in 1917. A tidal wave broke ships' that were moored there and near the shore and ruined the waterfront. The blast, which broke windows in Truro, 50 miles away, also injured 6,000, left 10,000 homeless and caused $35,000,000 worth of property damage.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A crony of mine has two radios, going most of the time, one downstairs, and one up. When I arrived at the other evening, the ground floor was flooded with the sound of a famous pipe band. I went up to see if the great pibrochs or coronachs that fill the Scottish breast with longings and fierce sadness. Upstairs, when my crony took me to show me the new lamp table in the most admirable ever put out by the Post Office of Canada. In white craftsmanship, it is of classical simplicity and dignity. Without flattery, the new stamp bears an excellent likeness of the Queen—her face in profile, without the crown but indubitably the sovereign. If any fault were found here it would be that the stamp should be larger.

The new stamp didn't appear to be in general circulation recently when one sought it at the Sydney Post Office—it wasn't available in books of stamps or on the printer's by them, but 50 five-cent stamps of the new issue were sold to this buyer upon request. With loyalty to the Crown which the Queen herself admires, it is an agreeable privilege to mail letters stamped with the new likeness of the regal visage.

MUTUAL FEAR

Halifax Chronicle-Herald

"Peaceful co-existence" is still merely a slogan for the central problem of the cold war —mutual lack of trust—remains. But at least fear has been proven to be mutual also. occurred to me to contrast the grand organ and the bagpipes. They have much in common. They both are breathless; that is to say, there is no pause for breath in the musical and exhausting roar of which they are capable. They both have a great drone. They have a vocal talent for offsetting the highest little tweedles of wheedles against a massive background of bass. In between spasms of snarling and dying away the fell benefit of the two performances. And the Presbyterians and any family a pal friends will be happy to know it plumped for the bagpipes against the "kist o' whustles."

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

December 6th, 1942.

The season's heaviest snow fell blanketed Belleville and environs with nearly three inches of winter's mowsy covering on Sunday, flimsy had to resurrect snow shovels and begin the long procedure of removing snow from private sidewalks.

The Hastings County Agricultural War Committee was told at its meeting in Shire Hall that three thousand tons of grain were saved in this district through the assistance of airmen and public and high school students during the past harvest season. The Secretary-Manager of the Chamber of Commerce in his report stated that upwards of 3,000 tons of hay had also been successfully harvested.

The second of a series of naval tenders being built in Trenton was launched from the siding on the Canadian Pacific most important part in our Railway on Thursday afternoon. Canadian Navy as ship Canadian small craft play a back and forth from the harbor to the many large naval vessels which go to make up our Canadian fleet. They are used exclusively in serving the larger boats which are unable to get directly into the harbors, with supplies of all kinds including water and food.

30 YEARS AGO

December 6th, 1932.

The municipal elections are being held today and there are indications that the vote polled will be heavy.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carter are celebrating today the 66th anniversary of their marriage. They were married in England and came to Canada twenty-one years ago. Mr. Carter will be was a gardener and worked on several large estates in that country. Here he continued the same work and for ten years was employed at the Ontario School for the Deaf. Many friends called at their home to extend congratulations and to express good wishes.

A bowling wind with tornado-like proportions raged into the city early Sunday morning and scattered tree branches, ripped awnings on store fronts and carried away hanging business signs. It cleared the bay of the thick ice sheet and tossed the pieces up on the shore like cops. The mild weather of late has caused the ice to soften and crack. A number of motor boats left too close to the shore were carried away by the wind. In some parts in the district shingles were torn from barns and window glass broken in houses.

40 YEARS AGO

December 6th, 1922.

The members of the Ratepayers' and Property Owners' Association met in the city hall last night with ex. Mayor Panter in the chair. The assessment of property was discussed and no definite action was taken. Aid. A. Robinson, treasurer of the Association, reports a membership of 515 of whom 357 have paid their fees. There is a balance of $153 in the treasury.

Mr. T. A. Thompson of Almonte, secretary of the Eastern Ontario Poultry Association is here to make arrangements for the holding of the annual convention of the association in this city during the first week in January.

50 YEARS AGO

December 6th, 1912.

Mr. Fred Mayor Diamond, who is leaving the position of City Tax Collector to accept the position of Inspector of Weights and Measures with office in this city, was presented with some gifts and an address by the members of the various staffs at the city hall, with whom he has been associated. The event took place last evening at the city hall, and the gifts included a silver coffee service and tray and pudding dish. Among the city officials present were Mr. David Price, the city treasurer, Mr. J. A. Kerr, the city assessor; Mr. J. G. Lindsay, the city engineer; Mr. Thomas Gardner, the managger of the gas department; Chief of Police, John Newton; Mr. W. C. Mikel, the city solicitor.

Voices Praise Of New Stamp

Cape Breton Post

Postmaster-General Ellen Fairclough would be well advised to pay no slighted attention to any fault-finding with the new regular stamp issue bearing a likeness of the Queen's head. Always, there will be criticism—often unjustified—from one source or another—about an honest endeavor. No postmaster-general of any administration in Ottawa could escape it.

Letters from readers have been printed in some newspapers criticizing the new issue for not making the Queen look pretty, as though she were some film star dependent upon flattery for office receipts for a popularity poll. The idea of putting Her Majesty in such a category is abhorrent.

As a matter of official record, Elizabeth the Second has endorsed the new Canadian stamp which shows her head in profile, and was designed by a Montreal artist who posed in Buckingham Palace so the Queen approved of the depiction. Actually, she was drawn by the artist, and, in the meantime, has approved of the engraved production of a stamp. The Queen's judgment does credit to her good taste.

It is to concede that everybody has a fashionable right to an individual opinion when it's flatly stated here that this new stamp issue is the most admirable ever put out by the Post Office of Canada. In skilful craftsmanship, it is of classical simplicity and dignity. Without flattery, the new stamp bears an excellent likeness of the Queen—her face in profile, without the crown but indubitably the sovereign. If any fault were found here it would be that the stamp should be larger.

The new stamp didn't appear to be in general circulation recently when one sought it at the Sydney Post Office—it wasn't available in books of stamps or on the printer's by them, but 50 five-cent stamps of the new issue were sold to this buyer upon request. Toronto Stocks

TORONTO (CP) — Canada Southern Petroleums, feature performer on the stock market Tuesday, moved erratically in heavy morning turnover today.

Opening at $5.25, the stock nosedived to $4.70 then climbed back to $5, off 20 cents. Rumors of good drilling results in the company's property in northern British Columbia have sparked the brisk action.

Meanwhile, prices on the industrial board moved lower. Abitibi, Gatineau Power, Imperial Oil and Royal Bank all declined ¼, while Bell Telephone, Massey - Ferguson, Interprovincial Pipe Line, Calgary Power and Shawinigan all dropped in a ⅛ to ¼ range.

Stedman Brothers climbed ¼ to 17¾ after earlier touching a 1962 high of 17¾. The company has received an anonymous takeover bid amounting to $17.50 a share.

On the exchange index, industrials dropped 1.10 to 270.89 and base metals .70 to 188.02. Golds gained .2e to $5.57 and western oils .03 to 117.81. The 11 a.m. volume was 818,000 shares compared with 743,000 at the same time Tuesday.

International Nickel and Falconbridge weakened base metals, each falling ¼. Noranda declined ⅜, while Consolidated Mining and Smelting advanced ¼.

Among senior western oils, Home A declined ¼ and Home B ⅛. Pacific Petroleum gained ⅛.

Southern Petroleum traded furiously in the last hour Tuesday.

Canada Southern Petroleum, a Calgary-based company, recently drilling in northern British Columbia, gained 90 cents to $5 on a share on rumors of good drill results. It climbed through 133,100 shares.

Senior oils displayed strength. Home B was ahead 1¼.

Among industrials prices were higher but utilities were one of the few groups that showed strength as a group. B.C. Power gained ¼, CPR ¼ and Bell Telephone ⅛.

Federal Grain advanced two points, Canada Steamship Lines one point and BA Oil ⅛. Among steels Dominion Foundries and Steel was ahead ¼ and Atlas ⅛.

On index, industrials gained .10 to 272.09 and western oils .02 to 117.78. Golds declined .84 to $5.34 and base metals .16 to 118.72. Volume was 2,549,000 shares.

International Nickel led base metals down with a loss of ⅝ to 68. Domo was weakest among golds, down 1⅛ to 25.

Belleville Pianist Returns From Successful Tour

By EUGENE LANG

Gregory Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Ormonde Butler of Dundas Street East, has just returned from a successful recital tour of the Western Provinces in which he appeared as concert pianist. After competing with various other aspiring artists from all over Eastern Canada last spring in Ottawa, Mr. Butler was winner of the instrumental group and as such was given this opportunity to appear as soloist in the four western provinces in the 1962 Young Artist Series sponsored by the Federation of Music Teachers' Associations of Canada.

GREGORY BUTLER

Mr. Butler has been playing in public for approximately ten years, appearing in many Ontario centres both large and small first with his sister Cara, now Mrs. Robert Carson Allen of Toronto, in duo recitals and at late in Bowmanville. He has been studying all this time with the renowned piano pedagogue of Toronto, Mona Bates, except during his tenure of two years at the Eastman Rochester School of Music in Rochester, New York. At present Mr. Butler has about thirty-five piano students under his wing divided between Toronto and Belleville.

HEAVY SCHEDULE

The tour that was planned consisted of playing in seven-teen cities and towns in the space of twenty-two days. It began in Victoria, B.C., and concluded in Winnipeg. Included in the itinerary were places both large and small and took in such centres as Vancouver, Chilliwack, Nelson and Trail in British Columbia along with Calgary, Edmonton and Lethbridge in Alberta. Coming eastward Saskatoon and Regina were two of various locations performed in Saskatchewan traversing through Gladstone, Shoal Lake to Winnipeg.

Mr. Butler played before audiences both large and small, running the gauntlet from groups of listeners ranging from as meagre as twenty-three to halls crowded with nearly a thousand. Pianos supplied for his recitals ranged from excellent concert grands to passable instruments with even an upright piano being the only choice in one small town.

His tour turned out to be an unqualified success from beginning to end and leading critics in the large cities endorsed his playing with laudatory phrases in all their reviews. Marian Virtue writing in the Lethbridge Herald opened her critique speaking of his "keen musical perception combined with excellent all round technique" and went on to say that in each selection played he "carried through in a simply suave sincerity of style free from all self-conscious display." She went on to say, "It was a first rate performance — musically alive and one that held the complete attention of the listeners throughout". His conception of his Bach offerings was described as "noble music, played with great dignity." In the Beethoven "Moonlight Sonata" the "good fleecy bologna bulls 19-19.50; common and medium light bulls 18-18.50. Replacement cattle 500: Good light stockers 26 - 27.50; good stock calves 28-30; commons 18-25.

Calves 86: Choice vealers 35-37; goods 31-34; mediums 26-30; commons 21-25; boners 15-20.

Hogs 786: Grade A 30.85-31.25; heavy sows 22.50; no early sales for slags.

Sheep and lambs 210: Good goodyweight lambs $25 per hundredweight; bucks discounted at $1 and good heavies $2 per hundredweight; sheep 3-12; yearlings 12-16.

Airman Fined Although Not Present in Court

A former airman, last week convicted along with four other youths for assaulting two fellow servicemen, today was again found guilty of careless driving arising from the same incident.

Methis Anthony Schell did not appear in court and a warrant was issued for his arrest after Magistrate T. Willis was told he was not any longer in the RCAF.

The airmen beaten up in the October 27 assault—which cost the five accused $50 each last week—appeared as witnesses today.

Lac's J. F. Walsh and Douglas Leger told the court of being forced to stop on the 6 R.D road when a car driven by Schell pulled over in front of them.

In Schell's absence a plea of not guilty was entered to the charge. On conviction the magistrate fined him $25 and $16 costs—or 15 days in default.

Francean Campbell wrote of his "consistency thoughtful and often highly musical approach" to the works performed.

In Victoria, B.C., critic, Bert Binny, wrote that "Mr. Butler possessed the most articulate style heard there in some time" and mentioned that "he was equally clear and definite in both hands." He went on to write that "Mr. Butler has the ability to present the musical detail at its best."

With the above excerpts culled from critical appraisals of his recitals as only a sample of what was said of Mr. Butler's playing we can gather that Belleville has produced a young pianist who will make a name for himself in the future not he might play on the musical horizon of tomorrow as a concert pianist.

Note: Among scheduled performances in the future Mr. Butler is hoping to give a recital here in Belleville early next year.

SCHOLAREPS of CANADA APPOINTMENT

Air Commodore A. Dwight Ross

The Board of Directors of Scholarships of Canada Limited have appointed A. Dwight Ross, Air Commodore (Retd) as the agent for the Canadian Scholarship Trust Plan for Southeastern Ontario. Air Commodore Ross served with the Royal Canadian Air Force for over 30 years, and was awarded the George Cross.

The District office of the Canadian Scholarship Trust Plan is at 103 Wellington Street, Kingston, Ontario. This plan is sponsored by the C.S.T. Foundation, a non-profit organization, with offices established across Canada to promote a co-operative plan for providing university scholarships. It encourages parents to enrol their children at early ages, in a savings plan which makes possible four years of attendance at university.

Govt. Asked To Repeal Section of Act

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario division of the National Union of Public Employees (CLC) asked the Ontario government Wednesday to repeal a section of the Ontario Labor Relations Act under which a municipality may exclude its employees from the provisions of the act.

In a joint brief with the National Union of Public Service Employees (CLC) to the government and members of the legislature, the Ontario division said Section 89 of the Labor Relations Act "changes the status of municipal employees" and makes "them "second - class workers."

Municipal employees, the brief said, "are deprived of the full right to get organized, certified, to bargain collectively, to use conciliation and arbitration services and to be generally protected by the act."

A joint committee of the two unions, led by James Doyell of Toronto, national representative of NUPSE and vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Labor, and Mrs. Grace Hartman, secretary of the Ontario division of NUPSE, met in a closed session with Labor Minister Rowntree and Municipal Affairs Minister Spooner.

The brief explained that the unions, together representing 86,000 public employees in Canada and more than 35,000 in Ontario are "at a stage of merger under the name of the Canadian Union of Public Employees."

It quoted Section 89—"A municipality as defined in the department of Municipal Affairs Act may declare that this act does not apply to it in its relations with its employees or any of them"—and went on to deal with the section's "discriminatory and undemocratic character . . . and show its failure in the light of national and international standards."

St. Ola

ST. OLA — Mr. German Barager of Coe Hill visited his sister, Mrs. Gordon King, on Monday.

Regret to hear of the serious illness from a heart attack of Mr. John Palmateer. The attack occurred Saturday as Mr. and Mrs. J. Palmateer were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Percy Palmateer near Ormsby. Dr. Lunn was called and Mr. Palmateer was taken to the Bancroft Hospital where, at time of writing, his condition is as good as can be expected. The entire community extends wishes for a speedy and complete recovery.

Misses Barbara and Edith Phillips of Trenton spent the weekend with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Longmuir and two sons of Napanee, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Longmuir, in St. Ola.

The December meeting of the United Church Women is being held at the home of Miss Dorothy Sargent on Wednesday.

On Sunday Mr. K. McAlister took as his theme, "The Shepherd-Prophet." Scripture reading was from Amos 3:13. In being a shepherd-prophet, Amos was a type of two aspects of the Lord as shepherd of Israel and prophet of Jehovah.

Mrs. Pat Plumb is home from Belleville Hospital and is convalescing satisfactorily.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phillips and family drove to Carrying Place to visit Mr. and Mrs. Bert Connelly and family and returned home Sunday evening.

The Pentecostal church was filled to capacity to welcome back the Rev. W. Mallory who had been in the United States for a long visit. The Bible class was taught by Mrs. Leslie McMurray. There are classes for all ages, all taught by capable teachers.

Construction of the new church in Gilmour is progressing speedily and will likely be opened before the end of the year.

Mercier, who said he is donating his legal services.

The demonstration was similar to others in Quebec City, Montreal and Sherbrooke which followed Mr. Gordon's controversial testimony before the Commons railway committee Nov. 20-22.

Mr. Gordon told the committee there were no French-Canadians among the railroad's top 28 officials only because of a lack of qualified applicants, not because of discrimination. Later he issued a statement saying French-Canadians occupy many executive positions in the CNR, amounting to 13 per cent of the total.

Wednesday's demonstration, which had not been endorsed by the University of Ottawa or the students' federation, began with a march from the campus to Confederation Square in the heart of the capital about 12:30 p.m.

POLICE UNSUCCESSFUL

City motorcycle policemen rushed to the square and tried vainly to push the students back. A fire truck soon arrived and firemen extinguished the burning effigy, which was all but consumed.

Policemen questioned several students to find out who the leaders were, but the students refused to reply, saying they would only talk to French-speaking officers.

With noon-hour traffic tied up all around the square, RCMP reinforcements were called in and the crowd dispersed in the direction of Parliament Hill nearby.

The three students who met the prime minister were Claude Lemelin, 22, of Quebec City; Jean Gobeil, editor of a French student newspaper, and Jean-Pierre Bourbeau, both of Ottawa. Mr. Bourbeau said the students wanted Mr. Gordon "to retract what he said about French - Canadians not having the ability to be CNR vice-presidents."

"That was an insult coming from a man who had only a few years of schooling and who is a self-made man."

Toll in London

gineers were taken to hospital with injuries.

There were signs the smog was lifting.

As Britain crawled to work for the third successive day, weathermen said the 500 - foot-thick blanket was thinning in many places.

In London, however, they warned it will probably clamp down again after dusk — and dusk these days is around 4 p.m.

The dawn also brought an improvement in the fog across the country. Traffic still was idle along the east coast and in the northern county of Yorkshire, but many other areas had cleared.

London Airport was closed for the third day.

TAKES HEAVY TOLL

More than 60 sudden deaths on Tuesday and Wednesday were attributed to smog. The victims were mostly people with heart or chest complaints whose condition was aggravated by the sulphurous pall.

With smoke and sulphur dioxide in the air amounting to 10 and 14 times the normal content, the weather bureau said Wednesday that things were as bad as in 1952, when a killer smog caused at least 4,000 deaths.

The forecasters had predicted no letup, and 200 hospitals were placed on the alert for a major disaster. Nearly 400 beds were taken last night by emergency cases.

A London County Council official said: "Hundreds of people who were due to go into hospital for operations were told to stay at home.

"They could afford to wait. Smog victims cannot."

The health ministry especially advised persons with chest and heart disorders to stay indoors.

AFFECTS SHIPPING

The Port of London was almost completely shut down leaving some 60 ships fog-bound.

Although England was the hardest hit, heavy fog also struck the Continent.

Six persons were killed in traffic accidents in The Netherlands where the fog was particularly bad. Fog also was thick in Scandinavia and North Germany causing airport shutdowns and shipping tieups.

A Polish ship was heading for Kiel, West Germany, today with 30 survivors of the British vessel Link Ore which foundered in thick fog in the Baltic Wednesday night after colliding with a Russian ship. There were no injuries.

singing hymns before they left. Six members stayed behind to drive their caravan trucks that had brought their camping equipment here.

Premier Bennett made an unscheduled visit to the steps of the legislative building Wednesday.

He said he offered to pay for a delegation of Freedomites to go to Ottawa to tell their story to a Senate committee, if such a committee was established.

"They said what they really wanted was first to get their men out of prison, but more importantly, to restore their Christian community," Mr. Bennett said.

WANT LEADER

"They said that it could not be restored until Sorokin (Stefan Sorokin, spiritual leader of the sect who lives in Uruguay) was brought back."

"I told them that as premier I had nothing to do with immigration of getting people out of federal prisons, so I couldn't help them."

The Freedomites left their homes in the Kootenay area of eastern B.C. in early September, saying they would march to Agassiz mountain prison. The prison is near Hope and contains 60 Freedomites convicted of acts of terrorism.

Dean Acheson Says Britain Has Played Out Old Role, Euromart Her New Chance

WEST POINT, N.Y. (CP-AP) — Dean Acheson, president Kennedy's adviser on NATO affairs, says Britain's present role in world affairs "is about played out" but that her proposed membership in the European Common Market is a "decisive turning point."

Reviewing the political situation of Europe, Acheson told a student conference on U.S. affairs at the military academy here that there is "plenty of cause for concern."

Britain "has lost an empire and has not yet found a role."

Britain's attempt, he explained, "to play a separate power role—that is a role apart from Europe, a role based on a 'special relationship' with the United States, a role based on being the head of a Commonwealth which has no political structure, or unity, or strength and enjoys a fragile and precarious economic relationship—this role is about played out."

While Europe has made economic progress, the political situation is "chaotic, weak and ominous," Acheson said.

HEADED BY OLDER MEN

"Four regimes — Germany, France, Portugal and Spain — hang upon the lives of men beyond the age when heads of government usually lay down their burdens. In none of them can one see clearly the next phase. To the four already mentioned, we might also add Italy. In some the next phase might be one of disintegration. Germany, is, perhaps, the most steady."

But all is not gloom in the NATO camp, Acheson declared. Britain's application for membership in the Common Market is a "decisive turning point" and should Britain join, another step forward of vast importance will have been taken.

Militarily, Acheson, secretary of state in the Truman administration, suggested that substantially stronger Western conventional forces might force the Soviet Union to reconsider its support for the East Germans and could bring a solution of the Berlin problem.

"To accept the division of Europe along the Helmstedt line is dangerous and unnecessary," Acheson said.

Helmstedt is a town on the border dividing West and East Germany.

BASED ON STRENGTH

Soviet domination of East Germany, Acheson added, is "largely based on the preponderance of Soviet conventional power on their Western front. If this did not exist, Soviet intervention to support (East German Communist Leader Walter) Ulbricht's authority might become increasingly imprudent."

"A policy of a solution of the German question by Germans, restrained by membership in a United Europe and an Atlantic alliance, might end the dilemma of Berlin."

German reunification, Acheson said, is one of the important problems which urgently requires "common thought and agreed policy" in the North Atlantic Treaty Alliance. There has been "too much of a tendency in many countries, sometimes even if West Germany itself, to lay lip service to unification while studiously avoiding any ideas about how, when and by whom it can be brought about."

Two London newspapers are sharply critical about Acheson's remarks that "Britain is about played out."

The Daily Express says in an editorial:

"A nation that abandons her mission and gives up her immense responsibility for the advancement of civilization need expect no medals.

"Least of all can she look for praise from those at home or abroad who urged her along the paths of surrender.

"Now those bad counsellors look on a world that is more unstable, more dangerous, because of the advice they gave. Mr. Acheson was one of those counsellors."

The Daily Sketch devotes most of its front page to Acheson's remarks. It headlines the story and its own comments: "An astonishing attack from the man who helps Kennedy: Is Britain played out? Only Acheson says so."

The newspaper also devotes its two centre pages to comments from a number of British leaders, among them former prime minister Earl Attlee, and Sir Patrick Hennessy, chairman of the British Ford Motor Company, denying Acheson's charge.

PAPER IS INDIGNANT

The Sketch editorial says:

"Of course we have no empire. We have shown the world how to educate and free colonial peoples. What a contrast with the shambles in the ex-American colony Cuba. No British ex-colony has yet gone Communist—Americas included. Mr. Acheson should find out more about America's allies before he abuses them in public."

Other British newspapers gave the Acheson statement routine coverage and none—even those which strongly support Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative government—generated the Sketch's indignation.

One of the Sketch stories says Acheson is "an intellectual snob and can be arrogant or humble to people, depending on his judgment of their intellectual power."

Consumers

Mr. Hartwick said in addition to the spectacular resurgence in butter sales there had been a strong upturn in consumption of fluid milk products, all types of cheese and evaporated milk.

He said the answer to the dairy problem involves the adoption of expansionist measures to stimulate consumption and not in short-sighted moves to suppress production artificially and temporarily. Such restrictions and compulsory restraints were retrogressive, undesirable and ineffective.

The statements were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

Police Seize Pure Cocaine

NEW YORK (AP)—A Cuban national and his common - law wife, described by police as among the top distributors of cocaine imported into the United States from Cuba, were taken into custody by narcotics squad detectives today in a midtown hotel.

Detectives said they found 2.2 pounds of pure, top-grade cocaine — estimated to be worth $200,000 on the illegal black market—on a dresser.

Orso says he licensed Lord in Stark's name only to avoid complaints from neighbors about the dog's barking.

have been counted virtually daily at such a rate that complete removal should be finished in a matter of days—perhaps by the end of this week.

The Russians were said to have informed the United States that they are withdrawing more than 40 bombers. The U.S. sources declined to give the exact figure the Russians mentioned, but said the number exceeded previous U.S. estimates of more than 36.

The Russian statement giving a larger number than U.S. intelligence estimates was regarded in Washington as additional evidence the Russians intend to carry out Khrushchev's pledge to remove the planes.

MENACE IS GONE

In a letter to UN Ambassador Adlai Stevenson made public Wednesday, Kennedy commented "We have eliminated the nuclear menace from Cuba."

But Senator Richard B. Russell, chairman of the Senate armed services committee, said: "It was a mistake for President Kennedy to lift the quarantine until we had the right of on-site inspection throughout Cuba."

In a television interview, the Georgia Democrat added:

"We will eventually have to rid this hemisphere of Castro and all that he stands for . . . The opportune moment for an invasion has passed, now that the United States has accepted Russia's word on the removal of missiles from Cuba."

Gambler Payoffs Alleged To Policemen in Syracuse

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Disclosures of a $500 Christmas gift to a police lieutenant, money - filled envelopes earmarked for detective-sergeants and payoffs to other Syracuse policemen were made Wednesday at a public hearing.

Witnesses testified at a public hearing by the state investigation commission. It is investigating alleged links between the police department and gambling, prostitution and narcotics in this central New York city. Syracuse has been termed the hub of gambling in northern New York by the commission.

Joseph Fisch, an investigator for the commission, said a police lieutenant admitted at a closed hearing that he had received a $500 Christmas gift.

SOURCE NOT GIVEN

The police officer was identified only as Lieut. Chorazy. Fisch did not disclose the source of the alleged gift.

Wednesday's first witness, Police Sgt. Thomas J. Sardino, testified that six white envelopes, each containing the name of a detective-sergeant and a $20 bill, were found at the scene of a gambling raid Jan. 5, 1958.

Sardino said of the six detective-sergeants whose names appeared on the envelopes, one now was a deputy chief of police, another an acting detective-captain, two held the same rank and the other two had retired.

Sgt. John T. Leshey testified that he and Sgt. Emil Kocher had gone to the home of convicted gambler Percy Harris and received "about $10 for maybe three Christmases in a row."

The name of Harris, a lottery operator who served a jail term on a gambling charge, cropped up again in testimony by Patrolman John Shostack who said he had met Harris at a police conference in New York City about 12 years ago.

TELL WHO TO SEE

At the conference, Shostack said, there were rumors among policemen from Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo that they should "see Percy Harris."

"A lot of people from other cities went down to see (Harris)," Shostack said. "I met him at his place of business in New York City" — Harris' Corners, a restaurant.

At Tuesday's session, witness testified that Harris had operated a numbers racket in Syracuse for 25 years without police interference. The gambler was arrested by state troopers about two years ago and sent to jail.

Tabernacle United Church Holds 'Frosty' Yuletide Tea

"The old order changeth." So, yesterday afternoon, Tabernacle United Church climaxed the season of attractive teas and bazaars with a most delightful and successful one entitled, "Frosty."

Just inside the outer entrance one was brought face to face with what the season represented — the birth of Christ; depicted by the nativity scene which included the Holy Family — the Babe of Bethlehem in a cradle of straw, the visiting shepherds with their crooks, the little lambs, and to remind that it was also the birthday of the King of Kings, the gifts of the Wise men lay beside the cradle. A soft effulgent glow from an unseen light brought out the lovely coloring of sapphire blue, gold and green of the shepherds' robes.

Over the descending steps to the lower auditorium metallic, skeleton stars swayed gently back and forth. Longe before the opening hour, a queue of seeking patrons anxiously awaited the opening of the inner doors, which would reveal a beautifully adorned tea room accented by the Christmas theme.

Pendant from each of the indirect lights were stars turned their shining sides, now east, now west, and at the far end upon the dias a gleaming aluminum Christmas tree was flanked by white baskets of lovely white and pink tinged 'mums, and backing this, the picture of Christ praying in the Garden of Gethsemane. As the garden of Gethsemane. As the re-behind the flowers, slowly turned, they flooding the room with rose, gold, green and sapphire, making the scene one of sublime loveliness.

TEA ROOM

The entrance to the tea room was scentinelled by tall metal standards holding potted red poinsettias, and filling the intervening space the three guest tables, near the dais, the twin tea, tables, each of which was appointed with white damask linen and centred by white, glistening driftwood centres extending upward in two sharp peaks like cathedral towers, with climbing holly vines and red poinsettias, and from the centre four red candles in graduated lengths flickered a gentle welcome. Each little guest table also had its white cloth, and Christmas centrepiece of a tall white candle amid fragrant spruce boughlets.

Into this Yuletide atmosphere the thronging guests were welcomed by Mrs. M. G. McFarlane, wife of the pastor; the Rev. M. G. McFarlane, who officially opened the tea and bazaar; Mrs. H. H. Graham, Mrs. W. J. Dougherty, and Mrs. A. Andrews, while Mrs. R. Boyce acted as treasurer for the afternoon.

CHRISTMAS DECOR

One corner of the tea room was given over to Christmas decorations, which included beautiful frosty trees, glistening five-point stars and wreaths, all made from cellophane, driftwood centrepieces filled with glistening green globes, and mingled flowers in pinks and greens. Individual fancy candies too pretty to burn, white Santas, and many others some of tiny trees bearing little colored globe fruits. In charge of this attractive booth were Mrs. H. Burley, Mrs. D. MacLean, Mrs. W. Morrison and Mrs. M. Graham.

Other booths which occupied individual rooms round about, included the men's booth, convened by Messrs. P. Kerr, E. Taylor, J. Hunter, R. Shufelt, and B. Robinson, had a variety of articles for sale; baskets of polished McIntosh apples, potatoes, candy canes, Christmas cards, socks, squashes, bugs basket in wood, magazine rack, dolls' high chair and child's padded chair, hockey mitts, and many others.

DOLLY EMPORIUM

The dolls' emporium displayed several pretty little doll cradles in pink, blue, rose; little quilts, knitted little dresses and suits; floral pyjamas; stuffed rabbits, and little dolls, some of the Negroid type with kinky hair, and some with blue eyes and golden curls. A whole rack of doll clothes lined the wall behind. These were convened by Mrs. G. Barnett, assisted by Mrs. M. LaRue, Mrs. R. Manley and Mrs. J. Bablak.

The apron booth, convened by Mesdames F. Rodgers, and P. Bland, assisted by Mesdames Millan, P. Paul, Baird, Elliott, G. Brickman, Moon, Neil, May and Paul, was surrounded by eager patrons who found many from which to choose: prints, saturday aprons, and others.

DELIGHTFUL CANDY

The candy booth was a delight to the eyes and a test to the dieters with its little jars of maple creams, marshmallow snowmen, peanut brittle, popcorn balls, homemade pulled taffy, cups and boxes of mixtures, pinks and whites of coanut candy and chocolate drops. The conveners were Mesdames E. Grills, R. Atkins, assisted by E. Lott, G. Oliver, E. Harrison, G. Stout, W. Morrison, D. Mitchell, W. Olds, J. Winstanley and Miss J. Schliever.

The home cooking table was a gourmet's "mecca" with its wonderful display of delicacies of cup cakes, pies, breads, buns, gingermen, date squares, shortbreads, taffy tarts and cookies of many kinds. Mesdames R. Irwin, W. Embury, M. Cummings, G. Ashley, J. Arnott, E. Greenleaf, S. Mc-Bride, J. McLeod, L. Wannamaker, C. Stewart, W. Woonacott, S. Joss, W. Slavin and Miss V. Grosse convened these.

DELICATESSEN

On the delicatessen, under the management of Mrs. H. Speirs, were Mrs. H. Moorman; Mrs. E. Barlow; Mrs. C. Mott; Mrs. E. Mossman and Miss J. Smyth, who were jars of potato and fruit salads; macaroni and cheese; devilled eggs cooked ham; chicken baked beans; individual meat pies, and jars of jams, relishes and jelly. All tasty and short cuts to a hurried meal.

The children's wear was convened by Mesdames F. Shaw and J. Irvine, assisted by J. Aitchison; W. Eakins; T. Fennell; K. Mathers and L. Petitfor. A wholé host of littlemitts; bedroom slippers; toques; baby bookees; stuffed toys including Donald Duck, and Peter Rabbit were displayed here.

The fancy work had some fine crochet work in doilies; bread tray mats; embroidered pillow slips and crochet-edged bath towels; a cute little nylon bag fashioned as a dress; pretty pansy-edged doilies; and several others. These were convened by Mesdames, G. Miller; G. Winters; assisted by E. Schlieverl; G. Gorsline; Robinson; R. Lockyer; F. MacLean and J. Nunn.

NOVELTY BOOTH

The novelty booth had a variety of articles of jewellery; Africian violets; bun baskets; bath salts; pictures; soap turtles; chocolates; cellophane bags of marbles to delight some boy's heart; bath sponges; and Christmas stockings. Convening these were the 10-C group with Mrs. Don Douglas, Miss Linda Grant and Miss Janet Luthers, selling.

A parcel post, convened by Mrs. R. Nelson, assisted by Mesdames McKinnon; Bostock; Robb; E. Kerr; H. Barlow, and Gray, drew many patrons, eager mail seekers.

A nursery was also provided in charge of Mrs. T. Sprackett, and members of the C.G.I.T.

The tea room was convened by Mrs. J. W. Whiting and Mrs. E. Goodfellow, while the following ladies were busy in other activities.

Pouring tea: Mesdames P. Kerr, W. B. May, L. Grey, E. Cornish, M. G. McFarlane, A. D. Archibald, Rose, L. Andrews, McLean, Miss E. Horton; and the guests were served by: Mesdames R. D. Knox, R. Boldrick, A. Firth, D. Shaw, A. Touchie, J. Hall, R. Aikin, R. Brickman, G. May, J. Smith, W. Smith, R. Pearson, B. Stenson, R. McAllister, G. Lees, J. Pitts, F. Douglas and E. Day.

Replenishing the plates were: Mesdames F. Douglas, G. Stanton, H. Lord, H. Robinson, R. Boldrick, G. May and G. Priest.

Kitchen conveners and helpers included: H. C. Overend, G. Priest, J. Pitts, S. Lalbarogue, A. Firth, H. Robinson, G. Stanton, H. Lord, E. Cornish.

Tea was made by Mrs. C. G. Robinson, Mrs. E. A. Schlievert and Mrs. P. Kerr.

Appreciative thanks are extended to the decorating committee, Unit No. 8 of the UCW, to the conveners, Mrs. Morley Graham and Mrs. Mamie Dougherty, and to Miss Barbara Touchie for the lovely organ music which added so much to the delightful tea.

Old Desire To Write Brings Reward

GUELPH, Ont. (CP)—Eleven years ago the limit of Mrs. Helen Leiali's vocabulary in English was "goodbye," "hello" and "thank you."

A few days ago she received the first copy of a book of her English short stories for children published by a New York firm.

The attractive mother of seven learned to speak English mainly from the women she worked for in Galt, Ont., where the family lived for six years after they came from Finland in 1951, and then in Guelph.

She also studied English; using Finnish grammars, and was forced to speak the language by her daughter Anne who had forgotten most of her Finnish within six months of the family's arrival in Canada.

In 1956, after the birth of twins, Mrs. Laiali read a book entitled "The Art of Writing." It sparked an old desire to write, dormant since the time she wrote poetry in Finland.

"After this I read volumes on psychology, sociology and other books on writing. Soon I started submitting articles to magazines but they were all rejected."

One day her son Frank asked her to write a story about him and "this gave me the idea of writing children's stories for publication."

Mrs. Leiali uses the names of her children—Anne, 17; Janet, 15, Ruth 10, Frank 9, Linday, 5, and the twins, Kathy and Larry, 4—in her stories.

When Caitlin Press in New York advertised for stories, Mrs. Laiali sent some of her children's stories and they were accepted.

Weddings

FLYNN — CHRYSLER

A lovely wedding was solemnized in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, Ontario, on Saturday, October 27, at 3 p.m. when Marion Jean Chrysler, Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Warden George Chrysler, Toronto and the late Mr. Chrysler, was united in marriage to John Douglas Flynn, R.R. 1 Trenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon R. Flynn. The Rev. Maurice McLeod, Marmora officiated at the ceremony.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of white, yellow and bronze 'mums, while white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mrs. Alex Fraser of Marmora presided at the organ and accompanied the soloist Mrs. Walter Harold in her renditions of "The Lord's Prayer" and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wellington Chrysler of Hastings, Ontario, the bride was radiant in floor-length bridal gown of peau-de-soie featuring a fitted bodice accented by a scoop neckline adorned with seed pearls and long illy-point sleeves. A chapel train fell gracefully from a full skirt. Her headpiece was a bandeau of net and seed pearls holding in place a fingertip veil of imported silk tulle. She carried a cascade bouquet of red carnations and white cymbidiaceae and wore a single strand of cultured pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Miss Sheila Stanton, Belleville, as maid of honor was attired in strength and full skirted dress of burnt orange peau-de-soie, matching headpiece with satin and carried a bouquet of yellow commercial 'mums, bronze baby 'mums mingled with golden leaves and contrasting satin bows. Mrs. Doris Hall, Toronto, cousin of the bride as bridesmaid wore a spice colored full-skirted dress of peau de soie, matching bread-brim picture hat and carried a bouquet identical to that of the maid of honor. Two-year-old Miss Myrna Stanton as junior bridesmaid wore a beige peau-de-soie dress matching headband, shoes and gloves and her bouquet was of bronze baby 'mums centred with a single yellow commercial 'mum.

Mr. Larry Davis, R.R. 2, Trenton, was the bridegroom's attendant and Mr. Harry Chrysler, Toronto, brother of the bride, and Mr. Gordon Flynn Jr., Trenton, brother of the bridegroom were the ushers.

The reception following the ceremony was held in Christian Education Building, St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, where the bridal table was prettily appointed with white cloth, centred with a three-tier cake, topped with silver wedding bells. The colorful bridal bouquet added to the nuptial setting.

Mr. and Mrs. John Douglas Flynn, R.R. 1, Trenton, are shown following their recent marriage in St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, Ontario. Flynn, Trenton, R.R. 1. (Photo by Larocque Studios, Trenton.)

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a mink-shade silk Sheath dress, edged to match shoes, brown accessories and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a bronze crepe sheath with matching jacket, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow roses.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, Montreal and Quebec City the bride chose a two-piece winter white suit of tissue wool, a tangarine full length coat, black patent shoes and purse, white fur hat and a corsage of yellow roses.

Guests were present from Toronto, Staffa, Hamilton, Belleville, Peterborough, Trenton and Frankford.

Previous to her marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Oliphant, Bellevville with Mrs. Oliphant and Mrs. Larry Davis as the co-hostesses; also at a shower at the home of Mrs. Sproul, Marmora where she was presented with a telephone gossip bench, lamp, throw cushions and door mat. She was also presented with a bone china Tuscan cup and saucer in her chosen pattern from the executive and members of Local 140 City Hall where the bride is employed. A trousseau tea in honor of the bride was held on the Saturday prior to the wedding at the home of Mrs. George Stanton, 70 Geddes Street, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Flynn are residing at Trenton, R.R. 1.

CHRISTMAS CAROL

Charles Dickens' famed novel "A Christmas Carol" was first published in Britain in 1843, a few days before Christmas.

Mr., Mrs. Harold Wheeler Mark 35 Years of Married Life

A surprise party and dinner was held in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wheeler, of Detlor, for their 35th wedding anniversary at the home of their friend, Mrs. Mack Hennessy, of Detlor with their niece, Mrs. Dan Mayhee, of Picton, a co-hostess.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Florence Gow, of Windsor, and the bride's sister, Mrs. Gerald Turriff, of Detlor, were present for this happy occasion.

A delicious dinner was served by Kay Turriff and Mrs. Don Mayhee, nieces of the bride, assisted by Mrs. Tom Hughes and Mrs. Don Vandlet.

A toast was given by Mr. Dan Mayhee to which the bridegroom made a suitable reply.

They were presented with several lovely gifts, and as they opened them, everyone sang "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows."

After the gifts were admired, several games of euchre were enjoyed bringing a pleasant evening to a close.

'Lines on Life'

By Dr. Stuart E. Rosenberg

"What Peter says about Paul tells you more about Peter than about Paul".

That was this man's way of reacting to those whose gossip assailed his ears.

He was a good man. "But I am always afraid of being so good," he would say, "that I might become a menace".

He was a good man. "But I am always afraid of being so good", he would say, "that I might become a menace".

"A menace?" we asked in amazement. "Yes, a menace. You see, too many good people teach themselves to believe that all's right with the world, and they couldn't possibly be the cause of what might go wrong anyway. They have always someone else handy to blame".

"Whenever anybody comes to me and says: "Did you hear what everybody's saying about so and so", I answer him with my own question. 'Who is saying it?' I ask. 'Everybody, or just you?' Most gossips are such frightened little cowards. They try to sell as unadulterated truth what in fact are only their own small personal prejudices".

HABITUAL GOSSIPERS

We sat and talked and felt the impact of a good man who was willing to work at being good. He continued talking. "Habitual gossipers are a dime a dozen. They take over the conversation at dinner tables, card tables and assorted parties. Wherever there is small talk, the gossiper is in the saddle. And because most of us, these days, have very little to say, we begin to talk about people rather than to people. But really, it's not the gossiper who is to blame".

"Who is?" we queried.

Without blinking an eye, he retorted: "Why, it's the fellow who is willing to listen to the nonsence. He's the one who actually commits the gravest error. That's what I mean by the 'menace' of good people. They never say a bad word about anybody, but they encourage others to do so when they don't stop them".

And then, to cap the conversation, he quoted a Hebrew proverb. "What people forget", he suggested, "is that life and death are in the hands of the tongue."

One wonders how much we recognize the truth of that statement. Words once uttered carry with them grave responsibility. What we say about people may not only destroy them, but can destroy us in the process.

LIVES DEPEND ON TRUTH

The witch-hunts of Salem, Massachusetts, are an eloquent reminder of how much our lives depend upon the truth of what we say. There, in Pilgrim America, an entire community was on the verge of self-destruction because it accepted as fact the gossip of fools and children. Well enough, for an ivory tower philosopher to proclaim: "They say, What do they say? Let them say!" Good, and sufficient for the mountain dweller, for him who lives in rarefied, remote atmosphere. No such philosophical aloofness can help us ordinary mortals. We are all involved in the life of the other. What "they say" does and should matter to us. For "they say" may soon become "we say" and before long all of us may be infected with distrust of each other. What starts as a minor illness may become epidemic.

There can be no family life, no economy, no political freedom, no international harmony without confidence. And there is no confidence that is not firmly based upon truth and the reverence of truth. Some day truth catches up with slander; but sometimes it is too late: hope may be lost, lives destroyed, freedom defeated.

Good families and good communities stand by Paul until they're certain of Peter. If they let Peter wag his tongue easily, what Peter says about Paul may one day destroy them, too.

Mrs. Casgrain First Woman Named to Quebec Cabinet

QUEBEC (CP)—A handsome mother of three who has a string of political precedents behind her already, has become the first woman ever named to a Quebec cabinet.

Mrs. Claire Kirkland-Casgrain 36-year-old brunette, was named minister without portfolio Wednesday in the Liberal cabinet of Premier Lesage, a post her late father held before her.

Dressed in a two-piece white lamee outfit, with silver checkered lines, she was sworn in by Lieutenant - Governor Paul Comtois in the red, white and gold legislative council chambers.

She swore the oath of allegiance and the oath of office, hesitating before deciding against changing some of the French words from the masculine gender to feminine as she spoke.

She told a reporter she was "very moved" by her appointment.

Mrs. Kirkland-Casgrain, who racked up the biggest majority ever seen in Quebec province in the provincial general election last month—it was more than 50,000 votes—has a string of political firsts to her credit.

FIRST WOMAN MEMBER

A distant relative by marriage of Mrs. Theresa Casgrain, one of the women mainly responsible for obtaining women the right to vote in Quebec in 1940, she became the assembly's first woman member a year ago.

She was elected to represent Jacques-Cartier riding, which sprawls over a number of suburbs on the west-end of Montreal Island, in a byelection called to fill a vacancy created by the death of her father, Charles Kirkland, minister without portfolio in the first Lesage cabinet.

Late last session, she became the first woman to chair a debate in the assembly and the men chafed a bit under her strict rule.

Married to lawyer Philippe Casgrain, she is mother of three children—Lynne, 7, Kirkland, 6, and Marc, 2.

St. Anne's C. W. L. Holds Bazaar, Euchre

POINT ANNE — St. Anne's C.W.L., Point Anne, held its annual bazaar and euchre on Wednesday in St. Anne's School.

Mrs. James MacKay was in charge of tickets at the door. Mrs. Helen Whalen, Mrs. A. Mahar and Mrs. O. Deveau were in charge of the bake table which consisted of pies, cakes, squares, home made bread, buns, and candy tarts and pickles.

Mrs. Pearl Genereaux and Mrs. Jean Walsh looked after the apron table. There were many beautiful aprons and pot holders, mitts and home sewing articles.

The religious articles table was convened by Mrs. B. Gehan and Mrs. B. Buckley. There were numerous articles of rosaries, pictures, prayer books and statues.

Mrs. Lucy Walsh looked after the touch and take table and jewellery.

Mrs. Mary Bradshaw, was in charge of the tickets sold on the doll and wardrobe. Tickets on money draw and pillow cases were sold by Mrs. Agnes Whalen.

After the bazaar, euchre was enjoyed, with 14 tables in play. Prizes were won by: ladies, Mrs. Bertha Buckley; Mrs. Rosevear and low Mrs. J. Eaton. Lone Hand, Mrs. B. Buckley. Men, Joe Deforge, Peter Whalen, low, Ronald Bailey. Mrs. John Clarke ,Point Anne, won the door prize.

After euchre, lunch was served by the members.

TO HEAT BUS STOPS

EDMONTON (CP)—Shivering wintertime patrons of Edmonton's transit system may soon be surrounded by heated, glass-walled bus shelters. The finance committee of city council Wednesday approved them in principle. The structures, to cost $2,000, would be electrically heated.

Club Activities

TOWN - COUNTRY CLUB

AMELIASBURG — The 4th meeting of Ameliasburg Town and Country Club was held recently at Margaret Kizer's home in the evening. Several topics were discussed including sanitation, home, pasteurization of milk, symptoms of shock and causes and protection from infection.

Linda Shepherd, Anne Slavery and Margaret Kizer demonstrated proper posture in walking, sitting and retrieving objects from the floor. Eleanor demonstrated the sampling of water.

Refreshments were served following the close of the meeting.

The fifth meeting was held at the home of Linda and Carol Green on the first of the month.

Discussions took place on safety. Though the home is the place where one feels most secure and happy, it often is the most dangerous place to be. A check was taken of the hazards encountered in the home, and the members were given a quiz on the topic.

The next meeting will be held on December 8, at Eleanor Wannamaker's home at 2.00 p.m.

Mrs. Geo. White, Madoc, Wife of Senate Speaker, Well Known in District

By EDNA BLAKELY

OTTAWA (CP)—Mrs. George White, wife of the new Speaker of the Senate, is a white-haired grandmother who likes to knit for her four grandchildren.

For more than 30 years she has commuted between Ottawa and the family home at Madoc, 125 miles west of here. But now that Senator White is Speaker of the Upper House, she expects to spend most of her time in Ottawa.

"This is going to be much different from the quiet life at Madoc."

Her husband represented the Eastern Ontario riding of Hastings-Frontenac in the House of Commons from 1940 until 1957, when he was the first Conservative senator appointed by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"He went to the Commons at the same time as Mr. Diefenbaker and they have been friends ever since," she said.

Mrs. White, the former Irene McBride, was born in Montreal and lived in Napanee, Ont., before her family settled at Belleville, Ont.

MARRIED IN 1922

After high school and business college, she became secretary to the superintendent at the School for the Deaf and remained there for 10 years. She was 17 when she started working.

She met her future husband when he was a law student. They were married at Belleville, Ont., in 1922 and have four children, two boys and two girls.

Mrs. White has help with the housework in their Madoc bungalow but she enjoys doing her own cooking and makes her own jam, marmalade and pickles.

Her favorite pastimes include knitting and needlework. She says she's "an indifferent bridge player."

Mrs. White has not actively helped in any of her husband's political campaigns "but I was always there—a silent partner."

Her one regret in her new role is that she does not speak French. She thinks it would be helpful in her contact with various people in the diplomatic set here.

LIKES KNITTING

Favorite pastimes of Mrs. George White, wife of the new Senate speaker, are knitting and needlework. Although she has spent most of her time in the quiet of her home at Madoc, 125 miles from Ottawa, Mrs. White expects to be in the capital more often as a result of her husband's appointment. Mrs. John Reid, Trenton, Heads Women's Institutes Of The Trent Valley Area

By GLADYS WARD

On Wednesday morning the Trent Valley Area of Women's Institutes met for the second day of their convention at Club Canara with Mrs. H. Shearer of Lakefield, presiding. Mrs. M. Rutherford of Grafton, and Mrs. Ernest Irvin, Campbellford, greeted the delegates at the door.

Alderman Bea Corke addressed the convention, saying in part, "This organization is one I hear on radio, and I know the Women's Institutes have a long history of service to mankind. I say on behalf of our Council, welcome to Belleville. We are glad you have come and we wish you all success in your endeavours."

Mrs. R. Robson replied with a sincere and warm thank-you for the words of welcome. The women who attended considered the area convention a special occasion for a visit to Belleville, she said.

Mrs. Clifford Barber with Miss Jack Parrott as pianist, led in assembly singing.

A report on Home Economics was given by the convener, Mrs. H. Minifie of Coldsprings, with all branches reporting. Roll calls included: the first family; physician I remember and what a homemaking art a mother should teach her daughter; bring something you have made; and a new dessert.

Some of the mottoes reported were: anyone who thinks by the yard, will pay by the yard, ought to be moved by the foot; no one gets indigestion by swallowing his pride; worry is like a rocking chair, it gives you something to do but gets you nowhere; the best doctors in the world, Dr. Diet, Dr. Quiet and Dr. Fertriment.

There were many topics used, some of which were; home safety topics, fun hard, and, possible hazards in the home, swimming and diving; uses and savings of a home freezer; account keeping and budgeting; mental health study of day care centre at Cobourg; the rest of your days depends on the rest of your nights.

The senior extension courses mentioned catering for crowds; millinery; copper tooling; and 143 pounds of meat, the courses were enjoyed by members and non-members alike.

SPONSORED CLUBS

Some Institutes reported the use of quik and colorful displays from Eat to Live workshops. Most Institutes sponsored 4-H Homemaking Clubs. The projects taken were: featuring fruits; seperates for summer; accessories for a girl's bedroom, and working with wool and cotton. These projects were followed up by Achievement Days, fashion shows and demonstrations at the regular Institute meetings.

Little Miss Janice Clancy of Harold, contributed two vocal solos, "Has Anybody Seen My Kitty?" and "Christmas."

Speaking on the Home Economics Service, Miss Eleanor Kidd of Toronto, congratulated the women on the work they had done in the past year, which seemed to be more and more as the years go along. They had given their interest and support to a widespread program of home economics. Training schools for leadership courses prepare leaders who are expected to go back and conduct classes in their own communities. The purpose of Home Economics is to bring to rural girls a practical program of self-help. Mothers with daughters appreciated this training through the 4-H Homemaking Clubs. There is a permanent staff of 57 in Toronto, and many part time workers. The Department of Agriculture realizes the contribution made to rural Ontario, and pay the salaries of the staff.

In this area 26 short courses were given and five district work shops, as well as training school courses. Some Institutes did not do much to encourage attendance, but the others hoped they would try to go over the minimum requirement this year. It costs so much to send an instructor to the Institute that other groups should be asked to join in to make up the minimum. Large numbers could be handled as well in a small number. They could learn from each other and share experiences.

COURSES GIVEN

In the courses for practical work there was a maximum requirement, because short courses needed individual attention, 18 or 20 is usually the maximum. There were 503 short courses given last year with 8,600 women contacted in Ontario. The most popular courses were millinery and copper tooling. These courses would be scheduled for those who did not have previous courses in these crafts. It was requested that cancellation of a course be made in plenty of time so it could be rescheduled.

Other popular schools were planned for clothing with the focus on finishes. Basic techniques would be taught and further finishes such as collars, belts and bound buttonholes. The department kept in touch with the new fabrics and materials. Seventy-one leader schools were held in the past year with 5,400 taking the two-day course.

Planners of programs have tried to keep in mind the needs and desires of people. The program had changed over the years, but some things were basic to home economics and health and must be retained. The primary objective was to maintain standards and skills basic to all homemaking. But the courses must have something that will appeal to women all over the province.

"We try to have you learn design and line in millinery and dressmaking," said Miss Kidd. "We help you to become aware of the number of new fabrics on the market, and the research that is being done to determine their qualities. We try to show you basic clothing techniques and good construction. We find that basting is largely unnecessary now. In home furnishings and crafts we teach you to make lampshades and drapes, so you can change your furnishings to suit changing styles.

"We want women to know the basis of good nutrition so they can prepare nourishing and attractive meals for their families. We want you to be aware of health, to keep your family well and free of accidents. We have a loan library service which we hope you will use. All courses are a basis on which to build for yourselves.

"Courses in Women's Institute procedure and effective speaking have been appreciated for the help they have given in participating at meetings. The 4H homemaking clubs membership has increased by 2,000 girls. There is some discussion now to discontinue the short courses and enlarge the traning school programs. We ask for your continued support.

REPORTS READ

The report on Agriculture and Canadian Industries was read by the area convener, Mrs. Ken Wood of Consecon, when all seven districts reported. Roll calls included the topics: value of cheese and ways to serve it; a talk that helps the farmer; vegetables and how to store them; the different ways wheat comes to the table; a branch of farming open to women; hints from the green thumb to the greenhorn and an impromptu speech on agriculture.

Mottoes used were: Nature never spoils her work by being in a hurry; the love of the land lies deep in the heart of man; the peace of the world depends on food; success depends on the backbone not on the wishbone; soil is the farmer's bank, it won't stand too many promissory notes; we are nearer to God's heart in the garden than anywhere else on earth.

Topics and papers were given on the following subjects: changes and adjustments on farms; the small farm; farmers should be in step with the economy; agriculture in the time of the U.E.L. compared with the present time; planting of bulbs and shrubs; how agriculture offers young men a greater variety of jobs than industry; golden wonder of honey and farming in Russia.

Some discussions were: farmers should consider before leaving their city job; farm liabilities; the soil and the soul; ways we were millinery and copper tooling. These courses would be scheduled for those who did not have previous courses in these crafts. It was requested that cancellation of a course be made in plenty of time so it could be rescheduled.

Other popular schools were planned for clothing with the focus on finishes. Basic techniques would be taught and further finishes such as collars, belts and bound buttonholes. REPORTS READ

The report on Agriculture and Canadian Industries was read by the area convener, Mrs. Ken Wood of Consecon, when all seven districts reported. Roll calls included the topics: value of cheese and ways to serve it; a talk that helps the farmer; vegetables and how to store them; the different ways wheat comes to the table; a Lymburner spoke on the International Exchange program, urging the members to embark on such a program. By writing to the head office in England, they would be sent a farm to fill describing the acreage age of their group, the size of their community, and their interests generally. Then they would be put in touch with an exchange group. They would exchange recipes, newspaper items and programs complete even to the refreshments served, and hosted they would go on developing their friendships, so they would get to know all about each other. It was felt it was better to know one group well than to have a superficial relationship with a lot of groups, and they would have an experience in friendship. The address to write to is: General Secretary, Associated Countrywomen of the World, 78 Kensington High St., London W8, England. Mrs. Lymburner said she would be interested to hear what was accomplished through this experiment.

Mrs. Lymburner dealt with the question box which was mainly matters of procedure, and the drawing up of by-laws.

Lunch was served the delegates in the dining room of the club.

When the meetings resumed Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. T. M. Greshame of Colborne, was the presiding officer, and Mrs. Barton Haggerty, West Huntingdon, and Mrs. Ted Pollock, Ivanhoe, were the receptionists.

A panel discussion was held on the question, "Is There a Place for 4-H Homemaking Clubs in Ontario?" Mrs. Geo. Burkitt was chairman, with Mrs. Clifford Barber, Mrs. Douglas Johnston, Mrs. T. A. Martin, Mrs. R. W. Payne, and Mrs. R. Williams participating. Mrs. Burkitt noted that this was the 25th anniversary of Homemaking clubs, and last year almost 15,000 girls completed projects. The discussion brought out the points that instruction from teachers with specialized training was received better by the teenager than instruction at home. Many other things are learned besides cooking and sewing. They learned how to get along with other people, and how to get up and face an audience. They also learn different techniques than in school.

OFFICERS ELECTED

In teaching girls with receptive minds each has its own part to play. At school the equipment is the most recent, but at home girls have to learn to make out with what they have. Home economics is an option at school, which a girl can skip if she has taken the homemaking course and can take another option such as music or art. There is no better training for future homemakers than the 4-H clubs. The classes are non-competitive because there is often a difference in ages, and some have more natural ability or have had help at home. However they do have intercounty competitions, and again at Provincial levels. Mothers should be encouraged to take an interest whether they are Institute members or not.

Before presiding for the election of officers, Mrs. Lymburner explained the extension program for the Northwest Territories, which is a national plan entitled, "The Women's Institutes Venture Into the North." There is a study course with the places proposed to be organized and those already organized.

The convention was told that the Australian government had struck a stamp to commemorate the conference of N.A.W.W. here this year. It was a picture of the world with a woman standing on top of it. Mrs. Sherman Foster brought in a slate of officers for the coming year from the nominating committee with the following officers being elected: past president, Mrs. Roscoe Robson, Halloway; president, Mrs. John Reid, Trenton; 1st vice-president, Mrs. S. H. Beatty, Madoc; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. H. Shearer, Lakefield; 3rd vice-president, Mrs. T. M. Greshame, Colborne; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Percy Ray, Halloway; assistant secretary, Mrs. Alan Wallbridge, Belleville; citizenship and education convener, Mrs. J. Whitehouse, Brighton; agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs. K. Wood, Consecon; public relations, Mrs. Percy MacFullen, Stirling; convener of resolutions, Mrs. Donald Sandercock, Trenton; convener of historical research and current events, Mrs. George Rigby, Havelock; convener of home economics and health, Mrs. H. Minifie, Coldsprings; convener of junior institutes, Miss K. Matthews, Cooper; board director, subdivision No. 5, Mrs. Grant McLaren, Shannonville; alternate, Mrs. C. Reid, Belleville; board director, subdivision No. 6, Mrs. Hoyt Sweed, Warsaw; alternate, Mrs. G. Rigby, Havelock; auditors, Mrs. Cecil Hubbs, Foxboro and Mrs. E. Phillips, Belleville; convention committee members, Mrs. Clarence Mann, Peterborough; Mrs. Sherman Foster, Hillier; and Mrs. W. A. Goodfellow, Codrington.

GIFTS PRESENTED

The executive and the convention committees were applauded to draw up by-laws for the area.

Gifts were presented to Mrs Lymburner who is retiring as Provincial President this year, and to Mrs. Foster who is retiring as Board Director. Both these officers have served their three years in office and this is the limit for holding office in the W.I. Both ladies graciously expressed their appreciation.

The resolution to make it compulsory for all owners of licenced vehicles to have insurance covering liability for property damage was sustained; but the resolution dealing with the planting of shade trees was defeated as it was felt this was a local matter, and could be more properly dealt with through the department of Lands and Forests.

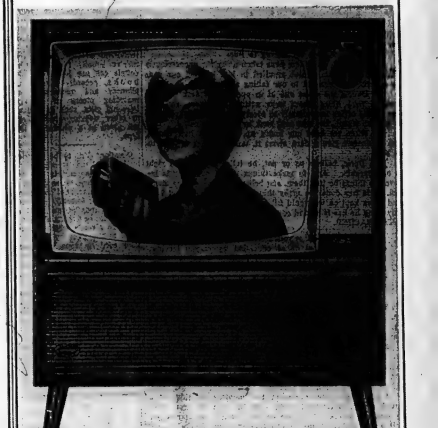
Mrs. Thos. Kelly of Thomasburg, read the report of the courtesy committee, expressing gratitude to all who had participated in the program, to those who entertained, to all the officers, and to the club Canara for the excellent facilities and meals.

Women's Activities

St. Margaret's Evening Guild held its first regular monthly meeting, December 3rd, in the church hall in the form of a potluck supper, which was thoroughly enjoyed by all the members.

The Guild was happy to welcome the new rector of St. Margaret's, the Rev. J. Dunlop, and his wife as guests of the evening.

Mrs. Bruce Blabop, president, held a short business meeting and reports were heard from members of the bazaar, which was held early in November.



Mrs. Fred Bradley was elected V.O.N. representative for the year.

The Guild members enjoyed an evening of games, directed by Ann Ritchie.

Coffee was served by Edith Lenny and her group.

Successful Living

(A Canadian Social Worker Helps with Human Problems)

Is It Moods or Madness?

DEAR DORIS—I would like your opinion on whether I'm simply immature and neurotic or am also going a little bit insane.

If you can imagine anyone having a ridiculous tantrum, throwing things and screeching that she hated hubby and the whole family and then being sweetness and light five minutes later, that's what I'm like.

My poor husband never knows from one minute to the next what mood I'm going to be in. Luckily, he is the type that tucks his feelings down inside somewhere and has survived three years of my moods with apparent equanimity.

Probably what is basically wrong is that I can't accept reality. When something happens like a totally unplanned shotgun wedding, complete with two children to a near stranger, cutting off a planned professional career, it knocks such a person for a loop.

I tried to escape by going to work between babies, but found it depressing to be working at low jobs, considering what I might have been doing.—TEMPER TANTRUM.

DORIS CLARK

DEAR TEMPER—When you vent your rage on your husband, you risk damaging your best hold on life. Bit by bit you can wear him down.

If you can't accept this reality, there's trouble ahead. Find a better way of siphoning off that excess emotional energy; something that will make for laughter instead of rage—and will at the same time explore those unused talents.

DEAR DORIS—I've just read your column in Saturday's paper and am wondering how you could have missed seeing that "Crybaby's" most crying need is a competent doctor! The troubles she describes are so typical of menopausal troubles—even in her thirties. Of course they go with other hormonal and glandular upsets too, but, please, when someone complains of depression and "the weeps," she needs a doctor first and then maybe the social worker.

Granted that ten years of "wedded turmoil" and several children obviously produce social problems, but with that background the mother is almost certainly in poor physical health and that must be remedied before the depression and "the weeps" can be dealt with.

Believe me, that description sounds like myself and several others I have known who developed no other menopausal symptoms for several years! And the depression can be fairly easily controlled with medical supervision.

If you have her address, please send her to a doctor fast!—MRS. A. R. W.

DEAR MRS. A. R. W.—Thanks for sharing this. I had already covered your point with "Crybaby" privately. Our glands and hormones can do devastating things to us sometimes.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—We are two girls in grade 8, and we are writing to show you how unreasonable our teacher can be. For instance, such things as:

(1) Stopping kids for talking in line.

(2) Five kids had their pens taken away for unconsciously fidgeting with them; which resulted in him keeping our pens for several days and led to our failing a final exam.

(3) During the exam one of us opened our desk to get a book to read while others were writing the exam, and was sent to the office immediately to receive punishment (probably to get the strap), but was sent back by the principal.

(4) When we have our hands up, he lets it hang there, and he doesn't give a darn about it, unless he has a mind to do so.

And Doris, believe us or not, he tells bareface lies right to our parents. And to make things worse, our parents believe the things he told them, and believe nothing we say about him. He has done too many things to make us respect him. And if we kept on we would fill more than your column. The only thing he has is a good education.—TWO GIRLS WHO DISLIKE TEACHER.

DEAR TWO—Bide your time. Right will triumph. He can't cheat you out of an education unless you let him. If you learn to cope with this petulant punishing pedagogue now, you'll be ready later for other unfriendly encounters which happen to all of us, willy nilly, in adult life.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—That letter from Patricia could have been me. (Patricia was office-worker-turned-housewife, and lonely). I don't believe my husband believes me when I tell him I didn't write in.

Normally one would miss the conversations with co-workers, but I've kept up correspondence with them. Though my neighbors are elderly and both work, my husband and I still find ourselves talking to them when they are about, and just that much more appreciated because of not being too available.

I also have gone to one or two monthly meetings of a church group, and intend going again as soon as I can leave my new son at all. Will also go to work if I can find a job lasting two or three hours, or at a time when my family doesn't need me.

Right now someone does and I'm thankful I can stay home and enjoy my children for however short a time it is.—PATRICIA B.

DEAR PATRICIA B.—Two Patricias with identical problems! Even an occasional break helps, doesn't it? And when you entertain, remember that people come to see and enjoy you rather than your food. Serve something simple and savory.

* * *

DEAR DORIS—I am 16 years old and like a boy of the same age. He used to talk to me a lot and we went out on a few dates together.

After that I got mad at him for a very foolish reason and later on I apologized, but since then he hardly talks to me. He is a very nice guy and I would hate to lose him. What could I do?—P. S.

DEAR P. S.—If you haven't lost him already, plan a get-together with one or two other couples and ask him to be your date. If he finds you friendly and begins to believe he can trust you again, he may come back.

But don't get too excitative. Sweet Sixteen could use more than one beau.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FAITHFUL READER: HANTS—Couldn't you practise on boys your own age? Even the space travellers take a turn around the world before aiming at the moon. It's no accident that girls and boys in the same grade get along. And three grades' difference makes a great big gap!

Feathered Flattery

By TRACY ADRIAN

Feathered fashions are tops for dinner and the cocktail hour, according to the famed Parisian couture house of Jean Patou.

An example of this flattering trend is this feather wig from his latest collection. The hat is made of rose-pink organdie and is a perfect complement to glamorous after-five costumes.

SPEAKING OF MANNERS

BY PATRICIA LEWIS

MAIL CALL

Question: My husband and I have been asked to be matron of honor and best man at the wedding of a couple whom we introduced to each other at our own wedding reception two years ago. We'd like to give a joint shower for both the bride and groom, and have the party in the evening with husbands and wives attending. Would this be considered appropriate? If so, what sort of gifts should be guests bring? — Mrs. C.E., New Haven, Conn.

Answer: A joint shower for the bride and groom has become increasingly popular during the past few years. Very often the guests contribute toward one major gift, such as a piece of furniture, and present it at the party. If individual presents are given, they're usually things the couple can use jointly — like books, records, kitchen appliances and accessories or matching pieces of luggage. Personal gifts, such as lingerie or other wearing apparel, are not given at a shower of this type.

Question: I'm to be married in January and wonder if it would be appropriate for me and my fiance to send out a joint Christmas card this year. We've been formally engaged for seven months and most of the people we'd be sending cards to already have been invited to the wedding. Would a joint card be considered good form, or would it be more correct to send individual cards as usual? — E.M., Brooklyn, N.Y.

Answer: A joint card may be sent to relatives and to very close friends, but individual cards should be sent to acquaintances and, of course, to business associates. Cards that are sent jointly, the signature should be handwritten instead of engraved or imprinted.

Question: My husband and I have been invited to a formal dinner dance and I intend wearing elbow - length gloves with my gown. May the hands of the gloves be tucked into the wrist opening when we sit down to dinner, or must the gloves be removed completely? A friend says that gloves should be taken off to eat, but I've always thought they could be left on long as the hands were uncovered. Would you tell me which method is correct? — Mrs. I.S.B., East Orange, N.J.

Answer: Gloves may be tucked in at the wrist when one is smoking, drinking or nibbling on canapes, but the gloves should be removed completely during the dinner period.

QUESTION: What do you think of today's brides and their parents when they invite you to a wedding dinner at an exclusive restaurant and then expect you to buy your own cocktails and after-dinner drinks? Certainly the gifts compensate for this! I have attended two such affairs and plan never to attend another. Too expensive! — S.S., Chicago, Ill.

Answer: I can't say I've heard of this wedding custom, but I agree that it's too expensive, in that it's costing the bride and her family the friendship and good will of their "guests." Properly, the bride's family pays all the expenses of the wedding reception, down to the last crumb of wedding cake. It's extremely bad taste to expect guests to pick up even part of the tab. A small home reception is a much happier solution if the budget is a problem. If it isn't, then I can't see any reason for having a big party outside and still expect guests, in effect, to pay for their ticket of admission. I doubt if the custom will ever reach on among today's generally well-mannered and thoughtful brides.

Canadian Fashion & Fad

BY pegg rogers

ACCORDING TO NORMAN NORELL

Norman Norell, an American designer of fabulously expensive, ready-to-wear fashions, is quoted in a recently published article by Stanley Frank as saying, that the woman with little money cannot dress elegantly. Here is an undoubtedly talented man, whose customers include well-known stage and screen personalities, as well as private individuals, condemning 90 per cent of the female population to a drab, colorless fashion life, because of limited funds. Such a statement encourages us to do battle!

The dictionary definition of the adjective, elegant, reads: "correctly fine in dress or person; fastidiously tasteful," while the companion noun, elegance, is defined as: "refined gracefulness, or propriety expressing fastidious taste, richness and refinement combined."

GOOD GROOMING

We don't know, nor can we imagine what sort of glittlined world Mr. Norell moves about in, nor how much he has travelled, but how can he deny that the average North American woman, including Canadians, is the best groomed in the world! Good grooming is the cornerstone of elegance.

Mr. Norell completes his statement with a few half-hearted hints for the gal on the small fashion budget, suggesting that she watch the sales, concentrating on good quality fabrics and excellent fit. He suggests that she stick to the classic designs, with slim dresses, shirtwaist dresses, or three-button suits with hip-length jackets. (He fails to mention the Chanel-type suit, with its loose jacket, pleated or straight skirt and varying blouses.) He advises that subdued colors such as beige or blues be chosen and he scorns loud prints. (What woman with any taste, ever chooses a loud print, except a gay dish towel?) Beige and blue are fine, but what if neither of these colors is becoming? He suggests a red coat, because it is basic, (which is true), but red has become a great bore, after the second season of solid wear. (He is planning a one-coat wardrobe here.) A red coat is fine, if you own two coats.

FINAL CRIME

Mr. Norell commits the final crime of advising a budget fashion customer to avoid hats! That a fashion designer, whose interest should range over the whole silhouette, can make such a statement, shows, we think, that his thoughts lie in the evening dress field, where a hat is not necessary to the fashion outline. We are trying hard to be kind to Mr. Norell, but when we consider he is talented, but he reminds us of some of the old Paris "greats" of the late 1940's. Then their cry was "you don't need a hat — hats are out!"

A hat that does something for the wearer is like the icing on the cake. The cake, itself, is good, but it becomes sublime when frosted.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

George S. — After a nervous breakdown, I must lie to get a job.

Mrs. P.S. — Tell the truth. You'll worry about being found out.

George S. — Overdoing things in my first job, I went into a collapse and wound up in a state hospital. After eight months of treatment, I was released as fully recovered. But what happens "on the outside" is enough to send an expatient back [illegible].

I'm an accountant. I applied for a job and filled out the required forms. When it asked about the past year, I told the truth. I work with facts and I believe in them. I was turned down and now I'm ready to follow the advice of other ex-patients — that is, keep quiet about my illness and make up something about a previous job.

Mrs. P.S. — I can't believe there's that much ignorance around. George just encountered an outfit still living in the Stone Age, and he's just as well off not working for such old fogies.

Surely in this day and age people realize there's no difference between mental illness and any other illness after recovery. When a man's back or his feet he's ready to go back to work. Why should George have to lie and say he had pneumonia, or do what one of his friends did — give the name of a firm that went out of business, as his last place of employment so it couldn't be traced?

By telling the truth he'll be hired by a progressive, intelligent boss. And he won't have to live in dread of his lie's being tracked down.

The Council: Work is to the recovered patient what food is to the starving. It returns him to the living. It proves he can hold his own in the swift currents of daily life. Lacking a paying job, the ex-patient may slump from a rut to a new depression, lose his nerve, and return to what one psychiatrist calls the "psychiatric mill," that is, back for treatment again because the community refuses to do its part in completing his rehabilitation. It refuses to employ him.

Many sober advisers would, with a straight face, tell George to resort to the white lie because of the benighted state of public attitudes on mental illness. In the fight-fire-with-fire spirit they say, "Cover up your past because most employers don't understand mental illness, and what they don't understand they fear."

But the wiser course is to sign up with one of the more agencies, one that "knows its customers" and is prepared to deal discreetly with those who are well-meaning but hesitant. These agencies may be backed by George through his local mental health clinic. They are the good right arm of all effective therapy. In New York State, for example, the State Employment Bureau and the Civil Service Department permit no stigmatizing whatever to the exmental patient, and process his applications routinely along with everyone's.

If only more hospitals did what is done in Northport, L.I., at the Veterans Hospital facility. For the past few years the Rehabilitation Dept. has been sending recovered patients off on jobs not too far from the hospital. These men return each evening. Their employers are part of a heartening panel of intelligent and public spirited citizens who realize that society — all of us — is the missing link in the successful rehabilitation of the ex-mental patient. After a period of about six months on these "arranged for" jobs at fair pay, the men go after and usually get the jobs they WISH best. Naturally, George, they have to [illegible] time filling in blank for "Previous position."

"Are You Trying Too Hard?"

Have you tried, over and over again, to conquer some personal problem — and failed? In December Reader's Digest a psychiatrist advises "Don't try so hard" — and gives you a tested method to tap the tremendous reservoir of power locked inside you. Here is good advice to help you overcome problems that seem insurmountable. Get your copy of Reader's Digest and read "The Best Prescription I Know"

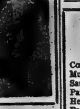
Precious Pelts

By TRACY ADRIAN

Canadian fisher, a durable but precious fur that is as luxurious as sable and equally expensive, was chosen for this coat designed by Ben Kahn.

Proceeds go to the Hospital Fund. It is made on show-stopping lines of the New Look, with a notched collar, three-quarter sleeves and slit pockets.

Mother's Helper



IT'LL BE EASIER for both you and your child if you arrange his dental and bureau drawers to keep play clothes separate from those to be worn to school. Show him what you've done, so he understands what's where. This should eliminate confusion on school mornings when a hassle over what to wear may cause tardiness and/or temper.

Decenber Baking

by Mary Moore

Stickproof Macaroons and Apples Yorkshire

The stickproof quality of these macaroons depends on the paper on which they are baked. It should be cookery parchment. We tried KVP...

Mrs. Miller, of our deepable reader-chefs, gave me this recipe by telephone and we tried it and found that it fred up to her promises. These are excellent provisional macaroons.

MRS. MILLER'S STICKPROOF MACAROONS:

2 egg whites, 1 cup sugar, 2 teaspoons cornstarch, 1¼ cups shredded cocoanut, 1½ teaspoons vanilla.

Stand top of double boiler on counter or table and into it put the egg white. Beat until stiff. Mix the sugar and cornstarch together and sprinkle over egg whites and stir in. Transfer to double boiler and stir over boiling water until meringue coats sides of double boiler — about 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Fold in the cocoanut and vanilla. Cover cookie sheets with ungreased cookery parchment and drop meringue mixture in 1" mounds from teaspoon dipped in water, 1 to 1½" apart. (If desired top each with a tiny piece of red or green candied cherry.) Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 15 to 17 minutes, turning pan around after first 10 minutes. They should be tinged with gold all over. Remove from paper at once. (Mrs. Miller says they may be left on until the cold but we lacked the courage to test that.) Makes 2½.

A new (for me) apple dessert is called:

APPLES YORKSHIRE:

The word Yorkshire direr me to this but not only Britishers will like it for it is a new quick apple pudding.

Put altogether in a bowl 2 eggs, 1½ cups flour, ½ teaspoon salt and one cup milk. Beat with electric or rotary beater until smooth. Slice into this thin batter 2 medium apples (preferably tart) which have been pared and cored. Preheat oven to 425 deg. Fahr. While it is heating melt 4 tablespoons butter in an 8" baking dish. Do not use a dish of smaller diameter or pudding will not have the desired crispness top and bottom. Pour the batter into the melted butter in the warm dish. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for a full 30 minutes. This browns and crispens the bottom and top and cooks the apples. Serves 4 generously. Pass powdered sugar to sprinkle over. Dutifully we you will see that this pudding does not call for sugar in the batter. Delicious.

SKIMMED MILK

Powdered skim milk has nearly all the fats and vitamin A removed but retains other vitamins, minerals and proteins.

Man With Honey-Color Hair Is Hunted by Boston Police After Seventh Woman Slain

BOSTON (AP)—An intensive police hunt for a man with honey-colored hair was under way today in the wake of the seventh strangulation murder of a woman in the greater Boston area since mid-June.

The body of Miss Sophie Clark, 21, a student and medical technician, was found late Wednesday, a silk stocking and petticoat knotted around her neck. The body was unclothed except for a brassiere when it was found in Miss Clark's fourth - floor apartment, less than a block from where the first victim died six months ago.

Dr. Richard Ford, Suffolk County medical examiner, said: "Obviously she was sexually attacked . . . this death is certainly similar to some of the others."

Police began a search for a young man who annoyed a neighbor, Mrs. Marcella Wawrzeniak-Lulka, a few hours before Miss Clark's body was found.

She described the man as being about five-foot-nine and 160 pounds and with honey-colored hair.

She said he rang her doorbell about 4:30 p.m. When she answered, Mrs. Wawrzniak-Lulka said, he brushed past her saying: "I'm Thompson. I'm here to do the painting."

Police said the woman told them the man, when told she had not asked for any painting to be done the man "started acting real funny and said how tall I am and what a good model I'd be."

The man, whom Mrs. Wawrzniak-Lulka described as about 25 years old and wearing tight black trousers and a three-quarter-length car coat, fled when she said she would have to call police. He has not been seen since.

Miss Clark was the first strangling victim since late August.

Says Prison Food in Cuba Was 'Terrible'

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Douglas Buchanan, a young poultry specialist jailed in Cuba on charges he was being a spy, was reunited with his family at Windsor Airport Wednesday.

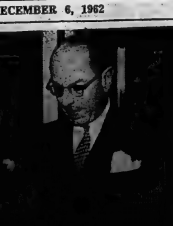
Buchanan, 22, of the Harrow, Ont., area, said he spent a week in Cabanas prison and three weeks in solitary confinement.

He said the food in the prison was "terrible" and conditions "unbearable."

"There was only one toilet and one washbasin for everybody."

WAS ADVISER

Buchanan went to Cuba 18 months ago as a cooperative and technical adviser at a turkey hatchery farm his uncle, Max Tingey of Harrow, had set up in Pinar del Rio province.



"Five weeks ago," he said in Toronto en route home Tuesday night, "I became an enemy of the Cuban people."

"While working on the farm, I thought the government was fine. But in prison I learned the truth about Cuba."

He did not elaborate.

His possessions, valued at $1,000 plus $3,500 in pesos, were confiscated and he was kept in solitary confinement for three weeks before Canadian officials could visit him. His uncle flew to Havana and got him released.

But Buchanan said he will return to the turkey business in Harrow.

At the opening of the new office of the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada in Belleville yesterday, Mayor A. M. Haig, of Belleville, cut the ribbon. Watching the ceremony are George Dunbar, of Waterloo, vice-president of the company, and P. C. McGuire, manager of the Belleville branch.

Say SIU Welfare Plan Not On Sound Actuarial Basis

OTTAWA (CP) — Without a sound actuarial basis, the Canadian seamen's welfare plan could plunge into bankruptcy in the years ahead, the Norris shipping inquiry has been told.

The suggestion came Wednesday from Marc Lalonde, counsel for the federal inquiry into labor unrest and shipping disruptions on the Canadian lakes.

Mr. Lalonde was questioning Bernard Boulanger, $15,000-a-year administrator of the welfare plan for members of the Seafarers' International Union of Canada (Ind.) and their dependents.*

The plan, financed by contributions from ship operators, panels on behalf of their employees, provides medical, hospital and surgical benefits for seamen members of the SIU.

In cross - examining the witness, Mr. Lalonde noted that the welfare fund has dropped from almost $1,000,000 in 1960 to about $425,000 three months ago.

"There is nothing to tell us that in two year's time it will have to be here under a deficit," he said, after Mr. Boulanger admitted that the fund was established on an actuarial footing.

The administrator, a former SIU vice-president, said the fund did not include special reserves for potential death benefits, or for any unexpected calamities. He said the experience of the plan's operation so far indicated the reserves were sufficient to meet normal claims.

Mr. Justice T. G. Norris noted that the welfare plan, as set up by the SIU and the shipping companies, was not subject to government inspection or supervision. He said there had been "trouble without end" because such trust funds escaped government control.

New Mutual Life Office On Pinnacle Street Opened, Congratulatory Talks Heard

The farm front is a salient that could be profitably taken by insurance enterprise—profitable for both the business corporation and the individual farmer — a leading figure in county affairs suggested yesterday.

The idea was proffered by Hastings county warden Harold Varty, amid a succession of speakers with congratulatory messages as one of Belleville's oldest insurance agencies marked a new pinnacle milestone.

The event was the official opening of the New Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada offices in downtown Belleville—which gathered an attendance from the city's business community, the company's executive board and local and senior government representatives.

Warden Varty headed a full delegation of Hastings County council at the ceremonies, held inside the new Pinnacle Street premises.

"A field could be opened in insurance with more endeavor, perhaps — the farm," warden Varty, himself a life-long county farmer told life businessmen.

"The farm today is a place where a great deal of money has to be spent to provide for its equipment. The farm also has dangers.

"There is no one individual who can run that farm like the farmer. I suggest to you — new agriculture — that, perhaps, he should have a little more insurance."

LOCAL MANAGER HEARD

The afternoon's speakers were shepherded through the by Pierce McGuire, local manager for Mutual, and associated with the company for many years.

Mr. Haig, his lengthy personal association is outmatched by the corporative one of his East.

organization with the Quinte business area — both facts stressed at the official ceremonies.

"It is marvellous to realize that the Mutual Life has been serving policyholders in this area since," said the top company figure, at the event, George Dunbar, Mutual's vice-president in charge of agencies.

"I am happy to be able to tell you that your company is going ahead in every area throughout the world," he informed the policy holders present.

"But," he added, "the community at large also was benefiting from corporative prosperity. A prime example of this was home development in the Belleville area. To date, some 2,000 new homeowners have been financially assisted by Mutual funds.

The fact was also acknowledged by Mayor A. McLean Haig, who officially cut the ribbon at the office entrance.

Mutual Life, said the mayor, "has a very serious and sincere development among us."

After the formalities of the afternoon were dispensed, the assembly was invited to view the new office premises, which combine darkness with superiority in the modern business image.

Headquarters for Mutual is at Waterloo. The new Belleville offices are one of 74 organizations now brought out Canada.

Other speakers at yesterday's tape-cutting in Belleville were John Fox, warden of Prince Edward county; Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. Hastings West and Clarke Rollins, MLA, Hastings

Co-ops Under Blistering Fire From Companies

TORONTO (CP) — Corporations are directing at co-operatives one of the most vigorous attacks ever launched against Canadian democratic institutions, says President Ralph Staples of the Co-operative Union of Canada.

Statements claiming that co-ops aren't paying their share of income tax are too often inaccurate, misleading, unfair and at times defamatory," he said Wednesday night.

Corporations have been joined by some prominent personalities in business, industry, accounting and legal professions in attacking co-ops, said the Ottawa-based executive.

A new organization called the Equitable Income Tax Foundation was seeking incorporation to lead the assault and it was spearked by the Retail Merchants Association of Canada," he said.

Mr. Staples said speaking to the annual dinner of the United Co-operatives of Ontario.

His remarks were contained in twelve pages of notes handed to the press before delivery.

LISTS FOUR POINTS

Mr. Staples listed four points to keep the record straight."

Most co-ops pay income tax in Canada and the only ones that don't are those lacking income.

"Co-op rates are the same for all corporations similar in size and type, co-op, or non-co-op," he said, so co-operative can acquire general reserves out of savings without paying income tax.

"There is one exception to this—a truly new co-operative in its first three years is exempt from income tax. Both co-operatives and their supporters recognize that under present conditions this is not a fact of great significance. New mining companies have the same exemption."

Manitoba Election Drive Has Produced No Issues With Voting on Dec. 14

WINNIPEG (CP)—The end of Manitoba's compressed provincial election campaign is in sight although the politicians in some cases appeared to have trouble even getting started.

So far, the campaign has produced no issue or issues that stand out from the mass of promises and proposals.

Nominations closed Nov. 30 with 163 candidates nominated to contest the 55 seats at stake Dec. 14. Voting in the sparsely-settled northern ridings of Rupertsland and Churchill has been deferred to Jan. 4.

The Progressive Conservative government and the Liberals, who were the official Opposition in the last legislature, each nominated 55 candidates. The New Democratic Party named 50 and Social Credit 12. Two Communists and three Independents are in the running.

Standing in the 57-seat House at dissolution was: Progressive Conservative 31, Liberal 15, NDP 9, Social Credit 1, vacant 3.

When Premier Duff Roblin called the election, he said his party had completed the program for which it was given a mandate in general elections in 1958 and 1959. It was given a new mandate to go ahead with further development programs.

KEY PROJECT

The key project the government has in mind is power development on the remote Nelson River, which drains from Lake Winnipeg into Hudson Bay. Mr. Roblin has said the multi-billion-dollar project will cut power prices in half for the next 30 years at no extra cost to the taxpayer.

The answer to paying for the development would be the sale of surplus power outside the province.

The Liberals, who held only one of the 30 seats in the Winnipeg metropolitan area in the last House, seized on a revision of the metropolitan government of the province in an attempt to restore urban popularity.

Liberal farm plans call for building up the province's livestock industry through use of the provincial farm credit plan. Gil Molgat-leads the party.

A. R. Pauley, leader of the New Democratic Party, has urged provincial help in financing university education. If his party wins the election, every child born in the province after election day would receive a university bursary which would mature when its owner decided to enter university.

SEES LARGER COST

The cost of the program, he said, would be less than $200,000 a year. It would be necessary to deposit only $371 at six per cent to get $1,000 in 17 years.

The NDP platform also calls for a medical care program along the lines of the controversial program in neighboring Saskatchewan, free education at all levels, and a minimum wage of $1 an hour.

The Social Credit party also dealt with the greater Winnipeg metropolitan government in its platform, calling for a referendum to decide what form it should assume.

Ont. NDP Leader Accuses Other Parties of Climbing Aboard Medicare Wagon

TORONTO (CP)—New Democratic Party Leader Donald C. MacDonald accused the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties in Ontario of climbing on the medical care insurance "band-wagon" in the face of mounting public pressure.

Mr. MacDonald devoted most of his reply Wednesday to the government's speech from the throne to a criticism of Liberal policy as "blatant political opportunism" and to the government for its "death-bed repentance" on issues prior to the election.

He cited throne speech proposals for introducing provincial legislation on meat inspection, fair wages on government contracts, and a $200,000,000 20-year power development program as examples of belated action spurred by "political expediency."

He said the people had lost confidence in the Progressive Conservatives and that his party also offer no alternative but a confusion of policy which added up to collective bargaining.

"The NDP offers the only constructive alternative to the Tories," Mr. MacDonald told the legislature.

IS ELECTION GIMMICK

Although the Liberal party has proposed that it will introduce a government - sponsored medical care insurance plan, Mr. MacDonald said "their record indicates clearly that it cannot be accepted as a serious proposal, but merely an election gimmick, subject to change without notice."

"There's no doubt now as to where the Tories stand on this issue," he said. "Their policy is clear. It's wrong, but it's clear.

"They have accepted completely the demands of both the private insurance companies, as laid down in their opposition. Essentially these demands are that the government should not provide coverage, and that the public purse, for all those who cannot pay. This will involve the existing extension of the category of indigent to include those in the marginal group.

"As for the rest of the population, it is left to the mercies of the tender mercies of the private carriers.

"It is not good enough because the rates are too high."

An NDP study revealed that the financial costs for a medical care insurance scheme similar to that introduced in Saskatchewan would cost Ontario residents an estimated $26.25 per capita a year, exclusive of administration costs.

HOW WOULD RAISE

The NDP proposed that the necessary revenues be raised by a three-per-cent increase a week for a single adult and 60 cents a week for a family, a three-per-cent increase in tax and a six-per-cent increase in personal income tax.

This would be paid into a medical care insurance fund which will be administered by the commission for the provision of medical services."

Mr. MacDonald ended his reply with a table showing that a family of four would receive coverage costing $3.33 a week for a total annual payment of $33.16 if the father's income were $3,000 a year or $82.90 if the income were $11,500 a year.

". . . A person has to reach an annual income of almost $11,000 before the rate for our plan is as high as Physicians Services Incorporated group rate, and his income has to exceed $11,500 before he reaches the PSI pay-direct rate," Mr. MacDonald said.

SEES CONFUSION

"Obviously, no medical program can be implemented without the co-operation of the doctors," Mr. MacDonald told the House. "Certainly the New Democratic Party is seeking that co-operation. . ."

"But on some points the doctors' fears have been exaggerated to the point of being pathological. They cannot set themselves above society as a whole, or above the government that is chosen by the people in a free society."

"In dealing with the medical profession, in light of past experience, there is no alternative but to be firm."

Ont. NDP Leader Wants Report on Redistribution

TORONTO (CP)—Donald C. MacDonald, Ontario New Democratic Party leader, has called for immediate government action to ensure that a report on redistribution of electoral districts is tabled in the legislature early next year.

Mr. MacDonald said Wednesday in his reply to the speech from the throne that he has been "approached" by Mr. Justice E. A. Richardson, chairman of the commission now set up to study redistribution.

The NDP leader declined to reveal to the legislature the details of their discussion, but "the whole import of the discussion was to explain why the commission was not going to be able to report to the session of the legislature."

Referring to a statement by Premier Robarts last Wednesday that he had received no report "verbal or written" from the commission, but had had conversations with the chairman, Mr. MacDonald said: "I am not interested in quibbling with the prime minister as to whether such information constituted a report.

"If the prime minister is not opposed to an immediate redistribution as he had reassured the House last Wednesday, then what did he do to the chairman of the commission when he was informed that the commission was not going to be able to report on redistribution to the legislature which is now assembled."

Premier Robarts, given the opportunity to speak Tuesday through Mr. MacDonald's speech, said the NDP leader's argument was "based on the assumption that I had the same 'interim report' from the commission" that the opposition leaders had.

The commission chairman, the premier said, "has not informed me at any time that he could not produce a report . . . at this time."

Mr. Robarts charged that Mr. MacDonald's statements were "a debating trick to put words in my mouth and then take me apart for what I say . . ."

The NDP leader continued that the premier's reply "merely underlines how extra ordinary the situation is."

"Why would the chairman of a royal commission come to the legislature of his province . . . and not to the prime minister?" He asked. "If think that the prime minister has only one course open to him.

". . . every step (must) be taken to provide the commission with the necessary help to do the job so that the commission personnel itself can make final decision during the redistribution and to explain to report as soon as the legislature resumes in the new year. That it not possible to do so sooner."

Red Kelly May Hang Up Skates Next Season

TORONTO (CP) — Leonard (Red) Kelly, hockey - playing member of the Commons for Toronto West, said Wednesday he may hang up his skates after this winter and go into full-time politics.

Kelly, centre with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League, was commenting on an Ottawa report calling him "one of the Liberals' most valuable assets" in the current sitting of Parliament.

"Neither Mr. Pearson (Liberal Leader Lester Pearson) nor Punch Imlach (Maple Leafs manager) have complained about my performance to date, the player-MP said in a statement issued as he rested here after Wednesday night's game against Montreal Canadiens.

"They both know that I have been ill and have missed both games and sittings.

"As I said during my campaign, as soon as I feel that my hockey career is hampering my political responsibilities, I will give up hockey. That time has not yet arrived."

Pembroke Head Wants to Get Out of Fight

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP)—Veteran Mayor Robert M. Simpson tossed a bombshell Wednesday into Arnprior's municipal election campaign by announcing withdrawal of his bid for re-election.

He issued a statement saying that "due to circumstances beyond my control" his qualifications as a candidate do not comply with the regulations. He declined to elaborate.

Mayor Simpson, chief magistrate of this Ottawa Valley town for the last 14 years, has also served as president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and of the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves.

With nominations already closed for the Jan. 13 town election, his withdrawal leaves former council member G. S. Hay as the sole candidate for mayor. It was reported, however, that Nichols have already been printed carrying Mayor Simpson's name.

3 Ocean-Going Vessels Still Inside Waterway

MONTREAL (CP)—The St. Lawrence Seaway closed officially at midnight Wednesday night with three ocean-going vessels still inside the inland waterway.

An official said, however, that the vessels will be allowed to pass out of the seaway when they reach its eastern end. They are expected to arrive sometime today.

The Easthampton, of United States registry, and the Nea Hellas, a freighter Maakefjell were anchored at Beauharnois, some 20 miles west of Montreal. The Bridgehampton, sister ship of the Easthampton, was reported to be between Beauharnois and Iroquois, Ont., some 75 miles farther upstream.

The vessels were hampered Wednesday in their race against the closing deadline by fog on the St. Lawrence River. They may be delayed again today by a crane test.

The floating crane Hercules, built recently for the seaway authority, is to be tested at Cote St. Catherine Lock. It is to lift out one of the Lachine lock gates and replace it with a spare.

Army Uses 'Buddy System' For Those Visiting Kingston

KINGSTON (CP)—The army has adopted a "buddy" system for young soldiers visiting Kingston, following a weekend near-riot between crowds of young soldiers and local youths on downtown streets.

On army orders, the soldiers must always travel in pairs, avoid incidents with civilians and ignore provocations.

If the latter themselves in a threatening situation, one man must always get away and report to civilian or military police.

Brig. J. S. Ross, Eastern Ontario area commander, announcing the orders, said consideration had been given to making Kingston out of bounds for soldiers in the area but this had not been done.

Soldiers from nearby bases were asked to avoid going into Kingston if possible but if they wished they were free to do so, in either uniform or civilian clothes.

Brig. Ross said an army investigation of Monday's incidents indicated no direct blame could be placed on the soldiers.

DISPERSE 200

City police dispersed about 200 youths after near violence which two civilians and two soldiers were arrested.

Fred Joseph Landcastle, 17, of Kingston and Joseph B. Langevin, 18, of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers School at nearby Barriefield were charged with carrying offensive weapons. Gustav DeCosta, 16, of Kingston and Donald Richardson, 17, of nearby Viney Barracks were charged with creating a disturbance. They will appear in court Thursday.

ASKS SHARING

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 23,000 patients in Canadian mental hospitals will have no close contact with family or friends this Christmas, says a statement issued by Mme. Vanier as honorary national chairman of the Christmas gift program organized by the Canadian Mental Health Association. The statement from the wife of the Governor-General says that by communicating with local branches of the association, Canadians can "make life brighter and happier for the mentally ill by sharing . . . christmas joy with them."

Nickle Charges Law Breached By Theatre

KINGSTON (CP)—Validity of a vote in Kingston favoring Sunday movies was questioned yesterday by W. M. Nickle, member of legislature for Kingston and Islands and former Ontario cabinet minister.

Mr. Nickle, chairman of a local citizens' group opposing both Sunday movies and Sunday sports, said the law was breached when printed advertising urging a yes vote for Sunday movies was carried Monday, election day, on the marquee of a theatre here.

The action violated the Ontario Municipal Act, Mr. Nickle said. The vote favored movies on Sunday, 8,339 to 6,401. Sunday sports also got the nod, 8,245 to 6,340.

Mr. Nickle, a lawyer, said it is a matter for the mayor and council to consider carefully before they take any action.

An item will appear on the agenda of city council's next administration meeting for discussion of the necessary by-laws to regulate Sunday movies and Sunday sports.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said he hopes to meet premiers of the provinces today to map out pre-Christmas business in the House.

Revenue Minister Fleming called for a non-partisan debate on a bill to set up the Atlantic Development Board.

Mr. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista - Twillingate) rejected the appeal, declaring the opposition has to carry out its responsibility.

Nehru Pays His First Visit To Indian Soldiers Dug in Along Northeastern Frontier

TEZPUR, India (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru made his first visit today to Indian troops dug in on the disputed northeast frontier.

Nehru, who spent the night at this tiny Assam community, also held talks with his army commanders on the status of Indian defences in the event of a resumption of hostilities in the border war with Communist China.

During the night, the first group of wounded Indian soldiers taken prisoner by the Chinese arrived at a nearby Himalayan foothills camp.

They were handed over to the Indian Red Cross by the Chinese Red Cross at the former Indian headquarters of Bomdila, captured by the Chinese last month.

Prisoners were driven over mountain roads in a 27-vehicle convoy which reached Indian position shortly after midnight.

TALKS TO WOUNDED

The wounded were immediately taken to a military hospital. Nehru visited the hospital later and talked to them.

Nehru said on his arrival here he had "no news" about Chinese troop withdrawals scheduled to have begun Dec. 1.

He told a mass meeting at nearby Gushati Wednesday the border conflict was going to be "a turning point in the history of the world."

"What has happened on our borders is a historic thing," he said. "That is why the eyes of the world are turned on us."

He said he did not think the Chinese would return to the position they held before the imposition of their unilateral cease-fire.

"But if they dare they will be met stoutly."

He said Indian military preparations will continue "even if the war stops. We have been deceived once and we are not going to be taken in again."

Nehru said India had no objection to the Chinese decision to ceasefire announced Nov. 21.

"We would like them to withdraw from our territory," he said. "They have withdrawn from various places but let us watch how far they go."

EXPECT RED PLANES

In New Delhi, the Times of India reported that the first consignment of Russian MiG jet fighters was expected in India next month. Flown by Indian pilots trained in the Soviet Union.

The newspaper said Russia had agreed to sell India 12 MiG-21s at an estimated price of about $750,000 each.

Moscow also had promised to provide by April, 1964, the necessary plans for a factory to manufacture MiGs in India, with Soviet technical assistance, the paper said.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Bill Bailey, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bailey of Carmel community, received his B.S.C. degree in forestry at Convocation Hall, Queen's University, Toronto. Bill is a member of the Peterborough Collegiate teaching staff.

Mrs. Arthur Pyear and Mrs. Vernon Hayes represented Carmel U.C.W. at the St. Paul's, Stirling, "Come and See" tea and bake sale held on Friday.

Mrs. Burton Morton and son Gordon spent Saturday in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Byron Seeley and daughters spent Sunday with relatives in Shannonville.

Mrs. Sid Williams accompanied Mrs. Jack Canning of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson of Moira to Peterborough on Monday and they attended the funeral of their cousin, Mr. Alex Meeks.

Mrs. Gordon Linn, Mrs. G Joslin, Mrs. Ralph Jeffs and Mrs. Percy MacMullen of Mt Pleasant, attended St. Paul's, Stirling, quilt bake sale on Friday.

Kelvin Sharp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mac Sharp, Mt. Pleasant, received three awards at the 4-H special night in Stirling community hall. He won the Trent 4-H Club forestry award, the Bank of Montreal trophy, and a silver tray for soil judging.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Emerson of Moira.

ATTEND WEDDING

The wedding of Linda Joyce Nicholas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Nicholas of Hastings, and Gerald Nelson Grills, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Grills was solemnized on Saturday, Nov. 24th, in the Baptist Church in Campbellford. The reception followed in Trent River Bridge community hall. Those who attended from the Carmel community included: Mr. and Mrs. John Grills and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Grills, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Grills, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Grills, Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Stapley, Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Grills, Mrs. Minnie Sine and Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Reid.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — The community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Claude Burkitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Burkitt, Eleventh Line, on Saturday evening in a car accident on the Stirling-Campbellford road. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved relatives.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mumby at Campbellford Memorial Hospital on Friday, Nov. 30th, a daughter, a sister for Suzanne, Beverley and Janice.

Mrs. Estella Gibson and daughter of Campbellford, spent the day Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Heath, Don and Carol.

The December meeting of the Rylstone United Church Women's meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ellis Jones on December 13th. There will be the election of officers for 1963 and a Christmas gift basket.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thomson and family were Sunday supper guests of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Dooher and family in Campbellford.

Mrs. Minnie Morton is visiting her grandson, Roy Fetherick, his wife and family, at Belleville.

Quite a number from here attended the re-opening of Mumby's General Store at Springbrook, on Saturday. All wish them the best of luck in their new self-serve store.

Suzanne and Beverley Mumby are staying with their neighbor, Mrs. Fred Petherick, while their mother is in hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Reid and Ted attended "Awards' Night" for Hastings County 4-H Clubs held in Stirling in the community hall on Friday evening.

Many patrons of the community sale at Hoard's will not forget December 3rd, in a hurry after groping their way home through the dense fog. There are no white lines on Seymour's county roads and this made it doubly hazardous.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reid entertained his brother, Don, his wife and boys, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Berry, Bonarlaw, to dinner on Sunday.

CROWD HAILS JACKIE

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy walked into a cheering demonstration when she arrived at a Broadway theatre Tuesday night to see Lord Pengo. A cheering crowd of 1,000, mostly women, was on hand as Mrs. Kennedy arrived. They broke through a police cordon and only a wedge manoeuvre by police and secret service got the president's wife into the lobby.

Is Young Canada Leading Soft Life? 'Not on Your Life' Claims Expert

By CHARLES MORROW

OTTAWA (CP) — Are Canadian youngsters too soft and coddled to enjoy the simple pleasures of a ramble in the woods, the splash of a canoe paddle in a quiet lake, a sing song around a camp fire?

An emphatic "no" is the answer of Charles A. Harris, and to back his conviction he has come to Ottawa as the first full-time national secretary of the Canadian Youth Hostels Association.

"The first youth hostel in North America was established in the foothills of the Rockies, near Calgary, 28 years ago. That hostel is still operating, and the association now has 44 others, ranging from a few beds in a farm house to a 72-bed ski centre at Collingwood, Ont.

"The hostels offer inexpensive, supervised accommodation, averaging about $1 a night, in some of the most scenic parts of the country.

"With increased interest in physical fitness and outdoor life, Mr. Harris sees a time not too far off when Canada will have a full network of hostels similar to those now flourishing in Europe.

Mr. Harris, an athletic 53, says it's a fallacy that Canadian youngsters are too spoiled up in automobile-oriented life to enjoy outdoors adventures under their own steam.

"Our biggest hostel, at Collingwood, has attracted a steadily-growing number of so-called 'soft' high school students. Lights are out at 11 p.m., the youngsters have to pitch in and do all the chores themselves, and they love it. In fact, youngsters built this hostel largely with their own hands."

Mr. Harris came to Canada from New York 10 years ago as secretary of the Great Lakes hostelling region, with headquarters in Toronto.

"We think Canada is ready for youth hostelling on a large scale. Look at the present concern over physical fitness and the performance of our athletes in international competition. We're delighted at the increased emphasis being placed on fostering competitive, amateur sport."

"Youth hostelling is working in a complementary field—promoting non-competitive recreational activities—hiking, bicycling, canoeing and general fun in the outdoors."

Mr. Harris says that as far as raising the general standard of physical fitness is concerned, these non-competitive activities are just as important—if not more so — than competitive sport.

"It is generally held that in the long run the milder, more sustained types of exercises, such as walking, bicycling, swimming and rowing or paddling, are better for maintaining physical fitness than really strenuous, competitive sports."

The association has embarked on a five-year development plan under which it will expand and improve its present hostel chains, starting with a string of hostels linking Quebec City, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

It also plans to open year-round hostels adjacent to major cities—the first a hostel and conference centre near Ottawa, to accommodate the hundreds of young people who visit the capital each year.

MODEL OF FLOODWAY OUTLET — Engineer Marshall Gysi points out some of the features of a scale model of the Lockport outlet for the Red River Floodway, a $64,000,000 flood-control project started this fall. Red River Waterway May Have Been a Snap to Buy But Running Expenses Steep

By CHISHOLM MacDONALD

WINNIPEG (CP) — John Sutyla pointed in the direction of the Red River, beyond a giant dugout of silt and gumbo.

"That old waterway may have been a snap to buy," he said, "but her running expenses sure are steep."

Mr. Sutyla, a construction superintendent at the Greater Winnipeg Floodway, was referring to the old tale that most of Manitoba's Red River valley—including its capricious river—was bought for 10 shillings.

"When and if this ditch is dug by 1967, we'll see how the river is a costly thing to run," he said.

The long heralded "Big Ditch," a $64,000,000 flood-control project skirting metropolitan Winnipeg and said to be the biggest civil-renewal scheme ever undertaken in Canada, was started this fall.

About 100,000,000 cubic yards of gumbo and silt will be displaced in the project, designed to avoid a repetition of the 1950 flood that put 640 square miles of the Winnipeg area under water.

CAN DIVERT RIVER

Coursing an uneven 30-mile path from Lockport, 15 miles northeast of Winnipeg, from St. Norbert south of the city, the floodway is designed to divert the cresting Red River through a safety channel east of the city during times of high flood.

The idea was conceived after the flood of 1950 which caused $100,000,000 damage. A provincial royal commission was appointed in '56 and presented its report Feb. 9, 1959.

Two 1½-mile contracts were awarded this year. At St. Vital, near the southern end of the project, John Sutyla and about 25 men monopolize the scene. Construction are battling the sticky gumbo with 20 pieces of heavy machinery.

The contract for this mile and a half is held by Associated. Sutyla said. "But when you consider the ditch is 800 feet wide and up to 27 feet deep—in some other areas it will reach a depth of more than 70 feet—it's not a million-dollar gift we're getting."

FIRST FLOOD 1826

The story of Red River flooding is almost as old as the documented history of the city.

The story of its sale goes back to the time when Thomas Douglas, Earl of Selkirk, persuaded Hudson's Bay Company directors to sell him 116,000 square miles of Red River country for 10 shillings.

In 1812, Selkirk sent his first shipload of Scottish families to settle the area around the Red, Nelson River and Lake Winnipeg to the forks of the Red and the Assiniboine. They were the first white people to homestead on the present site of Winnipeg with any apparent intention of staying.

Hardships followed, not the least of which was flooding.

The first recorded year of Red River flooding was in 1826. That year saw the water rise seven feet higher than it did in 1950's 30-feet - above - normal level. Other major flood years were 1852, 1861 and the final one 12 years ago which claimed the life of one person and left a muddy and expensive deposit in some of Winnipeg's best parlors.

FLOOD DIVERSION — Map shows location of 30-mile channel to be built to ease the spring flood threat of the Red River to Winnipeg. The project will extend from St. Norbert, south of Winnipeg, downstream to Lockport. It will be the biggest diversional scheme undertaken in Canada. (CP Newsmap.)

FIVE CAUSES

J. A. Griffiths, director of water control and conservation in Manitoba, lists a combination of five conditions that account for the sometimes excessive flow of the Red River.

They are: A wet autumn; very severe and continued frosts sealing up the marshes and saturated ground; heavy snowfall during the latter part of the winter; a big and sudden spring; above normal rainfall during the breakup over the entire drainage basin.

Two other flood-control projects are considered by the royal commission. They are both on the Assiniboine River which flows from the west to join the Red in the heart of Winnipeg—in $11,500,000 diversion near Portage la Prairie and a $1,500,000 reservoir in the Shellmouth, Man., area.

The floodway is to be financed about 50-50 per cent by the federal government and the remainder by the province, while the costs of the Assiniboine projects are to be shared equally by the two governments.

COULD UPSET SCHEDULE

But the floodway has priority in urgency," Mr. Griffiths said. "Of $14,000,000 in flood damage averaged each year by both rivers, all things considered, 80 per cent comes from the Red.

"The other projects will be implemented soon too, of course, and all three could well be completed at approximately the same time."

But it's a "wait and see" matter whether the Greater Winnipeg Floodway will be completed in 1967.

"Manitoba winters can have severe 30-degree-below-zero working conditions, and wet gumbo has a tendency to freeze either on the ground or in the machine scoops.

"Then, too, a series of wet summers like those in the late 1950s could put work far behind schedule."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Saturday night in Las Vegas, Nevada's answer to Gotham's Broadway brightlights, a brash young man will step into the ring, coolly confident he will come out of it upright, and wearing the world welterweight crown atop his curly-brown noggin.

While plush millionaires, vacationing business men, and conventioners out on the town ogle beautiful showgirls, or pour silver streams into the maws of the gambling devices forge Las Vegas pride of the Argentine, will attempt to wrest the buckle from the current champion Emile Griffith.

Senor Fernandez, vocally a close counterpart of heavyweight Cassius Clay (no shrinking violet when he is impersonating the Master Clay), makes no bones of the outcome of the fight.

Griffith holds two close decisions over the sunny senor from the coffee plantations of South America. But not in the mind of one Jorge Fernandez. "No senor, I beat Griffith twice in New York. Griffith knows it, the fans know it. Everyone, in fact, is familiar with the raw decisions except the New York officials who gave the bouts to Griffiths," he chants.

He shrugs a muscular shoulder, "but why, senors, worry about decisions at this time. There will be none. I'm going all out for a knockout and will score one long before the 15th round."

The ebullient youngster from the land of the gauchos, had better see to it that there are aged coffee beans plentifully mixed with the green ones in the pre-bout java cocktails. And there'd better be more than 48 in each cup.

For Mr. Griffith rapidly becomes an angry young man when facing someone he doesn't like. And he has never sent Christmas cards to Senor Fernandez. And when Mr. Griffith becomes angry in the ring he is ferocity afoot with explosive dynamite in both fists.

But what of Mr. Griffith. Fight buffs will recall that last March he caught Benny Paret against a corner of the ring in Madison Square Garden, and fatally injured him with his fists. That night Griffith was a very angry young man. He did not like Paret.

Since then Griffith has been trying to get Paret out of his mind. He does not like the South American and perhaps anger will help him. He does not know.

For each time he fights, somewhere along the line his mates take to the Paret legend of the appeasement, and then he stops throwing punches.

Mayhap Fernandez knows this. It could be he is hoping the ghost of Kid Paret will loom in his corner, or any corner he may be in.

In his last fight with Don Fullmer in Madison Square Garden, Griffith manoeuvred him into a corner in the first round. Fullmer stood there waiting for Griffith to come in. The champion stopped in his tracks.

After the fight which he won, he said, "I did not see Fullmer there. I saw the late Benny and I could not get myself to go in there."

The story goes that for the rest of the fight it was the same thing. Every time Fullmer moved into the "Paret corner" Griffith stopped and wouldn't move until his opponent got out of there. Fullmer did nothing but hold and run and Griffith chased him only on three sides. The fans were booing and walking out. Griffith won by a big margin but none of the fans cared.

In his next fight in Vienna, Austria, against Ted Wright, whom he decisioned in 15 rounds, Griffith looked much better. The "Paret" ring was back in New York.

Saturday night's title fight is in Las Vegas far from that haunted ring corner in Madison Square Garden. Perhaps the ghost of the late Benny has faded into the mists of ringdom's Valhalla.

Emile Griffith hopes it has. Senor Jorge Fernandez doesn't care. He figures he doesn't need any other equipment than his fists to put the champion away. He might try imitating President Kennedy to keep Griffith in an amiable mood. For should the titleholder become angry—and he likely will—there is no telling what round the angry senor will start Brassing of South American separitas, cha-chas, and coffee with stars floating around it.

Wings Rally To Tie Rangers ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Leafs Edge Habs; Hawks Nip Bruins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto's Ron Stewart, an effortless skater valued more for versatility and defensive play than for scoring punch, powered the Maple Leafs into second place in the NHL standings Wednesday night with a timely goal.

Stewart, a right winger who has played centre and defence in his 10 years with Leafs, scored the third - period goal that gave Leafs 2-1 win over Montreal last night in Toronto. Leafs now have 28 points, two less than Chicago. The Hawks needed two goals late in the third period to edge last-place Boston Bruins 5-4 Wednesday night and keep their lead.

Left - winger Ab McDonald, who couldn't break into Montreal's regular lineup three seasons ago, scored twice and added an assist for Chicago to move into a tie with linemate Stan Mikita in individual scoring. Both players have 25 points.

Meanwhile, Detroit Red Wings had to unleash a 16-shot onslaught in the last period to earn a 3-3 tie with the Rangers in New York.

ULLMAN TIES SCORE

Centre Norm Ullman scored the tying goal on New York's substitute goalie Marcel Paille with only 63 seconds left in play...it was the only third-period shot to get by Paille.

Detroit won in third place with 27 points, three behind Chicago, and Canadiens follow in fourth spot with 24 points. Rangers are in fifth place with 19 points and Boston is in the league cellar with 15.

Stewart's close-in goal at 8:34 of the last period in Toronto came just more than a minute after Montreal right-winger Bernie Geoffrion tied the score 1-1 with his 11th goal of the season.

Geoffrion collided with Toronto goalie Johnny Bower of the play and fractured his right wrist.

Geoffrion had been playing with a sprained thumb joint on his right hand for the previous two games and x-rays indicated the high-scoring veteran suffered a cracked bone in the lower right wrist.

Geoffrion said afterward "Bower tried to poke me as I went in. He moved one way, then back, and I ran into him. My wrist hit his chin."

MAHOVLICH TAKES LEAD

In Chicago, McDonald tied the score, 4-4 midway through the last period and defenceman Pierre Pilote scored the winner for the Hawks with 8½ minutes left to play.

Boston's rookie goalie Ed Ferry result kept the Bruins in the game with sparkling saves. He had 40 stops, compared with 23 for Chicago goalie Glenn Hall.

McDonald and rookie defenceman Wayne Hillman gave Chicago a 2-1 lead in the first period, after Boston centre Murray Oliver opened scoring with a power play goal.

Jerry Toppazzini and 21-year-old Tom Williams scored for Boston and Ken Wharram scored for Chicago in the second period to make the score 3-3.

Boston centre Forbes Kennedy, of Dorchester, N.B., playing his first NHL game of the season after joining Bruins Monday in a trade with Detroit for Andre Pronovost, gave Boston a 4-3 lead early in the last period.

MAKES FINE RUSH

Kennedy, a former Black Hawk and Red Wing who joined Boston from Detroit Edmonton farm club in the Western Hockey League, beat Hall at centre ice with linemate Don Stan Mikita in individual scoring. Both players have 25 points.

Red Pronovost, a 26-year-old left-winger, fitted in even better with Red Wings in their 3-3 tie in New York.

Detroit coach Sid Abel put Pronovost on a line with veteran centre Ullman and right-winger Floyd Smith.

The three forwards accounted for all of Detroit's goals. Dean Prentice scored twice for New York and assisted on the third goal by defenceman Larry Cahan.

Detroit took a 1-0 lead in the first period on Pronovost's first goal of the season, but Rangers came back to hold a 3-3 edge at the end of the second period.

The Wings had just put their fourth forward on the ice in all-out attempt to tie the score when Ullman deflected Gordie Howe's blue line slap shot with 63 seconds left in the game.

Paille was substituting for Gump Worsley in the New York goal. Worsley is sidelined indefinitely with a shoulder injury received Sunday night.

Paille, up from Baltimore of the American Hockey League, stopped 25 shots, compared with Detroit netminder Hall, also on the Detroit nets. Riggio was replacing Jerry Sawchuk, Detroit's regular netminder, also out with a shoulder injury.

Sawchuk may return to action tonight when the Bruins play in Detroit in the only scheduled game.

FORMER STAR SENTENCED

MADERA, Calif. (AP)—Monte Pearson, one-time pitching star for New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians, was sentenced Wednesday to eight months in jail on a bribery conviction.

Pearson, 54, was the county's chief sanitary official for nine years.

Pearson was convicted by a jury last month of accepting a $200 bribe from a contractor for approving defective septic tank installations previously condemned by his department.

Made Bombers 'Flaming Mad'

'So-Called Experts' Helped Win

VANCOUVER (CP)—Quarterback Kenny Ploen says newspaper stories helped the "flaming mad" Winnipeg Blue Bombers defeat Hamilton in the Grey Cup football final.

He said in an interview Wednesday the team's mental attitude made up-in a large part for the physical beating it took at the hands of Calgary Stampeders in the western final, won by Winnipeg two games to one.

"We were flaming mad about the things that the so-called football experts in Canada said about us after we beat Calgary.

"We read the papers and all of them, even our Winnipeg papers, said we didn't deserve to be on the same field as Calgary, let alone beat them and represent the West.

"When we read that the only thing that put us into the Grey Cup was stinking luck. We were mad."

Ploen played two ways in the Grey Cup game which Bombers won 28-27.

Kingston Juniors Here Friday!

The Belleville Juniors are off to Gananoque this evening for a game against the Islanders in the OHA Eastern Junior Hockey League.

Tonight's tilt will serve as a warmup for Don Barclay's boys who play host to the powerful Kingston Frontenacs here tomorrow (Friday) night.

This will be the first meeting between Gananoque and the locals but Belleville has already had a taste of Kingston's power. The Frontenacs, winners of six games in as many tries, blanked Belleville 7-0 here in the loop opener.

Coach Barclay feels that his club has improved greatly since then and promises to give the league-leaders a battle for the money come nine o'clock Friday.

Belleville rests in seventh spot in the eight-team grouping, ahead of the pointless Trenton team, so have about only one direction to go. And the players would like to start an upward surge against the eastern squads, Islanders and Frontenacs, tonight and Friday.

Followers of the sport here feel that the Belleville team will fair much better if it can cut down on the penalty sheet. With a total of 61 penalties, adding up to 199 minutes, in their four games to date, the team must be leading the league in that department at least.

COMPLETE SWEEP

MADRAS, India (AP)—The surprising Mexican Davis Cup team completed a 5-0 sweep over India Wednesday by winning the two final singles matches. It then prepared to leave for Australia to challenge for the big international tennis trophy at Brisbane Dec. 25-28.

In Wednesday's play Mario Llamas defeated Premjit Lall 6-2, 6-2, 6-3 and Pancho Contreras defeated Akhtar Ali 8-6, 2-6, 8-7, 6-1, 6-3.

Everybody Gets in the Act

Reds, Barons Toss Fists

If any of the crowd of 2,019 at the Providence - Cleveland American Hockey League game left before it was over Wednesday night, they shouldn't have.

There was action after the final buzzer—the league's longest and wildest brawl of the season.

At Cleveland, the Barons had chalked up a 7-3 triumph, blasting 43 shots at Providence goalie Gil Mayer and foiling the Reds' hopes of closing up in the tight Eastern Division race. Then the big brawl started.

Mayer, the five-foot-six goaltender, and Cleveland player-coach Fred Glover appeared to touch it off and every player on each team became involved in the 15-minute scuffle. Only Dino Mascotto of the Reds and Jim Mikol of Cleveland, who were involved in the last and most prolonged fight of the post-game affair, received penalties. Each got a major for fighting and a 10-minute misconduct, which carries a $25 fine.

John Ferguson and Joe Szura each scored twice for the Barons. Pierre Brillant scored twice for the losers.

Frontenacs Blank Chiefs 5-0

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (CP)—The league-leading Kingston Frontenacs, with stellar goaltending from Bruce Gamble, shaded Syracuse Braves 5-0 in an Eastern Professional Hockey League game Wednesday night.

Gamble, in the doghouse earlier in the season for being overweight, made 28 saves—13 in the final period—accompanied to 21 by Braves' Roger Crozier. Rookie centre Jeannot Gilbert scored twice for the Frontenacs and Dick Cherry, Don Blackburn and Pat Stapleton scored one each.

Stapleton was playing his first game with Kingston since being sent down from the National League Boston Bruins with winger Wayne Connelly.

Curlers Take Over Old Arena

TORONTO (CP)—The ice is back in Toronto's venerable Mutual Arena, first home of the National Hockey League Maple Leafs, but this time it's for curling, not hockey.

For several years the old rink in downtown Toronto has been used solely as a roller-skating centre. But a $1,500,000 renovation now nearly completed will leave room for both roller skating and 26 sheets of ice for curlers.

When completed, the arena will be the largest curling rink in eastern Canada and the second largest in the world. Only Calgary's 43-sheet rink in the Corral is larger.

The arena, renamed the Terrace, represents a new concept in curling operation. It's sightly for league and casual play—there are no memberships.

Ontario's entire rink from last year's Canadian curling championships is employed at the Terrace. The skip, Bayne Secord, is chief instructor and

GOLFERS SUED

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Golf pros Sam Snead and Gary Nixon were sued for $1,500,000 in federal court Wednesday for alleged breach of a contract to build a championship golf course and clubhouse at Savannah, Ga. The suit was filed by Florida-Georgian Land Holding Incorporated, of Boca Raton, Fla., alleging default of an agreement drawn up at Boca Raton March 27, 1961. A copy of the agreement, filed in court, showed Snead and Nixon, a cousin of former vice-president Richard Nixon, were to pay $500 an acre for approximately 150 acres on which the golf course would be located.

Will Nicklaus Dethrone Palmer?

Chances Appear Good

NEW YORK (AP)—Is Arnold Palmer, only 32, in marvelous physical condition, and coming off his greatest year among many great ones, soon to be succeeded as king of golf?

In 1962, the power-hitting Pennsylvanian who makes miracle finishes seem almost routine: set a money-winning record of more than $80,000, breaking his own mark; won two of the world's four major championships, the Masters and the British Open, and lost a third- in a playoff; established the best performance rating of all PGA players; led in the rating system for the Ryder Cup team and Vardon Trophy; and was named Golfer of the Year for the second time in three years.

Yet in some quarters he's being talked of in the past tense as the dominant figure in the sport. The reason: The spectacular play of burly Jack Nicklaus in his rookie season as a professional. Including a blowout victories over Palmer in the playoff for the U.S. Open and in the so-called World Series of Golf, where Palmer, Nicklaus and Gary Player went head-to-head for the $50,000 first prie.

There's a case to be made for the broad-shouldered, broadbeamed youngster from Columbus, Ohio. Despite his tender age of 22, Nicklaus was a tournament-tested player long before his sudden decision to become a professional a year ago. Twice he came within an eyelash of winning the U.S. Open as an amateur.

City Hockey League

By GARY ALEXANDER
Staff Sportswriter.

Trudeau Motors took over first place and the Pepsi's moved into a tie for the runner-up spot as the result of action in the City Hockey League doubleheader last night.

Trudeau, with a fine performance from Gary Goyer, Doug "Nobber" Day and Don "Turk" Barclay, dumped Welbanks Motors 6-1, while Pepsi's sent Joyce-Rollins Combines down to another defeat, by a 5-3 score.

As usual near the Christmas holiday season the crowd was small, just under 200, but the calibre of hockey was still tops. There hasn't been a bad game in the league to date and due to this fact loop officials are looking for a big jump in attendance following the holiday slump.

Pepsi's 5 — Joyce-Rollins 3

A 3-1 spread in the second period made the difference in the first game as the clubs divided a pair of goals in the opening beat and another pair in the final twenty minutes.

The Pepsi's with tied them with Welbanks for second place, two points behind Trudeau, and left the Combines in the loop cellar.

A pair of goals one minute and five seconds apart midway through the second period proved the turning point for the Pepsi's. George Jacklin was the marksman on both goals, assisted by linemates "Weiner" Waite and John Trendell.

These goals opened up a 4-2 lead for the Pepsi's. Earlier Joyce-Rollins had led 1-0 and later they cut the margin to 4-3.

The Jacklin-Waite-Trendell line was a big one for the winners Jacklin added an assist to his two goals while Trendell had one goal and two helpers and Waite picked up three assists. "Shaker" Baker scored Pepsi's first goal, aided by Doug Murray, while Mavety of the Combines was in the penalty box. Pat Maracle clicked on a solo effort to wrap up the win late in the final period.

Ron Hull scored his first two goals of the campaign for the Combines while Duke Doran bagged the other. Rob Ethier and Jackie Elliott, with one each, and playing-coach Bob Taylor, with two, drew the assists.

Doran deflected in Ethiers blueline shot to open the scoring while Hull sank Elliott's rebound to tie it 2-2. Hull's second marker came with the winners playing a man short in the third but Maracle soon regained the two-goal margin.

The winners drew nine of the 12 penalties handed out by referee Bill Hurst and Jean-Paul Lamirande. Dave Jones took a misconduct and a game misconduct and Howard Skelly a misconduct late in the third period.

Pepsi's: Carr, Murray, Baker, Trendell, D. Jones, Waite, Maracle, Moreau, Cornell, Brooks, J. Hughes, McGuire Jacklin, Skelly, F. Green.

TRUDEAUS 6—WELBANKS 1

Trudeaus ran their unbeaten streak to five games with a good all-around performance, led by Barclay, Goyer and Day.

Barclay played an outstanding game in the winners' nets, robbing the losers of at least four sure goals while his mates potted markers at a two-period pace. The "Turk" lost his shutout when Siu Muirhead beat him with a good shot at 11.56 of the third period. Trudeau led 6-0 by that time.

Gary Goyer participated in all six of his club's scoring plays. He scored two goals himself and set up team mates for the other four.

Doug "Nobber" Day bagged the three-goal "hat-trick" in his first game of the season. Defenceman Jerry Mann picked up a goal and an assist while "Pug" Keilar drew three assists.

Bobby Green, who was loaned to Joyce-Rollins for the first game, also played well but was no match for Barclay at his best.

Mann's blueline shot caught a corner for the game's first goal while Goyer stickhandled through three Welbanks players to make it 2-0. Goyer deflected Mann's shot through a maze of players and set Day up for his first goal in the second beat. Goyer was the play-maker

Lightfoots Bow to Wilsons

Trenton Wilsons increased their lead at the top of the Bay of Quinte Basketball Association last night by whipping the tail-end Belleville Lightfoots 95-43.

The Wilsons jumped into a 48-19 lead at half time against a shorthanded Lightfoot squad and kept up the hot scoring pace in the second half. The losers had only five players to start the game and added one more in the second half.

Big Bob Moore regained the league scoring lead from Batchelor, of Belleville Crawfords, with a 29-point performance for Trenton.

Every player in the winners' 11-man lineup shared in the scoring. Warren Whitley collecting 18 points, Bob Burleigh 11 and John Nikifork 10.

Don Smith paced the Lightfoots once again with 19 points, followed by Gary Duggan with eight and Mike Carwell, who only played one second half with seven.

BELLEVILLE LIGHTFOOTS (43): G. Duggan 8, T. Ewing 5, D. Smith 19, B. Marner 5, D. Bonisteel 2, M. Carwell 7.

TRENTON WILSONS (95): B. Moore 29, B. Burleigh 11, C. Batchelor 7, W. Whitley 18, M. Jeffery 4, G. Bambers 5, M. Eagen 2, J. Nikifork 10, J. Theriault 9, P. Newsome 4, G. Whitley 2.

Yankees Sell Richmond

NEW YORK (AP)—New York Yankees have sold their Richmond Virginians club in the International League to Romeo J. Champagne, a grocery chain operator and banker in Rochester, N.H. An announcement Wednesday said the team definitely will stay in Richmond in 1963.

SENATORS MAKE TRADE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Washington Senators acquired infielder Marv Breeding, outfielder Barry Shetrone and pitcher Art Quirk from Baltimore Wednesday in a swap for pitcher Pete Burnside and infielder Bob Johnson. This raises to 10 the number of new players acquired by the Senators in the last week.

N.H.L. League Leaders

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ab McDonald of Chicago moved into a first - place tie in the National Hockey League's individual scoring race Wednesday night.

He scored twice and set up another as Chicago edged Boston 5-4, bringing his total to 12 goals and 13 assists for 25 points. Teammate Stan Mikita picked up an assist for the same total on eight goals and 17 assists.

Bernie Geoffrion scored Montreal Canadiens' goal in their 2-1 loss to Toronto and stayed in a third - place tie with 23 points on 11 goals and 12 assists. New York's Andy Bathgate, held scoreless Wednesday night, has the same total on eight goals and 15 assists.

Alex Delvecchio of Detroit, who hasn't tallied in his last three games, holds down fifth place with 22 points on six goals and 16 assists.

Frank Mahovlich added a goal to his league - leading total and is sixth with 21 points on 14 goals and 7 assists. Gordie Howe of Detroit and Bobby Hull of Chicago both picked up an assist and are tied for seventh slot with 20 points.

The leaders:

Johnson On Trail

Jim Taylor Takes NFL Lead

Fog Stops 'Glesgie' Spectacle

GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Fog clamped down on this city Wednesday night and forced postponement of Glasgow's spectacle of the season—the European Cup-Winners' Cup clash between Glasgow Rangers and Tottenham Hotspur of England.

Hundreds of Tottenham fans had left fog-shrouded England by train, hoping to reach Glasgow in time for the kickoff.

The train had still not arrived when referee M. Bois of France decided to call off the game. It was believed to be somewhere in southern Scotland.

Bois delayed his decision until 40 minutes before the scheduled kickoff. Then he walked across Ibrox Stadium and found he couldn't see from one side of the field to the other.

The clubs agreed to play the match next Tuesday.

It is the second leg of a second-round series. Tottenham won the first leg in London 5-2.

NEW YORK (AP)—Time is running out for John Henry Johnson in his bid to overtake Green Bay's Jim Taylor for the National Football League's individual rushing crown, but the big Pittsburgh fullback has not given up trying.

Johnson gained 96 yards against St. Louis Sunday to gain some ground but Taylor still leads with two weeks to go, 1,239 yards to Johnson's 1,016.

Although held to only 61 yards, Taylor rushed for two touchdowns against Los Angeles and took over the scoring lead with 102 points, based on 17 touchdowns. He was tied with Jimmy Brown of Cleveland last week at 90 points each.

Don Chandler, kicking specialist of the New York Giants, booted four field goals and added two extra points to sweep past Brown into second place with 94 points.

Bart Starr, Green Bay quarterback, ousted Eddie LeBaron as the passing leader with a brilliant aerial display against the Rams. Starr completed 15 of 29 passes to move into first place with 152 completions in 225 attempts, good for 2,193 yards and a 67.7 average.

Washington's Bobby Mitchell retained his leadership in pass receiving. He caught eight passes against Pittsburgh to boost his total to 61 receptions for 1,187 yards.

Pacer Sells For Record $130,000

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Palaver, seven-year-old stallion by Tar Heel-Pretty Hanover, sold for a world record price of $130,000 Wednesday at the closing session of the fall standardbred horse sales at Tattersalls.

Painter was purchased from the consignment of Hunter Hill Farm, Cambridge City, Ind., by Ed and Leo McNamara of Two Gaits Farm, Carmel, Ind.

The stallion won more than $53,000 as a two-year-old but was forced into premature retirement when he broke a bone in his foot.

The previous high price paid at auction for a harness horse was the $125,000 shelled out on separate occasions in the 1950s for Tar Heel and Solicitor.

Not Including 19th Hole!

NEW YORK (AP) — If a sport's strength and popularity depends on the people at the top, then golf today has muscles it hasn't even used.

By the end of the year, more than 90,000,000 rounds will have been played in the United States alone by 6,000,000 devotees of the world's fastest-growing game.

They will have invested more than $1,000,000,000 in buying 8,000,000 golf clubs, 7,000,000 golf balls, 700,00 golf bags, countless golf gloves and millions of golf tees. All this, not to mention beltless slacks from fuchsia to olive, stylish Bermudas, caps, visor, custom - made spiked shoes, sweaters, shirts, rain jackets, umbrellas, aluminum hand carts, electric carts, tee holders, sticky grip, indoor driving mats and nets, putting aids and harnesses for flying elbows.

Professional golf planners, who spent long, frustrating years trying to lure the American sports fan to the golf gallery, are talking of imposing limitations on the number of admissions. In the idea stage is a suggestion that special courses be built for the golfing millions, complete with arena-like seating around the greens, and possibly even monorail transportation along the fairways.

Score Nine in Third

Bulldogs Rout Rams 13-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sarnia Rams might be excused for launching a campaign for 30-minute games in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A group.

One of the biggest problems facing the Rams, winless in 18 games this season, is a lack of staying power.

The team's last two efforts, in a home-and-home series with the league-leading Windsor Bulldogs, provide a good illustration. The Rams bowed 13-8 in Sarnia Tuesday and 13-2 in Windsor Wednesday night, yet were solidly in contention midway through the second period in each case.

The score was just 3-1 for Windsor going into the third period of the first game and was only 3-2 for the Bulldogs at the seven-minute mark in the second frame Wednesday night.

A "kid's night" crowd of nearly 3,000 watched the Bulldogs score nine times in the third period Wednesday night as every player on the Windsor team except goalie Monty Reynolds and left winger Tom Walker figured in the scoring.

MAROONS KEEP PACE

In the league's only other contest the second-place Chatham Maroons kept pace with the Bulldogs, scoring a 7-5 win over the third-place Woodstock Athletics in Chatham.

At Windsor, Irwin Cross led the Bulldogs with three goals. Lou Bendo and Jack Costello scored two apiece with Bob Brown, Walter Pawlyshyn, Derek Holmes, Jerry Servise, Jean Marc Asselin and Real Chevrefils getting the others. Bruce Jones and acting coach Don Savage scored for Sarnia.

The Bulldogs poured 52 shots at Rams goalie Ron Urry while Reynolds was being called upon only 18 times.

The Maroons' win, their fifth in a row, was produced by a five-goal outburst in the third period.

Stamps Name Eagle Day Club MVP

WINNIPEG (CP) — Quarterback Eagle Day of Calgary Stampeders was named most valuable player to his team in the Western Football Conference in 1962 and won the Jeff Nicklin Memorial Trophy.

The award, with the exception of 1955, had been the sole custody of Jackie Parker of Edmonton Eskimos since 1954.

It is presented in honor of Jeff Nicklin, former Blue Bomber star who was killed in action during the Second World War.

Rugby Team Finally Wins One

LLANELLY, Wales (Reuters) Canada's touring rugby team gained its first victory in 15 matches Wednesday night, beating Western Districts of Wales 8-3.

The victory brought the Canadians' record for their British tour to one victory, one tie and 13 defeats. They have scored 81 points and allowed 278.

They play their final match of the tour Saturday against a combined British services team at Blackheath.

After a fairly evenly contested opening half, which saw one penalty goal apiece, the Canadians gradually got the upper hand.

Dave Ure and Bill Granleese won them the advantage in the lines - out from which they launched several dangerous attacks, but the passing at halfback and threequarter was generally hasty timed, and chances after chance was thrown away.

Left wing John Newton made the best movement of the game when, 10 minutes from the end, he collected an intended clearance on the Welsh 25-yard line and raced through a spread-eagled defence to try between the goalposts. Barry Burnham, who kicked the first-half penalty goal, converted.

Mackell Out Two Months

LOS ANGELES (CP)—Centre Fleming Mackell of Los Angeles Blades has suffered a torn knee cartilage likely to keep him out of Western Hockey League action for at least two months.

The 33-year-old former Boston Bruin hurt his knee last Thursday in a game against San Francisco Seals. The team awaits an x-ray report, but a doctor has recommended surgery and it is feared Mackell could miss the entire season.

National League

Cubs' Hubbs Top Rookie

BOSTON (AP)—Ken Hubbs of Chicago Cubs, slick-fielding second baseman who set two major league records last season, was named Wednesday as National League Rookie of the Year.

Hubbs, 20, gathered 19 of the 20 votes cast in the poll conducted by the Baseball Writers Association of America. Donn Clendenon of Pittsburgh Pirates attracted the remaining ballot.

Hubbs had only one year in professional baseball before joining the Cubs this year. He played in 160 games and batted .260. He played 78 consecutive games without an error, erasing the major league record of 72 set by Bobby Doerr of Boston Red Sox in 1948.

His 418 chances accepted without a bobble was four better than Doerr's 1948 record.

Five Years Fine Given 'Bribers'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Prison terms of five years each and fines totalling $30,000 were handed out Wednesday to two men convicted of bribing players to shave points in college basketball games.

Superior Court Judge Heman Clark ordered the prison terms for Dave Goldberg, 46, and Steve Lakmetzias, 36, both of St. Louis, Mo. They were released under bond pending an appeal. Goldberg under $50,000 and Lekmetros under $25,000.

Goldberg was found guilty of 18 counts and Lekmetros of 14 counts of bribery or conspiring to bribe North Carolina State College players in eight basketball games played between December, 1959, and January, 1961.

Judge Clark sentenced the two men to five years each on two of the counts, the terms to run concurrently. Then he gave Goldberg two years for each of the remaining 16 counts and suspended these sentences on payment of a $21,000 fine.

Lekmetros was given three years on each of his remaining 12 counts, suspended on payment of a $9,000 fine. Each was directed to pay one-half the court costs.

The jury's verdict Tuesday ended a 10-day trial during which five other men, who have pleaded either guilty or nolo contendere (no contest) to fixing charges, testified for the state. These five, scheduled to be sentenced today, are Aaron Wagman, Joseph Greene, Paul Walker, Michael Siegel and Louis Barshak, all of New York.

Alvin (Ab) McDonald, Chicago's much - improved left-winger, who scored twice in Black Hawks' 5-4 victory over Boston Wednesday night to move into a first-place tie in the National Hockey League individual scoring race.

Ron Stewart, Maple Leaf centre, who scored the winning goal in Toronto's hard-fought 2-1 victory over Montreal Canadiens.

Norm Ullman, Detroit's veteran centre who set up two goals and scored the tieing goal with just more than a minute to go in Red Wings 3-3 tie with New York.

AWAIT ANNOUNCEMENT

OTTAWA (CP)—The Citizen says the Ottawa football club is expected to name Red O'Quinn, former pass-catching great with Montreal Alouettes, its new general manager today. He would succeed George Terlep, who has one year to go on a $15,000-a-year contract.

Despite Criticism

Bruce Kidd Had Pop's OK

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — J. Roby Kidd, father of Canada's young track star Bruce Kidd, says that rightly or wrongly he encouraged his son's athletic career even though it meant criticism from friends and associates.

However, he would not have lost any sleep if the 19-year-old winner of Canada's first gold medal in Empire Games track competition in a dozen years had developed his talents in other directions.

"If he hadn't found release and opportunity in running, we would have hoped he would have found it some other, way," Mr. Kidd says. "And we would have encouraged him as long as it was reasonably constructive."

Not that the proud parent was not thrilled at his son's capture of the six-mile event at Perth, Australia.

"One always enjoys real achievement, but we have always hoped that Bruce would not have to pay too high a price."

PLENTY OF CHOICES

Mr. Kidd, secretary of the Social Science Research Council of Canada, says his first objective as parent has been to expose his five children to lots of influences — books, theatre, music, art, games.

The youngsters were encouraged to develop and pursue the special interests of their own choosing.

"We never urged Bruce to stop running. Naturally, we did help him to face up to his possible loss—in time and in not being able to do other things."

Mr. Kidd said he had been criticized that he might be letting his son take on too much. There was also the possibility of damage to the youngster's heart and health.

He did not think Bruce had bitten off more than he could chew. The youth had worked out a tight schedule to which he rigidly adhered; he had managed at school to retain his paper route and more recently a part-time job in the news room of Toronto radio station CFRB. Bruce thought his track career had helped his academic record.

As for the health hazard, there was always a calculated risk when one ventured into the unknown—but Bruce's cam, running at speeds faster than ever recorded by youths in his age group. However, he was receiving good medical attention and if reasonable care, the risk was worth running.

"Being content with mediocrity would be much greater risk," said Mr. Kidd.

Another criticism levelled at the young athlete has been to intervene in his son's decision to turn down a scholarship at Harvard and to study at the University of Toronto where he now is in his second year.

Mr. Kidd's reply was that after bringing the boy up to make decisions, it seemed a silly time to start laying down the parental iron hand.

Marlboros Versus OHA

Who Turned Who Down?

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association's Metro Junior A group headed a sigh of relief Wednesday night—thanks to Toronto Marlboros.

The Marlboros have turned down an offer by the OHA provincial group to play an interlocking schedule with provincial teams for the balance of the season.

In a written statement read at Wednesday night's metro meeting, Marlboro said they wouldn't consider the offer unless the provincial group was willing to include the other Metro teams.

Marlboros are the class of the young Metro group and were members of the provincial group before the Metro circuit was formed two years ago.

The Metro league has not been drawing well at the gate. Metro officials wanted to see both groups play a full interlocking schedule but the provincial league turned it down.

The loss of Marlboros would have hit the Metro group hard and some went as far as to say it would mean the end of it.

OFFER AID

But Toronto Maple Leafs of the National League, who started the Metro circuit, said they will give financial assistance to any Metro team not affiliated with another NHL club again next season.

Also, a motion made by Marlboros was passed which will result in all Metro teams cutting their rosters to 16 players by Dec. 15.

Players cut will be posted and will be subject to a draft with the bottom team in the league first chance at their services.

"The panic is over," said Metro president Pete Topping. "I'm certain everyone in the league is satisfied."

Cliff Robertson Purchases Play He Starred in on TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Notes and comment on the Hollywood scene —

That's does an actor do after he has played the president of the United States? That's the issue facing Cliff Robertson, now finished with portraying young JFK in PT 109.

He may just hire himself for his own production of The Two Worlds of Charlie Gordon, which he performed on television. It's an imaginative yarn about a man of sub-standard intelligence whose I.Q. is raised by an operation. His knowledge opens a whole new world to him — and a romance — but then he slowly reverts to his previous mental status.

"I bought the property because I was tired of having the roles I originated on the stage or television go to other actors," he said. Among the recipients: Dean Martin, Career; Marlon Brando, The Fugitive Kind; Paul Newman, The Hustler; Jack Lemmon, Days of Wine and Roses —

REJECTS ART DEAL

Edward G. Robinson has been approached by two big concerns to collect a large amount of art for sale, as Vincent Price has done for Sears Roebuck. He's not for him, says Robinson. "But I approve of anything that introduces more people to real art . . ."

Dean Martin takes January off for golf, then continues his heavy movie schedule. He goes to Paramount for Every Wednesday Night, the story of a Beverly Hills poker game. "That should come easy to me," says the onetime card-dealer.

After that, Martin's company joins Frank Sinatra's for Robert Hood, a tale of gangsters in the 1930s.

Billy Wilder is currently Hollywood's most noted letter writer after his blast to Darryl Zanuck ("The sooner the bulldozers raze your studio the better it will be for the industry.")

Wilder explains that his words were not inspired by Zanuck's refusal to let Joseph Mankiewicz finish the editing of Cleopatra. The real reason was the Fox president's dismissal of producer - writer Charles Brackett despite a contract. Brackett and Wilder were partners in making such distinguished films as The Lost Weekend and Double Indemnity.

CONDITION UNCHANGED

LOS ANGELES (CP) — The condition of stricken Argentine heavyweight Alejandro Lavorante remained unchanged Wednesday. He has been unconscious since being knocked out by Johnny Riggins Sept. 21. Although the six-foot-four boxer has since remained in a coma, doctors say he is apparently able to hear some whispered instructions to move his arms and legs.

All-America Squad

Boasts Fabulous Backfield

NEW YORK (AP)—Fabulous Terry Baker, Jerry Stovall, George Mira and George Saimes, responsible for a combined total offence of more than 9,000 yards this season, comprise the backfield of the 1962 Associated Press all-America football team announced today.

Baker, an honor student in mechanical engineering at Oregon State, was named Heisman Trophy winner as the outstanding player of the year and was the top N.atfield of the 1962 League draft pick.

In all, six members of the all-America were first-round NFL selections, including the versatile Stovall from Louisiana State, ends Pat Richter of Wisconsin and Dave Robinson of Penn State, centre Lee Roy Jordan of Alabama and Purdue tackle Don Brumm.

Mira, the teammate of Mimsas Flis and fullback Saimes from Michigan State are joined by Jerry Stalcup, fierce guard and linebacker from Southern California's national champions, tackle Bob Lilly of Minnesota and guard Johnny Treadwell, heart of unbeaten Texas's defence.

The fast, hard-hitting aggregation was picked on recommendations of the eight regional boards composed of sports writers and broadcasters who took their votes from all games through Dec. 1.

Only one man in collegiate history ever cranked out more career total offence yardage than the late Baker — Sammy Baker, whose 2,276 output this fall gave him 4,980 for his three varsity seasons, quarterback of Drake, now with Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League, set the mark on 5,903 a dozen years ago.

WESTERN HOCKEY

CALGARY (CP) — Calgary Stampeders turned back Seattle Totems 6-2 Wednesday night in Western Hockey League game before 1,915 fans and moved to within two points of third-place Edmonton Flyers in the Northern Division. Seattle leads the Northern Division.

TV-Radio Column

Regardless of Their Worth Substitute Shows Rate Low

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Now that the television networks have cancelled six faltering programs in mid-season, it might be interesting to examine—philosophically, mind you—how they propose to plug the scheduling holes that result.

NBC, for instance, will fill the two-hour gap left by two back-to-back departing shows (It's a Man's World and Saints and Sinners) by running middle-aged movies. There's a rumor, too, that these Monday night excursions will be followed by a new Art Linkletter show.

CBS is reviving in longer form an established show, Twilight Zone to fill one gap, and pushing a game show Password, into a late-evening slot presently occupied by Loretta Young.

All it's shuffling some shows —two of them reruns — and handing a resulting open hour back to its local stations and affiliates to program.

Meanwhile, the press handouts of all the networks' packages are loaded with little nuggets about their bold, exciting, stimulating and off-beat programming plans—for next September. They must be a reason all these tantalizing goodies are being carefully preserved on television's top shelf, safely out of sight.

That reason is you, me and the party we're sticking with in the television season, which of the available programs, we patronize by, and sticking with those choices through thick and thin until our habits are disturbed by the summer reruns.

Studies of mid-season replacements over the past television seasons show conclusively that new, substitute programs — no matter how good their quality — have done less well in terms of total audience, than the failures that preceded them.

Stealers Win First Game In House Loop

The Stealers, led by John McKibbon's 30-point scoring spree, won their first game of the current YMCA Youth Basketball House League yesterday evening at the local "Y", with a 68-36 score over the second-place Globetrotters.

The Stealers led throughout the game, posting a 31-14 advantage over their opponents at the half-way point. The Stealers' Dave Anderson and Jim Hurst supplemented McKibbon's scoring with 14 points each. Top scorers for the losing Globetrotters were Rick Graham with 15 points and Wally Clare with nine counters.

In the second tilt of the evening the Satellites swamped the Celtics, 112-56, matching every point which the Irish garnered with exactly two of their own. Murray Swan led the Satellite scoring effort with 36 points closely followed by Ron Walsh with 33 points.

The Irish were led by Terry McCabe's 33-point string with the nearest scoring assistance coming from Bill Vaughan with eight points. The half-time score was 58-22 in favor of the Satellites.

The evening's results broke up the deadlock which the Stealers had on the basement spot and have them now tied for third place with the Celtics with three points each. The Globetrotters hold onto second place with five points whilst the Satellites remain solidly in first place with 10 points.

The ten top scorers in the league are: Murray Swan (Satellites)—44; Terry McCabe (Celtic)—132; Rick Graham (Globetrotters) — 107; Ron Walsh (Satellites) — 97; Wally Clare (Globetrotters) — 97; John McKibbon (Stealers)—77; Dave Anderson (Stealers)—72; Jack Jury (Globetrotters)—64; and George Pugh (Stealers) and Dave Hurst (Satellites) with 60 each.

Lineup:

First Game: Stealers — Anderson (14), Jim Hurst (14), Schwindt, Dyon (8), John McKibbon (20), McCormick, Ingram (2).

Globetrotters — Jury (6), Clare (9), Graham (15), Ralph McCabe (2), Byron McKibbon (4), Peterson.

Second Game: Satellites — Swan (33), Walsh (33), Tompler (10), Adams, Dave Hurst (11), Mallory (20).

Celtics—Terry McCabe (33), Vaughan (8), Baker, Reddick (3), Dryzdale (6), Coe, Linz (6).

MAKES FINAL TEST

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—An atlas missile thundering 5,000 miles on a successful flight Wednesday to draw the curtain on a test program which began 25 years ago with a total of 110 of the 153 flights were rated successful, 26 partially successful, 15 failures and two involved in secret military space launchings unreported.

STARS ENTER MEET

TORONTO (CP)—Signing of four veteran European track stars to appear in the Telegram - Maple Leaf Indoor Games Jan. 25 was announced Wednesday. They are miler Michel Jazy, sprinter Jocelyn Delecour and pole-vaulter Mauricio Houvion, all of France, and high-jumper Stig Pettersson of Sweden.

If You Feel 20 When 40 It's a Sound 10-to-1 Bet You'll End Behind 8-Ball

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Jumping to conclusions—(and how many do you agree with?):

Ulcers are one price of foolish dreams held too long. Anybody who retains at 40 the same ambitions he had at 20 probably hasn't taken the trouble to grow up.

People should change their ambitions periodically just as they do the oil in their motor cars—if they are seeking the best performance in life.

A man who never is satisfied with the weather usually has something else that is secretly bothering him more.

You always hear the juiciest scandal from those who begin by saying, "I don't like to gossip but—"

The good Lord gives pimples to adolescents to teach them humility; without pimples they'd be really insufferable.

CAVIAR OR DEATH

If caviar sold for a dime a shovelful, half the people who now say they adore it would rather die than be caught eating it in public.

It isn't commonsense that put a crimp in the popularity of night clubs. People just don't have the stamina to make the long trip home to the suburbs after a night out on the town.

Nothing surprises a blind beggar more than a patron who takes a pencil from him after dropping a coin in his cup.

The most poetic utterance I ever heard by a child was made by a small Welsh lad on a Sunday morning in London during wartime: "Oh, mother, I saw my own true love in a church today. And never spoke to her at all." It has haunted my mind for years.

Maxim for career women: Men rarely marry an office gal they borrow money from between paydays — but they sure do appreciate having her handy.

A husband who tells all his job woes to his wife probably doesn't have a friend he can trust where he works.

Anyone under 50 who won't eat corn on the cob in a restaurant is either a snob or suffers from "an inferiority complex; if he's over 50, he may just lack confidence in his false teeth.

My idea of a real nonconformist is a banker who wears a blue shirt during business hours—but I never met one who had the courage.

The height of wealth in this world is a small flea on a large dog.

The stingiest men are often those who carry their money in a billfold inside their coat; the most generous are those who carry it wadded up in their right hand pants pocket —where they can get at it faster.

Being good-humored in this life is something you have to learn as you go along. The proof: Nobody was ever born laughing.

Wooler

WOOLER — Mr. and Mrs. David McColl of Waterloo spent the weekend with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry McColl and attended the wedding of Jack Arthur at Havelock on Saturday.

Mrs. Helen McColl was a weekend guest of Mrs. Elgin McMaster.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilber McColl and daughters spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. Mrs. Murton at Harrowsmith.

Denis and Colleen Haggarty were weekend guests of their grandmother, Mrs. N. N. Haggarty.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gooding spent Sunday dinner hour with Mrs. Chapman in Trenton.

Mrs. Vera Teal attended the wedding of Jack Arthur at Havelock on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Lloyd Doriand, Mrs. Jennie Burrel, Mrs. McCallum, Mrs. S. L. Terril and Mrs. Gladys Herrington, spent Wednesday afternoon in Brighton and attended the Eastern Star bazaar.

Mr. and Mrs. Elgin McMaster with Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Putnam spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Don White at Peterborough.

Mrs. S. L. Terril spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Hess at Hastings.

Mrs. Harry Orvis of Peterborough was a guest of her sister, Mrs. N. N. Haggarty on Tuesday.

BEAR-PROOF LIDS

Bear-proof lids on garbage cans in the Yellowstone National Park in 1962 defied all efforts of grizzlits to remove them.

Expect 50 People Will Be Killed in Safe Driving Week

By JACK VAN DUSEN

OTTAWA (CP)—Fifty persons will be killed in traffic accidents across Canada during the week ending Dec. 8 despite a country-wide campaign to cut down the highway death toll.

From Dec. 1 to 7 is Safe Driving Week in Canada and the death toll prediction came from the week's sponsors, the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

The figure of 50 dead compares with an average of 53 for the week at this time of year. The average for the special safe-driving week, over a period of seven years, is 53 dead.

Traffic fatalities cannot be eliminated, says W. Arch Bryce, executive director of the council. But the council keeps trying. The council maintains that if every province and city can "induce its people to double their vigilance, this tragic death toll can be cut in half."

WIDE SUPPORT

The council has won support of mayors and police chiefs all across the country, and from Governor-General Vanier and Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in its safety week campaign.

Governor-General Vanier will send letters of congratulations to each of the mayors of Canada's 41 cities of 40,000 or more population that get through the week without a traffic fatality.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker urges "every motorist and pedestrian to drive and walk with the utmost care and common sense."

"We live in a dangerous age and everything is a calculated risk," said Mr. Bryce, Toronto-born traffic specialist who has been with the council since it was formed in 1955.

"If we can teach people to calculate the risks we'll reduce accidents."

Mr. Bryce says the first week in December is picked for safe driving week to bring home the importance of careful driving in the holiday season when too many Canadians mix drinking and driving.

Other causes of accidents, he says, are ignorance, lack of knowledge and skill and improper attitude.

These causes resulted in 3,500 Canadians losing their lives in 400,000 accidents last year. Up to October this year, the death toll was 2,640.

Crofton

CROFTON — Mrs. Grayden Calnan, of Upper Crofton, spent Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. E. Crook.

Mr. George Hutson was a guest of his son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hutson, at Bellerille, on Saturday.

Master Keith Munro spent the weekend with his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Aaher and girls at Otawa.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson of Hull's Island, spent Friday afternoon with Mrs. E. Crook.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Alyea and family, of Pleasant Bay, were Sunday guests of their mother, Mrs. Victor Bongard, and Miss Gertrude Walmsley.

Astrological Forecast

For December 7

By STANLEY OMARR

Aries (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19): Now you can almost "glide" to success, greater happiness. Relax; cycle is high and you easily prove your worth. Avoid headstrong responses. Go easy, and let adversaries wear themselves out.

Taurus (Apr. 20 to May 20): Finish one project before embarking upon a new one. Avoid scattering your forces. Key is sense of humor. The right word, a smile, can mean victory. Past experience brings gain. Maintain confidence.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21): Good lunar aspect corresponds today to meeting new friends. Many associates may talk about your achievements. Some are motivated by admiration. Stay out of quarrels. Maintain dignity.

Cancer (June 22 to July 21) Key person requests information. Give all you are able to give. Be thorough, original in approach. Enthusiasm on your part "pays off." Evening fine for attention to friends.

Leo. (July 22 to Aug. 21): Action is key word. Events occur quickly. Pace yourself. Avoid excess at social gathering. Remember that tomorrow is another day. Don't try to do everything at once.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Look into financial matters. Realize there are some things you do require. But there are others which are not essential. Check budget, future possibilities. Don't be dragged down by greed.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22): Aid may come from surprise sources. Check with marriage or business partner, or close associate. Be sure you do not overlook minor details. Tonight, enjoy reading or the theatre.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21): Don't push yourself too hard. Map out plans. Maintain steady pace. Especially applies to work and matters of health. Better for completing projects than for starting new ones.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21): Be independent in thought, action. No time to show off excess modesty. Best course is one of direct action. Leo individual may have knowledge which you seek. Ask questions.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get important work done early for successful day. Later, attention to home, real estate, personal appearance essential. Exchange ideas with someone you admire.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Visits, entertainment highlighted. Day is keynoted by activity, both mental and physical. Excellent for selling products in which you have faith. Gemini individual could provide good "lead."

Pisces (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Element of luck on your side. Take a chance on your own abilities. Refuse to be "bluffed." Some financial pressure indicated. But you gain if you stand up for beliefs, put forth extra effort.

If today is your birthday . . . you are attracted to the study of religion and you basically are a religious individual. Many feel you are unorthodox in your approach to almost all subjects. Stay this way! Be yourself.

* * *

General Tendencies: Air "bristies" with excitement. Cycle up for Aries) Taurus, Gemini. Special word to Scorpio. Avoid needless worry. You will receive reward for recent efforts.

Made No Pledge Not to Use MiGs Against Chinese

TEZPUR, India (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru said today his government made no agreement with Russia not to use Russian-made MiG jet fighters against the Communist Chinese in the border dispute.

Nehru said the Russians would supply four of the promised MiGs this month and four or five early next year which could be used as models for a projected MiG manufacturing plant in India.

"Four MiGs do not make too much difference to anybody," he told a press conference held during his visit to Indian troops on the northeast frontier.

Nehru also said he did not see any possibility of American troops being stationed in India, although military advisers might come.

"Advisers in various shape and form may come," he said. "That is a different matter. But we do not expect any ground troops from any other country."

Nehru said talks might be held with Pakistani officials later this month on differences between the two countries but no date had been decided on. Between the two countries but no date had been decided on.

Prince Edward Flying Club Holds Wings Presentation

Nearly 200 people attended the Prince Edward Flying Club's Annual Banquet and Wings Presentation at the Club Canara in Belleville last night. Wings were presented after the banquet to 15 newly qualified private pilots. In addition, 3 members of the club qualified for solo flights during the past year, four night flying endorsements were recognized, Silver Award Wings of the Canadian Flying Clubs' Association were presented to five members of the Prince Edward club, one instructor's rating was recognized, and four trophies were presented to club members for outstanding performance during the year.

EARN WINGS

Private pilots' wings were presented by club president Frank Foley, club manager Murray Clapp, and instructors Jack Bond and John Strickland to Gary Reid, Beaubien, Napanee; Joseph Condette, Trenton; Robert Fingland, Deseronto; Robert Emeritt, Bancroft; Milford Mowers, Napanee; Albert Panter, Trenton; Gary Reid, Picton; Hadley Richardson, Frankford; John Rowe, Demorestville; Peter Stransky, Marlford; John Werner, Madoc; Carol Verity, Belleville; Bruce Thompson, Belleville. William Switzer, Roblin; and John Taylor, Picton.

Robert Millar, of Napanee, also qualified as a private pilot during the past year, but was absent from the banquet.

Qualified as co-pilots (a non official stage of training, recognized only by the club, a co-pilot knows enough to fly an aircraft, but is not officially qualified to fly alone), were June Irwin of Batawa, and Ellen Narvet and Vicki Bowra of Belleville.

Night flying endorsements were earned during the past year by Remy Boyle of Trenton, Norman Lightfoot of Carrying Place, Elgin Vader of Bloomfield, and Dr. William Beattie, Robert Grant and George Shultz of Belleville.

Silver Award Wings were presented to John Clark of Mountain View, Elgin Vader of Bloomfield, and Frank Foley, Gunnar Narvet and Frank Verity of Belleville.

TROPHIES PRESENTED

H. J. McFarland, Mayor of Picton, presented the McFarland trophy, for excellence of navigation, to Gunnar Narvet of Belleville. The Evans trophy for the most proficient student, went to Mrs. Carol Verity of Belleville, presented by club manager Murray Clapp. The Elliot Shannon Memorial Trophy, for the club member who did the most to promote the club, was presented by Mrs. Eileen Shannon to Ken McClemmon of Welling ton. Club president Frank Foley presented the president's trophy for the club member flying the most hours during the year, to Gunnar Narvet of Belleville.

Alderman Jack Ellis of Belleville presented the official welcome of the city to the club before the presentations. The program was concluded by a dance.

Former Queen Ready to Make Great Sacrifice

AMSTERDAM (AP) — The wartime Dutch security chief has disclosed in a television interview that the late Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands had instructed him to kill her rather than let her fall into Nazi hands.

Recalling personal memories of the queen who died last week, Willem van T. Sant, now 70, said Monday night he would have "derogated" her memory if he had withheld from the government "the knowledge of this heroic action."

He said Wilhelmina asked him: "Will you solemnly declare that I never will fall alive into the hands of the Germans?

"At that moment Queen Wilhelmina declared herself prepared to make the biggest sacrifice—her life."

Car Insurance Rates in Ont. Up 8 Per Cent

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Car insurance rates across Canada will increase an average of four per cent next year —with motorists in some areas paying up to 15 per cent more for their policy and others only one per cent.

Prince Edward Island is the only province where rates were lowered by the Canadian Underwriters' Association. Motorists there will pay eight per cent less next year.

There is no change in Quebec. The association, announcing the increases, said new rates vary widely across the country according to the accident frequency and cost within a given area.

Rates are generally higher in cities than in rural areas.

However, in some remote inaccessible areas collision insurance which pays for the damage to the driver's own car often costs more.

Areas such as Kitimat, B.C., Flin Flon, Man., and Blind River, Ont., tend to attract unmarried workers who travel long distances in new cars. Accidents therefore invariably result in severe collision damage.

The highest increase for the new year is in Ontario where policies will cost eight per cent more on average.

The association said the number of accidents per hundred cars in the province was up about five per cent in 1962 while the average cost of accidents rose three per cent.

The average cost of accidents is now $347, an increase of $60 since 1957.

Poll Omitted In Compilation

In the compilation of Monday's municipal vote which appeared yesterday in The Ontario Intelligencer, No. 11 subdivision was left out.

Following was the vote at this poll: A. E. McKaig, 105; William E. Jarvah, 66.

Aldermen: Allin, 78; Bailey, 74; Bracco, 81; Fingland, 111; Murray, 88; Tice, 20; Whalen, 64; and Wishart, 86.

Hospitalization question: Yes 67; No, 97.

Focus on Health

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Topics this week: A lifesaver for poisoned babies, chemicals to improve memory and wine as a diet aid.

BABY SAVER

In Binghamton, N.Y., last March 14 babies accidentally received formula containing salt instead of sugar. They began dying from excess salt in their bloodstreams.

Three were saved by a technique which exchanged salt for sugar, and this method has since been used successfully in adults with similar salt poisoning, reports Dr. John E. Kiley of Albany Medical Centre.

A solution of sugar and water is injected into the abdominal cavity, and left there for two to three hours. By a process not unlike osmosis, the sugar filters slowly into the bloodstream, and salt filters slowly into fluid in the abdomen. The salty water then is removed, and the process repeated as necessary until the bloodstream becomes normal in salt content.

MEMORY BOOSTER

Tiny injections of the powerful poison, strychnine, enable rats to learn tasks more quickly, and with fewer errors.

Not only that, they remember better how to do the task if they get strychnine injections one minute after initial trials, says Dr. James L. McGaugh, associate professor of psychology at the University of Oregon.

Strychnine and other drugs stimulate the central nervous system, although the exact mechanism is not known. Far too poisonous for human use, strychnine in these experiments might show the way to development of similar but less dangerous drugs to help control mental deficiency, or improve learning and memory.

REDUCING AID

Wine taken with or right after dinner helps overweight persons stay on a reducing diet, a physician finds.

It probably acts as a tranquilizer, and reduces the emotional tension of sticking to a diet, says Dr. Giorgio Lolli of the International Centre of Psychodiet e t i c s, New York City.

Men and women taking a few ounces of wine with meals or dessert cut down their daily food intake and showed small but consistent weight losses, he says. Wine at bedtime also reduced nightly refrigerator raids. Glasses of wine taken 30 minutes before dinner, however, did not have any detectable effect.

Small Blizzard Hits Southwest Ontario Areas

2 Highways Blocked In Chatham District

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Snow was still falling this morning in extreme southwestern Ontario, where a small blizzard Thursday interrupted communications and blocked several highways.

The weather office in Toronto said today the snowfall is being caused by an intense storm centred in the Niagara Peninsula. The storm is expected to lose its force gradually, with snowflurries on occasional until forecast for most parts of southern Ontario.

The weather office said the storm, which developed in the Carolinas Wednesday, has been responsible for heavy snowfalls in many of the Great Lakes states.

In the Chatham area Thursday night blinding snow driven by winds up to 50 miles an hour cut visibility to practically nil and closed Highways 2 and 3 and the westbound lane of Highway 401.

Police said at last 50 passenger vehicles were stranded in up to seven feet of snow and three transport had been blown off Highway 2. Local residents described the storm as the worst in five years. Police warned residents to keep off the roads.

MORE THAN 100

In rain-soaked Toronto, police reported more than 100 accidents as drivers failed to make sufficient allowance for slippery surfaces. Police said injuries were suffered in 40 per cent of the accidents.

Street lights in the downtown area went out for 17 minutes when strong winds knocked a television aerial on to overhead wires.

The weather bureau said temperatures over most of the province will remain in the mid 30s today, dropping to the 20-degree mark in the North.

It said the snow and lower temperatures are likely to remain for several days.

Windsor reeled under heavy falls Wednesday night and 9½ inches of snow covered the city Thursday. The snow was whipped into drifts by winds gusting to 40 miles an hour.

Wet snow fell in London and rural areas between Windsor and London were without electricity for a short time when ice built up on Hydro lines.

CRITICIZES SPAIN

GENEVA (Reuters)—The International Commission of Jurists today criticized totalitarianism in Spain and expressed the hope the Spanish government will give "manifest recognition" to the dignity and rights of the individual. The commission, made up of 27 of the world's top legal experts, claims support from 40,000 lawyers, judges and law teachers in 90 countries.

Soviet Paper Asks Negotiations To Remove U.S. Base Network

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda called today for negotiations to liquidate U.S. military bases around the Soviet Union.

The article in Pravda, by the newspaper's authoritative diplomatic observer Yuri Zhukov, was the first important Soviet statement on U.S. overseas bases since President Kennedy rejected Premier Khrushchev's demand for a swap of Soviet rocket bases in Cuba for U.S. bases in Turkey.

Zhukov repeated standard Soviet charges that the bases are provocations against Russia, that they have outlived their usefulness and that they only serve to prop up unpopular regimes.

"Then let's discuss bases, gentlemen," he wrote. "This is the most suitable time for this if we really do not want that which almost happened as a result of the events around Cuba."

THE WEATHER.

Synopsis: Most of Ontario will remain under the influence of a decaying storm for the next day or so with a gradual drop in temperature. Precipitation may persist in some areas but will be mainly light, occurring as snow or as rain changing to snow.

AGRICULTURAL DEPT. UNDER FIRE IN HOUSE

Too Many Boards, Committees Claim

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of agriculture was criticized Thursday by two Liberal members of the legislature.

Ross Whicher (L—Bruce) said he didn't think there was any other government department with "so many advisory committees and boards."

The problem with the operation of the boards, he said, is that there are "too many people on many boards who are . . . retired farmers and Tories at the same time."

F. R. Oliver (L—Grey South) said in second reading of a bill on agricultural rehabilitation and development that the government is "going too far" in delegating authority to persons outside the House.

The bill would set up a directorate to carry out projects for land improvement and conservation.

SEES DUPLICATION

Mr. Oliver said the bill was an example of "multiplicity of legislation within a minimum of action." He said it parallels the Conservation Authorities Act.

Agriculture Minister Stewart said the authority set up by the proposed act would sig greatly better use of rural lands in the province.

NDP Leader Donald C. MacDonald said if the proposed act overlapped with the Conservation Act, the latter act should be dropped.

Mr. Whicher, Liberal financial critic, said the government is hindering economic development.

"There is not enough incentive when the government takes most of the money," he said.

He said tax incentives, reduced hydro-electric rates and cheaper natural gas rates on the provincially-owned Ontario Northland, Railway would encourage new specific industry.

SHOULD SERVE LIQUOR

Lloyd Letherby (PC—Simcoe East) said curling, Canadian Legion halls and curling and social clubs in "dry" areas of the province should be allowed to serve liquor without meals.

Members of such clubs "are not hamburgers or boozehounds," he said. They should be allowed to have a drink with their wives "sit down and slop up a meal."

The House will adjourn early Monday to allow members to attend a reception in honor of the 14th anniversary of the signing of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, Premier Robarts said Thursday.

Human Rights Day will be celebrated with a reception in the legislature dining room and other North Atlantic alliance countries for assisting their NATO partner.

Fear Many More Now In Hospital Doomed To Die

London Like an Oasis Ringed by Belt of Fog

LONDON (CP) — The worst killer smog in 10 years loosened its lethal four-day grip on London today, leaving 106 known dead and more than 1,000 in hospitals.

Recalling previous years, especially 1952 when 4,000 persons died, authorities feared many of the hospital cases would die. Coroners had attributed 30 cases of sudden death in the London area Thursday to smog. Most of the victims died from aggravated heart or chest conditions.

Dense patches persisted in parts of the British capital, but in most places the sun finally seeped wanly through a thin blue haze in mid-morning.

"London is like an oasis, completely ringed by a slowly clearing fog belt," said a spokesman for the British Automobile Association.

Visibility rose to 150 yards at London Airport, and weather men said it should increase to an operational 1,500 yards later.

Not one civil aircraft had been able to get in or out of the airport for 48 hours.

170 SHIPS STALLED

Still fogbound in the Thames Estuary, downriver from London, were more than 170 ships, many carrying Christmas foodstuffs badly needed in the nation's shops.

Heavy fog was still reported in the eastern counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, with visibility on the roads verging only 23 yards. Ice on highways in many areas also made driving hazardous.

The weather forecast was hazy sunshine prevailing in most parts of the British Isles until midnight. The prediction was that frost and fog should return during the night only in patches in the southeastern part of the country.

Despite the weight of the fog, Sir Winston Churchill went out to dine.

The 88-year-old war leader spent 2½ hours at the Savoy Hotel with friends of the Other Club, an exclusive dining group he helped found 51 years ago. He came out in the murk with a smile and a V sign.

Sinking Ship Runs Aground

HALIFAX (CP) — RCAF Search and Rescue said today that the sinking Prince Edward Island fishing dragger Gloria May had run aground and her three crew members had reached shore safely.

Search and Rescue said the 56-foot vessel was aground about 1,000 feet offshore on the bottom of P.E.I.

The vessel ran into trouble during a fierce wind and rain storm that lashed the area Thursday night with gusts up to 100 miles an hour.

Says Acheson Makes Same Error As Did Napoleon, Kaiser and Hitler

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan today Dean Acheson, in criticizing Britain's role in history, has "fallen into an error which has been made by quite a lot of people in the course of the last 400 years."

Acheson, secretary of state under President Truman, told a West Point conference "British attempt to play a separate role based on a 'special relationship' with the U.S. instead of a role based on being the head of a Commonwealth which has no political structure or unity or strength and enjoys a fragile and precarious economic relationship—that role is already played out."

Macmillan wrote to Lord Chandos, president of the Institute of Directors:

"I have only seen the various reports of the speech. If those are accurate, insofar as he appeared to denigrate the contribution and the will of British and the British people, Mr. Acheson has fallen into an error which has been made by quite a lot of people in the course of the last 400 years, including Philip II of Spain, Louis XIV, Napoleon, the Kaiser and Hitler.

"I do not know whether Mr. Acheson would accept the logical sequence of his own argument. I am sure it is fully recognized by the United States administration and by the American people."

The British press appeared with a flood of angry headlines, arguments and editorials aroused by Acheson's comments.

Adenauer Tells Party Meet He Will Resign Next Fall

BONN (CP-AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer will retire from office next fall, the parliamentary floor leader of Adenauer's Christian Democratic party announced today.

Heinrich von Brentano, former West German foreign minister, said the venerable chancellor, who will be 87 in January, made the announcement at a meeting of party executives Thursday night.

Brentano also told a meeting of the party's members in Parliament that the party executives had rejected a coalition government with the opposition Socialists. A new coalition with the conservative Free Democrats who quit the government weeks ago, was practically assured.

Adenauer's declaration about his retirement did not particularly surprise West German politicians. He has been under pressure for some time from his own party to relinquish the government reins to a younger man. He has been chancellor for 13 years, since the West German Republic was inaugurated in 1949.

Road Deaths in Safe Driving Week 11 Above Last Year

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada hit its lowest one-day year. Quebec had two traffic fatality total so far in safe driving week Thursday with five road deaths across the country.

However, with one more day last year to go in the week the total of 30 is one more than the seven-day total for 1961.

Only New Brunswick remained the only province without a fatality, five better than its total for the year last year. Ontario, which recorded one fatality Thursday, had a six-day score of 22 road deaths, eight more than last Friday.

fatalities and its total of 17 was five more than last year.

The other big increase over last year was in British Columbia, one death Thursday bringing its total to nine, compared with four last year.

Nova Scotia had Thursday's other fatality.

At the six-day point last year, 81 road deaths had been recorded across Canada, 17 less

RESCUE TEAMS INCH TOWARD 36 TRAPPED MINERS

Work Is Slowed By Deadly Gases

CARMICHAELS, Pa. (AP) — Rescue crews today crept within less than 4,000 feet of 36 men trapped deep underground by a gigantic mine blast.

There has been no contact with them since the explosion at 1:15 p.m. Friday in the Robena No. 3 mine of U.S. Steel Corp.

Lewis Evans, Pennsylvania secretary of mines, described the situation as "desperate," but held out hope the miners may be alive.

"We hope the men built barricades to stop the flow of gas," he said.

Forty-four others working in another section of the pit walked out unhurt. Some returned to search for their colleagues who are sealed 650 feet underground.

Slowed by deadly gas and tons of rubble that left shorings hanging like burnt matches, the rescue crews proceeded cautiously in the tunnel—its concrete walls scarred by the blast.

"Those men are looking into the barrel of a shotgun," said one official grimly. "With those fires smoldering down there, it could cause another explosion."

KEEP VICE.

Relatives kept a vigil in a corrugated building adjacent to the mine shaft. Ministers tried to comfort the grieving families.

The blast was the second in the 16-year-history of the Robena mine.

Evans, who is directing the operation, said it was caused by a combination of gas and coal dust. He described it as one of the most violent.

The Robena mine, one of the world's largest soft coal operations, is located about 50 miles southwest of Pittsburgh. It produces one of U.S. Steel's (Canada) (Pa.) works where it is processed into coke for blast furnaces.

The shattering blast occurred at 1:15 p.m. Thursday afternoon at the Frosty Mine shaft. It drops straight down 525 feet

DEFENCE COSTS EXPECTED TO BE SLASHED

Ninety Million Said to Be Goal

OTTAWA (CP) — Defence expenditures are expected to be slashed in the 1963-64 fiscal year, probably by as much as $90,000,000, informants say.

This would mean that cash outlays for defence in the fiscal year starting April 1, 1963, would be the smallest since the defence buildup began 12 years ago.

The reduction—and there appears no doubt here that there will be a substantial reduction from the $1,500,000,000 payable mainly by a decrease to $90,000,000 from some $117,000,000 expenditures made with the CF-104 low-level jet bomber program, now nearing completion.

A $90,000,000 cut would leave a 1963-64 defence budget of around $1,500,000,000 compared

Parliament At a Glance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

THURSDAY, Dec. 6, 1962

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced Parliament will recess from Dec. 20 to Jan. 21 for the Christmas and New Year holidays.

He also said the government hopes a conference with the provinces on adoption of a national flag will be called early in the new year.

T. C. Douglas, NDP leader, criticized the proposed Atlantic Development Board as a "feeble bow" towards depressed areas of the Atlantic region.

Legislation establishing the board was given second reading—approval in principle—without a vote.

Revenue Minister Hugh John Flemming did not reply when Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena) asked what effect Brig. Michael Wardell of Fredericton will be appointed chairman of the board.

Asians, Africans Back Red Charge

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The Soviet Union is receiving support from Asian and African states in charge that Portugal is using its NATO arms to fight rebels in the big African territory of Angola.

Soviet delegate A. K. Gen Thursday accused the Quand that the 17th United Nations General Assembly condemn the United States and other North Atlantic alliance countries for assisting their NATO partner.

Scot Once in Plaid Was Clad, Englishman Whacked It in Two

LONDON (AP) — A well-known Scottish author said with some daring today that the kilt—the traditional dress of the Highlanders—is invented by an Englishman.

This brought an indignant protest from Sir Fitzroy MacLeod, 84, the MacLeod of MacLeod, 28th chieftain of the ancient clan MacLeod.

"The English have tried to take everything from us," said Dame Flora, who was reached at Dunvegan Castle on the Isle of Sky. "This is the last straw."

In his new book, The History of the Highland Dress, John Telfer Dunbar said the man who invented the kilt was Englishman Thomas Rawlinson who lived in the 18th century.

Rawlinson found iron ore near Lochaber and employed a squad of Highlanders to work it.

Dunbar said Rawlinson, "abridged their dress to make it handy and convenient for them."

Before the time of Rawlinson, he said, the Scottish national dress was a single garment, a plaid which the Scot wrapped around himself.

The Englishman whacked it in two and made a separate skirt.

"Never, never, never," said Dame Flora. "The people would never have accepted a thing like this from an Englishman."

The Second Time Around

Russia May Announce Unilateral Ban

GENEVA (Reuters) — Russia may soon announce it is ending all nuclear tests Jan. 1 and will not resume testing unless the West does, Western sources at the 17-nation disarmament conference said today.

The sources made this forecast after Russian delegate Semyon Tsarapkin was quoted as telling the conference "we believe that by Jan. 1 there should be a de facto end to all tests."

An American spokesman said Tsarapkin told the conference Russia was ready to sign a test ban unconditionally. The Soviet Union is ready for this—we await your action."

The source said this indicated Russia was preparing a unilateral announcement that it would cease testing Jan. 1.

The Soviet Union offered to give international inspectors full access to unmanned, automatic seismographs watching for violations of a nuclear test ban. Tsarapkin told the conference the seismographs — known as black boxes—could be installed in the three main earthquake-prone areas of the Soviet Union.

The international inspectors would have a guaranteed right of access to the boxes and could move the sealed recordings without hindrance.

The black box proposal was first put forward at the Pugwash scientific conference at Cambridge, England, in September. The Western powers have since put forward the idea only as a supplement to an international control system based on compulsory on-site inspection of suspicious earth tremors.

Tsarapkin reiterated that on-site inspection is unacceptable to the Soviet Union in any form.

Tsarapkin spoke after Brazil made a new bid to overcome the deadlock between East-West leaders over a test-ban with a series of sweeping proposals.

Many Attend Hillcrest H-S 'Open House'

The Hillcrest Home and School Association held "Open House" at the school last Tuesday evening in place of the regular meeting at which there was no business dealt with or program for the evening.

The classrooms and halls were all appropriately decorated keeping with the Yuletide theme. Mrs. Betty Way, the president mingled with the parents and warmly welcomed everyone. The room mothers were present in each of the classes and introduced the parents to the respective teachers where the child's progress and difficulties could be discussed.

A sale of homebaking was held in the auditorium, convened by Mrs. Jean Sweet and Mrs. M. Hughes which had an abundant supply of pies and other goodies and were completely sold out. A cake donated by Mary Cowan was won by Mrs. Marg. Orr and also a Christmas centrepiece was won by Mrs. Dorothy Hodgins. There was also a "Touch 'N Take table convened by Mrs. Ida Howard.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Margaret Dryden, Mrs. Thelma Dafoe and Mrs. Jean McPeak.

C of C Executive Passes Two Proposals at Meet

The executive board of the Chamber of Commerce passed two proposals placed before it at its monthly meeting in the Queen's Hotel yesterday afternoon. One, submitted by the Belleville Downtown Business Men's Association, called for a study of demand on the part of district business men, through their representative agencies and elected representatives, to establish a uniform set of regulations governing hours of business.

The directors passed a motion to the effect that they approved the desire for federal or provincial legislation governing business hours in concurrence with the wishes of the majority and the best interests of the community. A suggestion was made that this proposal be formulated into a resolution to be presented at the next annual Ontario Chamber of Commerce meeting.

The second brief was a consideration of and study of the proposed official plan for land use in Belleville by the Chamber's city planning committee. This brief criticized various aspects of the plan organized by the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board as "not having the best interests of this municipality in mind."

The brief, in the main criticized the official plan for not taking a positive attitude towards various important aspects of the plan which would be of great interest to firms or industries which would be examining it in view of determining the value of a possible location in the city.

Inadequate description of the city's facilities and the lack of any attempt to emphasize the various features which this community could offer above others of the same size were criticized in detail throughout the brief with the ultimate suggestion that the official plan be extensively rewritten with emphasis on positive thinking and a more imaginative review of the economic complex of the city.

WANT EXPANSION FACTOR

It was also suggested that the downtown business area be allowed an expansion factor rather than be restricted to a specific area and that the plan develop the areas along the Moira River from Orchard Point Road as open areas rather than the section of property west of Front Street and south of Bridge Street. The latter suggestion, it was felt, would not only be more economical but would provide an area which was more basically beautiful.

The brief was accepted and its proposals and suggestions are to be forwarded to the city planning board and council.

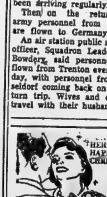
A model sign of the type which is to be erected at all major entrances to the city was shown. This sign provides a general map of the city with various important locations shown and is intended for the use of the increasing tourist.

Some discussion took place regarding the possibility of an eastern entrance to the city from Highway 401. A review of previous action on the matter revealed that when Mr. Fred Cass was Minister of Highways it was stated that there would be an eastern entrance made available. Under the administration of Mr. William Goodfellow such intent by the Department of Highways has ceased.

It was suggested that if an entrance could be justified at the Wallbridge Road, which eventually funnels its traffic to the Upper Bridge rather than to Highway 2 especially an eastern entrance should be made available.

The directors approved a proposal to choose a route, describe it on a map and then request action by the Provincial members from the ridings of East Hastings and West Hastings.

It was reported that the Highway of Hastings Tourist Association and the Land O' Lakes Tourist Association had combined forces to form the Hastings and Land O' Lakes Region and that the two areas would be combining their advertising and promotional resources in the future.



Army Personnel Being Rotated From Air Station

Trenton Air Station has been clearing Canadian troops in recent days for Canadian Army personnel being rotated from Germany.

Starting in late November following a brief holdup because of the Cuban situation, flights from Germany to Trenton have been arriving regularly.

Those on the return trip army personnel from Canada are flown to Germany.

An air station public relations officer, Squadron Leader Russ Bowdery, said personnel were flown from Trenton every other day, with personnel from Dusseldorf coming back on the return trip. Wives and children travel with their husbands.

Santa Parade To Be Telecast

For the younger tots and some of the senior citizens who were not fortunate enough to see the Santa Claus parade in Belleville last Saturday, they will be able to see the parade telecast over CKWS-TV, channel 11, Kingston, at 6.30 p.m. this Saturday.

Each year the parade is photographed by the Kingston TV station, and shown over channel 11 at a later date. After the showing of the parade over the TV station, the film is returned to the fire department.

TO CENSOR FOLIES

NEW YORK (AP)—A slightly censored edition of the Folies Bergere will be one of the attractions of the $10,000,000 French exhibit at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair. A spokesman for the fair's French pavilion said Thursday the Folies would be housed in an egg-shaped building with a 1,500 seating capacity. The 50 dancing girls, he said, would not be as "obvious" in New York as in the Paris show.

Will Seek to Avoid Dividing Properties by Annexation

TRENTON — Trenton councillors met in brief session last night to discuss, among other things, a proposal that the boundaries of the area in Murray Township sur-marked for annexation to the town be extended somewhat. Main object of the change in boundary lines would be to ensure that there was no division of any one man's property. That is to say, where part of ans property was in Murray and part in the town, administration by either faction would be difficult. The owner too, would have certain problems.

A meeting between town and township councils will be set up to discuss the change and the Ontario Municipal Board will be notified of the feelings of both councils on the issue.

Best thing to come out of last night's meeting, from the viewpoint of council, was the fact that the councillors got paid. Cheques for one thousand dollars, (minus tax on two-thirds of the total) were handed to Mayor James Mark and Donald. Councillors were reminded by clerk-comptroller O. W. Larry that a provincial ruling required that members of municipal council should be elected when they miss more sittings. Council, however, took a dim view of this state of affairs. Councillor C. V. Graham said that he had come in for certain amount of criticism because he took the holidays in the winter and missed the odd council meeting. He said that he had only missed one meeting in 1960 and none in 1967. No action was taken.

NAME JANITOR

Council voted to hire Mr. John Blight to act as janitor at the market square. His salary will be the same as the former janitor's plus the weekly sum given to the woman who had been cleaning the police station.

Chief J. J. Taylor is reported to be in favor of keeping the cleaning woman on and paying her out of the police budget. However, it still claims that the money comes out of the town in the long run, and thinks the hiring of help should come under its jurisdiction.

Mayor MacDonald and Councillor Ed Todd wondered what would happen if the chief didn't approve of the way the janitor cleaned the station.

"You mean we get his extra salary back?" asked Councillor Todd.

The rest of council members were willing to let matters stand where they are at the moment, with Mr. Blight expected to replace the cleaning woman at the first of the year when he starts his duties.

Boxing Day, December 26th, will be a legal holiday from the town's official viewpoint.

The dog catcher's report was read by Mr. Larry. In November five dogs were returned to their owners; one was sold, seven were destroyed, and there remain three in the pound.

In November, the Trenton fire department answered 27 calls. There were no serious fires.

ANNEXATION COSTS

Council voted to pay the Toronto firm of Mason, Foulds, Arrugo, Walter, Weir and Boeckh one thousand dollars, for work on annexation proceedings. Since council has already paid the firm $1,000, councillors voted the hope that the $3,000 represented the entire bill.

Dam Engineer

Town engineer Eric Aldersey reported to council last night on the City Engineers' Association fall meeting he attended in Kitchener Nov. 29 and 30.

The subject of the workshop was "Better Administration in the Public Works' Department," and speakers were split between the department and councils. Also stressed was good public relations through co-operation with the press.

Will Start Work On Sidney St. Early Next Year

TRENTON—Town Engineer Eric Aldersey says that a start could be made on the construction and widening of Sidney Street will be made no later than next spring. Plans were with the ministry of and the road widened to 40 feet. The C.P.R. subway will be rebuilt.

When 7000 feet of sidewalk (along one side of the street) can be laid, is anybody's guess. At $2 to $2.50 a foot the bill would come to around, $16,000, as much as the town spends for all sidewalk work in any one year.

The road will be graded and gravelled next year, but again, hard surfacing depends on the town's finances.

Mr. Aldersey admits that Sidney Street is in a "horrible shape" right now, but holds out the promise of better days to come.

Home Decoration Contest Is Planned

TRENTON — The Trenton Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a Christmas home decoration contest.

Between now and Dec. 21, Chamber judges will make the rounds of Trenton, Batawa and Middlesex Park and hope to come up with a first and second winner in east Trenton, west Trenton, and the two other communities.

A grand prize for the district will also be offered.

All are cash prizes.

ZERO COLLECTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Zero Mostel, starring in the Broadway musical, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum has been awarded $130,000 in damages for injuries suffered when struck by a bus. The award was handed down Thursday in state supreme court by a jury of eight men and four women.

No Jungle Law In Kingston Says Magistrate

KINGSTON (CP) — "There's not going to be jungle law in Kingston," said Deputy Magistrate F. D. Baker Thursday, sentencing four youths to one month jail terms on charges arising from disturbances here this week.

Among the evidence before the court were such weapons as a long-handled axe and several knives. Police said they were found at the scene of the disturbances last Sunday and Monday nights.

"This is only a sample of what has been going on in Kingston," said attorney John E. Sampson.

"The streets are being turned into a battleground for armed thugs, and citizens are looking to this court for assurance it will be safe to walk the streets at night, particularly during the Christmas season."

Sent to jail for carrying weapons, including knives and a metal dog chain, were Richard J. Flesch and Joseph R. Drouin, both of Kingston, and Joseph Lanzevin of nearby Vimy Barracks.

Merle D. Richardson of the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers was jailed for creating a disturbance Monday night.

Four Are Dead In Blind River Truck-Car Crash

SPRAGGE, Ont. (CP)—Four men were killed and three others injured when a car and a transport loaded with steel collided during a snowstorm on Highway 17 here early today.

Police said the heavy truck rolled over onto the car after the collision. They said the car was crushed and wreckage strewn over a wide area.

Names of the victims were withheld by police.

The six occupants of the car are residents of nearby Blind River and Algoma Mills. One of the dead men is believed to be the father of nine children.

The driver of the transport, believed to be from Toronto's suburban Scarborough is in hospital with undetermined injuries. The two injured occupants of the car are in hospital at Blind River in serious condition.

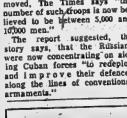
Police said the men were returning from the night shift at Denison Mines in the Elliot Lake area.

The transport was bound for Toronto from Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Spragge is about 85 miles west of Sudbury.

Russians Build Underground Forts in Cuba

NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet troops in Cuba were reported to be engaged in the construction of underground fortifications and additional airfields throughout the island, the New York Times says.



A Washington dispatch by Tad Szulc says "a detailed report on these activies, dated Nov. 29, was received from Havana through anti-Castro intelligence channels," adding:

"The report stressed that while some Soviet military camps had been closed, all indications were that many Soviet units and advisers remained in Cuba."

Noting that President Kennedy said he had been informed by Moscow that Soviet combat troops in Cuba also would be removed, The Times says "the number of such troops is now believed to be between 5,000 and 17000 men."

The report suggested, the story says, that the Russians were now concentrating on aiding Cuban forces "to redeploy and improve their defences along the lines of conventional armaments."

Recreation Highlights

B. JARVAH,
Assistant Director

Recreation Director or Director of Recreation is the name given to the person who administers a program of recreation, usually on a community basis. He works with groups and individuals in providing and developing opportunities for all the citizens of the community to satisfy their recreational needs, social, physical, creative, and intellectual through appropriate leisure time activities.

The duties of the director of recreation vary widely from community to community. In some cases he may be called upon to conduct recreation programs, but usually he will be more involved in an administrative and executive capacity. Nevertheless, he works with people, helping them to grow through satisfactory experiences provided in recreation programs and, at committee and council level helping them to work together toward the goals that have been set.

He must create and maintain an effective administrative organization for a year-round program. As director he has been called "organizer," "administrator," "arranger-setter," "developer," "trainer of leaders," and "filler of gaps." His functions include the duties of administration, management, public relations, teaching, planning, and legislation.

The director of recreation is often called upon to act as consultant at board or council meetings and he must be capable of interpreting the programs and the needs of the people to these representatives on the public as well as the whole community. This job of interpretation requires skill in speaking and in writing. He should also maintain good relations with the press, radio, press, with staff and volunteer personnel.

In a small community the recreation director's typical working day may begin when he meets with a group interested in promoting a community sports day to be held in the near future. The remainder of the morning may be taken up with routine work in the office.

The afternoon may be spent working with the executive of the drama club on the details of a coming presentation. In the evening there may be a "keep-fit" class for women or a Home and School Association meeting at which the director is expected to speak.

In a larger community the director will usually spend more time on administrative matters and be less involved at the program level. His typical day may begin with office routine and he may have an early-morning staff meeting about a recommendation to be made to the municipal recreation committee. Later in the morning there may be a consultation with the municipal treasurer concerning an expenditure for the building of a swimming pool. Occasionally there will be a business luncheon to attend. After lunch there may be a committee meeting concerned with a problem such as joint-park planning. Late in the afternoon there still may be routine matters such as correspondence or the issuance of permits for the use of municipal facilities. The evening may be spent at home or in attendance at a meeting of the board of education, the planning board, or the recreation committee.

Also in the larger community the director is often often a co-ordinator-adviser, removed from the actual program, which is conducted by district members of the full-time recreation staff (assistant directors), and part-time leaders (instructors). The size of the recreation staff is entirely dependent upon the size of the municipality and the budget under which the department operates.

Owing to technological advances and a shorter work week, man's creative satisfactions are now obtained during leisure time. The role of the recreation director is ensuring that opportunities exist for this creative satisfaction is most significant. The profession is "expanding one, challenging the imagination, knowledge and skill of the recreation director.

Excerpts in the foregoing article were taken from the "Monograph on Recreation Director", published in November 1961.

Parliamentary Notebook

By JAMES NELSON

OTTAWA (CP)When there's a light burning late in certain windows on Parliament Hill, there may be news developing.

That used to be a pretty good rule for parliamentary reporters to observe years ago, but it is becoming increasingly difficult to count on it these days.

When the big spending era was held sway before 1948 as prime minister, no conscientious reporter would go home as long as there was a light on in the East Block cabinet room or the prime minister's office.

Cabinet meetings used to start in mid-afternoon and frequently run into the evening hours. There were suggestions that Mr. King used to bring his colleagues to the point of decision simply by starving them out. As a bachelor, Mr. King cared little for normal working hours.

START EARLY

But with Prime Minister Diefenbaker being an early-to-rise, early - to - bed individual, cabinet meetings now start early in the day and he likely is at his East Block desk after sundown. While Parliament is in session, he uses any one of three offices, and lights burning in the window don't have much significance.

It used to be, too, that an observant reporter could keep track of cabinet meetings held in the main Parliament building during the session by watching the windows of a certain third - floor committee room which the Diefenbaker cabinet uses.

Full cabinet meetings and meetings of cabinet committees are held almost daily during the session at odd hours whether or not the Commons also is sitting at the time.

Now, however, the glimpse of gathering a lot of attention and comment among members of Parliament, senators and reporters alike are those of the office of Senator Wallace McCutcheon, minister without portfolio recently charged with wide responsibility in government economies and planning.

Senator McCutcheon has a spacious office on the street-level floor in the southeast corner of the main Parliament building. Windows on two sides of his office set eye-level with anyone leaving the building and heading for the park ing area east and north of the building.

There was a lot of more than casual interest in whom the influential senator was interviewing in his office from time to time. He must, however, have tumbled to the fact there was little privacy in his office. This week he began lowering the blinds and drawing the drapes.

Firemen Will Sweep Harbor For Missing Man

Belleville firemen were to sweep the city's harbor once more this afternoon for 64-year-old Alex Weddell, ship's watchman now missing three weeks.

Mr. Weddell was reported missing November 17, when he failed to return to his home at 46 Victoria Avenue, from the "Bay of Quinte" coal boat, moored at Belleville docks.

Extensive dragging of the harbor area, sweeps of the Bay of Quinte by aircraft and helicopter have failed to reveal any trace of the missing man.

Merchants Will Assist Parents With Shopping

Next Wednesday the members of the Downtown Business Men's Association will keep their stores open until 5:30 p.m.

During the period from Tuesday, December 18th, to Saturday, December 22nd inclusive, downtown merchants will be observing a 9:00 p.m. closing hour.

During the same period free activities for school-age children are being sponsored at the YMCA from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. whilst parents go shopping. Presentation of a sales slip from a downtown merchant at the conclusion of the shopping trip will redeem a child.

Stores will be closed on Boxing Day, December 26th, and on January 2nd, as well as Christmas and New Year's Day.

Winter Gives Us the Works

Winter poked tentative fingers into the Quinte district this morning — as grey skies rolled down the first sustained snowfall of the season.

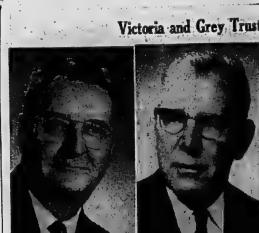
Highways throughout the area were wet and slippery and driving conditions were hazardous in spots for the careless motorist.

However, up to press time, police detachments throughout the area reported no serious mishaps.

The snow made its initial appearance during the early morning hours, mixing with rain. It quit briefly, then began to fall in earnest as shoppers workers began their daily trek to jobs.

Shortly before noon the fall-out had ceased and skies began to clear.

Investigator Given 3 Years For Perjury



TORONTO (CP)—Private investigator Jack Antuve, 54, four times unsuccessful Toronto aldermanic candidate, was sentenced Thursday to three years in penitentiary for perjury in a divorce case.

Antuve was charged in a case in which wealthy businessman Max Fromovitz sought a divorce from his wife. In affidavits at the hearing, Antuve said he had seen and caught a man leaving the apartment of Mrs. Fromovitz.

Mrs. Fromovitz denied having any visitors at her apartment and said the first she heard of the proceedings was when she read in a newspaper that a divorce had been granted. She did not contest the suit.

Leonard Adelhart, 34, charged with perjury along with Antuve, was acquitted.

Jury's Verdict Awaited On Ameliasburg Shooting

PICTON (Special) — The trial of an Ameliasburg farmer charged with shooting a Toronto man hunting on his farm, was expected to end here sometime today.

The trial of 46-year-old Charles Harvey Brown went into its fourth day this morning before Judge W. S. Lane.

The 12-man jury trying Brown's case today were to hear addresses from both prosecution and defence counsel and the judge's summing of three days of evidence.

Brown is charged with shooting Italian-Canadian hunter Benjamino U. Santon September 3rd.

A neighbor of Brown, Earl Rathbun, said he had given Santon and three companions permission to hunt on his farm. To his knowledge, he told the court, none of the hunters had ever done "any harm to any farmer."

A brother-in-law of Santon Ferranti Ginna, said the four men had started from the Rathbun farm to hunt rabbits and later returned to the Rathbun property where they had their lunch.

HANDED RIFLE

OPP Constable Pat McKenna told the court that when he arrived at the Brown farm the day of the alleged incident, he found Santon lying on the grass in front of Brown's home. The accused, said the officer, handed a 22-calibre rifle he had used.

A statement taken by OPP Corporal Herb Hatch from Brown, was admitted as evidence in the trial.

The statement quoted Brown as saying, "I aimed for his leg."

Dr. W. W. Weaver, Trenton physician, told of examining the injured hunter at Trenton Memorial Hospital. X-rays showed he had a fractured bone in his leg just above the knee.

Among the witnesses called was the reeve of Ameliasburg township, Melvin Culver.

Reeve Culver told the court about a year ago he saw some hunters shoot at a sow.

The sow was apparently hit in a back leg, the reeve said. It limped at first but when it reached the top of a knoll it was "running like there was nothing the matter with her."

ACCUSED TESTIFIES

He said he did not report it to police since he didn't think it was important.

Mr. Brown himself was called to the stand and said the hunters were in the area and his sons were standing about ten feet from each other for as long as three minutes when, said Mr. Brown, "Santon looked very mad to me and I fired a shot into his leg".

After the alleged shooting episode, the court was told, Mrs. Brown offered first aid with water and bandages.

Under questioning, Mr. Brown admitted shooting at a coule of hounds last year and that he had fired his 22 rifle at a hunter also last year.

Kingston Unsafe for Soldiers

The Canadian Army has adopted the "buddy system" for young soldiers visiting Kingston. One soldier must always be accompanied by another. This is to protect them from assault by young children.

A deplorable situation, one may say, and so it is. It would be erroneous, though, to regard it as unique.

Hard feelings between men in uniform and those ont of it have been commonplace throughout history, especially in times of peace.

Over the years, more often than not, the soldiers have been to blame. Too frequently they have been arrogant, trouble-seeking and rowdy.

What distinguishes today's situation in Kingston from many others in the past is the suspicion, which seems to be confirmed by newspaper reports, that this time it is not the soldiers but their civilian foes who are primarily at fault, who are acting in an aggressive and bullying manner.

In other ages, the officer commanding would just have passed the word that he wanted some of his lounge veterans to march into town and give the citizenry a lesson.

Today, though, soldiers have to tread more softly and we are glad of it. We cannot escape the conviction, though, that a few squads of burly MPs with muscles, and the brains not to use them except under extreme provocation, might do a whole lot of good, particularly, to young punks who think a soldier is fair game whenever he is out-numbered.

At the same time, there ought to be general public recognition of the fact there are reasonable grounds for friction between soldiers and the youth of a town and such grounds are not easily erased. The soldier with an assist from his uniform, frequently cuts quite a swath with the damsels and it would be a sorry lot of civilian boys which did not contain a few willing to fling a fist or two in protest. These fights, though, should be kept on a strictly personal basis. It is the institutionalizing of the strife into a battle between town and gown, and the conducting of it with weapons like bludgeons, tire irons and bicycle chains, which warrants condemnation.

Mr. K Has His Answer

Walter Ulbricht, East German communist leader, has called for "co-existence" between the two Germanies. He has delivered a speech notable for absence of any threats against Berlin or any reference to a separate peace treaty between Russia and East Germany.

This is not surprising. Ulbricht, as usual, is just playing Mortimer Snerd to Khrushchev's Bergen. Mr. K, too, has suddenly ceased to mention Berlin or a treaty with East Germany.

The explanation, of course, is simple. Most of Khrushchev's earlier outbursts were designed primarily to discover what attitude the U.S. would take, whether it really meant what it said about Berlin. Khrushchev has now received his answer, without provoking any new German crisis. The U.S. reaction to the presence of Soviet missiles in Cuba, showed the Russians just how far the U.S. was prepared to go in an emergency. Khrushchev backed down there—and the world should be thankful for it. He valued peace, and probably his own life, ahead of face. There is no need for him to run a second test, when he knows that it would end in a similar retreat.

Paradoxically enough, the world is a much safer place today than it was before Mr. K sent missiles to Cuba. Khrushchev is not likely to provoke the U.S. into war by miscalculation.

It is to be hoped, of course, that Kennedy recognizes that Mr. K also has boundary lines which cannot be crossed with safety. For instance it would almost certainly be a mistake to presume that, because Khrushchev is not pushing for a settlement of the Berlin question on-his terms, we should therefore push for a solution on our terms. The temper of the U.S. people would make it much more difficult for Kennedy to retreat than it was for Khrushchev and Khrushchev can no more accept a united Germany on Adenauer's terms than Kennedy could accept a Red missile base in Cuba.

It is a fact that communism believes in everything that liberalism believes in, although not every liberal knowingly or willingly is a communist.—South African Minister of Justice Vorster.

Old Railway Is Restored

RBC London Letter

Railway fans, saddened by the vanishing steam locomotive in this country and closure of branch lines for business efficiency, have found a friend in a 97-year-old, narrow-gauge line in Wales which carried nearly 80,000 passengers last year.

Run by a group of railway enthusiasts, completely independent of the nationalized British Railways system, the seven miles of 27-inch-gauge track is used by six little locomotives and about a dozen pieces of rolling stock.

The line's original function when it was founded in 1865 as the Talyllyn Railway, was to cart slate from mountain quarries near the Welsh village of Abergynolwyn to Towyn, on Cardigan Bay. It also carried passengers between the hamlets in the beautiful mountain valley it traversed.

After the First World War the Welsh slate industry declined; then buses took away passengers, except for summer tourists. Sir Henry Haydn Jones, 86, chairman and manager, died in 1950. His executors would certainly have sold the narrow-gauge railway for scrap. The original wrought-iron rail track was finished, so, it seemed were the two locomotives, the wooden-seated four - wheeled passenger coaches, open wagons and brake van (caboose).

• • •

That's when the enthusiasts stepped in, obtained a stay of execution to keep the scrap merchants away, and formed themselves into the Talyllyn Railway Preservation Society. Full of sympathy, Sir Henry's executors agreed to let the new society run the railway for a trial period.

Unable to close the line for restorative work because they needed all the traffic revenue ever ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them; for this is the law and the prophets."

How Christmas Could Be More Meaningful

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Christmas could become the kind of holiday envisioned by all the loudspeakers blasting out "Silent Night" paid a little more respect to silence.

If television and radio commercials didn't try to link up the purchase of their products with the "spirit of Christmas" this is a generally hypocritical fashion;

If the exchange of gifts were not so commercialized and routine friendship rather than exhibitions of competitive generosity;

If shopping expeditions were conducted with some grace and courtesy, rather than display ing the single-minded ferocity of the Green Bay Packers backfield in motion;

If climbing families did not vie against each other in the elaborateness of their Christmas cards, and instead contributed money to some worthy expenditure to a worthy charity;

If the liquor industry refrained from displaying pictures of jolly old Santa Claus disposing himself on the polished surface;

If the Christmas-through-the-New-Year period were devoted to amenities and friendliness, and rudeness of the rest of the year, rather than resembling an inebriated lunatic asylum run by the inmates;

If less hypocrisy and more taste, care and conservatism were exercised in the purchase of gifts, and the "after Christmas would not find the "return" counters of shops in a state of utter chaos and collapse;

If children were taught that Christmas is a season for giving, not just for grabbing, so that the self-centredness that is encouraged for the holidays does not have to be curbed in January — as children are incapable of understanding why an attitude that is fostered in one week is frowned upon in the next;

If the hearty friendliness could be laid on a little less heavily, so that there would be more left to spread over the rest of the year, when it is so badly needed;

If more people would ponder upon the real reason why He whose birthday we are celebrating was called the "Prince of Peace," and what this title should mean in terms of our own conduct;

And, most of all, if we forgot all the world perversions encrusting Jesus' birthday and celebrated by remembering: "Therefore all things whatsoever they could get, the enthusiasts buckled down to the job like the little children's story engine with his morale-boosting: "I think I can." During the 1961 summer season they managed to run two trains a day each way for five days a week. This was done with the ancient No. 3 Dolgoch and the original coaches.

Soon after, luckily, British railways dismantled the only neighboring narrow-gauge line and sold the Talyllyn its two locomotives. Since then, a diesel maintenance work power-unit and another steam locomotive have been added. The original locomotive No. 1, new in 1866, has been superbly restored to active work. From the dismantled line, also came more coaches which hard-working members of the society have faithfully restored. Other historic coaches have come from the Glyn Valley Tramway.

A Narrow Gauge Railway Museum has been built at the Towyn end of the line for the ever-growing crowds of summer visitors. In 11 years there have caused traffic to increase to five times what it was.

Toughest job, so far, is repairing and rebuilding the single-track line. Gangs of volunteer navvies have not only helped the small permanent staff, usually using their holiday or week-end time, but renewed the entire line's worn rails with good-quality steel. Standard British Railway sleepers (ties) succeeded rotted over-grown timbers. The narrow gauge needs a ballast bed and a regular sleeper do the work of two by sawing them exactly in half. Entirely new passing loops and extra sidings were also laid to keep up with increasing traffic.

Cold Winter Is Predicted

Cleveland Plain Dealer

Gather 'round, good friends, for the release date has arrived and the 71st yearly edition of the Old Farmer's Almanac is prepared. To tell you what the weather will be like during the rest of this year, and through 1963 — and in amazing how often the OFA hits it on the nose.

Sometimes it's just pure luck, as years ago when one of the boys was busy helping to set up the almanac asked the editor what to put down under July 13. "Oh, anything, anything," the precocious lad was told by the words, "Rain, hail and snow." And darned if it didn't!

A lot of people buy the almanac — last year close to one million, and we though it was originally strictly a farmer's guidebook, it later contained little gems of wisdom, poetry, chestnuts, puzzles, recipes, home remedies, et cetera, et cetera.

But let's get back to the weather. This winter, says the OFA, "will be quite a bit colder than those of recent years." It will average on the whole 32.06 degrees, or 1.39 degrees colder than average, and snowfall also be heavier . . . some 30.85 inches more than last winter, which was unusually mild, but not unlike a hard March and April, and at least one good storm in each of the other months.

Now that we have the weather satellites floating around in space and sending back word of storms in the making and storms full grown, those who believe in the purely scientific approach to weather prognostications and discount aching corns, may sneer at the OFA even more than they did before.

But ageless Old Abe Weatherwise, who has been famous for predicting for the OFA since 1792, correctly predicted 1960's hurricanes Donna and Ethel and 'tis said the New England tornado of '53, and countless other occasions when the weather really acted up.

One will note that April has been included as a winter month. Says Abe: "What's the use of calling it a spring month when it never smells like it?"

All who live in this geographical area will recognize the honesty of such a man.

The cheese manufacturing branch of the dairy industry, since its inception in 1867, has been the business that has established the prices of all dairy products in Canada, since it influences the milk. Barry MacIntosh, veteran cheese maker of Perth, told the Rotary Club here, according to the speaker, the cheese manufacturing business originated at approximately the same time as Confederation. The first cheese factory question has been a matter of controversy, both Oxford and Leeds counties claiming the honor. He recalled the huge cheese made in this district several years ago which was sent to the Chicago World's Fair and later toured England. The cheese weighed seven tons, 7,000 pounds of milk to make; the product of 10,000 cows for three days, and was the most special machinery installed on a special railway boxcar.

On only ten days throughout November was there no precipitation, either snow or rain, it was revealed this morning by officials of the Belleville Water Purification Plant, who stated that total precipitation for the month was 3.25 inches; 2.20 inches of rain 1.05 inches of snow. High temperature for the month was 62.5 degrees as compared to a high of 62.5 degrees for the same month one year ago.

For Hydro Commissioner, Geo. A. Reid was elected over H. E. Fralick by a majority of 544; Reid obtained 2,147 votes and Fralick obtained 1,603 votes. Nine of the 1932 council were re-elected and the new aldermen are: Jos. Frank Foley, John B. Harker, William R. McCreary and Benjamin Safe. Mr. Stewart, Registrar, conducted the poll for the second time. Mayor Tice received a majority over Alderman White on the election for school trustees; all were re-elected by acclamation; they are Charles C. Stewart, Reginald Moncrief, Victor H. Hagerty, J. Rheumatoid Arthritis Is a Severe Disease

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have been an arthritic and a wheelchair invalid for 15 years but am only 36. Two doctors say I had rheumatoid arthritis but some 10 others say it is osteoarthritis. The V.A. says it is osteo. Why is it we hear that they have found help for rheumatoid but not osteo? — V.J.W.

By and large, rheumatoid arthritis is by far the worse, but not nearly as prevalent. Here arthritis is an acute, severe, inflammatory disease.

Osteoarthritis, on the other hand, is a condition rather than an active disease. It is the term we use to describe joints that have become worn or damaged. Or, more likely, both. It is the result of wear and tear.

It is true that we can do something for rhumatoid arthritis. We can, by proper care, limit somewhat the amount of damage it does while it is in its active phase. Candidly and sadly I admit that we do not know very much, but it is not for want of effort and study. It is a savage disease, difficult to control and to understand.

(Remember that rheumatoid arthritis can strike at any age. It is not a disease of old people. Osteoarthritis, on the other hand, for the most part develops late in life.)

When an acute attack of rheumatoid arthritis has run its course, and the inflammatory period has ended, what is the result? It is deformity in the joints that have been attacked. Deformities of a different nature occur with osteoarthritis. The two conditions can exist as a mixed form of the joint disease in the same patient.

Hence we do all we can to reduce the inordinate pain from rheumatoid arthritis, for there isn't much we can do after the damage has occurred.

Not much — but something. Aspirin, or its equivalent, remains as effective as anything we know, both in combatting inflammation and ranging pain.

Heat helps the afflicted joints.

Movement, even at the expense of pain, keeps the joints from gradually stiffening. And, for most people, once the pain of the first movements in the morning is past, it lessens.

So many cases, too, the discomfort wears off with time. Trying to keep your mind occupied during the day sound like this advice, and I guess it is, but it works just the same.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please give me the names of the drugs you have been using for treating epileptic seizures? — J.M.D.

I don't know what good it would do, because all of them are prescription drugs — dilantin, milantin, tridione, phenobarbital, mesantoin, mebaral, neptal, hamalin, celontin, and quite a few others under various chemical, generic or trade names.

The anticonvulsants, sedatives, tranquilizers, many types of all of these and in various combinations, are used. It's important to find the combination which best suits each case. That's part of the "science and art" of medicine.

In this column I discuss what things are available for various ills, what people can do for themselves, and what things require skilled care. Choosing the correct drugs for an epilepsy patient is sometimes easy, but sometimes very intricate. Let your doctor do the selecting. He has about years learning how.

Cannonball Set Limits

Montreal Star

Canada has every practical justification for ordering Russian fishing vessels out of the Bay of Fundy. By issuing decree back to the 18th century the bay has been treated as lying inside the borders of the country. Also it is the Russians themselves who make the broadest claims of any nation on earth about offshore sovereignty — where their own coast is concerned. But where we stand technically in the matter, under international law is another question.

That law, as it relates to territorial waters, still lives in the days of the muzzle-loading cannon. The effective range of a cannonball was three miles hence no more than three miles of sea could be defended by shore batteries; hence national sovereignty was limited to a line three miles offshore and following the sinuosities of the coastline hence, theoretically any water, and the three-mile limit in the muzzle-loader days. Even like Fundy — was open to all.

An attempt to set away from this muzzle-loader concept was made at the World Conference on the Law of the Sea at Geneva which broke up in April, 1960, after failing by a single vote to adopt a new rule governing territorial waters, and fishing rights. The proposal recommended limits by Canada and the United States, was "six plus six" — six miles of territorial sea, plus six contiguous miles of exclusive fishing rights.

It is frustrating for a country with rich offshore waters to have to sit and watch foreign ers hauling in heavily protected nets in plain sight. As a result, many countries have gone ahead unilaterally and proclaimed wider limits than the historic three miles. Iceland tried it a few years ago and became embroiled in the famous codfish war with the British, who sent naval vessels to enforce their "rights."

Norway, with a coastline very similar to Canada's Pacific one, has proclaimed a 12-mile limit, and so far has succeeded in making it stick. Further, the Norwegians have measured their 12 miles not from the sinuosities of the shore but from straight base lines joining the headlands.

The present incident of the Russian trawlers suggests that it is high time we followed Norway's example.

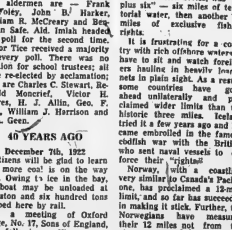
THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Planned obsolescence is a principle of modern industry even by the buying public. With the utmost engineering skill, manufacturers now produce goods that are deliberately designed to wear out in a predictable period of time and pace. The piety of the consumer is that modern society must accept the fact that in order to keep us all employed, we must all keep buying. And if things don't wear out, what in the world would we buy?

One of my architect friends was showing me the blueprints of a large new building that has risen in the midst of, my native city. To me it was an extraordinary hunk. It looked me almost exactly like all the other banks that have been erected hereabouts in the past few years or so.



"I suppose," I admitted, "that it is a form of accommodation, like a tartan, or an orange crate. It is a people-crate, sort of."

"You forget," he retorted, "that a modern establishment enters into architecture and construction, as into all other modern arts and sciences. These buildings are not supposed to last. Why should we impose our tastes on the next generation by building for eternity, like the Greeks or the cathedrals?"

Toronto Stocks

Industrials dropped almost three points on index, while golds, base metals and western oils all showed fractional declines.

In the main list, banks set the tone with Royal, Toronto-Dominion and Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce all dropping in a ½ to one-point range.

Algoma Steel fell ¾; Aluminium ¼ and Bell Telephone ¼, while Steel Company of Canada, Consolidated Paper, Abitibi and CPR all dipped in a ⅛ to ¼ range.

Gainers included Oshawa Wholesale A, ahead ¼; Shawinigan and Massey-Ferguson, both up ⅛ and Distillers Seagrams and Gatineau Power, both ahead ⅛.

On index, industrials dropped 2.72 to 367.68, golds 28 to 85.45, base metals .35 to 187.37 and western oils .35 to 117.42. The 11 a.m. volume of 555,000 shares compared with 818,000 at the same time Thursday.

Among base metals, International Nickel dropped ¼ and Noranda and Rio Algom ¼ each. Gunnar Mining rallied 15 cents to $9.35.

In a quiet western oils section, Pacific Petroleum climbed 1¼. Bailey Selburn A slipped 15 cents to $9.65.

Thursday's weakness finally won the market, though the veteran was in doubt until the final hour.

In the main list, Moore Corporation, Bank of Montreal and Interprovincial Pipe Line all declined ¼. Aluminium, Shawinigan and Toronto - Dominion Bank all fell in a ¼ to ⅛ range.

BC Power, on a heavy volume of 17,000 shares, rose ¼ to 18¾, while Stedman Brothers slipped ¼ to 11¾ on earlier touching 11¾—a 1962 peak.

Ford of Canada showed the best gain, climbing 7¼ points to 170.

International Nickel weakened base metals with a drop of 1¼. Falconbridge fell ¼ and Noranda ⅛, while Gunnar Mining rose 15 cents to $9.20.

Session of County Council Is Extended to Four Days

The intended three-day December meeting of Hastings County council stretched into a four day session today as a backlog of last minute business was not completed. Thursday night and a morning session was called for Friday.

Thursday's session heard the reading of committee reports, including the lengthy year-end report of the county roads and bridges committee.

Also heard yesterday was an outline of the Ontario Municipal Employees Retirement System, which was explained by Alvin Fields, representing the Ontario municipal retirement board of Employees Retirement System, which was explained by Alvin Fields, representing the Ontario actuarial firm of Wyatt and Company.

Mr. Fields explained the benefits of the pension scheme which has been set up expressly for municipal employees. The scheme provides for pension at the normal retirement age of 65 on the basis of two per cent of the average salary over the years of service.

The scheme also provides for continuation of the pension for widows of employees, based on one half of the pension received by the pensioner at time of death.

Contributions would be five and one half percent by the employee which would be matched by the municipality.

Hastings county already has a pension scheme for its employees under a private insurance firm and the question of whether this scheme could be continued was raised.

Mr. Fields replied that it could be continued although any new municipal pension scheme commenced would have to be one sponsored by the province.

TOURIST REGIONS UNITE

Reeve H. A. Thompson of Maynooth read the publicity committee report which referred to the recent amalgamation of the Land O' Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourist Association into one region to take advantage of provincial government grants. The new tourist region will be known as the Hastings and Land O' Lakes Tourist Region.

There will be two brochures published next year but in 1964 the region will publish but one brochure.

Reeve Vern McMurray emphasized that neither of the two tourist associations has lost its identity in the new regional set-up and each will continue to operate separately.

The region will operate two information booths at easoline stations on highway 401 Highway, one west of Trenton and the other east of Napanee.

ROADS REPORT

The roads and bridges report reviewed work done during the year on the county roads system.

It was noted that new railway crossing signal lights would be required, the first one being built on Fox Boro when this stretch of the road is re-located next year. Cost of this light will be $18,000 with a yearly maintenance of $680.

Thursday morning Harry Coulter, as county weed inspector, said 416 miles of county roads had been sprayed at a cost of $6.83 per mile. Spraying was done for both weeds and brush, the last under $3,000 being spent for this purpose.

Many farmers are adopting the policy of spraying their entire grain crops with approximately 12,000 acres being so treated during the year.

Ragweed, wild carrot and chicory were said to be the most troublesome weed in the county.

FAVOR LOTTERIES

Hastings county councillors would support the introduction of lotteries for the support of hospitals.

This was brought out following the presentation of a resolution from Prescott and Russell counties asking for legalization of lotteries for hospitals and charitable institutions.

But Hastings councillors limited approval to hospital sweeps, feeling that operators of the lotteries would be lost in the rush if charitable institutions were allowed to participate.

A letter will go to the eastern county stating Hastings would support the resolution if only hospitals were benefited.

The county will forward a resolution to the Association of Ontario Rural Municipalities asking that organization's support for presentation of a request to the federal government that farm laborers be allowed to participate in the unemployment insurance program.

Also a letter will go forward to the Ontario government stating in detail the reason for Hastings county not appointing a safety inspector as requested.

Councillors feel that such an appointment would be impractical. An alternative to the county inspector system was suggested in that if some unusual construction building program was to be undertaken in the county, the department of labor be responsible for sending in an inspector to assist the inspector of local municipalities.

FARM REPORT

County agricultural representative Sidney McDonald of Stirling, reviewed the activities of the department in 1962 and in noting that there was a gradual upgrading of livestock quality, while purebred cattle were also improving.

He referred to the success of the county plowing match held this year at Madoc, the first such match to be held in many years.

And referring to 4-H Club and Junior Farmers work he said the county could well be proud of its 4-H clubbers. Each year the commencement of the 4-H Club work, a county member had been chosen on the provincial award.

Agricultural committee chairman Reeve Tracey Adams reported on the trip of county representatives to the International Plowing Match at Owen Sound and suggested that in future years predominantly agricultural men be appointed to the committee.

SUGGEST RENTAL

And under special orders it was recommended that the county and the city enter into an agreement with the Hastings county home for the rental of a building on the home property to be used for the detention of juveniles. The city and county would share alike in the cost of alterations and equipment, estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000. The matter was referred to ways and means.

Also on Thursday council appointed Reeves Jack N. Brown and Harleigh Hamilton as temporary county members on the Belleville General Hospital Board of Governors.

Under the joint ownership program for the hospital, the county membership on the board will be increased from two to four members and the city's membership reduced from nine to six.

S. S. Bayanna Strikes Sunken Pier in Bay

DESERONTO — On Saturday evening at five o'clock during the dense fog the S.S. Bayanna, carrying a load of coal to Belleville hit a sunken pier about 60 feet from the Boating Club dock in the Bay. The Bayanna was rounding the island and due to the fact that the light buoy had been taken up was off course and collided with the pier.

The steel ship ripped open the bottom and damaged two bulkheads so that the ship was unable to be removed. The Salvage Prince from Kingston and a barge were called to the scene but until Monday had been unable to remove any of the cargo from the Bayanna.

It is estimated that the ship will remain impaled on the pier for a few days yet before salvage can be attempted.

This is the first marine accident in this part of the bay in the memory of many of the older residents, and on Sunday afternoon the Bay presented a lively appearance with the tug and a barge off the town, the Bayanna lying close to the Boat Club dock, another freighter at the Dravo dock for scrapping and the Dravo tender making her run to Point Anne.

CUT PREMIUMS

LONDON (AP)—British ship insurance brokers Saturday cut premiums for cargo to and from Cuban ports today because of the calming of the Cuban crisis. The brokers raised premiums Nov. 6for war, strike, riot and civil commotion risks from the equivalent of 11 cents to 36 cent for each $300 of insurance on cargoes to and from Cuba. The premiums were reduced today to the old rate.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP)—The federal department of agriculture reported Thursday that trading at the Ontario public stockyards this week was active for top grades of slaughter steers which sold at-strong to higher prices.

Lower grades were uneven, while cow prices were mostly unchanged.

Veal calf, hog and lamb prices all moved on an upward trend.

Cattle receipts were about 800 head less than last week and some 500 less than the same week in 1961. Western cattle receipts, nearly 100 more than last week at 383 cattle, included slaughter steers, heifers, cows and bulls. Western stock calf receipts were only 96 head as compared with the 395 received last week. There were no shipments to Eastern Canadian slaughtering but one mixed load of bulls and fat heavy heifers was purchased for export to the United States.

Slaughter cattle: Choice steers 28.50-29; a few fancy loads 29-29.50; goods 26-28; mediums 23-26; commons 16-22; good heifers 26-28; choice 28.50-29; mediums 19-23.50; commons 15-19; choice fed yearlings 28-29; sales to 31; goods 25-27.50; good cows 16-18.50; sales to 17; mediums 15-15.50; commons 14-14.50; canners and cutters 10-14; good heavy bologna bulls 19-19.50; few tops to 20; common and medium light bulls 15-18.50.

Replacement cattle: Good light stockers 26-27.50; good stock calves 28-30; odd sales to 31; commons and mediums 21-25.

Calves: Choice vealers 35-37; odd tops to 38.50; goods 31-34; mediums 28-30; commons 21-25; boners 15-21.

Hogs: Grade A 30.65-31.70; heavy sows 22.85-23.15; light sows grained as 22 premium; stags 17.50 on a dressed weight basis.

Sheep and lambs: Good handyweight lambs 25-25.50 per hundredweight; bucks discounted 81 per hundredweight; good heavy lambs discounted at $2 per hundredweight; common and medium yearlings 22-23; good sheep 8-12; yearlings 12-16; commons 3-7.

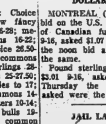
PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were reported unchanged today.

The egg market opened steady to firm with offerings barely adequate for a fair demand.

Country dealers are quoted by the federal department of agriculture as Canada grade eggs, delivered Toronto, in first cases: A large 41; A medium 33; A small 29; B and C grades no market.

Butter prices: Canada first grade: Ontario creamery 51-52; non-tenderable 51¾, in light trading: western 51½ (nominal).



DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP)—The noon bid on the U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was $1.07 9-16, asked $1.07 19-32. Thursday the noon bid and asked were the same.

David Clarke Will Be 107 On Sunday

PICTON — One of Canada's oldest residents is David Clarke of Picton. On Sunday, December 9th, he will mark his 107th birthday.

Though a patient in Prince Edward County Memorial Hospital for the past four years, Mr. Clarke is bright and cheerful and is the "life" of the room which he occupies with other patients.

Mr. Clarke is a lifelong resident, of Prince Edward County. He farmed in earlier years and for some fifty years lived just east of Picton near the White Chapel. He is a member of Prince Edward Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 18.

Mr. Clarke has three children, Percy Clarke in Oshawa; Mrs. Stanley Thompson in British Columbia and Mrs. C. J. Longwell, Picton.

Mr. Clarke already has one birthday card on his bedside table as a reminder of another notable anniversary and is expected to be remembered by many friends over the week-end.

Contract Given To Test, Drill Deseronto Well

It was announced Thursday that the International Water Supply firm of London, Ont., has been awarded a contract in the amount of $12,000 for test drilling and well construction in Deseronto. Mr. Clarke Rollins, M.P.P. for Hastings East, made the announcement.

CTV Expansion Is Blocked Because of the 'Freeze' on Future Projects of CBC

- - Caldwell

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Spencer Caldwell, president of CTV Television Network Limited, said Thursday the privately-owned network is impatient to get on with its expansion plans but does not want to be blocked because of a freeze on future projects of the publicly-owned CBC.

He said in an interview that CTV accepts the granting of "second" TV stations to the CBC as long as there is a prospect of the CBC actually being able to build them within a reasonable time.

He said he opposes granting licences to the CBC without any time limit for taking action on them. He also opposed withholding decisions on applications for "second" stations.

Mr. Caldwell suggested that if the government doesn't give the CBC money to expand, the whole country could still go ahead.

"Isn't this the time for private enterprise to take up the slack?" he asked. "If we were the government, I would encourage private enterprise."

BUDGET SLICED

Under the current federal government austerity program, $5,000,000 was sliced off the 1962-63 CBC operational and capital spending budget. As a result, the CBC has had to curtail or temporarily postpone certain projects.

Mr. Caldwell, taking note of the austerity program, said he still does not oppose the CBC's expansion plans as long as they are tied to a definite time limit.

"We'll give our support to the CBC applications, as long as it doesn't mean just sitting on these projects indefinitely."

Mr. Caldwell outlined in general terms some of his own network's expansion plans.

These are among topics for discussion in an informal meeting Thursday with Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors.

"One of the good reasons we get good support from the BBG is that we always inform them all along of what we're doing," he said.

WANTS TO EXPAND

Mr. Caldwell said CTV wants to expand the number of stations in its networks and fill in the blanks. Five or six more basic stations were required and the CTV was anxious to have coverage in Saskatoon-southwestern Ontario (London-Windsor) and Sudbury areas.

CTV's basic stations now are in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver.

He indicated that more re-broadcasting outlets could be established, mentioning the addition of high-powered CTV relay transmitters during the last year at Penticton, B.C., Cornwall, Ont., and Regina.

In cities where the CBC opened its own second station, the CTV would prefer that the existing station then switch to the CTV network. Such was the case in Saskatoon where the privately-owned CFQC-TV is on the CBC channel.

Mr. Caldwell also said the CTV wants more hours of operations. This would make the network more attractive to advertisers, and thus enable better programs and a wider audience.

Five Soldiers Are Discharged For Hazings

KINGSTON (CP) — Five soldier apprentices have been discharged from service and nine others disciplined for hazing recruits at Vimy barracks here, army authorities disclose.

The dismissals followed an investigation started two weeks ago after recruits complained of beatings and said they were awakened by senior apprentices using "waking machines" that administered electric shocks.

An army spokesman said other soldiers have received warnings and that further hazing will bring firm disciplinary action.

Policeman's Wife Receives Call About Hubby

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A district-attorney's stenographer disclosed Thursday she had received a telephone threat to the life of her police-sergeant husband, who had testified at a hearing on police corruption.

The reported threat to Sgt. Thomas J. Sardino came in the wake of an appeal by the Democratic county chairman of Onondaga County that Republican Governor Rockefeller order the state police to take temporary control of the Syracuse police department.

Word of the threat came at a press conference called by the state investigation commission. The bipartisan commission is conducting a public hearing into alleged links between the police department and gambling, prostitution and narcotics. The hearing resumes Tuesday.

Mrs. Nina Sardino told reporters an anonymous male caller had said her husband would be "murdered."

"Don't take this lightly; this is a warning," she quoted the caller as saying.

Mrs. Sardino said she received the call Thursday after noon while at work in the district-attorney's office.

Wednesday, Sardino told the commission that six envelopes, each containing the name of a detective-sergeant and a $20 bill, had been found at the scene of a gambling raid about three years ago.

Commission Chairman Jacob Grumet said he was pretty sure since that city and state police had been notified of the threat. Syracuse Police Chief Harold F. Kelly said police protection would be afforded Sardino and his wife.

Earlier Thursday, Democratic Chairman George Van Lengen urged the temporary state-police take-over "to weed out the obvious corruption" in the Syracuse police department.

He hopes to secure an apartment shortly so he can move his family to his new home.

Student Charges Police Used Brutal Tactics

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa University student Alfredo Levesque, 24, charged Thursday that police used "brutal and provocative tactics" Wednesday in handling a student demonstration here.

Police were called in when students massed on the national war memorial to burn CNR President Donald Gordon in effigy.

The University of Ottawa Student Federation said Thursday that use of the pavement in front of the centretown memorial for the demonstration "was in no way intended to show any disrespect."

Levesque, Richard LeLay, 20, also of Ottawa and Omer Monfils, 21, of neighboring Hull, Que., appeared in court Thursday on charges of causing a disturbance and were remanded to Dec. 11 without plea.

Following the brief appearance, Levesque said that "if the Ottawa police had treated us in the same polite manner as the RCMP, the demonstration would have been without incident."

He accused city police of voicing such insults as "uneducated louts," "apes," and "Frenchies."

The demonstration of about 300 students was made in protest against the absence of French-Canadians from top CNR jobs.

OMA Claims Doctors Oppose NDP Medicare

TORONTO (CP)—A medical care plan proposed by the provincial New Democratic Party will be rejected by most Ontario doctors, an official of the Ontario Medical Association said today.

Dr. Glen Sawyer, general secretary of the OMA, said the doctors' preference was taken care of by the OMA provision allowing them to practise outside the plan, but "in the long run, a government scheme means inferior medical care."

"A government has only so much money and it might not be able to maintain schools, training and research facilities.

"I think patients should ask plenty of questions about where a government proposes to get the money," Dr. Sawyer said in an interview.

The NDP plan, as outlined in the legislature Wednesday by party leader Donald MacDonald, would provide universal, government - operated medical insurance, based on personal premiums of 70 cents a week for individuals and 60 cents a week for families.

Mr. MacDonald said the private PSI Blue Plan is the only one now in operation which offers the coverage the NDP plan would give.

He said the family rates for the plan are $129 for group members and $141.40 for individual dealings.

Dr. Sawyer said PSI is a "non-profit plan" and that if the NDP is proposing benefits equal to PSI "the cost is going to be identical."

He said the association prefers the proposal by the Progressive Conservative government that people able to afford it look after their own medical insurance and the government look after the others.

Dr. Patrick Bruce-Lockhart, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said the NDP plan appeared to be similar to Saskatchewan's.

"Like any other plan it has to be paid for — whether by taxes or out of our own pockets."

from the surface. At this point there is one downward sloping tunnel without branches sloping for two miles to the working face. The tunnel runs gradually from 525 feet to 650 feet. That's the point where the men were trapped. There is only one exit from there to the surface.

Piling officials said air coming up from the mine shaft contains large amounts of carbon dioxide, indicating there is fire in the blast area. Rescue teams proceeded cautiously.

The major problem for the rescue teams was to pump the bad air out and clean air in. Concrete walls used for ventilation shafts which had buckled under the blast slowed progress.

Inside a corrugated steel shack above the surface some three dozen relatives of the trapped miners waited in bitter wintry weather for news.

The mine was opened in 1946 and has produced as much as 20,000 tons of coal a day — enough to heat more than 2,000 homes for an entire winter. In recent months the mine has worked only three days a week.

The explosion in this southwestern Pennsylvania mine happened on the 55th anniversary of the worst U.S. mine accident — 362 record. Dec. 6, 1907, a blaster in a mine at Monongah, W. Va., killed 361 persons.

Gasoline Price War Continues In Province

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's gasoline price battle continued Thursday as Canadian Tire Corporation Limited lowered prices in Toronto, Kingston, London, Sarnia and Sudbury.

The CTC move was to offset price cuts Wednesday by Imperial Oil Limited earlier in the day.

Imperial cut prices at Esso stations in Sarnia and Kingston by two-cents a gallon for regular gasoline to 33.9 cents.

Canadian Tire outlets in these cities followed suit by giving purchasers an eight - per - cent coupon redeemable in merchandise with its 35.5-cent pump price. Kingston and a nine-per-cent coupon in London and Sarnia.

In Toronto, six Imperial stations went to 33.9 cents on Wednesday, and offered five - per-cent coupon for cash, and Wednesday five CTC outlets lowered prices from 33.9 cents a gallon with a seven-per-cent coupon to 33.9 cents with a 10-per-cent coupon.

A. D. Malcolm, supervisor of service stations for CTC said Thursday the company has set up credit card department and national advertising expenses to cover any losses. It felt it was entitled to sell gasoline at a price at least five per cent lower than Imperial.

CTC has 24 outlets in Ontario and two in Quebec selling gasoline. Mr. Malcolm said all stations except the one in Refrew are under pressure from Imperial.

Seaway Closes Fourth and Busiest Year

MONTREAL (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway closed its fourth and busiest season today when the last two ocean-going ships left the inland waterway.

An official at the nearby St. Lambert lock, the seaway's eastern end, said the last downward-bound ship, the U.S.-registered Easthampton, cleared the lock shortly after 8 a.m.

Another U.S. vessel, the Bridgehampton, passed through at 8 a.m.

The two had been held overnight at the Cote Ste. Catherine lock, several miles upstream, by high winds and driving sleet.

Two other ships—the Canadian Trader Bobrejo and the Norwegian freighter Maskefjell—passed through the seaway Thursday night before the storm struck.

Upstream traffic was closed at midnight Monday, but the last four downstream vessels held up by heavy fog and blowing sleet in Lake Ontario were more than six days later than the original downstream schedule.

Unusually warm weather allowed them to pass through the system before the winter freezeup, producing the latest closing date in the seaway's four years of operation.

The Maskefjell was grounded near Muskegon, Mich., more than a week ago. It had been feared the ship might have to spend the winter somewhere within the seaway.

Shipping sources here estimated unofficial figures for the season would show more than 26,000,000 tons of bulk and package freight were moved through the system this year—the greatest amount of marine cargo ever carried between here and the Great Lakes.

Chinese Remain In 'Main Areas' Of Assam Region

NEW. DELHI (Reuters) — Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today the Communist Chinese have not yet withdrawn their troops from "main areas" of Assam on India's northeast frontier.

Nehru, who returned Thursday night from a one-day visit to Indian front lines in Assam, said the Chinese were withdrawing in the rear, "but in the main areas they were still here yesterday."

Nehru said there had been three incidents in which the Chinese fired on Indian strugglers returning to Indian lines after the cease-fire in the Sino-Indian border war called by China Nov. 20.

He said one Indian soldier had been killed and two others wounded but "we have received no other news of a breach of the cease-fire."

In Tezpur, the main Indian military base, Indian troops formed sources said the Chinese still were entrenched in Dafla hills numbers on a ridge above a pass known as the "Eagle's Nest," about 30 miles north of the village of Bhalukpa.

When the cease-fire was announced, the Chinese said they would begin withdrawing Dec. 1 to positions about 12½ miles back of the "line of actual control" which existed in September, 1959.

Adenauer

last year, after his party lost its parliamentary majority and had to form a coalition with the Free Democrats. Adenauer said he would retire in sufficient time before the 1965 general election to give his successor a chance to get used to his office. However, Adenauer stubbornly refused to set a date for his retirement.

Authoritative Christian Democratic sources say his successor probably will be the vice-chancellor and economic minister, Ludwig Erhard, known as the father of West Germany's post-war recovery.

Brentano said attempts to form a coalition with the socialist failed because the agreement could be reached over the change in the German electoral law which the Christian Democrats had been seeking.

Adenauer's party lost its majority in the general elections last year. The Christian Democrats have 241 seats, the Socialists 190 and the Free Democrats 67 in the lower house of parliament.

Caldwell Comments On Future Projects of CBC

- - Caldwell

By RUSSELL ELMAN

OTTAWA (CP) — Spencer Caldwell, president of CTV Television Network Limited, said Thursday the privately-owned network is impatient to get on with its expansion plans but does not want to be blocked because of a freeze on future projects of the publicly-owned CBC.

He said in an interview that CTV accepts the granting of "second" TV stations to the CBC as long as there is a prospect of the CBC actually being able to build them within a reasonable time.

He said he opposes granting licences to the CBC without any time limit for taking action on them. He also opposed withholding decisions on applications for "second" stations.

Mr. Caldwell suggested that if the government doesn't give the CBC money to expand, the whole country could still go ahead.

"Isn't this the time for private enterprise to take up the slack?" he asked. "If we were the government, I would encourage private enterprise."

BUDGET SLICED

Under the current federal government austerity program, $5,000,000 was sliced off the 1962-63 CBC operational and capital spending budget. As a result, the CBC has had to curtail or temporarily postpone certain projects.

Mr. Caldwell, taking note of the austerity program, said he still does not oppose the CBC's expansion plans as long as they are tied to a definite time limit.

"We'll give our support to the CBC applications, as long as it doesn't mean just sitting on these projects indefinitely."

Mr. Caldwell outlined in general terms some of his own network's expansion plans.

These are among topics for discussion in an informal meeting Thursday with Dr. Andrew Stewart, chairman of the Board of Broadcast Governors.

"One of the good reasons we get good support from the BBG is that we always inform them all along of what we're doing," he said.

WANTS TO EXPAND

Mr. Caldwell said CTV wants to expand the number of stations in its networks and fill in the blanks. Five or six more basic stations were required and the CTV was anxious to have coverage in Saskatoon-southwestern Ontario (London-Windsor) and Sudbury areas.

CTV's basic stations now are in Halifax, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Moose Jaw, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver.

He indicated that more re-broadcasting outlets could be established, mentioning the addition of high-powered CTV relay transmitters during the last year at Penticton, B.C., Cornwall, Ont., and Regina.

In cities where the CBC opened its own second station, the CTV would prefer that the existing station then switch to the CTV network. Such was the case in Saskatoon where the privately-owned CFQC-TV is on the CBC channel.

Mr. Caldwell also said the CTV wants more hours of operations. This would make the network more attractive to advertisers, and thus enable better programs and a wider audience.

CAMPBELLFORD

Little Interest In Election

CAMPBELLFORD — There was little interest shown in the election in Seymour township this year when four candidates sought the three seats in council. There was no contest for Reeve of Deputy-Reeve.

Jas. Goacher and Maurice Brunton, 1962 councillors, headed the polls with Chas. Ibey defeating Peter Magee for third position.

Defence

with a revised estimate of $1,860,750,000 in the current (1962-63) fiscal year and actual expenditures of $1,626,104,000 in 1961-62.

HIGHEST SINCE '57

The 1961-62 defence expenditure of $1,626,104,000 was the highest since the Progressive Conservative government took office in 1957. Expenditures in 1957-58 were $1,666,463,000 but the Liberals had drafted this defence budget before the Conservatives assumed office.

The estimates for defence spending in 1962-63 have been changed by the defence department to treasury board, a cabinet committee which surveys and approves all federal expenditures. Treasury board usually does more trimming on top of the reductions made by the civilian heads of the defence department.

The original estimate for the current defence budget was $1,675,782,175 but this was cut by $85,000,000 in last summer's austerity program.

One result has been that expenditures for new equipment have been reduced to $287,197,000 in 1962-63, the smallest figure since Canada began rearming during the Korean War. This amount compared with the post-war peak of $785,088,000 in 1953-54 and of $314,834,000 in 1961-62.

Board Receives Approval in Parliament

By DON HANRIGHT

OTTAWA (CP)—After three days of debate weighted with more politics than economics, the House of Commons Thursday night approved the principle of the government's proposed Atlantic Development Board.

But unopposed second reading of the bill still left the board far from reality.

As the chamber began detailed clause-by-clause study of the measure, there were indications from all three opposition parties that they will propose amendments. Even the bill's sponsor, Revenue Minister Hugh John Flemming, has said he has some in mind himself.

Depending on how the government views the opposition moves, crucial votes could be called. If so, it would be the first time in about three weeks that the House will have tested its confidence in the minority Conservative government.

GIVE THEIR IDEAS

Mr. Flemming hasn't said what amendment he will propose. But Liberal, Social Credit and New Democratic Party spokesmen have not been nearly as reticent.

As now proposed, the five-member, part-time board headed by a $5,000-a-year chairman would meet "as it deems necessary" to consider promising projects for economic development in the Atlantic provinces, then report to the government.

Said NDP Leader T. C. Douglas:

". . . Surely no one in their right senses thinks a part-time board meeting periodically is going to produce the kind of program that we need to make a massive assault on the social and economic problems of the Atlantic provinces."

He said the chairman should be a minister or a parliamentary secretary to a minister; that the board could not possibly represent regions or major economic groups with only five members; that its scope is too limited because it can only study projects referred to it by the minister.

Arnold Peters (NDP—Timiskaming) said the board should have a capital fund of up to $1,000,000,000 and should extend aid to all undeveloped regions in Canada, such as Northern Ontario.

(Photo by Lumben Studio, Belleville).

MACGREGOR — DROUILLARD

Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, was the setting for a lovely wedding on Saturday, November 10, at 1 o'clock when Iva Marie Drouillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Drouillard, Belleville was united in marriage to Donald Clayton MacGregor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clayton MacGregor, R.R. 6 Cobourg. The Rev. C. W. Coleman, minister of the church officiated at the double-ring ceremony before a beautiful background of snow-white gladioli. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by Mrs. E. M. Hubbs at the organ, which included the "Wedding March" previous to, and following the ceremony; "Ave Maria" previous to the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiantly lovely in a ballerina-length gown of peau de soie featuring a neckline edged with lace adorned with seed pearls and sequins, and sleeves similarly trimmed with lace and dotted with sequins and seed pearls. Her headdress was a rhinestone crown holding in place a shoulder length veil adorned with sequins and seed pearls. She carried a V-shaped bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Phoebe Keegan as the bride's only attendant was gowned in a ballerina length dress of turquoise nylon chiffon with matching chiffon floor hat with chin-length veil and matching shoes. She carried a bouquet of white roses with white streamers.

Mr. Gary Ferguson of Oshawa attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Clayton Drouillard, Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Vernon MacGregor, Cobourg, brother of the bridegroom were the ushers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Holloway Street United Church hall where the bridal table was prettily appointed with white damask cloth centred with a three-tier wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom and flanked by two white tapers. The bridal bouquets lent additional contrast to the nuptial setting.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a brown ensemble, beige and brown accessories and a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums. Assisting was the bridegroom's mother who was attired in pale blue dress, beige accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip through New York State, the bride chose a grey double-knit dress, red coat with black fur collar, black patent shoes and purse, white hat and gloves and white carnation corsage.

Guests were present from Toronto, Napanee, Oshawa, Detroit, Cobourg, Deseronto and Belleville.

Previous to the marriage the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower given at her home with Miss Phoebe Keegan, the maid of honor, and Mrs. Keegan as co-hostesses, and also at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mrs. Carol Godfrey with Miss Cathy Bird and Mrs. Jean Allen as hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. MacGregor will reside at 186 West Moira Street, Belleville.

ST. ANDREW'S GUILD-WMS

FOXBORO — The December meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Guild and W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Chappelle on Wednesday evening with a large crowd in attendance.

Mrs. Lyons presided and used the Christmas worship service as prepared by Mrs. Priestley L. Reid.

The roll call was answered by giving a donation of tin goods to the Salvation Army.

Reports of cards and hospital calls were noted and the names which are to be put in the new anniversary book which is to be published in 1964, were given.

Carol singing followed and Mrs. Bartlett read the poem "If Jesus Came to Your House." Joanne and Janice sang a duet and readings were given by Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Bullard, Mrs. Juby and Mrs. Tennyson. Eric and Ivan Wannamaker rendered a duet on the horn.

Mrs. Wannamaker closed the meeting and lunch was served and a social half hour followed.

U. C. W. Holds Fine Tea And Bazaar

CENTENARY — On November 28th, Centenary United Church Women held their annual tea and bazaar. The hall looked lovely with the gold, red and green colors in keeping with the Christmas theme. Christmas trees made the entrance to the tea room pretty, with each table having a small gold Christmas tree in the centre.

Mrs. J. Best, Mrs. L. Pearson and Mrs. Harold Hancock were in charge of the decorating.

Mrs. Elwin Hart acted as hostess while those who served were Mrs. L. Pearson, Mrs. W. Shorti, Mrs. T. Dutton and Mrs. A. Christophir.

Mrs. P. Sutherland replenished the tea plates.

Presiding at the tea table for the first hour were: Mrs. H. Mooney, Mrs. Vanalstine, and for the second hour, Mrs. R. Rickard and Mrs. T. F. Townsend.

The home baking table, always a great favorite, was convened by Mrs. Fred Aikens, assisted by Mrs. Calvert and Mrs. Christy.

The aprons were looked after by Mrs. Fred Meens and Mrs. Ralph Loney.

The novelties, candies and country store were in charge of Mrs. B. Harder, Mrs. M. Nobes, Mrs. Nobes and Mrs. K. Johnston.

The convener of the kitchen was Mrs. Edgar Kay, assisted by Mrs. Roy Thrasher, Mrs. G. Sills and Mrs. J. Emerson.

Much credit is due the president and conveners for a most successful event.

Weddings

ARMSTRONG — ROWE

CAMPBELLFORD — A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday when Nancy Lou Rowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Rowe of Campbellford, became the bride of Donald Bolton Armstrong, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bolton Armstrong of R. R. 4, Warkworth. The Rev. Owen G. Barrow officiated.

Wedding music was played by Mrs. Ward Archer and soloist, Mrs. Elton McMurray sang, "The Wedding Prayer" and "O Perfect Love".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina-length gown of white brocaded satin with a scalloped neckline trimmed with rhinestones and white seed pearls. Long, lily-point sleeves and a white satin bow at the back complemented the gown. Her fingertip veil was caught to a pearl-set tiara trimmed with sequins and she carried red American Beauty roses.

Attending the bride were, her two sisters, Miss Peggy Rowe, as maid of honor, and Mrs. Ed. Villeneuve as bridesmaid. They were identically gowned in red velvet ballerina-length dresses white feather crowns and carried white mums.

Niece of the bride, Miss Kathy Rowe, was flower girl in a white velvet dress with a fur headpiece and a white muff with a spray of red carnations. Little Brian Rowe, the bride's nephew, was ring-bearer in a blue velvet suit.

Groomsman was Larry Stacey and Robert Rowe, the bride's brother, was usher.

The reception was held in the Legion Hall where the bride's mother received in a brown sheath dress with matching jacket, brown and beige accessories. The bridegroom's mother received in a blue gown with matching jacket and accessories.

For a wedding trip to points east the bride wore a three-piece brown suit with tan and brown otter shoes and purse, white velvet hat and a corsage of white carnations.

On their return the couple will live at R. R.4, Warkworth.

Out-of-town guests were present from Oshawa; Toronto; Norham; Warkworth; Hamilton; Belleville; Peterborough; Wooler and Trenton.

Prior to her marriage the bride was honored at two miscellaneous showers; one at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ed. Villeneuve, and the other at the home of Mrs. Claude Burkitt.

Successful Bridge, Euchre Held by P.T.A.

CAMPBELLFORD — St. Mary's P.T.A. held a successful bridge and euchre on Tuesday evening, convened by Mrs. William Dunlay with Mrs. L. Reed assisting in arrangements for bridge.

Tickets were sold during the intermission on a large fruit cake donated by Mrs. R. Nuttall.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Freeman were in charge of securing the prizes for the sixteen tables of euchre and the bridge games and these were presented by Mr. Emmett Lee, president of the Association to the following: euchre — ladies' high Mrs. E. Kelleher; men's high, H. Forestall; consolation, Miss J. Connolly. Bridge winners were: ladies' high, Miss Marjorie Anderson; men's high, Mrs. Jas. Forestall and consolation, Mrs. W. Beeler.

Lunch was served at the close of the evening and Mr. Lee expressed his pleasure at the success of the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Tedesco are shown cutting the wedding cake following their recent marriage in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Miss Lillian Diane Banting, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan D. Banting of Belleville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. McCafferty, of Trenton, Ontario. (Photo by William E. Riley, Belleville).

TEDESCO — BANTING

Bridge Street United Church was the scene of a recent double-ring afternoon wedding ceremony when the Rev. R. M. Davis united in marriage, Lillian Dianne Banting, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alan D. Banting, 41 Fairway Ave., Belleville and Ralph Winston Tedesco, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. McCafferty of Trenton.

The church was decorated with baskets of white gladioli and yellow 'mums. White bows with tiny yellow 'mums in the centre graced the guest pews.

The traditional wedding music was played by S. Alec Gordon, the church organist. The soloists David and Richard Mc-Cranor sang "Oh Perfect Love," before the ceremony, and the "23rd Psalm" during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the radiant bride wore a beautiful floor-length bridal gown of white satin, with lace appliques accenting the neckline and the front of the skirt. Tiny white roses centered the lace appliques. The billowing skirt tapered to a full train at the back and was gathered together by a large white rose at the waistline. Her elbow-length veil was caught to a floral arrangement of orchids, pearl and lily-of-the-valley. She carried a large bouquet of red roses.

Her attendants, Miss Marie Hall, of Belleville, was maid of honor; Miss Roberta Button, of Belleville, and Miss Marion McCafferty, sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids. All were attired in full street-length dresses of cherry red velvet with draped necklines and long sleeves. They wore identical headdress of white fur muffs to complete their costumes, they wore crystal jewellery. All carried bouquets of white 'mums with white bows and streamers.

The groomsman was Mr. Charles Edward Brown Jr., of Trenton, and the ushers were Messrs. Nelson Alan Banting, twin brother of the bride, and Randy LaMoore, of Belleville.

The reception was held at Club Canara where the bride's table was appointed with a white linen cloth, bouquets of yellow and red roses and silver candelabras flanked the three-tiered wedding cake which was surrounded by fluffy white tulle and dotted with red roses.

The bride's mother received in a street-length dress and jacket of beige brocade trimmed with brown mink, with dark brown accessories, and a corsage of yellow 'mums completed her ensemble. The bridegroom's mother wore a sheath of royal blue brocade with black accessories, and a corsage of white 'mums and carnations.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and points south the bride chose a wool powder blue walking suit, white fur turban hat, antique brown shoes and purse completed her ensemble.

Guests were present from New York; Montreal; Kingston; Barrie; Thornton; Creemore; Trenton; Sarnia; Ottawa and Belleville.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower held at the home of Roberta Button and at a presentation given by her coworkers at the Mead Johnson plant where the bride is a laboratory technician.

Mr. and Mrs. Tedesco will reside at 18A East Moira Street, Belleville.

European Import

By TRACY ADRIAN

Although imported from Europe this handsome double knit three-piece suit by Caprici is carefully scaled to fit American figures.

The Chanel type jacket, which is worn open, features slot pockets and its revers are trimmed in the same color as the jewel neck overblouse.

A slender skirt completes the costume.

Readers' Friday Column

by Mary Moore

QUESTION:

I have been experimenting with beef, mushrooms, noodles, tomato sauce to produce a superb casserole for 10 to 12. I want it to be bland (no garlic), but interesting with lots of meat and not too much pasta. Also have you a coffee pudding recipe — a Bavarian type served from a bowl rather than moulded? The dessert I was served looked like Italian marble . . . Ever since your column has been published I have been an ardent devotee. In fact I have almost enough of your recipes on file to publish that Mary Moore cookbook that I so wish you could produce . . . Joyce G.

ANSWER:

From your letter I could not decide whether you wanted to use steak or beef tenderloin or ground beef. What I have done is mailed to you 3 former releases—giving Beef Stroganoff, Beef Bourguignon and Beef Lasagne. Each has some quality which you desire in your casserole. Another beef casserole which might please you follows.

FRIDAY

Dinner Menu

Crumbed Halibut Steaks; Tartare Sauce; Sliced Carrots; Cauliflower with grated Cheese; Lettuce Hearts with Russian Dressing; Apples Yorkshire (see Thursday's) with Powdered Sugar; Coffee.

TUSCANY BEEF CASSEROLE (serves 6):

2 lbs. best quality beef cut in 1" cubes, 1 to 1½ cups thinly sliced onion, 1 green pepper seeded and cut into strips, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 1 6-oz. can sliced mushrooms (including juice), 4 tomatoes cut in chunks, 2 cups water, 4 or 6 oz. noodles, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, grated Parmesan cheese, at least 1 cup.

Saute the beef in butter or margarine. When browned, add onion, green pepper and mushroom and tomatoes. Simmer a few minutes and add water. Cook the noodles in plenty of boiling salted water. Drain and combine with the beef mixture. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Pour into a casserole and top with Parmesan cheese. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes or until browned.

COFFEE BAVARIAN:

1 tablespoon plain gelatin, ¼ cup water, 3 egg yolks, 1 whole egg, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups milk, 1 tablespoon instant coffee, 2 tablespoons boiling water, 1 cup whipping cream, chilled, 1½ teaspoons vanilla.

To soften gelatin sprinkle over cold water. Heat milk to scalding in top of double boiler. Beat egg yolks and eggs thoroughly, then beat in sugar and salt until well blended. Add scalded milk gradually, stirring constantly. Return to double boiler, and cook and stir over gently boiling water until mixture coats a metal spoon. Remove from heat and stir in gelatin liquid. Let cool to consistency of liquid honey. Remove and reserve ¾ cup of this custard.

Have the cream beaten until just stiff but smooth. Add vanilla. Fold into custard mixture with rubber scraper lightly but thoroughly. Pour into attractive glass serving bowl. Dissolve the instant coffee in the 2 tablespoons boiling water. Stir into reserved custard mixture until blended. Pour over Bavarian mixture and with rubber scraper swirl it through the mixture artfully to give a marbled effect. Chill.

Pretty garnished with shaved semi-sweet chocolate.

SPEAKING of MANNERS

PATRICIA LEWIS

WHAT'S YOUR E.Q.?

Invitations and replies are often delivered over the telephone, so it's well to know the finer points of etiquette involved in this practice. For instance:

1. For what occasions is it permissible to telephone invitations?
2. How far in advance are verbal invitations given?
3. Who issues a phoned invitation?
4. To whom should one speak when delivering an invitation?
5. If the person isn't home, it is permissible to leave the invitation in the form of a message?
6. Should the hostess ask that the prospective guest call her back, if she's not available when she calls?
7. How soon should a verbal invitation be acknowledged?
8. To whom should an invited guest speak when acknowledging a phoned invitation?
9. May a hostess follow up a phoned acceptance with a reminder card?
10. Is it permissible to use a visiting card for this purpose?

Answers:

1. Invitations may be telephoned for an informal or semiformal dinner, tea, cocktail party, supper, etc.
2. At least a week in advance.
3. The hostess, or a servant or secretary calling in her name.
4. An invitation to a married couple should be phoned directly to the wife.
5. Only if the message is given to a responsible member of the household who will note all the details and deliver it accurately.
6. If the message cannot be given to whoever answers — a child, for instance — it's better form to call back at a later hour instead of requesting that the prospective guest call the hostess.
7. Immediately, if possible, but if a husband has to be consulted or a baby-sitter arranged for first, the invitation should be accepted or declined as soon as these details are taken care of.
8. The hostess, herself, or to a qualified member of her household or staff.
9. Verbal invitations are often followed up with a written reminder.
10. Yes, or the hostess may write an informal note. On occasion, she may also use an engraved reminder card which is a special form made up by a printer or stationer.

Question: I'm soon to be best man at the wedding of a cousin, and I've been told that one of my duties at the reception is to read telegrams congratulating the bride and groom. I'd like to know at what point in the proceedings the messages should be read? Should I wait until a late intermission in the dancing, when I'm sure all the telegrams are in, or should I read those that have arrived by the time the toasts are made, and forget about reading any that arrive during the latter part of the party?

H.R. DETROITA MICH.

Answer: The best man reads the telegrams either right after all the toasts have been made, or at some later point during the dining or luncheon. It would be rather difficult to get the attention of guests during a dance intermission to read any telegrams that might arrive after the meal, but messages should be shown to the newlyweds and their parents, then sent to the bride's home so they can be earmarked for early acknowledgement. She may even want to take them with her and send the greeters a post card during her wedding trip.

Shaped Coat

BY GRACE THORNCLIFFE

This soft-hued mohair coat is not exactly fitted, though it is shaped to flare away at the hem. There is a small collar above the double-breasted closing. Curved seaming terminates in pockets.

The fabric is muted green-ish-gray and the lining is red.

The stole is in two shades, half coat color and half lining color. It can be worn in two ways or not at all, the topper being smart enough on its own.

Small Talk

By ZENA CHERRY

The Rome dateline gave us just about all on Liz and Richard and I must say I read every stupid word. But Canadian comedian, the swart, monkey-faced Johnny Wayne has the clincher to such goings-on. He tells about a party he and his wife Bea attended for Liz and Eddie some months ago. "She danced by me and I didn't know what she meant when she winked and said, 'After Burton.'"

Both University of Toronto graduates, Johnny Wayne and Frank Shuster live within three blocks of each other in the residential allee of Toronto called Forest Hill Village. After holding Canadian audiences for 10 years, suddenly 4 years ago they took the United States by storm.

Will they eventually pull up jokes and live in the States? As Shuster says, "We're Canadian and we're staying th Canada. I don't even get a hair-cut down there."

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Bella T. — He calls our son terrible names.

Hubert T. — He gets me sore. He deserves them.

Bella T. — Our son is 6 and, of course, he's not the docile lamb he was at 2 and 3. But neither is he the brat, the house-wrecker, the monster his father calls him.

I'm afraid the child must already feel like a juvenile delinquent. My husband hardly ever addresses him normally by his name. It's Hey, Jerk or Come here, Stupid.

The sad part is that the boy is a sweet kid and Hubert really loves him, but the child won't ever realize this.

* * *

Hubert T. — What do you call a kid who does trashy things — an angel! That boy gets into every kind of mischief you can name. In two hours last night he had dropped a library book into the bathtub, spilled a box of toothpicks, broken my stapple machine, painted his ears with nail polish, and pulled a pole out of our stair railing!

It wears me out trying to keep one jump ahead of him for his own safety. There's no time for psychology. When he acts like a bandit, I call him one.

The Council: Sticks and stones, goes the old saying, can break my bones. But names, we add, can break your heart! It all depends upon the mood, the tone, the spirit in which the epithets are uttered.

A father who bashes lightly with a son who knows he's loved, accepted and approved of — such a father can say almost anything and it sounds affectionate. Call the boy Beast, Funny Face, Nitwit — it still sounds like I love you, Fella. But if the names merely reinforce a child's feeling that he's wicked, burdensome, disappointing, and hopeless, they become basic. The child believes they're true. And worse, that they're permanent!

One of the most important rules for raising a healthy child is this: When he does something wrong, make it clear that you dislike the deed rather than the boy. You'll always love him, no matter what. You'll never punish him by the withdrawal of love, for that would make his whole little world cave in.

Out of that rule comes the answer for Hubert. Be careful of attaching labels to your son, say. In your present anxiety over him, you sound in dead earnest when you call him a monster. No doubt he takes you seriously. Bella is right to try to help you up. Make your motto the following: "Label the behavior, but not the child."

In other words, it's okay to say, "That was a dopey thing to do, shaking the orange juice mixer with the top off!" But it's harmful to say, "You're just a dope." Such designations often make a child feel he might as well live up to them!

Sister Flees From Brutal Husband

DORIS CLARK

DEAR DORIS—What should my sister do? She has no money to see a lawyer. She has spoken to the pastor where she lives in the United States and he has urged strongly that she has tried her best for all the five years of her married life. She is in poor health due to the numerous beatings and abuse she has received.

Her husband told her to get out and take her things with her. He said he would give her and the three children $40 a week. She is coming to Canada this weekend. If she leaves the country, can he be made to support her and the children?

Should she seek help here or what? She is so upset all she can think of is to come and see me. She has evidence that her clothes have been torn off her, hair pulled, black eyes and even the police called in.—ANXIOUS SISTER.

DEAR ANXIOUS—Getting a judgment is one country and making it stick in another has its problems. But this wife-beater may keep his promise to send money.

Meanwhile, she has been badly hurt—physically, mentally, spiritually—and needs all the support you can give her. Believe in her and help her meet life until she recovers and can start to see daylight. And get her a good lawyer.

DEAR DORIS—I would like some gift suggestions for my girl friend's birthday. We have been going steady for two years and I am running out of ideas.—WONDERING.

DEAR WONDERING—A self-addressed, stamped envelope would have made sure of a private reply reaching you ahead of your girl's birthday.

I would suggest: a shiny new compact, evening purse, glamor pin and earrings to match, address book with section for noting and acknowledging gifts, travelling clock, a new best seller in fiction or a biography, a long-playing record, black or white gloves for dressy occasions, a year's subscription to her favorite magazine.

DEAR DORIS—Is there any legal status applied to homosexual individuals, and how are they accepted by society in general?—INQUISITIVE.

DEAR INQUISITIVE—Legal status? Homosexuals have the opposite. Stiff penalties await male homosexuals if they are caught—not to mention the social disgrace and frequent blackmail.

Sad to say, imprisoning the offender does not cure him. Yet many psychiatrists believe that some can be helped to mature through to heterosexuality.

Or the homo may learn to sublimate his drive. As with many creative and perfectly normal people (artists, writers, musicians), he may learn to transfer intense and unsatisfied feeling into work, reaping rewards instead of punishments.

DEAR DORIS—My sister will soon be 25 years old and never gone out on a date. (She is ten years younger than me). Yet she loves children and often speaks of wanting a church wedding, if she gets married. My dad and I feel she is missing a lot by just working and coming home and knitting or reading all the time.

When she meets a single man, she freezes up. She says she isn't ready to date yet, but now she doesn't even have any offers to go out, and she is getting more and more set in her ways.

I am happily married and she has often made the remark to me that it must be nice to be in love like that, so I know she would like to date, but is too reserved or something to take the plunge. At times she gets so bored, but she will never try to do anything different, and we have wondered if she needs help from a professional.—WORRIED SISTER.

DEAR WORRIED SISTER—She is just letting life happen to her; lacks the get-up-and-go to do something about it. Has it ever occurred to you that it takes courage to go out with a man? And the oftener she says "No" the more comforting it is to crawl back into her shell.

Some time a long way back somebody may have hurt her feelings. Or you or a brother outshone her. And she is still running for cover.

One mother pushed her timid fledgling out of the nest with a tempting nursing appointment 400 miles from home. Told her it was up to her whether or not she had a good time in her new setting.

Acute homesickness for ten days was followed by enthusiastic letters about sights to see where she was. Then there was a fairy-tale ending with a Tall, Dark and Handsome! Yet she might never have dated if she could have retreated behind a pair of knitting needles in her own home.

Is there a suggestion for you and her parents here?

CONFIDENTIAL TO DEPRESSED — He is brooding over the fact that he is adopted. He should have been given this news when he was young enough that he had no preconceived notions and could accept it with confidence. He would never have wondered who he was, because he would have identified himself with his adoptive parents.

Even though he is now a man, he is obsessed with the question: Why didn't my mother want me? Since you love him, I'd suggest you talk to a trained social worker who has handled this same situation dozens of times. You will find one at your Children's Aid Society, 63 West Moira Street, Belleville, Ontario.

Golden and Good

If you are looking for a dish to help dispel the gloom of a chill, gray day, try a clam bake. An easy-fix one which comes from the oven proudly puffed and golden is made from clams, sweet corn, and eggs, color accented with a little fire-cracker red pimiento. The completed dish is fairly low in calories but filled with good flavor.

Here's a time-saving tip. When making it, stir the ingredients right into the greased casserole. By so doing you will save washing an extra bowl afterwards.

GOLDEN CLAM BAKE:

1 can (10 ounces) clams, 2 eggs, beaten, 1 can (10 ounces) cream style corn, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento, ½ teaspoon salt, dash pepper.

Combine clams and clam liquor with other ingredients listed in a 1-quart casserole. Sprinkle a slight sandiness be observed in the clams, before adding the other ingredients, strain the liquor through several layers of fine cheesecloth and rinse the clams under cold water. Mix all ingredients thoroughly. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 deg. F., for 1 hour, or until puffed and firm in the centre. Makes 4 servings.

Christmas Season' Topic At UCW Meet

The Christmas meeting of the Holloway Street United Church Women was held Monday evening, in the church parlors. Inclement weather depleted the attendance, but all there, were warmly welcomed by the vice-president, Mrs. Rox- Taylor.

Mrs. Taylor, opened the meeting with a poem, "Gift of Love", conducted a short business period, and then called on Mrs. H. A. Hutt for the devotional.

Opening with a poem, "Such as I Have", and the carol "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem", Mrs. Hutt read a story which stimulates much thought, that, living the Christmas spirit, of love, good will and giving each day of the whole year is much better than just celebrating at the Christmas season. "So let us light Christmas candles, symbolic of the welcome light we should have for the Christ Child,—one for love, Christian life, understanding, faith, truth and spiritual power."

Mrs. A. Daniels rendered a humorous solo, "Some Glad Tidings", taken from the Christmas Cantata, "The Child of Bethlehem", and accompanied at the piano by Mrs. E. Hubbs.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Van Austin introduced the guest speaker, Captain Thackaberry of the Salvation Army.

Cpt. Thackaberry spoke on the "Christmas Season" and said it should mean to Christians everywhere. Reading the true story of Christmas as recorded in John—"In the beginning was God . . ." saying in part— "Christmas is a time for recollections and reflections, think back to your childhood—the wonder and thrill of wrapped packages, the myth of Santa Claus, . . . But we should not let the glamour, glow and glitter of external wrappings and trimmings hide the true significance of the Christmas we are celebrating. There was nothing glamorous about the dingy stable and manger where "The Child" was born, nor of the long trip over the rough and dusty road His mother had to travel."

"No glamour nor legendary fairy tale should take the place of the real story of the Eternal One coming down to be with His people and taking on humanflesh—it was a majestic act! Love through Jesus Christ came to this earth of sin and hate. Think of God's gift to us.

Let us give thanks for our Saviour, for all His blessings, and for His death upon the cross, to save us from our sins".

Capt. Thackaberry was thanked on behalf of the U.C.W., by Mrs. C. W. Coleman.

Lunch was served and a social half hour spent.

C. W. L. Holds Card Party

TWEED — A successful card party was held in St. Carthagh's hall on Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League. There were ten tables of euchre and four of bridge in play.

Winners of the euchre were: high lady, Mrs. Ambrose Trudeau, and gents, Mr. Charles Cassidy. The ladies' high bridge was won by Mrs. Felix LeSage and gents' won by Mr. Bob Wood.

The prizes for the euchre marathon which has been going for the past several weeks were won by the following: Mrs. Pat Cassibo, Mrs. Norman Champagne, Mrs. Edward Goulah, Mrs. Bernard Whalen and Mrs. Edmund Courneyea.

After cards refreshments were served by the members of the Catholic Women's League.

NASH TO RESIGN

WELLINGTON (AP)—Walter Nash, New Zealand's veteran Labor opposition leader, said Thursday he will relinquish party leadership in February but will contest the 1963 election as an ordinary MP. Nash, then 86 in February, has been Labor leader since 1950. He was prime minister from 1956 to 1960.

MAKES JAZZ DOLLS—Ruth Hombourg, wife of Jazz promoter Clem Hambourg, looks over some of her "111" dolls, creations based on musicians, artists, writers and dancers who frequent their Toronto coffee house. She has made dolls of well-known people including Toronto music critic Nathan Cohen, symphony conductor Walter Susskind and Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary. (CP Photo).

Chief Cook and Bottle Washer of Hambourg Club Has Invented New Set

By PATRICIA RUSK

TORONTO (CP)—A new set has invaded the heart of Toronto's jazz scene.

The invaders differ from the old frequenters of the House of Hambourg — this city's first after-hours jazz club—only in size and vitality.

The new musicians, artists writers and dancers are 12 in inches high. They're caricatures created by Ruth Hambourg who, as chief cook and bottle washer of the club she and her husband opened 15 years ago, has had plenty of opportunity to study the "beast" as they listened to jazz.

Mrs. Hambourg calls her little people "111" dolls. The name doesn't really mean anything but it matches their swinging mood, she says.

"They are not exact representations of people but rather expressions of how he or she has struck me inside."

Nevertheless, the dolls have the recognizable characteristics of the bohemian set—the sunken cheeks, square faces, stringy hair and dark eyes.

Ruth Hambourg concentrates on the eyes, trying to make them as expressive as possible. "The first thing I notice about a person is his eyes and if I haven't seen a person for years I'll remember his eyes and the feeling they gave me."

Her approach to making the dolls is much like that of the jazz musician—she improvises.

To a wire skeleton she attaches the body foundation. Then she sews a head, stuffs it and turns it right side out. "I never know what the head is going to look like until I turn it right side out."

When the head is attached, she decides what shape eyes and mouth will go with the nose and face contours. Embroidered eyebrows and eyelashes are attached. Then Mrs. Hambourg just sits, smokes and drinking "coffee, coffee, coffee" and looks at the doll until she decides what it should be and how it should be dressed.

Although this is the most difficult part of making the dolls, it is also the most fun, especially when she recognizes in a face she has made the features of some well-known personality.

She has made dolls of Toronto drama critic Nathan Cohen, symphony conductor Walter Susskind and Pierre Salinger, President Kennedy's press secretary and an old friend.

Klem Hambourg calls his wife a "dynamo" and says he wasn't at all surprised when she began sewing the dolls several months ago. During her lifetime (she says she's going on 70 "but so is everyone else") she has explored almost every channel of creative expression including music, dress designing, needlework and jewelry making.

She also has a streak of the inventor. About 10 years ago, when she was designing dresses, she invented a fringe-making machine which she now uses to produce hair for the "111" dolls.

Mr. Hambourg even attributes the success of the Toronto jazz scene to his wife.

"Without Ruthie, nothing would have been possible," he said. "She has been in charge of the moral and gastronomical aspects right from the start."

It started when Ruth and Klem went into the recording business. Ruth handled the recording machine. If the artist needed an accompanist, Klem, a former concert pianist, would play.

The musicians, who liked the atmosphere of the Hambourg establishment, began inviting their friends up for sessions which often lasted all night.

The House of Hambourg, granddaddy of jazz clubs, was born.

Music Pupils Entertain at W. G. Meet

The ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Guild held their Christmas meeting in the church hall recently with Mrs. J. Bly presiding.

The business portion of the meeting included the appointing of a nominating committee which consisted of Mrs. Darvell as chairman and Mrs. Barlow and Mrs. Mantle assisting; arrangements made for the purchase of gifts and flowers for the aged and shut-ins at Christmas; new costumes have been made by the welcome group for the Sunday School concert, and donations have been made to the Board of Managers, to the organ fund, the W.M.S. and the custodian.

The program was of high calibre with Mrs. E. Boyce presenting four of her talented pupils. This was a quartette which included Mary Lynne Miller, Nancy Williams, Merideth Welbanks, and Marilyn Hurst who sang "Fairest Lord Jesus". A piano solo was contributed by Nancy Williams entitled "Waltz Schubert" and a vocal solo "What Child is This" by Marilyn Hurst. The program concluded with a fine selection rendered at the two pianos and the four girls playing a resounding and lively "Brise Printaniere".

Mrs. Shier expressed appreciative thanks to the girls and to Mrs. Boyce.

Refreshments were served by the Sunshine Group.

Track Welding Crews Move Within Set Areas to Repair Rails Broken by Poundings

Looking for an outdoor job? Try track welding for a railroad. Track welding crews repair cracks in rail, "frogs" and "diamonds", (types of track intersections), in their working area.

The rails crack under the continual pounding of train wheels. In themselves, the cracks are not serious, but as water seeps in, and the pounding continues, the rails rust from the inside out. A hairline crack on the surface may lead to a cavity several inches long, two or three inches wide, and almost an inch deep inside the rail. If the cavity is not cut out and filled, a chunk of rail may break and derail a train.

In rails, cracks are detected by "rail test cars", with ultrasonic equipment. Trackmen on foot use portable equipment to test the joints. Frogs and diamonds are checked visually by the welding crews, and any suspicious crack in the rail surface is cut out with a hand grinder mounting a special wheel. Sometimes it takes several cuts to find the limits of the crack. When the faulty section of rail has been removed, the crew replaces the steel with an electric welding unit they carry on their track car. The whole process is similar to a dentist's drilling and filling teeth.

CREWS OF THREE

Track welding crews consist of three men each, a foreman, welder and helper. They work within their area, as defined by the railroad, and live near their current job in a boarding car. Weekends, they can spend with their families in their home town. They travel back and forth by train, or by private car. The boarding car is parked on a convenient siding near the current working areas, and they travel to and from their job in a special track car. The car has a large diesel engine, which drives the car through a small generator and electric motor, and which provides power through another generator for the grinders and welding equipment. The men seldom drive more than about thirty miles to a job in their track car. When they have farther to go, their boarding car is hooked to a freight train and moved on to another siding.

The crew stays in the same general area until all the work is done. In some cases, this is a few days, in others, they may be working out of the same location for weeks on end. A "frog" intersection should be inspected about twice a year, and the crews have to move fast enough to make sure each section of track is covered about once every six months. The Trenton district of the CPR, which includes Belleville, stretches from Agincourt to Smiths Falls, and from Toronto north to McTier. Two crews normally handle this whole area.

Track welding is a cold job in the winter. Out on a section of track, with the cold wind coming across the fields, the only protection the welders have is a portable canvas screen and their clothing. The intense heat of the welding process is little help. But in the summer, when it's "shirts off" weather, and the skies are blue, most track repairmen wouldn't change their job for any other. In that respect, it's similar to most outdoor jobs.

A. E. Dowdell, of Toronto, foreman of one CPR track welding crew, cuts out a section of steel on the "frog" intersection on the CPR track near Pinnacle St. in Belleville, with a hand grinder. The steel removed was replaced with an arc welding unit.

G. C. Dowdell, of Smiths Falls, a track welder with the CPR, uses an electric welding machine to build up a broken section of rail on the CPR tracks, near Pinnacle St., in Belleville.

AUCTION RENOIR

NEW YORK (AP) — One of Renoir's major works was auctioned Wednesday night for $100,000 at the Parke-Bernet Galleries. The entire sum will go to three charities. The painting, titled La Fete de Pan, was executed in 1879 at the country estate of Paul Berard, one of the early collectors of the French Impressionists. The painting was from the estate of an anonymous collector.

Queen Victoria H.S. Enjoys Carol Singing

The monthly meeting of the Queen Victoria Home and School Association was held on December 4th and took the form of a Christmas program with the pupils invited to share the evening's entertainment.

A fine performance by the choir under the direction of Mrs. Stuart was thoroughly enjoyed by all as the singers provided the background music for the enactment of the manger scene, after which the choir, composed of grade six and seven pupils, came on stage and sang several additional Christmas songs. This was followed by carol singing by Mrs. Stuart's grade five choir, after which Miss McGowan's class sang several numbers and told in a most interesting manner of the background and origin of these carols.

It was announced that Mrs. Lyons' class had won the attendance plaque for the junior school while Miss McGowan's class took the honors for the senior school.

Following the adjournment of the meeting refreshments were served to the large group of parents and children in attendance.

Chances of a Commission To Study Methods of Getting Divorce Seen Disappearing

OTTAWA (CP)—Chances of an objective study being made by a royal commission into methods of obtaining divorces in Canada seem to have disappeared, reliable informants said Thursday.

As a result, new efforts are expected to be made either to break the blockade against divorce bills now before Parliament by marathon sittings or convince New Democratic MPs to lift their blockade voluntarily.

At the same time, a "free vote"—in which the party leaders will advise their followers to be guided solely by their consciences and not by party loyalties—may be called on a bill aimed at giving the Senate sole authority to dissolve marriages of Quebec and Newfoundland residents.

A series of talks were held in recent weeks in an attempt to determine whether all parties would support the idea of sending the divorce question to a royal commission.

VIEW SHIFTS

Informants said that, in effect, these talks have collapsed. It is understood this is partly because Prime Minister Diefenbaker has swung away from a favorable view of a royal commission in relation to the divorce problem which has plagued Parliament for years.

Between 500 and 600 divorce bills from residents of Quebec and Newfoundland, where there are no divorce courts, must come before Parliament in various stages of passage.

New Democratic MPs Arnold Peters (Timiskaming) and Frank Howard (Skeena) have consistently delayed passage of the bills as part of a campaign to rid Parliament of the task. They also want to have provision made for support and maintenance of divorced wives and children of divorced parents, and to guarantee that evidence in divorce application cases shall be examined for possible perjury and collusion.

They have been able to hold up most of the bills by discussing them until expiration of the daily hour in which they might be considered. Earlier this week, with support of 10 colleagues present at the time, the group employed the device of demanding a recorded vote, which takes up almost 30 minutes.

It is understood that the New Democrats' 19-member caucus decided to continue to employ this tactic in support of the Howard-Peters campaign for a clean change in divorce procedures.

Both MPs have advocated that the exchequer court handle divorces now placed before Parliament. They voted along with their colleagues against passage of the bill involved.

A reliable source said that two steps may be taken as a result of a conference Thursday among Mr. Diefenbaker, Liberal Leader Pearson, Social Credit Leader Thompson and Mr. Douglas.

One may be to declare a "free vote" on a bill introduced by Nicholas Mandziuk (PC-Marquette) which would give the Senate authority to dissolve marriages by resolution. This, or a similar measure would have to be approved by the upper chamber, would remove the present requirement that divorce bills must come before both houses of Parliament.

In addition, approach may be made to Mr. Howard and Mr. Peters to lift their blockade before Christmas in order that the divorce bills off the Commons order paper in a single motion without debate.

A bill similar to Mr. Mandziuk's was passed two years ago by the Senate, but it failed to find a sponsor in the Senate.

Liquor Store Hours Set By Board

TORONTO (CP) — Licensed premises in Ontario will remain open until 10:30 p.m. Christmas Eve—four hours longer than in previous years, Judge W. T. Reid, chairman of the Liquor Licensing Board of Ontario, announced Thursday night.

However, Judge Robb said many premises will probably close before the deadline to enable their employees to spend Christmas Eve at home.

Controlled premises will close at 1 a.m. and beverage rooms at midnight New Year's Eve.

Commissioner Allan Crossman of the Ontario Liquor Control Board said retail stores will open at 9 a.m. instead of 6 p.m. Dec. 20 and 21. All stores will close at 6 p.m. on Christmas and New Year's Eves.

World Communism Going Through Evolution Period

By ROD CURRIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The visit of Yugoslav President Tito to Moscow and the well - timed verbal free-for-all at the Communist summit in Rome gives further strength to the belief in Western circles that world Communism is going through a genuine period of evolution.

Tito could not help but be pleased by the enthusiasm of the Kremlin welcome — flags, bands, parades, bear-hugs from Premier Khrushchev and accommodation in the state guest rooms, an honor given to few visiting foreigners.

The informal visit is — perhaps intentionally — a slap in the face for the Chinese Communists who have never ceased to denounce the Yugoslav "revisionists" as being out to sabotage socialism.

But Tito is too seasoned a tactician to be overcome by the somewhat blatant demonstration of Moscow's new intention to step up its policy of reconciliation with Belgrade.

He has got along quite nicely as a rebel Communist leader outside the control of Moscow. No doubt he is just as anxious to make friends as the Russians are, but his balancing act between East and West has been developed to such a fine point of perfection he is not likely to make a misstep now.

He will seek to get close enough to Moscow to do more business there but not close enough to fall under its control, even slightly.

Yugoslavia's illusions have been shattered too often in the past for her to approach Russia without lingering doubts and suspicions. But the chances of closer ties seem stronger now than at any time since Yugoslavia escaped to be an independent Communism in 1948.

TO BOOST TRADE

For instance, Yugoslavia and Russia are to increase trade in the coming year, thus making it possible for the two countries' most important trading partners.

Tito and Khrushchev now find themselves on more common ground in that they share the spotlight of criticism thrown on them from China. At a time when the Moscow-Soviet ideological dispute is raging, the Russians will be glad of support even from a wayward Communist such as Tito.

An outspoken rundown of how Khrushchev has undermined Lenin about the doctrinal dispute came at the meeting of Italy's Communist party this week in Rome.

The Chinese, continuing their attack on Khrushchev, also accused Tito of being a "100-percent revisionist" and a servant of American imperialism."

But Russian, Spanish, Polish, Italian and other Communists at the meeting bluntly condemned Peking's attitude and Khrushchev's position in China. That round went to Khrushchev.

Official Admits Getting $350 As Honorarium

OTTAWA (CP)—The administrator of the Canadian Seafarers' welfare plan said Thursday he received a $350 "honorarium" from the Seafarers' International Union of Canada last year for helping win favorable settlements on unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation disputes.

Bernard Boulanger, who is paid $15,000 a year to administer the welfare plan for the SIU and shipping companies, said he collected the money to cover expenses incurred in dealing with officials of the unemployment insurance commission and the Quebec workmen's compensation commission.

The payment of the honorarium was raised by Marc Lalonde, a lawyer for the federal commission investigating the SIU strife on the Great Lakes. Mr. Lalonde said the money was attributed to organizing expenses in the SIU financial records.

Mr. Boulanger said he submitted to the SIU a list of favorable settlements he had achieved on insurance and compensation cases and received the $350 as an "honorarium" to help cover his out-of-pocket expenses.

DIDN'T SUBMIT BILL

He said he did not submit a bill or an expense account with the list.

Mr. Boulanger also told the federal inquiry headed by Mr. Justice T. G. Norris that in the last month or two the Canadian Quebec Blue Cross and two insurance companies to prepare estimates of welfare benefit plans.

But the witness was uncertain whether the request was made before or after special investigations entered the SIU headquarters for an on - the - spot check of union books.

He said he would produce the letters in which he transmitted the request.

Mr. Boulanger left the witness box Thursday and will return to testify at the federal hearing when the SIU financial documents requested by Mr. Justice Norris on various aspects of the welfare plan operation.

He gave all his evidence in French—except on occasional slip into English, which he speaks fluently. He had indicated on his right to speak in his mother tongue. "

The federal inquiry began last August and is expected to continue into January.

Jury Rejects Suggestion Of Coroner

GANANOQUE, Ont.' (CP)—A coroner's jury Thursday rejected the recommendation of Ontario's supervising coroner, Dr. H. B. Cotnam of Toronto, and attached no blame in the shotgun death of six-year-old Randy Gray of nearby Rockport.

The jury, at an inquest presided over by Coroner Dr. K. G. Gray of Gananoque, found that the child died accidentally Nov. 16 when a shotgun discharged in the back seat of a car in which he was riding.

Canadian Doctor Receives $33,333 From Kennedy for Work on Mental Deficiency

WASHINGTON (CP) — In a lavish ceremony sprinkled with a touch of dignity and sidelights, President Kennedy handed two cheques totalling $33,333 to a Canadian scientist—one of four international research men picked out of a group of 40 nominees for honors in the complex field of mongolism and mental deficiency.

Cradling another award given him, a silver-and-crystal trophy, Dr. Murray Llewellyn Barr of London, Ont., stood by the president Thursday night and called it a "very great privilege" to share with everywhere to accept what he considers the greatest challenge of all—finding the cause of what he described as developmental defects, organic mental defects caused when a suffering in scores of different ways.

The political sideplay came when Adlai Stevenson, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, referred indirectly to the public controversy that has whirled around him since a magazine article, written by two reporters close to Kennedy, accused him of having advocated a soft line during the Cuban crisis.

Noting that Kennedy's brother-in-law, Sargeant Shriver, is head of the Peace Corps, Stevenson, who presided at the ceremonial dinner, said Shriver has become one of the best salesman of "instant peace." Nations were crying for it. Soon the United Nations would be crying for it.

"As for me, I've been crying for it this past week."

Stevenson said this in a joking way, along with a description of Kennedy as producer, director and chief actor of a Kremlin production entitled: A Funny Thing Happened to Me on the Way to Cuba, Stevenson said he was glad to be a member of the supporting cast.

But it is known that Stevenson has been deeply disturbed by the attack published in the Saturday Evening Post. He has denied the president sent him a letter of praise Mr. support for his work at the UN but Kennedy never has categorically denied the magazine charges, leaving a haze over Stevenson's political future.

A lot of reporters came to the steak - and - wine dinner not so much to see the award winners as to watch the by-play between the president and the man who twice tried to become president and failed. Strong applause greeted Stevenson's speech and Shriver praised him as a great American but there was no visible display of any deep affection between the president and his UN representative.

Amid the trappings of the occasion—the orchestra, special films showing the work of each award winner; the world premiere of a new Disney-made film and songs by Judy Garland —Stevenson read a telegram from Prime Minister Diefenbaker praising the John F. Kennedy Jr., Foundation which put up the money and expressing pleasure that a Canadian was being honored.

NATO Meeting Next Week To Feature Cuba Review

OTTAWA (CP)—The corridor talk may be more important for Canada than the conference table talk at next week's NATO ministerial meeting in Paris, informed sources indicated Thursday.

The Canadian delegation is expected to get behind-the-scenes complaints about lack of a Canadian government decision on acquisition of nuclear arms for the RCAF air division and Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in Europe.

But informants said the matter will definitely not arise in the formal meetings of the ministers of the 15 NATO countries.

The question of nuclear arming is one for private arrangements between the United States and each of its NATO allies.

Defence Minister Harkness and External Affairs Minister Green will arrive for the conference Tuesday by RCAF plane. The meeting will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Canada accepted a nuclear strike - reconnaissance role for the RCAF air division in 1959 and the first 20-odd of 200 CF-104 low-level jet bombers for the division have been delivered. The first of the eight CF-104 squadrons will have been formed by next week.

The brigade was armed a year ago with a battery of Honest John artillery rockets, capable of firing nuclear warheads.

The main business of the NATO meeting likely will be a general review of the world situation in light of the October Cuban crisis.

Informants said ministers are expected to discuss possible approaches that might be made to Russia on various East-West differences, including Berlin.

They said the recurrent problem of a multi-national NATO nuclear strike force may not be broached formally this year.

The NATO defence ministers may reach a decision on whether to go ahead with development of certain items of equipment that could be used by all NATO countries. However, officials here are pessimistic about the chances for acceptance of a design for a tactical take-off - and - landing plane submitted by Canadair Limited, Montreal.

Pope John Back in Action After Illness

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John felt his apartment today for the first time since he became ill 10 days ago and received with the Vatican ecumenical council in St. Peter's Basilica.

Soon after he returned to his apartment, Vatican officials announced that the pontiff would participate in ceremonies closing the first phase of the council Saturday and also in canonization rituals Sunday for three new Roman Catholic saints.

Looking white and tired, the pontiff walked unaided into the basilica and up the seven steps to his throne.

In a speech in Latin he thanked the prelates for their work and their interest toward each other despite differences in their debates and asked them to carry his blessing back to their people. He did not mention his own health.

He waved repeatedly to non-Catholic observers sitting in a special section to one side of his throne.

Vatican sources said the Pope also celebrated mass this morning in his private chapel and then worked a considerable time with Amleto Cardinal Cicognani, the Vatican secretary of state.

There had been some question whether the Pope, who has been suffering from a stomach disorder and anemia, would be able to attend the session Saturday closing the council's first phase.

He dramatically gave the answer today, showing 24 hours in advance that he was up to a visit to St. Peter's.

The decision of the 81-year-old Pontiff Catholic earlier to visit the council today was a sudden one. It came after his doctor, Professor Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, had spent an hour with him. The visit was announced little more than 15 minutes before he left his apartment.

The Pope took an elevator from his fourth-floor apartment. Then an automobile carried him the few yards from the Apostolic Palace to the Basilica.

Green Sees Little Hope For Success

TORONTO (CP) — External Affairs Minister Howard Green holds little hope for the success of disarmament talks, he indicated in an address to the Empire Club of Canada and the Canadian Club of Toronto Thursday.

He said the 17-nation talks, which resumed at Geneva two weeks ago, have shown little progress.

"It may be possible to arrange further nuclear test bans but there doesn't seem to be much give-or-take as much as had hoped for," he said.

He said Canadians often seem not to care what their country does at the United Nations, although such action is "vital and involves "tremendous stakes."

The basic Canadian approach should be to reduce tensions "and don't believe in neutralism," he added. "It is out of line with the character of the Canadian people."

Described as One of Most Efficient Thieves in U. S. History, Dennis Now Free

SUDBURY (CP)—More than 13 years ago a 23-year-old Canadian described as one of the most efficient thieves in United States history, was sentenced in White Plains, N.Y., to seven concurrent terms of 18 years to life in jail.

Judge Elbert T. Gallagher said the Canadian had little hope of parole.

Today Gerard Dennis is a free man, apparently passing his last hurdle when he was acquitted here Thursday on a charge of escaping from the Burwash Industrial Farm in 1945.

The story of Dennis' sensational career moves from his native St. Catharines through Toronto, Montreal, Sudbury, New York, Beverly Hills, Calif., and Cleveland, where he was arrested in 1948 after an international manhunt.

Born in the fashionable Westchester County, composed of wealthy suburbs immediately north of New York, Dennis early earned his greatest fame, his greatest success, as internationally known nickname—and 13 years in jail.

EARNS NICKNAME

Dennis was convicted in White Plains for a series of spectacular jewel robberies in 1947 in the communities of New Rochelle, Harrison, Larchmont, White Plains, all in Westchester that earned him the name Raffles.

At the time of his arrest, his loot from the Westchester robberies, described as some of the most perfect thefts ever made, was estimated to be about $400,000.

"I'd hate to describe his operations in full," said Westchester District Attorney George M. Fanelli in 1949, "because if anyone could use them for a textbook on how to be a successful burglar, Dennis is the man."

But Dennis whose trail of discarded beautiful women was almost as long as that of his pilfaged homes, was finally stripped up by a woman.

He struck up an acquaintance with a model, Gloria Horowitz, while posing as a Canadian who had fallen heir to some family jewels and asked her to help sell some diamonds in Philadelphia.

The police caught her trying to unload the stolen diamonds and Miss Horowitz spent the next two years helping police break down Dennis' alibis as charges were pressed against her.

MOVES TO WEST

Police Chief Kelly of the New Rochelle police department entered the case in 1947 and, working with Miss Horowitz and other sources, finally caught up with Dennis, acting on a tip from a Cleveland jewelry dealer early in 1949.

Dennis, who was living in Beverly Hills, was on a business trip to Cleveland.

Dennis was brought back to New Rochelle and then to White Plains where he co-operated with police during questioning, pointing out various swank homes he had robbed, and identifying numerous pawnshops where loot could be recovered.

He pleaded guilty to the seven counts of grand larceny and requested leniency on the grounds of an unhappy childhood and because of associations with criminals during imprisonment in his youth which changed his personality.

After his arrest it was found he had been sharing an apartment in Beverly Hills with a former Toronto school teacher, Betty Ritchie.

FOUND LOOT

Police discovered thousands of dollars worth of jewels and furs in the apartment and Miss Ritchie was brought to trial in California on charges of receiving stolen property.

She was acquitted but deported to Canada where she returned to her native Penelon Falls, Ont.

During Dennis' years in the Auburn, N.Y., prison, he appealed through 10 courts and eventually was able to have the sentence reduced to 12 to 13 years.

He was released last June, taken by guard to the Canadian border and turned over to Canadian authorities to face the Burwash charge.

The jury deliberated only three minutes Thursday before acquitting Dennis, after a brief consultation with counsel, Judge J. M. Cooper discharged him as a free man.

Arthur Maloney of Toronto, Dennis' defence lawyer for whom all served without fee, told the court Wednesday that the Crown had failed to submit as evidence any proof Dennis had ever been committed to Burwash.

Therefore, Mr. Maloney said, Dennis' departure from Burwash had not been illegal.

PLANS NO ACTION

Crown Attorney A. G. Burgess said his office planned no further action in the case.

Dennis said being free "was going to take some getting used to. I hope I can get a job connected with social services, preferably in rehabilitation work."

While in prison he studied law and sociology and lectured and wrote on crime prevention and prison reform.

"I feel serious are manufacturing crime," he said. "They are continuous criminal conventions."

Socreds Seen Rebuilding For Alberta Election in '63

EDMONTON (CP) — Prospects of a strong provincial election in Alberta have sparked renewed political activity in the province—including the start of intensive grassroots rebuilding by Premier Manning and the Alberta's ruling Social Credit party.

No date has been announced for an election but voting normally comes every four years. Opposition parties have been stumping the province for a year, throwing out challenges to the government to call an election. Manning which was last elected in 1959.

To meet the challenges, Mr. Manning is said to have been working with advisers behind the scenes for months on mapping strategy.

Last month at its annual convention, the Social Credit party launched what was described as a grassroots membership drive. Social President Orvis Kenberg said it is the most intensive since the party swept into power in 1935. It aims to put 10 active party workers in every polling in Alberta.

Adding fuel to the provincial election furnace is the possibility that spring will also bring another federal election.

BEGAN YEAR AGO

The Liberals began stoking the furnace a year ago, electing David Hunter, mayor of the northern town of Athabaska, as provincial leader. Soon after, towards came the founding convention of the New Democratic Party, which now is the official opposition in the federal House of Commons.

8TH BELLEVILLE SCOUT AUXILIARY

The November meeting of the 8th Belleville Cubs and Scouts Mothers' Auxiliary was held at Queen Mary School, November 7th with members of the Men's Group Committee joining the ladies.

The meeting was presided over by the president, Mrs. Belcher. After the secretary and treasurer's reports, the president thanked Mrs. Gilsthorpe for opening her home on Apple Day to the Cubs and Scouts.

A Hallowe'en party was held for the Cubs and many original costumes were in evidence. Special thanks to Mrs. Smith for preparing the hot dogs in her home.

Mrs. Butcher wishes to thank all members for their donations and help in making the rummage sale a success.

It was decided to buy two flag poles for the Cubs and Scouts and a family night will be held early in the new year. All members are reminded of the auction sale to be held at the regular December meeting of the Auxiliary.

Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting.

2nd Belleville Boy Scout Auxiliary met in Christ Church Parish Hall, with Mrs. J. Foster presiding. There were fifteen members present. A letter was read from Patrol Leader Don Niles, thanking the Auxiliary for the gift, sent to him after his accident. Mrs. E. Ingraham and Mrs. E. Green thanked the members for the cards and good wishes received while they were ill. President Mrs. Foster reported that plans were completed for a Group Committee Coffee Party.

At the close of the meeting a profitable auction took place with Mrs. J. Hodgson, the very genial and capable auctioneer.

A social hour was then enjoyed, with Mrs. C. Lowther and her group hostesses for the evening.

At the weekly Cub meeting we had a visitor in the person of Chris Leggatt — "Mowgli" — to the boys. It was perhaps, Mowgli's farewell visit, for he is leaving us soon, for the land of the totem pole — Victoria, B.C., to be exact. He will be greatly missed, not only by the boys, for whom he always had a story, a word of encouragement, or a pat on the back, but by 2nd Belleville and Scouting as a whole. During the evening the Cubs presented him with a parting gift, a bronze letter opener with Scout crest.

At the Group Committee meeting, later in the evening, Akela Kemp announced that she would be leaving us soon, as she is going to be married, and will be moving to Ottawa. Chairman Archbold expressed regrets at losing her as Akela, but on behalf of the Group wished her every happiness in the future.

Akela Kemp has served many devoted years, as leader of 2nd Belleville Cubs, and can well be proud of her lengthy record. She too, will be sadly missed by "her boys," both the present Pack and the many boys she has watched over as they grew to young manhood.

Sharing the joys and troubles of such a large number of boys over the years, I am sure she has a host of pleasant memories to look back on. Thank you Akela, for the many hours spent, in helping to make our boys better citizens.

Cubs Stephen Reid, and George Rogers, received their First Star, on November 26th. Nice going boys. Now let's get working on that Second Star, and get both eyes open.

Twelve Scouts and three Cubs, distributed pamphlets, Saturday the 24th, with the aid of five interested fathers, to help bolster the Group funds. Our hearty thanks, to all the boys who turned out. Some had to play hockey that morning, but still they were there to help as long as they could.

The Group Committee held a very successful Coffee and Pie Party, in Christ Church Parish Hall, Friday evening, November 30th, under the capable convenorship of "Nic" Reid, who also acted as Treasurer. Jack Hodgson did an admirable job of decorating the Hall, and serving pie, replenishing the coffee carafes, and doing K.P. duty, were Scouter Ingraham, A.S.M. Rogers, Doug. McBride, Jim Cole, Ron Eaton, Ernie Palmer, and Howard Rainford. Seven Scouts, Denton McBride, David Gibson, Peter Ouderkirk, Roger Mandery, Norm. Keller, Brian Clarke and Tom Nobles, smartly uniformed, did their good deed for the day, by assisting in various ways, relieving guests of their coats, washing dishes, etc. and deserve a big vote of thanks.

This was supposed to be an all male effort, but what can we do without the ladies, bless them. They came through handsomely with their donations of pies. And after all, what could a Coffee and Pie Party be without pie? Thank you, ladies.

The initial meeting of our Rover Crew, was held November 28th. Scouter "Chuck" Nelson, of District Staff, Trenton, gave an interesting and informative talk on Rovering, explaining the aims and objectives. So far there are five boys in the Rover Crew, with A.D.C. Sid Sharman as Acting Skipper

Report Money Taken in Drug Store Theft

DESERONTO — Some time during the early hours of Monday morning thieves entered the drug store operated by T. L. McCullough on Main Street. They broke the glass in the front door and made their entry through the door. According to reports a fair sum of money was stolen and Mr. McCullough stated that there seemed to be no further loss.

This is the third break-in reported in the last two weeks. A short time ago entry was made into the new Legion Hall when the lock on the back door was broken and an attempt was made to force the money drawer on the cigarette machine. The same night entry was forced into the back door of Tompkin's Plumbing shop where a radio was stolen.

Police are working on the case.

Batawa

BATAWA — Mr. and Mrs. W. Blair spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. E. Row in Brockville.

Fire Causes Severe Smoke Damage

DESERONTO — Last Wednesday evening the Fire Department was called to the home of Harold Brant on the Bay Shore Road where a fire had been started in the kitchen. Neighbors doused the blaze as the firemen were responding but not before severe smoke damage and scorching had taken place at the point of origin near the kitchen cupboard.

The firemen checked the walls and the attic to make sure there was no further spread of the flames before returning to the town. The damage was estimated to run to about $150, which was not covered by insurance.

DOUKHOBORS BURN HOMES — Charred rubble is all that is left after Sons of Freedom Doukhobors burned their homes at Krestova, where they had lived for years, and took off on a march across southern British Columbia. They carried only essentials as they walked and drove toward a Fraser Valley prison where many of their sect were being held. (CP Photo).

Jest A Second

was the kind used by Freedomites.

Spokesmen for the orthodox Doukhobors criticize the Freedomites for their history of violence and lack of respect for the Canadian way of living.

It was because of the Freedomites' radical independence that the federal government built near Agassiz last spring a $300,000 prison, to be used only for convicted Freedomites. Mountain Prison is of steel and concrete, proof against the Freedomites' arson attempts.

The Kootenay Sons of Freedom were spurred by the fact this prison held 64 of their brethren when they systematically burned their homes and started the march to Agassiz.

The old, the crippled, the children, carrying the essentials for spartan living, pulled out of Krestova, Glade, Gilpin and other Freedomite spots on Labor Day weekend.

'BIG FANNY' IN LEAD

They marched seven miles the first day and six the next, drawing a following of police and tourists. At the head of the bizarre column marched Mrs. Fanny Storgoff, later to emerge as the trek's unofficial leader. Nicknamed Big Fanny, she was to make the decisions in the weeks and miles ahead.

From the immediate area of their homes, the trekkers went on by car and truck to Grand Forks.

At that point John Verigin, leader of the orthodox Doukhobors, refused space at his farm to the marching Freedomites.

On Sept. 16 the trek proceeded to Princeton, and about the same time Agassiz passed an emergency bylaw preventing the Freedomites' entry to the village. This act said their past actions made them dangerous.

The Doukhobors encamped in Bromley Park and police established roadblocks barring the way to the west.

TENT CITY

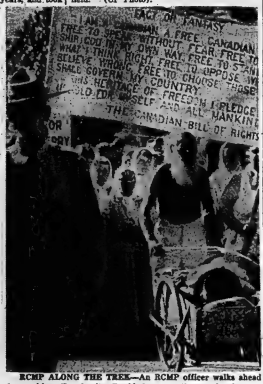
The numbers now swelled to 2,500, the Sons rapidly made the park a new home. In a tidy tent city they persevered with housekeeping problems, drove east for provisions, turned their teen-agers into teachers for the younger children and soaked up the mountain sunshine.

Nine days after it was established, the road block at Grand Forks was pulled off by British Columbia Attorney-General Robert Bonner, who said the Doukhobors would be "left to their own devices."

With the way again open, and another campsite available at Hope, only 30 miles from the Agassiz prison, the Sons again shuttled westward at the end of September.

Various court litigation followburning along the way which burning along the way which police did not connect with the Freedomites, the trek has had the aura of a pilgrimage.

It followed these events that started the Sons' yeast



At 4 Kinsmen in February, Harry Kootnikoff, 20, sitting in the rear seat of a car with a bomb in his lap, was blown to pieces when the device exploded.

On March 8 a total of 1,000 employees of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company's industrial complex in the Kootenays was laid off when a 396-foot power pylon was wrecked by bombs. Nine Freedomites were given 15 - year sentences for this incident.

LONG SHUTOFF

Officers called that bombing the most far-reaching act of violence ever seen in the Kootenays. It was late October before full power was restored.

In July, the Lower Mainland felt its first terrorist sting when a home-made bomb ripped open a steel locker in the government ferry Chinook as she lay at berth. The bomb police said, (1) from Sept. 5-16, were stopped by a police roadblock at Bromley Park, 15 miles east of Princeton (2) where they camped on Sept. 30 and then moved on to Coquihilla Park, within the village of Hope (3), where they are still camped—60 miles from their goal. Sons of Freedom Trek Has Had Aura of Pilgrimage In Year of Much Activity

By DUNCAN HOLMES-

VANCOUVER (CP) — For the Sons of Freedom wing of the Doukhobors in British Columbia, 1962 may have been the year of change. It had some hopeful pointers.

After a shaky start, with a 50-year brew of violence still bubbling, the restive Freedomites had something more cooking than a much-publicized trek —and a daily pot of borsch on a camp pressure stove.

The Sons of Freedom altogether number perhaps 3,000, all in British Columbia, compared with about 17,000 orthodox Doukhobors in B.C. and the Prairie provinces.

At 11 a.m. on Sept. 2, with out ceremony or prior public attention, 600 Freedomites left their Kootenay region homes to march to the coast, taking with them what they could carry.

Two months later, their number swelled to 1,300, a good-humored giant of a woman at their head, they had paused in their march, a Fraser Valley village their destination.

Of their Kootenay livelihood, nothing was left but the smoking shells of 200 homes, burned by the Sons in a six-week binge of arson. To this they say they will never go back.

In the march, the Doukhobors and others see a possible test on which is pinned their Canadian future.

Except for a bombing and a burning along the way which police did not connect with the Freedomites, the trek has had the aura of a pilgrimage.

Canadian Firm Gets Contract For 48 Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Army awarded a $25,839,663 contract to a Canadian firm Wednesday for production of 48 Caribou transport planes able to take off and land on short runways.

The contract went to de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Limited, Downsview, Ont. Engines for the planes will be furnished by the U.S. government under separate contract.

The Caribou, designated the CV-2B, is the largest fixed-wing aircraft used by the army. Grossing 28,500 pounds, it can carry 32 passengers or a 7,100-pound cargo.

In Toronto, de Havilland said the contract will help to provide a steady level of employment for the company's 2,500 employees to the end of 1964.

Caribou deliveries have been made to the RCAF, the U.S. Army, the Ghanaian Air Force, the Formosa Civil Air Transport Board and the Royal Swedish Air Board.

HERMAN LUCAS AND "STORMY NIGHT"

One sultry Saturday night last summer up at "Vance's Little Woodbine" (Fair Grounds to young guys and gals), I stalked, staked out and private-eyed a mysterious grey-haired lady who had the uncanny faculty of looking over a gaggle of pace-trot bang-tails, pin-pointing one and whispering "Bet it."

Later that evening I went home with leaves of beautiful green lettuce colorfully adorned with pictures of the Queen. The following five Saturday nights of the Quinte Riding and Driving Club harness meets I not only lost the lady but five expensive shirts.

As a public service the Riding Club should instal various sizes of barrels so that people like me who think a racing form is a girl sprinter and a "mudder" is someone a "fodder" married, can come home sans embarrassment.

This year, according to the Riding Club's demon public relations bloke, one Jack O'Brien, I'll either need an attache case as a wallet or a wardrobe augmented with 16 shirts.

For the Riding Club very pleased with the 1962 season success, has upped its summer meets to sixteen starting in May through September. Increased "fields" with more mile dashes, the club believes, will appeal to racing buffs and add spice to the betting scene.

Harness racing enthusiasts claim the sport is becoming the largest spectator attraction in North America. There are 450 pari-mutuel tracks now operating with many more to open in the near future.

Perhaps few people outside of the racing, driving and training fraternity, are aware of the fact that the Fair Grounds racing oval here is considered by top trainers and drivers to be one of the best summer-winter tracks in this part of the country.

Many fine strings of horses have "summered" and "wintered" here. Presently Mr. A. Facey has his string of nine horses there, while other top trainer-owners are awaiting the arrival of their horses.

The Riding and Driving Club is looking forward to its most successful season since its inception. It has named a strong executive with Fire Chief Gerald Vance the president; Herman Lucas, vice-president; Mrs. Steele, vice-president horse show; Mrs. E. Zebedee, race secretary and Mrs. B. Zebedee recording secretary.

And the gals do a fine job. From a point of club administration and keeping the records they take no back seat to the males of the racing species. The club should be proud of 'em.

And Jolly Jack O'Brien tells me that the club is considering giving away via the draw system, a standard bred colt as one of its summer funds-raising activities.

Mr. O'Brien also informs me that interests hereabouts in harness-racing is rapidly increasing. Last year's attendance is indicative of that. The pari-mutuel system proved popular and with the advent of new owners and "oldtimers" increasing their stables, the 1963 season here looks like a banner one.

Fire Chief Vance has invaded the charmed circle of owners and has an up-and-coming colt which he hopes will be ready for the 1963 season.

Veteran harness-man Herman Lucas has a string of six horses under training and looks favorably on a two-year-old, "Stormy Night," which he is grooming for the raceways. Past president Phil Stewart has a fine-looking "young lady", Lady Hal Chips, which she is readying for next year's meets.

Al Vance, son of the fire chief, who drove the well known big roan, "Buddy C. Abbe" last season in his freshman year as a sulky man, and finally piloted the big nag to victory, also has a promising two-year-old, "Dawn Comet" which he hopes to start in the spring in the two-year-old stakes at the Old Woodbine.

The annual Spring Horse Show of the club will be presented sometime in June and it is expected the entry list will be the largest in the show's history. Horses from Ontario and Quebec will be here.

Lose 5-3, 'Newfie' Stars ★★★★★

Step-Stone Bruins Up Wings To 2nd

By The Canadian Press

A rookie with solid fan support from a Whole province had a big evening in the National Hockey League Thursday night.

Detroit centre Alex Faulkner, the first Newfoundlander to make the NHL, scored once and assisted on the winning goal by Montreal Bruins MacGregor in the Red Wings' 5-3 win over Boston Bruins. It was the only NHL contest Thursday night.

Detroit was trailing 3-1 at the five-minute mark of the third period, but two goals within 32 seconds by Parker MacDonald and Gordie Howe tied it up 3-3.

MacGregor fired the winner with less than four minutes to play and veteran defenceman Marcel Pronovost added an insurance marker in the last minute after Boston goalie Bob Perreault had been replaced by a sixth attacker.

Veteran Johnny Bucyk, linemate Murray Oliver and rookie Bob Leiter scored Boston's goals. The loss was the fifth straight for the luckless Bruins.

The Wings moved into second place in the standings, vaulting over the idle Toronto Maple Leafs. First-place Chicago has 30 points, Detroit has 29, Toronto 28 and fourth-place Montreal has 26. New York Rangers follow in fifth place with 19 points and Bruins are in the cellar with 16 points.

GETS LENGTHY GREETING

Faulkner, a 26-year-old native of Bishop's Falls, Nfld., received a yards-long telegram signed by 4,000 Newfoundland well-wishes before the first NHL game this season.

But apart from Newfoundland, Faulkner hasn't attracted much attention in the first third of his rookie season. He has scored four goals and three assists.

VETERANS GET GOALS

The Kid Line has been overshadowed in the Wings' early-season surge by a veteran line of Alex Delvecchio between 34-year-old Howe and a rejuvenated MacDonald.

The Delvecchio - Howe - MacDonald trio is the highest scoring line in the league at this point. Delvecchio has 22 points, Howe 22 and MacDonald, of Sydney, N.S., 20. Chicago's Stan Mikita and Ab McDonald share the league scoring lead with 25 points each.

MacDonald's goal Thursday night was his 11th of the season and Howe's his 10th.

Chicago coach Rudy Pilous summed up the Kid Line's performance so far this season recently when he said:

"But they don't keep any skating records, and that's where Detroit has had the jump on everybody this year. They've got youngsters that skate, skate, skate."

Detroit has played two games less than league-leading Chicago, and one game less than third-place Toronto.

Following Thursday night's game the Wings asked waivers on Vic Stasiuk and the veteran forward told coach Sid Abel he is going home to Canada.

SIGNS WITH OTTAWA

KALAMAZOO, Mich (AP)—End Allen Schau of Western Michigan, a draft choice of Washington Redskins, said Thursday he has signed with the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Canadian Football League.

OTTAWA (CP)—With John (Red) O'Quinn walking in the wings to replace him, George Terlep announced Thursday that he had resigned as general manager of the Ottawa Rough Riders of the Eastern Football Conference.

His resignation — termed "a magnificent gesture" by club president Barry O'Brien—was followed just 90 minutes later by the announcement that O'Quinn had agreed to replace him for the next three years.

O'Quinn, a former end with Montreal Alouettes who quit football in 1959 to go into business, will get a reported $12,500 a year. Terlep's salary was said to be $15,000.

The two announcements followed weeks of speculation that Terlep would be fired because he and head coach Frank Clair don't get along.

This is the way reporters were informed of the club's decisions:

At 6 p.m. EST the club called a press conference to announce Terlep's leaving. No pressure had been exerted and Terlep "had helped the club solve a tough problem with his resignation," O'Brien said.

AWARE OF FRICTION

The president said the directors had become aware of friction between Terlep and Clair too late to solve it. Lengthy meetings Thursday convinced the directors that "the problem must be met head-on and solved quickly."

"Despite press speculation, no contracts have been signed, either with Red O'Quinn or anyone else," said O'Brien in announcing Terlep's resignation.

Directors then retired to consider a new general manager and reporters were told there would be a second press conference.

At this meeting, attended by O'Quinn, O'Brien announced "that I am happy to say that Mr. O'Quinn is the unanimous choice of the directors to become our new general manager."

O'Quinn, answering a query from a reporter, said he had left his executive position with the Canadian Pratt - Whitney Company "as of Dec. 1" to accept the Ottawa offer.

He was glad to be back in football and proud to become a part of the Ottawa club.

O'Brien, when asked if it was a situation where either Clair or Terlep had to go, said: "I wouldn't put it quite as bluntly as that."

Terlep said his differences with Clair "were no secret."

"While I felt I could have adjusted to the situation, I don't think Frank could have."

Informed sources said the club would pay Terlep his full salary for the one year left in his three-year contract and a bonus.

There have been reports that Terlep would be given a job promoting the Canadian Football League but Terlep said he has no offers.

TEAM CHANGES HANDS

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Ownership of Milwaukee Braves formally changed hands Thursday, with control passing from Lou Perini's National League base ball club of Milwaukee to a successor corporation formed by a midwest syndicate, the Milwaukee Braves, Incorporated.

Sale of the ball club to the group headed by William C. Bartholomay and Thomas A. Reynolds Jr. was announced Nov. 16 by Perini, a contractor who brought the Braves to Milwaukee in 1953 and gave up 90 per cent of his stock for $3,500,000.

WOODBINE ASPIRANT—"Dawn Comet," Al Vance's smart two-year-old looks over the Fair Grounds situation. The colt is a trotter and is entered in the Old Woodbine Two-Year-Old Stakes. She will likely race here during the Quinte Driving Club's 16-meet summer program. See sports column.

Urges National Junior 'A' Loop

Would Be 12 Teams

By RON MACDONALD

REGINA (CP)—Creation of a 12-team national junior hockey league, with clubs from both Eastern and Western Canada, has been urged by Frank Boucher, commissioner of the Saskatchewan Junior Hockey League.

He has outlined his plan to a special Canadian Amateur Hockey Association committee established to study the future of junior hockey in Western Canada.

The committee accepted the Boucher plan in principle.

Boucher said in an interview Thursday night his plan attempts to reduce the cost to professional teams searching for young talent and seeks to maintain the calibre of both junior and professional hockey, while safeguarding against collapse of the junior system in Canada.

The plan suggests each National Hockey League team deposit $50,000 a year into a draft fund and each American and Western League club $5,000 a year. This would provide $945,000 annually.

The bulk of the fund, $210,000, would finance operation of the national junior league. The remainder would be divided equally among 12 Junior A clubs across Canada recognized by the professionals.

UNDER CAHA RULES

NHL-appointed commissioners would operate the national junior league under CAHA rules and regulations.

Boucher said he does not know what reaction his plan will bring from the professional leagues.

The proposed junior league would compete for a new trophy and other Junior A teams would continue in Memorial Cup play.

Boucher suggests the new junior league could determine a western and eastern champion to meet in a national final series. In years the Memorial Cup series was being played in the East, the new league's national final would be in the West.

Picton Thumps Cobourg 11-4

Haddock Scores 6 Goals

PICTON (Special) — A terrific three-man scoring production marked the Picton Merchants to a 11-4 victory over the Cobourg Merchants in an OHA Eastern Junior league battle here last night.

Harold Haddock, Larry "Pocket" Pero and Carl Stacey scored all 11 Picton goals and chalked up a total of 19 scoring points in all.

Haddock registered "double hat-trick" pouring six goals and assisting on two more. Pero fired three goals and was the big playmaker with five assists while Stacey scored the other two goals and helped on one.

Other point-getters for Picton, were "Dusty" Rhodes, Bob Brown and Gary Hasmal with two assists each and Bob Martin, Don McNeil, George Sainsbury and Gary Pilon with one.

Gary Pound led the Cobourg attack with a pair of goals and one assist. Fred Free and Jim Chase also scored, Gary Free and Ross Quigley earning helpers.

Picton led 5-3 at the end of the first period, after Cobourg had tied it 1-1 early in the game. Picton scored single goals in the second for a 7-3 score. Stacey got one and Haddock a trio to wrap it up in the final twenty minutes.

The Merchants peppered the Cobourg goalie with 41 shots while Cobourg managed 29 in all.

Referees Tim Williams and Marve Stacey handed out a total of 25 penalties in the rough contest. Cobourg drew 16 of that number, including misconducts to Gary Woodbeck and Fred Free. The other 23 penalties were all minors.

The victory tied Picton for fourth place, with Peterborough and Napanee but the Merchants have played more games than the other clubs. Picton's next game will be in Gananoque next Thursday night.

North Shore Hockey League

Hibbard-Callow Combines ran their winning streak to five games by blanking Rossmore Merchants 5-0 in Prince Edward North Shore Hockey League play last night.

In the second half of the double-header, Belch Construction dumped the cellar-dwelling SACO club 9-2, thus moving into second place.

Chuck Kingston chalked up the season's first shutout for Hibbard-Callow while Ab Wright led the attack. Wright scored two goals and helped on another pair, while Jack Calnan had one goal and two assists. Rob. Burrows and Larry Westfall added a goal apiece.

The Combines led 2-0 at the end of the first and 5-0 after two heats.

Belch took a 1-0 first period lead over SACO and upped the score to 6-0 in the second stanza.

Ralph Payne had a scoring field day, firing four goals and assisting on three others. Don Wood picked up two goals and as many assists while Don Mervin, Ralph Boomhower and Bob Yome also scored. Art Deline and Gerald Hill were the SACO marksmen.

Following is the league standing, including last night's games:

	W.	L.	T.	PTS.
Hibbard-Callow	5	0	0	10
Belch Const.	3	2	0	6
Rossmore	2	3	0	4
Stinson Const.	1	2	1	3
SACO	0	4	1	1

Failed To Hold Lead

Gan. Shades Juniors 4-2

The Gananoque Islanders scored three third-period goals, two in the last five minutes of play, to defeat the Belleville Junior "B's" 4-3 in an OHA Eastern Junior league game at Gananoque last night.

Belleville plays host to the front-running Kingston Frontenacs in a nine o'clock game at Memorial Arena tonight.

Last night's game was a tight one from start to finish. Belleville led twice, 1-0 and 2-1, but could not hold off the Islanders in the final twenty minutes.

After a scoreless first period each team scored once in the middle stanza. Rowland potted the Belleville goal at 2:49 and Mantrop tied it at 6:12.

Muirhead downed the losers back into the lead at 6:18 of the third but less than a minute later Mantrop made it a 2-2 contest.

The clubs were playing five men a side around the 15-minute mark when Rick Eaton fired the game-winning goal for Gananoque. McGuire added the fourth goal into the empty Belleville net when the visitors pulled out all stops in an effort to get a tie in the final minute.

Pete Mantrop starred for Gananoque with two of the four goals and assists on the other pair. Rick Eaton and Jim McGuire also scored while Doug Higgins, Jim Parker and Jim Pritchard had single assists.

and vice-versa.

Each season a complete list of all players in the 62 recognized junior clubs would be submitted by the CAHA to the professionals for draft purposes.

NHL teams would have first choice, under the Boucher plan. Players selected could continue to play in junior competition if of age, but not ready for professional hockey.

Ted Rowland and Stu Muirhead were the Belleville marksmen, Gary Durrell and Gerry Jones drawing assists on Muirhead's marker. Rowland's goal was a solo effort.

Referees Ken Partis and Cliff LeClair handed out, a total of 18 penalties with Belleville drawing 12 of that total. Six of the losers' sentences came in the third period, including a game misconduct to Gary Duvall after he and Pritchard went off together for booking at 15.00

Belleville — B. Duguid, Zykes, Reid, Duvall, Muirhead, Jones, Rowland, Adams, Goodfellow, C. McGrimmon, Rushlow, Mercan, Hangerman, Rotherford, Paquin.

Rams Have Inside on Terry Baker

NEW YORK (AP) — Buffalo Bills of the American Football League signed Dave Behrman, Michigan State center, Thursday. He was their top draft choice and also the No. 1 pick of Chicago Bears of the National Football League.

Behrman was the second No. 1 NFL pick to be grabbed off by the rival AFL. But an NFL spokesman said here that the league isn't worried yet.

"We've also signed two of our first round choices," the spokesman said. "It's too early to forecast a trend."

Behrman, from Birmingham, Mich., is six-foot-five and 254 pounds.

Behrman is reported to have said that Buffalo offered more money than the Bears. "But there were other things, too, that weren't in the contract."

The AFL held its player draft last Saturday and the NFL picked on Monday. Players are free to go with the highest bidder.

It is generally conceded in pro football circles that Los Angeles Rams of the NFL have the inside track on Oregon State quarterback Terry Baker, the Heisman Trophy winner as the nation's outstanding player.

Baker is also being sought by Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League.

Big Seven

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Alex Delvecchio and Gordie Howe of Detroit moved up in the National Hockey League's big seven as a result of Red Wings' 5-3 victory over Boston Thursday night.

However, Chicago's Ab Mc-Donald and Stan Mikita remain tied for the lead with 23 points. McDonald has 18 goals and 12 assists, while Mikita has eight goals and 17 assists.

Alex Delvecchio's assist last night moved him into a third-place tie with Montreal's Bernie Geoffrion and New York's Andy Bathgate, all with 24 points.

Geoffrion has 11 goals and 13 assists, Bathgate eight goals and 15 assists, and Delvecchio six goals and 17 assists.

Gordie Howe moved up a notch in the big seven by scoring a goal and an assist to put him in sixth place with 22 points made up of 10 goals and 12 assists. Toronto's Frank Mahovlich holds down last slot with 21 points on 14 goals and 7 assists.

The leaders:

Networks Brass To Make Announcement

Believe Cup Coverage Controversy Over

By RUSSELL KLIMAN

OTTAWA (CP)—A formal announcement of a long-term, co-operative agreement between Canada's two television networks on televising Canadian Football League games is expected to be made some time next week.

This was stated Thursday by Spencer Caldwell, president of the privately-owned CTV Television Network Limited, following a meeting with J. Alphonse Ouimet, president of the publicly-owned CBC.

Such an agreement is expected to include arrangements for joint coverage of the Grey Cup game and thus avoid the bitter controversy that marked the televising of last weekend's annual football classic in Toronto.

"Everything is going along fine," Mr. Caldwell said in an interview Thursday after a closed session at CBC headquarters here.

He described it as a "very good meeting" and said he did not think it would be necessary to have another personal session with Mr. Ouimet here.

'COMPLICATED MATTER'

The CTV president and a CBC spokesman both pointed out that it is a complicated matter in working out the final arrangements, but it is understood that the remaining points to be cleared up are of detail and of a technical nature.

The CBC official said a "good deal of ground was covered" in the session, which ended when Mr. Ouimet had to leave for Montreal on other business.

In an earlier interview Thursday, Mr. Caldwell said "the important thing is having an understanding and a co-operative spirit, and I think we now have this."

Details of the hoped-for arrangement have not been released but informants say it may be along the following lines.

It would run for at least five years and would cover both the Eastern and Western football conferences, the regular season and playoffs, and the Grey Cup.

HELD BY CFTO

(For 1963 and 1964 the TV rights for Eastern Canadian football are held by Toronto television station CFTO-TV and in the West for 1963 by CTV. John Bassett, CFTO-TV president, accompanied Mr. Caldwell Thursday.

It is proposed that the two networks split regular season coverage and have joint coverage of the Grey Cup.

The CBC is understood to prefer Saturday games for its Canadian football telecasts under the co-operative agreement.

This season, CTV carried both Eastern and Western Conference games exclusively, CBC broadcasts U.S. National football League games on Sundays, and had telecast a number of Canadian college games on Saturday.

Moss Wants 'Time-Outs'

MONTREAL (CP) — Jackie Moss, coach of Montreal Alouettes and a member of the Canadian Football League's rules committee, says he wants a time-out system for the Canadian game.

"It would open the way for some terrific suspense finishes," he said in an interview "Now we have no way to stop the clock except for those phoney injuries."

Moss said time-outs should be allowed in the last two minutes of each half, adding, however:

"I'm against the frequent time-outs of United States football."

In the U.S. game each team is allowed five time-outs in each half.

Moss also proposed two other rule changes. He would like to see blocking on punts for the receiver, retaining the five-yard protective area only until the player touches the ball.

And he says the rules should be amended to force the offensive team's line to pause one second before the ball is snapped.

'ONLY DEAD PLAY'

Regarding punts, Moss said: "The present punt rule is our only dead play in a wonderful game. It's one man against 12. But with blocking it would be a tremendous crowd pleaser."

He said he tried to have the rule amended last year and drew support from Ottawa's Frank Clair. But Jim Trimble of Hamilton and Bud Grant of Winnipeg were against it.

Moss said the one-second pause by the offensive line is needed because "the cadence switches gave the offence cheap yardage and cheap first downs."

Looking ahead to next season, Moss feels the prospects are bright.

"We have the youngest overall squad of any Canadian football league and homebreds in Canadian pro football. Our biggest problem is the defence."

We bogged down something fierce in that department.

"Ottawa, Hamilton, Regina and Winnipeg, in particular, rolled up far too many points against us. Our punting was also pathetic most of the time."

Wings, Flyers Tie 0-0

Baby Habs Nip Petes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Red Wings seem to be in a rut.

The Wings Thursday night battled to a scoreless deadlock their fourth tie in a row and fifth of the season in the Ontario Hockey Association provincial Junior A group.

In a game at Peterborough the league - leading Montreal junior Canadiens edged the second-place Petes Saturday 4-3 to increase their lead to four points.

Canadiens were led by German Gagnon with two goals. Leo Thiffault and Yvan Courroyer scored the others.

For the Petes, who slipped into a tie for second place with the Flyers because of the tie game at Hamilton, Ron Naud scored twice and Dan O'Shea once.

Coach Claude Ruel of Canadiens was penalized in the final period for leaving the area of the players' bench. The penalty was served by Roly Campeau.

The score was 1-1 going into the second period and 3-2 for the winners after two periods.

GOALIES SHINE

Some 2,170 spectators saw spectacular goaltending by Nigeari Falls' George Gardner and Ludger Doucet of Hamilton in the other game. The double shutout was Doucet's second and Gardner's first of the season. Doucet made 37 saves and Gardner 32.

There were only seven penalties, all minors, with Hamilton getting four.

In the Metro Junior A at Brampton, a two-goal performance by Don Westbrooke led Brampton to a 5-3 win over Oshawa Generals.

Noah Had It Easier Than N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League championship game is going to drive a lot of people out of town.

That may be the only way they can see it.

Tickets haven't gone on sale yet, and already it looks as though it might have been easier to snag a pair of seats on Noah's ark than for Yankee Stadium for the Dec. 30 game between New York Giants and the Western Division winner.

Hundreds of New York fans are planning to travel to areas where the game will be shown on television. It is blacked-out for a 75-mile area around New York.

Connecticut motel owners, who have made extra money renting rooms on Sunday afternoons to football fans to watch the sold-out regular season Giants' games, report bookings are booming for the title contest.

But they have a problem. The CBS network which broadcasts the regular games does not handle the championship. And the network that does, NBC, does not have an outlet in Connecticut near enough to be received on most regular sets.

The motels are scrambling to bring in the ultra high frequency outlet that will carry the game.

"If we don't have out sets converted by Dec. 30, we'd better leave town," one motel operator said. "We have a reservation for every one of our 100 rooms for the game."

Tom Tresh Named AL Top Rookie

BOSTON (AP)—Switch hitter Tom Tresh of the New York Yankees walked right past his father's major league footsteps into the American League rookie of the year award today.

Tresh drew the votes of 13 of the 20 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America who were on the selection committee.

Tresh batted .286, scored 94 runs, drove in 93, hit 26 doubles, five triples and 20 homers.

Born in Detroit, Tresh, 24, is the son of former Chicago White Sox and Cleland Indians catcher Mike Tresh, 1938-49.

"If lethes me," said Griffith with a wide grin as he scratched the scraggly growth. "I'll be glad when the fight is over and I can shave it off."

Fernandez once again proved he will not be the title fad the nationally televised bout.

"I've waited too long—two years," the Argentine declared. "I beat him twice and I can do it again. They gave me the short end of the deal."

Fernandez, 27, contends Griffith received gift decisions in their two recount matches in 1960, which were held before either gained prominence.

Aces Tie Indians 2-2

QUEBEC (CP)—Quebec Aces kept their undefeated home record unblemished Thursday night by coming from behind to tie Springfield Indians 2-2 in an American Hockey League game before 5,883 spectators.

Aces have nine victories and four ties at home this season. The tie on Michel Harvey's third period goal strengthened their hold on first place inthe Eastern Division standings.

Roger Côte gave Indians the lead about halfway in the first period but Skippy Burchell tied it up at 12:16 of the second period.

Less than two minutes later, Ted Harris scored unassisted to give Springfield the lead a second time. Harvey tied it up early in the third period.

There was no scoring in the 10-minutes overtime period.

Aces left after the game on a road trip, with six games scheduled in 10 days.

Says The Sunny Senor

Fernandez Si!-Griffith No!

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—World welterweight champion Emile Griffith took things easy but challenger Jorge Fernandez boxed three fast and final rounds Thursday as preparations ended for their 15-round title fight Saturday night.

The 23-year-old champion from New York had but one complaint. Co-manager Gil Clancy recommended that Emile let his beard grow in the final days leading up to the match.

"It itches me," said Griffith with a wide grin as he scratched the scraggly growth. "I'll be glad when the fight is over and I can shave it off."

Fernandez once again predicted he will win the title in the nationally televised bout.

"I've waited too long—two years," the Argentine declared. "I beat him twice and I can do it again. They gave me the short end of the deal."

Fernandez, 27, contends Griffith received gift decisions in their two recount matches in 1960, which were held before either gained prominence.

Cyrano de Bergerac Given Fine Performance on NBC

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—Montreal-born Christopher Plummer, an actor who can enjoy a juicy role, had a splendid time Thursday night playing Cyrano de Bergerac to the hilt in an adaptation of Edmond Rostand's swashbuckling classic.

NBC's "Hall of Fame" version was pared to less than 90 minutes without damage to the romantic comedy about the unfortunate swordsman and poet who loved as well but believed that he himself was not lovable.

Plummer, who played in an uncut version of the play last summer in Canada, proved a marvelously unbridled Cyrano, even wearing his grotesque putty nose with a dashing air. He carried out his duel like a young Fairbanks, read the love poetry passion and even succeeded in giving the buffoon's lines a poignant quality.

Cyrano is almost a one-man show, but the rest of the large cast gave the program the zest of 17th century France. Peter Lange was a beautiful Roxanne, Cyrano's light of love.

It is an ironic tale of an ugly man who wrote the poetry with which a handsome fellow won the fair lady they both loved. It was a rich and charming spectacle in color, full of heroic flourishes and high flown sentiments. Those are things you don't find very often these days, inside or outside of television.

Big One Saturday

Skins, Colts Do-or-Die

NEW YORK (AP)—With New York Giants firmly tucked away as the National Football League's Eastern Conference champions for the second straight year, the western title and a frantic scramble to determine the second place finisher in the East occupy this weekend's attention.

Washington Redskins make a do-or-die bid for second in the East Saturday afternoon in Baltimore against the Colts. A victory would keep them in the running with Pittsburgh Steelers, Cleveland Browns and Dallas Cowboys, all aiming at a spot in the playoff bowl at Miami Jan. 5 against the western runner-up.

In the rival American Football League, a bull of a man named Chester (Cookie) Gilchrist, former bad boy of the Canadian Football League, is again stealing the headlines.

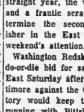
Gilchrist, who was fired by the CFL's Toronto Argonauts early this season, is the reason Buffalo Bills are expected to whip the hurting New York Titans Saturday at New York.

The big fellow, who now has a record 933 yards rushing and 108 points, spoils that Titans' day as one of the men to earn berths in the AFL's second annual all-star game.

Terriers Win Over K-W Tigers

KITCHENER (CP)—Galt Terriers tightened their hold on fourth place in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A standings with a 6-3 win over fifth-place Kitchener-Waterloo Tigers.

Two bad third-period passes while they had a man advantage contributed to Tigers' defeat. Terriers intercepted both passes and scored to take a 4-1 lead.



Bob McKnight scored four goals for Galt. Larry Pfaff got two and Lou Angotti scored twice for Kitchener-Waterloo. Ted Demchuck scored the other.

Jack Benny Is Returning To Media Left 31 Years Ago

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Jack Benny is returning to the medium he left 31 years ago—the Broadway revue.

"It was 1931 when the young (37) Waukegan, Ill., funnyman walked out on a tour of Earl Carroll's Vanities, in which he had starred in New York. The move was not in keeping with his later fame as a pennypincher.

"I was getting $1,500 a week, and you can imagine how big that looked in 1931," he says.

But he declined the job because the show was beginning a rugged tour of one-nighters. Besides, he had his eye on something a lot better—radio. And the rest, as they say along the Rialto, is history.

OPEN IN TORONTO

On Feb. 11, the comedian will open The Jack Benny Show at the O'Keefe Centre in Toronto and head for a six-week stand at the Ziegfeld Theatre in New York, starting Feb. 27. He'll take along a troupe of performers including Jane Morgan and the Beverly Hillbillies — that's his own zany combo, not the television series.

Jack Benny is 68. He conducts a weekly television show, plays his fiddle all over the country to raise funds for basketball music, does his act in Las Vegas showrooms at less exalted fees. So why does he need to return to Broadway?

"Because it's fun," he said. "I like what I do; I always have. That's why I work.

"The season in television has been a breeze for me. I've been able to play hinz holes of golf every day, I get in an hour or two of practice with my violin each day. My only problem is what to do with my nights."

Mrs. Boomer Say Boomer Is Tops

MONTREAL (CP) Mrs. Bernard Geoffrion said Thursday she considers her husband, Boom Boom Geoffrion, the best right-winger in hockey, followed by Gordie Howe of Detroit.

"I want everyone to know that," said Mrs. Geoffrion, daughter of the late brilliant hockey star Howie Morenz.

Her views about Boom Boom were printed in Le Sport, a new published report which indicated she had overlooked her husband in picking a National Hockey League All-star team.

Mrs. Geoffrion said that in her column in a French-language weekly tabloid she had mentioned she was not picking anyone from Montreal Canadiens to avoid embarrassment. Boom Boom plays for Canadiens and she preached likewise the other players and their families. She felt a choice from Canadiens would have caused her to feel ill at ease.
